FOR LIFE.

THE JURIES FIND A VERDICT OF MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.

REYNOLDS PLEADS GUILTY TO THE CHARGE.

His Written Statement of the Affair as Read in Court.

The Prisoners Taken to Jackson today. (Thursday).

Our citizens have reason to be thankful that not at every term of our circuit court is there a murder case to be tried, and consequently when such a case is before the court much interest is taken in it. Probably never in the annals of the criminal history of our county has more interest been manifested in a case of this kind than the case of the People against William B. White, late of this place, charged with the high crime of murder, whose trial took place on Tuesday and Wednesday and the trial of Jacob Katterman and William Reynolds, charged with the same offense. So much has been said and printed in regard to this case that it is needless to go over the whole ground again in detail.

On the morning of the 5th of April last, the citizens of this county were shocked by the report that a terrible tragedy had been enacted at the house of Carl Schoultz, living but a few miles from this place, whereby his only son, Herman, a young man of 23 years had been foully murdered and the premises robbed of considerable money. The sheriff and prosecuting attorney immediately took the matter in charge, with scarcely a clue to the perpetrators of the deed. The inquest then began, but with little hope on the part of the people of our county that their investigations would throw any light on the affair. Circumstances pointed toward Jacob Katterman, a neighbor of the murdered man, as a probable participant in the affair. He is put on the stand and deposes all knowledge of the affair, but his testimony is not such as to inspire confidence, and he is detained as a witness. Suspicion next falls on William Reynolds, of the town of Sherman, he is also put on the stand and states that he knows nothing of the affair, but tells a cock and bull story in regard to where he was on the night of April 4th, which only doubles the suspicion and he is also placed in safe keeping. All this time suspicion had rested on William B. White and he was closely watched to prevent his making an escape. Not until after the confession of Jacob Katterman in regard to the murder, and the participants, which was made on the night of the 16th of April last, was it deemed advisable by the prosecuting attorney to secure White. At 5 o'clock the following morning White was taken in charge. His confession in regard to his connection with the affair, the confession of Reynolds and the finding of the coroner's jury, are still too fresh in the memory of our readers to need repeating. From the time of their formal arrest, following the rendering of the verdict by the coroner's jury, the intense feeling and excitement gradually subsided; every one feeling perfectly satisfied with the manner in which the investigation had been handled.

The Trials.

Early Tuesday morning last, people commenced pouring in from every direction to attend the murder trials, led by that curiosity which is always manifest when a murder case is to be tried. Long before the hour for the opening of court the room was filled with persons eager to hear the trial and get a glimpse of the prisoner at the bar, William B. White, who is well known in this village and the surrounding country. The entire forenoon was taken up in securing a jury, which fortunately was accomplished in a shorter time than had been expected. The following citizens of this county composed the jury:

Arthur Blanchard, William Shipley, John Wylie, V. H. Rodman, William Groff, William Allen, Charles Matthews, Thomas Baxter, Lafayette Colby, Edward McDonald, Colum McCrea.

At the opening of court in the afternoon all was ready for the trial. The first witness produced by the prosecution was Miss Anstina Schoultz, sister of the murdered man; Mr. Christopher Snyder, acted as interpreter. Miss Anstina testified that she lived with Mrs. Clough, that she was the daughter of Carl and Helen Schoultz and sister to Herman Schoultz. The family had always lived together; there were two beds in the room at the time the murder was committed, one occupied by her brother and father, the other

took place on the night of April 4th; did not remember just what time she retired, her father retired last, but did not hear him; was aroused from sleep by the breaking in of the door, and saw three persons rush in, one tall one and two short ones; the largest one attacked her father. She went to his assistance and was knocked down; when she began to scream one of the smaller ones came up and said, sh-sh. Did not see any of their faces except the larger one, saw that he had sandy moustache. All had black masks on. Heard three shots fired; one when they first came in the house, one at her brother and one at her she supposed. Could not tell whether all the shots were fired by one person or not; the lamp exploded when the third shot was fired. She then made her escape and was followed by her mother. One of the little men had the revolver all the time. It was not the one that said sh-sh, that shot; the large one reached the bed about the time the first shot was fired, and was engaged with her father when the second shot was fired. After second shot she saw her brother on the floor, he was lying between the bed and the stove, and heard him groan and say what sounded like, "yea, yea." Third shot was fired when she was on the floor. There was no gun, pistol or revolver in the house. Father left the house first, she next and mother last, all going to Mr. Hartman's where I remained until morning; when I returned to the house my brother was lying on the bed covered with blood, and the money was not to be found. Father got his money by selling a little farm in Germany; it was all he had, 2,100 marks and $400 in American gold. I am 24 years years of age. On cross examination she made substantially the same statement as above.

of this place sworn, testified that he was present at the post mortem examination of the murdered boy. The bullet which caused his death entered the brain just above one of his eyes, [the left one] had forgotten which, and passed almost straight through the brain to the back of the head and must necessarily have caused almost instantaneous death. The ball, he judged, was a .32 calibre.

CARL SCHOULTZ

sworn, testified that he was 56 years of age; born in Germany, where he had lived until leaving for this country last July. Possessed a small farm in the old country which he disposed of for 4,000 marks; in all had eight children, six of whom died before leaving Germany. Had 2,100 marks and $400 at time of robbery, which was kept in a chest locked, and stood in front of the women's bed; retired last on the night of April 4th last, left a kerosene lamp burning low; was awakened a little after midnight by the breaking in of the door. His testimony in regard to the terrible struggle was the same as related by him at the inquest. His statement showed that it was not the large man that did the shooting; (the large man has reference to White.) He was the first to leave the house; returned to the house in the morning, found my son lying on the bed dead, and the money gone. In cross examination stated that he was struggling with the big man, and was confident that the big man did not shoot; thought he had no chance to shoot.

HELEN SCHOULTZ

sworn, testified that she was the wife of Carl Schoultz, and mother of Herman Schoultz, whose age was 23; family had always lived together; she was the last to leave house on the night of the murder. Saw her son lying on the floor between the stove and bed, at first thought it was her husband. When I first awoke, reached up to get a stick; don't know how many shots were fired, was making too much noise myself; she and Hartman went to the house first in the morning, saw her son lying on the floor, dead, and covered with blood, but the body was not lying just as it was when she left the night before. [This is accounted for by the fact that Katterman states he moved it in looking for White's revolver.—Ed.] We put the boy on the bed; everything was in confusion in the room, the money was gone from the box and nothing else taken. On cross examination, stated that no one but the family were in the house the night before and no one but relatives were in the habit of visiting them that knew that money was in the house. Did not see or hear shots fired, her daughter told her about them.

S. G. TAYLOR

sworn, testified that he had known W. B. White about 5 years, and was present when he made a confession at the jail on the morning of April 17th, which he made of his own accord; he confessed to having been one of the parties connected with the robbery and murder; that they had made arrangements once to go on Tuesday night; he did not want to go, and on account of a snow storm made it an excuse not to do so. On the Friday night they made pre-

Ed] He denied the shooting and all knowledge of the money; he seemed remorseful and all broken down.

Katterman and Reynolds were both put on the stand, and were informed by the Judge that they were not compelled to say anything that would be likely to incriminate themselves; they therefore both refused to testify.

CLARK ESMOND

testified that he was sheriff, and the officer who arrested White; was present at the time of his confession; stated no inducements were held out; stated White was the largest person of the three, and confirmed Mr. Taylor's statement.

JOHN B. MICROBERTS

testified that he was assisting the prosecution and had interviewed White several times, who told him that Reynolds Katterman and himself were the persons who entered Carl Schoultz' house on the night of April 4th for the purpose of robbery. His statement was a lengthy one and has all been published before; he confirmed the statements made by Taylor and Esmond.

At the close of the prosecution the defendant's attorney requested that the case might stand as it was. The prosecuting then commenced his opening address to the jury, which was brief but to the point. At six o'clock the court was adjourned until the following morning at 8:30. When William Croston, attorney for the defense made his plea to the jury; it was an eloquent and touching appeal for mercy. After the closing by Mr. Henry, the Judge charged the jury, explaining what constituted murder in the first and second degree and manslaughter. The jury then retired to their room where they remained about 30 minutes. When they returned to the room and took their seats; the foreman arose and announced the verdict "Guilty of murder in the first degree, with recommendation to the mercy of the court." The Judge then asked the accused if he was any reason why sentence should not be passed, to which he answered:

"I have this to say, I am not guilty of murder. I never thought of murder. I did not shoot. I would not murder any one, any quicker than Prosecuting Attorney Henry would. I have never had any intention to murder. If you can show me any mercy I would like it. If I can be allowed to say one word, if it is the last I ever spoke, as true as there is a God in Heaven I know nothing of the money. As far as I am concerned I do not think any of us got it that night. I think some one got it the next morning. I don't see why I should be sentenced for life when I never shot or got any of the money."

REYNOLDS' STATEMENT.

William Reynolds was then brought on for trial and the jury drawn, but before any proceeding took place his counsel, Robert White, informed the court that the accused wished to have a statement read which he had prepared in his cell and would plead guilty to the charge, but denied the shooting. The following is Reynolds' written statement:

TAWAS CITY, May 8, 1884.

A TRUE ACCOUNT OF MY CONNECTION WITH THE SCHOULTZ MURDER.

Some time in the latter part of February, 1884, Patrick Brady made up his mind to sell out his saloon in Sherman township, he made me an offer for a half interest in the saloon providing some one would go in with me and pay their share down in money. There was a man there at the time on his way over to Jacob Katterman's, I told him to tell Katterman if he wanted to buy an interest to come over, and told him what I thought could be made in the business. He sent word he would be there on the following Saturday and as he failed to come it was bought out by other parties. Soon after he sent me word that he would buy out this other party; as he failed to come up there, I thought I would go over and see him. Sometime about three weeks previous to the robbery, of a Sunday I went over to his place; I got there about 4 o'clock in the evening, he was not at home; he came home about 5 or 6 o'clock. I had known Katterman about 10 years, but previous to this first meeting I had not spoken to him but once in over two years. I owed him $5.00 for moving me down from the Plains; I met him in to Ramage's store one year ago this spring, he told me he owed Ramage, so I gave him an order for $6.00, that is the only time I had spoken to him in over two years. In the summer and fall of 1883 he sent word to me he knew a good chance to make some money if I would come down and see him, he dare not come to my house for I told him more than two years before not to come to my house, for he would be put out, as my acquaintance with him was ended. This Sunday night after he came home I asked him if he had any notion of buying out that saloon, he said yes he had, he had not got the money at present. I asked him on the place he lived on, and had mortgaged his place to buy a horse and Prescott had beat him out of the horse, but he says says I know where we could make a raise of some money easy. I says where is that he says there is some old country people right up here has lots of money, I told him that was pretty risky business he said there was no risk at all, he knew right where it was and there was from two to five thousand dollars, and there were two or three around there who would go in with us, he said they had made it up two or three times, but they were afraid the folks would know them they were so well acquainted. I asked him why they did not wait until they all went out some time and slip in and get the money. He said not more than two would leave the house at once, they went there one night to see what they could see, but they would not let them in the house, now I said I will tell you what you had best to do. I said if you will mortgage your farm for two hundred dollars and buy out that saloon I will run the bar and give you all the money until you get all your money back and that would take about twenty days. He said to wait till morning and he would hitch up his horse and see if he could raise the money. During the evening he spoke about those Germans having the money and how easy it would be to get it. I spoke of something else because I did not want to talk before the women. He said all the folks around there were in hopes they would be robbed; their relatives and all said this. I said all night, in the morning he hitched up his horse to go, then he said he would go over and see Schoultz, he came back and said he could not do anything with him, was so afraid he would lose his money, so he drove to town to ask A. G. Van Wey to let him have some money on his place, he would not do it as he did not have the money to spare, he told him the saloon would be arrested, so I went home. The next time I came to town I saw Katterman he asked me if I would help get the money from the Schoultz, I told him I thought if they had any money it would be in the bank. He said they would not trust any bank. I told him nobody had seen the money, he said Mrs. Baker had seen it. I told him if he could mortgage his farm we could make a good thing and run no risk. So we went up to Prescott's store. Allen Prescott said it was early to let money, but he knew a man he thought would let him have it. He wanted the money by Saturday he told Prescott. I came down the next Monday he said he had not seen Prescott since. I made up my mind he did not want to borrow the money and I would let it drop. A few days after I was looking for a house in town, in the evening before train time I went into White's restaurant, he asked me if I had seen Katterman, I told him no I had not, I asked him where he was, he said he thought he had gone home. I asked him if Jacob said anything about getting any money from Prescott, he said no, and asked if Katterman had said anything about getting any money from some Germans. I said whereabouts, he said where he lives. I said yes he had told me about it, and he said what do you think about it, do you think they have got the money. I told him Katterman said he knew they had it; he asked what kind of a man I thought Katterman was. I told him I thought Katterman would steal the money from them and us to if he got a good chance. He asked me if he thought he would squeal if he got in a tight place. I said I did not think he would do that, he asked how much money I thought there was. I told him I did not know if there was any. Jacob said he knew there must be $2,500 as they had $5,000 when they left the old country and they never spent any money. The next time I saw Katterman he asked me if I would go in with them. I told him we could not use the money to buy out the saloon. He said he would get some money on his place for a blind. We went over to White's and we agreed to go and get the money; Jacob wanted to know if we had any revolvers. I said, what do you want revolvers for? He said to scare them with; he said to flourish them around and they would not move. I told them I would not hurt anybody for all the money in the town, and they all said the same. None of us had any revolvers, and I said we do not want any. Jacob said he could borrow one. I told him not to do it. White said we had better go without any, than to borrow any. I said I could borrow two or three if I wanted to, and I had a revolver by going after it. The time was appointed; we met and had no revolvers; Jacob thought we ought to have one or two. Now, I said, you say they have no arms, and they are too scared to move; I don't see what's the use for any. White said it was a bad night, and we would not go; White said he would drop me a line. Jacob said there was an ugly dog but he was dead. On the 3rd or 4th of April I got a letter from White to come down. I came down, went into White's restaurant; I took a piece of a vest, White took another of beaver cloth; Katterman then came in. I asked him where he had been, he said around town. He asked me if I had a revolver; I said no. He said I have one. I said where did you get it; he said it was one he used to own; I said that will give us away; he said he got it from a friend for to shoot a dog. White says, I have bought a new one; he showed it to me; it was a Smith & Weston, centre fire. Jacob took his out and said there was four loads in it. Jacob picked up some of the rags we had fixed, altered it a little and said it would do him. He said another dog was dead; he said two dogs were dead. I supposed he killed them, I said, them Germans can't tell what we say, they may think we are going to kill them if they see the revolvers. Jacob says no, they won't make any noise when they see the revolvers; he says I will whisper to them in Dutch that we won't hurt them. Jacob wanted White to get some whisky; White said he had none. Jacob said he could get some if he wanted to. White got a bottle and gave him a drink in a glass; I took a small drink; it was dark, I don't know how much he took. He took the dark lantern; White gave me the bottle. Katterman and I started and went past the school house and waited for White; I gave Jake a drink; I did not drink, did not feel well; before we got to Murphy's we all took a drink; before we got to Katterman's White says, let's take a drink; I gave him the bottle. Katterman came over and says, give me a drink. I knew by his actions he had enough; I told him he was drunk. No, he said he was not. I said I did not think what little he drank, would make him drunk; he says I am not any more drunk than you. I told him I knew better. Now I said look here if we go there lets go sober. I told him I would not hurt a hair of any one in that house for all the gold I could lift, he says we haint a going to hurt any one. White says dont do it. Jake said give me a swallow. I said no I won't, you may have the whole bottle when you leave the house. He went into his yard to get an ax to break the box open. We went up to Hartman's and sat down by the road. He said he was afraid they would know him. White says you will have to go in the house as well as the rest. I told him not to speak and to let me take the revolver and I would stand by one bed and White by the other and Jacob get the money out of the box. He hesitated a little then he said he would, he gave me the revolver and we went up to Schoultz and sat down by the fence and lit the lantern. A dog commences to bark and we waited for him to stop, I said lets do it or go away. White and myself took a sail and started for the house, when we got to the door there was a porch and a railing and I had to crawl under the cross piece to handle the rail. Katterman stood at my left hand and I handed him the revolver till I could get under the slat. I was under the slat trying to get on my feet when White gave the rail a shove, bursting in the door and throwing me inside the room on my knees. White ran in and grabbed a man. I stepped in and grabbed a woman and tried to hold her on the bed. She fought and made such a noise I let her go for a moment. She got up on the bed and reached over head. I thought I would pull her away so she could not get any weapon. I dodged my head over the bed and I think she hit me with something. Somebody hit me on the head. I turned around the girl I think was going down she laid with her head towards the kitchen. Katterman walked from her feet to her head and turned and faced me, I think he bent down over her head a little. I saw he had no mask on. I said Jake put on your mask. He said call me by my right name. There was some of the mask gone and he could not get it on his face. I looked down on the floor and saw something bright. It thought it was silver the first glance. I picked up Katterman's revolver then I saw the man's feet and legs, the revolver laid at his feet. I picked it up and stepped back to the door. A woman made a run toward me, I got back out to see if she had a revolver. It was too dark to see much, when she went off the steps she fell, I think the next one fell, don't know but they all fell. I did not know how many had gone out, I stepped back in the room saw none of the folks. I think Jacob Katterman was raising the lid of the box. I says come on let us run away. I went out doors and waited a little; as they did not come I went back to the door and told them to let the money go and come on, Jacob was still searching the box, I went out to the side of the barn and waited there, I went back to the door and said for God's sake get out of here. White says, I have lost my revolver. I said is this it; I don't know what he said, I see it wasn't his; the horn was blowing and I ran out the door, when I went back in Katterman had strewed all the bed-clothes in the middle of the floor.

As far as can be learned, no decision has as yet been arrived at by the locating committee as to where will be held the next state fair. The meeting in Detroit last week had several proposals before them, including proposals from Jackson—offering the necessary grounds and buildings at a rental of 2,000 for 1884 and $1500 for 1885—and Kalamazoo. However, no action was taken and the meeting adjourned sine die, subject to the call of President Parsons. The general impression seems to be however, that Kalamazoo would be the site chosen. In view of this fact several citizens of Jackson, says the Patriot, intend to canvass the business men, with a view to having a central fair there, to be held one week ahead of the time set for the state fair, and to offer the same prizes and inducements.

The Au Sable Salt and Lumber Co's mill at Au Sable is doing a better business this year than ever before, notwithstanding the record it has made in former years as the John C. Gram mill. Its average cut per week is 1,000,000 feet and one day last week it astonished everybody by cutting 250,000 feet. The mill has an ample stock of logs and will make, if its customary good luck abides with it, a notable successful season in 1884.

The Prescott mill has been materially improved of late, and its cutting capacity nearly doubled by a judicious application of the power and cutting facilities. Its average daily cut last year was 50,000 feet, this year the average will not be less than 80,000 feet and on Friday of last week it cut 90,000 feet.

A Mr. Emerson, of Bay City, an experienced restaurateur has opened an eating house at Alger junction which, under the new time table, will be of considerable advantage to passengers on the D. B. C. & A. R'y. as the train arrives at that junction just at noon.

John L. Sullivan, the slugger, was at Bay City Monday.

Capt. Miner, of East Tawas, while at work on A. Parfit's new building, fell from the scaffold, last Saturday at about 6 o'clock and smashed his nose quite severely. It was dressed by Dr. Gates.

A Call.

Inventors take notice: There will be a convention of inventors held in the state of Michigan early in July and all inventors and patentees are requested to forward their names and full address to me, so that committeemen may be appointed in each county to organize his county and elect a delegate to the state convention. This convention will elect delegates to the National association of American inventors to be held in Buffalo, N. Y., in January, 1885. Inventors will please send in their names at once, so we can organize as early as possible in July.

Address all communications to me at Bay City, Mich.

M. GARLAND, Vice president, State of Michigan.

CRUELLY CRUSHED.

Walter Duffy Insantly Killed at East Tawas.

Last Saturday, at eleven o'clock a. m., as the log train on the D. B. C. & A. railroad was switching off a number of cars to the siding that leads to Emery's saw mill in East Tawas, Walter Duffy, a train man, who was on the logs, in passing from one car to another, was thrown between the two, and instantly killed. His neck was broken, his chest crushed and torn so that a portion of the lungs protruded, his right arm torn off, and his left foot jammed to a pulp. The remains were brought down to the undertaking establishment of Wm. B. Kelley, Tawas City, where the body was laid out and put in condition for burial. The body was shockingly mangled and death must have been instantaneous. The deceased was about 32 years of age, and lived at Tawas City. He was married last July, but had no children. It was met in the line of his duties at the time to be going from car to car, and his toe great confidence in his ability to traverse that dangerous track along the logs, which he had done with safety so many times before, is unquestionably what cost him his life. His friends at Caseville came to this place last Tuesday with a tug and took his remains to that place for burial.

MURDER AT STANDISH.

The village of Standish, Arenac county was thrown into a high state of excitement last week Wednesday by the announcement that Jerry Mahoney had been murdered at the Standish house. It seems the two men had had an altercation about driving some logs, and Wednesday night when the two met at the Standish house the matter was brought up again. Quigley went away from the hotel and returned with a revolver and words were exchanged, when, before any one could interfere, Quigley drew out the pistol and taking aim at Mahoney fired. The ball entered Mahoney's right breast, inflicting a wound from which he shortly expired. Quigley tried to shoot a second time, but his revolver missed fire. He was arrested Thursday morning and arraigned before Justice J. Decker on a charge of wilful murder, to which he did not plead but waived examination to the Arenac circuit court, which will convene on the 26th inst. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the statements given above. The prisoner was taken to Bay City last Friday evening where he stated to a reporter that he did not do the shooting; that he had no revolver and pulled no trigger. He states that the shooting was done by a man named Gardner. In answer to a question he said that there were from 25 to 36 persons standing around when Mahoney was shot, and that he gave himself up." He also said to the turnkey that he guessed he'd have to stand the consequences. Quigley is a well built man, 5 1/2 feet high and about 35 years old. He has been a resident of Standish for some time.

RACHEL ELDRIDGE, Teacher.

EDITOR HERALD:—Your HERALD dated May 8th contained an article wherein it was stated that the "Mormons or Latter Day Saints had started a Sabbath School on the Town Line in opposition to the Union Sabbath School and D. H. Proper was the superintendent of the opposition Sabbath School." We wish it understood by the readers of the HERALD that it is a FALSEHOOD. We have not organized a Sabbath school in opposition to any other on the town line. The school organized by the Latter Day Saints is held at 10:30 a. m. while the other school is held at 2:30 p. m. Your informant, Mr. Editor, would have you believe that the Sunday School first organized was a Union School. Rather strange union to my mind, as some of the leading instruments in the so-called union school, said they did not want the Latter Day Saints to assemble with them and that they would not come into the schoolhouse where they were etc. But as that is about as nigh the truth as he generally gets, we will do as the boy did when the mule kicked him. And again, D. H. Proper is not superintendent of our school, hence we believe your informant is guilty of willful misrepresentation. Furthermore, we wish it understood that we are not "Mormons" a name which is so flippantly hurled at the Latter Day Saints, but testify that it is an incubus foisted upon the church by our enemies. We would also have it understood that we have no connection with the Salt Lake Mormons but repudiate the doctrine of Polygamy and Spiritual Wifeism, believing it to be an abomination in the sight of God.

W. J. SMITH.

CHANGE OF TIME TABLES.

D. B. C. & A. R. R.

According to the new time table of the D. B. C. & A. R. R. the trains leave as follows: Mail and Express going west leaves Au Sable at 9:40 a. m.; East Tawas 10:07; Tawas City, 10:15; Whittemore 11:00 arriving at Alger 12:05. Returning leave Alger at 3:15 p. m.; Whittemore 4:15; Tawas City, 5:00; East Tawas, 5:10 arriving at Au Sable at 5:40. The Au Sable accommodation leaves this place at 8:00 a. m. arriving at Au Sable at 9:00. The Tawas City accommodation leaves Au Sable at 6:00 p. m. arriving at this place at 6:55. The Alger freight leaves this place at 8 p. m. arriving at Alger at 11:55. Returning leaves Alger at 12:40 a. m. arriving at this place at 4:25. These changes in time, together with that of the Michigan Central give the people of Iosco county the best traveling accommodations practicable.

MICHIGAN CENTRAL.

The new time card of the Michigan Central went into effect Monday, and the attention of readers called to the more important changes, as shown in the schedule published in another column. On the Saginaw division the morning train to Jackson now leaves at 6:30 a m instead of at 9:55 as before. The time of the evening train has not been changed, leaving at 4:50 p m with both a through sleeper and through coach to Chicago, local train to Saginaw at 8:20 p m. The time of departure on the Bay City division remain as before, but in addition there is now a train leaving at 2:30 p m running direct to Detroit arriving at 6:45 where it connects immediately with the Canada Division for the East; also with the Toledo division for the south, reaching Toledo at 9:30 p m and Cincinnati the next morning. The many manifest advantages which these trains offer should secure for it a good business. The morning train out of Detroit now arrives at 12:45 instead of at 1 p. m., and the new night train from Detroit with through sleepers to Mackinaw, leaves at 9:05 p m., arriving at Bay City 1:35 a. m. On the Mackinaw division the principal feature of the new card is the addition of the night train leaving Bay City at 1:45 a. m. with sleeping car to Mackinaw, where it arrives at 9 a m connecting with the day express on the D. M. & M. R. R. The Grayling accommodation now leaves at 8 a m, that is 10 minutes earlier, and the noon train at 1:15 p. m., or 5 minutes earlier, with parlor car to Mackinaw.
