Logs at Tawas.

The railroad is bringing into Tawas about 400,000 feet of logs a day, running 8 trains exclusively for this class of freight, and this amount of special service besides the regular passenger and freight trains keeps the track well occupied and the rolling stock decidedly busy.

Rations.

Fun is fun, but it costs money to feed soldiers as was shown by the bills presented to the Board of Supervisors of Iosco county who commenced special session on last Tuesday, at Tawas City, the special purpose of the session being, it is said, to act upon the bills incurred in regulating the strike at Au Sable and Oscoda.

Banner Salt Block.

The CALL has frequently called attention to the advantages of Tawas as a salt producing locality, provided always the supply of timber is continued, as it undoubtedly will be by means of the railroad, with its extension north which will come when any extensions come to any railroads, and the spurs that are to be built off to the west and northwest; the brine, at only the moderate depth of from 750 to 850 feet, being literally exhaustless, perfectly pure, and at the full strength of saturation, and it "points northwards," in justification of these statements, to the performance of one of the blocks in that vicinity, that of M. E. Hale in Tawas City.

The Telephone Girl.

When Pityboy called up the telephone girl the other evening to inform the undertaker, that the coffin furnished for his wife was to short, she was trying to flirt with a telegraph operator across the street, and did not like to be disturbed, so she answered shortly, and rang the bell in Pityboy's ear, but he was in no frame of mind for abusing her, as he had been at other times, so he meekly said, "Oh!" and then asked to be connected with No. 413, when the conversation ran as follows:

Tawas City and Vicinity.

Dry and dusty. Short items are very scarce this week. Clean newspapers 25 cents per 100 at the HERALD office.

Quite a number from this place visited Jumbo at Bay City Saturday.

Ed Short is pushing the work on the bridge across the river at Matthew street. Nimble Nickel challenges any one in the world for a discussion of the political issues.

A vote taken on the train one day last week stood: Blaine 12, Cleveland 11, and Butler 1.

Thos. H. O'Connor, formerly of this place, but now of Greenbush, is in town for a few days.

Miss Catherine Scott died of typhoid malarial fever instead of typhoid fever as stated last week.

J. P. Connor is willing to match the brown team of G. Oran's to outfit anything of their weight. John Sullivan where are you?

Morrissey's Grand Hibernicon did not meet with a very large audience at Simon's hall last Friday night. Some parts of the entertainment was very good.

The reduction sale at Dimmick's store, East Tawas will be continued for 30 days more. No reduction on goods just received. Call and secure bargains.

Graham & Son have accepted the agency for the Tawas Steam Bakery and will hereafter have a fresh supply of bread at their store every morning.

Rev. F. L. Bristol will preach at the Congregational church, East Tawas, next Sabbath morning on "Growth in Religion" and in the evening on "Action not Words."

The East Tawas Salt & Lumber Co.'s mill is shut down for a few days on account of the breaking of a part of the gang and the steam nigger. This mill has done very large work this season, the largest days cutting 175,790 feet of lumber.

The meeting of the directors of the Agricultural society which was called at the courthouse yesterday was adjourned until next Monday, when it is hoped that all of the directors will be present and as many of the members as possible.

The first issue of the Lakeside Monitor, printed at Au Sable, was received at this office last week. It presents a very handsome typographical appearance and is also well filled with news. The paper is a credit to the county and the HERALD wishes it success.

Ruben Osborn, of East Tawas, is determined to have one of the finest farms in the county. Most every day he may be seen driving his handsome dapple grays through the village on the way to his farm with a supply of cartridges for blowing out stumps. He is making extensive improvements in clearing his place this season.

An old lady by the name of Secord met what might have been a very serious accident one night last week, at Standish. Hearing a noise among the fowls in the hen house she hastened to ascertain the cause, and in her haste to get down stairs she miscalculated the distance and before she was aware of being near the stairway she fell headlong down to the foot of the stairs. She was quite badly hurt but at last accounts was doing well.—Bay City Tribune.

A day or two since a Rochester, N. Y., man was looking over a lot of S. O. Fisher's lumber with the intention of buying. The price was $13 per m straight, and the sale was almost made when the subject of the presidential election was brought up. After discussing it pro and con, the Rochester man said that if Cleveland was elected president, he would pay $20 per m for the lumber, and Mr. Fisher, agreed that if Blaine were the lucky man, he could have the entire lot of lumber at $8 per m.—Bay City Tribune.

DEMORST'S ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY MAGAZINE for September is an extremely useful and entertaining number. The tales and poems are excellent, and "The English Cathedral," "The Romance of the Centu," and "Being New York," by Jennie J. J., are articles of unusual interest. There is much that will prove very useful in the household, in the way of fancy-work and fashion, and the illustrations add greatly to the attractiveness of this number. "Moles," a fine oil painting from the original by N. Schel, forms the frontispiece.

The Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation Co. offer one of the most enjoyable of excursions at a very low price the coming week. The excursion is to go by their palace steamer City of Mackinac, which leaves this place next Thursday at 1 a. m., connecting at S. Ignace with the D. M. & M. R. R. for Marquette. The fare for the round trip to Marquette and return is only $7 [meals and berths extra]. Tickets good to return at any time within 14 days, can be secured of the clerk of the steam co. Those who desire to visit the Upper Peninsula this season should accept of this opportunity.

The State Senatorship.

It is pleasing to know that the delegates to the Republican Representative Convention recently held, have placed in nomination a person who by his eloquence and ability will be a feature in the House this winter, if elected. Let the delegates to the Senatorial convention take a lesson from that convention and put a good man in nomination for the Senate and we dare say that this end of the state will be as well, if not better represented at Lansing the coming two years than the older districts in the state. In selecting a candidate for the House the convention chose a person from the railroad counties and it is but natural that the shore counties request the senatorial nomination which is perfectly satisfactory to the western counties. In casting around for a candidate who would make his influence felt on the floor of the senate or in the committee room; a man of excellent judgment and business ability, we see in CHARLES R. HENRY, of Au Sable, just the senator that this district needs, and if the convention should nominate him we feel confident that he would carry as large if not larger vote than any other person in the district. As prosecuting attorney of Iosco county Mr. Henry has won a reputation for shrewdness and judgment in his profession that extends throughout a large portion of the state, reflecting credit on himself and the county he serves. It is no more than reasonable to expect that he would as creditably acquit himself in the Senate, therefore the HERALD suggests to the convention his nomination.

The Supervisors.

Thursdays session.—The committee to whom was referred the examination of the claims or the Schoultz Reward reported that they examined the claims and recommended that the claims of John Arnett, J. B. McRoberts, David Hoyt, H. Ziem, S. Morgan and Jno. Am. be not allowed and as to the claims of Jas. Melvor and Weckerly and Mount that they be given more time to inquire into their merits. Report accepted.

By vote of the board the claim of J. B. McRoberts in the Schoultz Reward was referred back to the committee.

A petition signed by 103 tax-payers of Au Sable and one signed by 107 tax-payers of Oscoda and one signed by 52 tax-payers of Tawas asking the reconsideration of the Pinkerton bill was presented.

Supervisor Smith offered a resolution laying the reconsideration of the Pinkerton bill on the table until the next meeting of the board, which was carried.

A motion to adjourn was lost. Supervisor Smith offered the following resolution. Resolved that the resolution adopted at the last meeting of the board and recorded on page 201 of the Supervisors records, allowing Clark Emmond, sheriff, one hundred and fifty dollars for expenses and personal services in the Schoultz murder trial be hereby reconsidered. Supervisor Taylor claimed that the resolution was out of order as the matter had been disposed of and the chair so ruled. Sheriff Emmond being present stated that he wished his friends to vote for the resolution and desired a vote to be taken.

The board authorized the transferring of $700 from the general fund to the poor fund.

Supervisor Smith offered and read a petition to the board requesting that the town of Baldwin be granted the right to raise $2,500 in that township by taxation in the manner provided by the statute for the building of a road in the township of Baldwin. The petition was granted and the township authorized to raise money for that purpose.

About $1600 were allowed by the board on claims against the county.

After allowing the several sums due the members of the board they adjourned until the 18th of October next.

Republican Representative Convention.

The Republican representative convention for Iosco district met at West Branch, Ogemaw county, last Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order at 1 p. m. On motion the temporary organization was dispensed with and permanent officers chosen in order to economize time, for the convenience of the delegates from the shore, who desired to catch the 3 o'clock train. C. R. Henry of Iosco was made chairman and W. N. Miller of Iosco, secretary.

The committee on credentials appointed by the chair were W. E. Depew, Alcona; C. North, Iosco and Geo. M. Horton, Ogemaw.

A recess of a few moments was taken while the committee were examining the credentials, after which the committee reported members entitled to a seat in the convention as follows:

ALCONA. W. E. Depew; Joseph G. Am; J. E. Fall by proxy, C. E. Jameson.

CHAMFORD. J. F. Humes; N. H. Evans.

IOSCO. C. R. Henry; George Orth by proxy, H. M. Elliott; Ebenzer Laidlow; W. N. Miller.

Ogemaw.

Allen S. Rose; George M. Horton. OSSEO. Wm. J. Jubb; Judson C. Hooker; Geo. H. Smith by proxy, Henry Whiteley. It was moved that the report be accepted and committee discharged. A motion was then made to amend by allowing the two Ogemaw delegates to cast a third vote. Moved that the amendment to original motion be amended by allowing the county an extra delegate.

The chair ruled that both amendments were out of order and the original motion was put and carried.

As tellers the chairman appointed A. S. Rose, of Ogemaw, and C. E. Jameson, of Alcona.

There were but two names presented as candidates for the nomination as Representative. Andrew J. Taylor of Osseo and Daniel P. Markey of Ogemaw. The name of Mr. Taylor was presented by Henry Whiteley, of Osseo in a ringing and well worded address, in which he spoke of Mr. Taylor's Republicanism, his strength and popularity at home. He was followed by Allen S. Rose, of Ogemaw, who, in a few appropriate remarks presented the name of Daniel P. Markey, of Ogemaw. An informal ballot was then taken which stood 8 for Andrew J. Taylor and 9 for Daniel P. Markey. A formal ballot was then taken which stood the same as the former one and on motion Mr. Markey was declared the unanimous choice of the convention.

REPRESENTATIVE COMMITTEE.

The next work before the convention was the appointment of the representative committee. Each county naming its member. The new committee stands: E. B. Spileman, Iosco; M. H. French, Ogemaw; W. E. Depew, Alcona; W. A. Masters, Crawford; John Randall, Oscoda; W. J. Jubb, Osseo. Owing to the fact that Iosco county contained so much larger population than any other county she was allowed an extra member of the committee in the person of Greene Pack.

The work being finished the convention listened to a short, but eloquent address by the nominee Daniel P. Markey. To those who had never heard or known Mr. Markey his address was sufficient to convince them that Iosco district will be represented in the Legislature next winter, if the people elect the Republican nominee, in a manner that will do credit to the intelligence of the people of this district. His command of the English language is excellent and his delivery pleasing and interesting, which is backed by considerable sound sense and logic.

Congressional Action and the Price of Wheat.

The Detroit Free Press thinks "it would be extremely difficult under any circumstances to trace a connection between congressional action, non-action or threatened action, and the present price of wheat." The Free Press writer's study of social economy must be exceedingly limited if he can reach such a conclusion. He was discussing Gen. Butler's statement that "the fear of the action of the democracy in congress has so paralyzed American enterprise and business that mills are everywhere closing, mines shut, furnaces blown out and every kind of employment so curtailed that the mechanic and workman are not earning enough to support life in comfort," and he professes that he cannot understand how a connection can be traced between the condition of things described by General Butler and the price of wheat. Dense indeed must be his intellect, if he cannot. Does he not know that a people pinched by poverty do not consume as much even of the necessities of life as a people earning enough to support life in comfort? The Free Press professes to see in the smallness of the foreign demand an all-sufficiency to account for the low price of wheat. Did he never hear of the other factor in determining the price, the largeness of the supply. And has it never dawned upon him that the size of the American surplus has a powerful effect in determining the price the farmer can obtain for his crop? If, then, as Gen. Butler says, "the fear of the action of the American democracy in congress has so paralyzed American enterprise and business," that "every kind of employment is so curtailed that the mechanic and workman are not earning enough to support life in comfort," is there not a direct and necessary connection between congressional action or threatened action and the price of wheat? And right here comes into view with great clearness the mighty part a protective tariff plays in benefiting the farmer. By furnishing a home market for a vast quantity of grain and meat it reduces the surplus which must be sold abroad and increases the price he receives for the whole, since the relation of the surplus to the demand for it governs the market price. In addition to which there is the home market for the great amount of farm produce which is not exported but consumed near the place of production.—Bay City Tribune.

least, who has the good fortune to live in the bigger cities—is no longer as a sealed book. Those who run may look, and those who look may see her.

There are, of course, prominent examples of the advanced Turkish woman. Their histories are in many instances similar. A case in point would be that of the now fashionable Turkish lady who while an infant was sold by her parents to a Jew slave dealer, who after the usual course of training, exhibited his prize to his customers with the rest of his live stock. It was in such a case, for women dealt with in this manner, a mere toss up what she became—a fine lady's handmaiden or something worse. Even the lot of the handmaiden is not always an enviable one.

But fortune smiled on this heroine of the slave mart. A celebrated Turkish statesman, who patronized the Hebrew merchant, purchased her as a playfellow for his son. The children grew up together till the time arrived when the boy had to quit the harem. He was educated in France, and when in later years he returned he found the old partner of his romps a beautiful girl, and so—he fell in love with and married her.

His wife eventually became a widow and soon belonged to the advanced school, which has its acknowledged leaders, notwithstanding the fact that the free born wives and damsels look down on such of their sisters who have been sold and bought. So far, that following the example of one or two others of her friends, who, like herself, had not cared because they had scandalized the stricter of their sex, she had started on a trip to the forbidden land of Christendom. Nor, indeed, was it much wondered at when it was whispered that she was betrothed to one not belonging to her own faith; but the announcement that she had been received into the Church of Rome was a genuine surprise. Married or single, she could scarcely dare to return to Turkey. To leave the country without the permission which is hardly ever given to a Moslem female is an extremely grave offense, and apostasy is, by the sacred law, punishable with death. It is reported that, at the request of a relative, her name has already been erased from the list of Ottoman subjects.—N. Y. Herald.

Mexican Custom-Houses.

Owing to the barbarous customs regulations of this country, by which it is made extremely difficult to invoice goods correctly enough to avoid the finding of some defect by a vigilant official yearning for a moiety—such as an unrecused "or undotted "i"—many shippers to this country have been in the habit of invoicing their goods "as by sample attached." This recourse, however, has now unfortunately been cut off by an order of the Secretary of the Treasury, the law requiring "that consular invoices and applications for the dispatch of merchandise for the maritime and frontier custom-houses shall contain the name, material, and class of merchandise specified in conformity with the tariff; the quantity, weight, length, width, and number of pieces, etc., expressing, for greater certainty, when it can be done, the number of the section in which the merchandise is comprehended, without admitting on any account, in lieu of the specification required by the law, a reference to samples of goods glued, sewed, or in any manner attached to or inclosed in the invoices, to the end of avoiding doubts or arbitrary interpretations and the dangers inherent to the easy substitution of one sample for another." It might have been added: and to the end of making almost impossible the avoidance of a fine doubling the duties to be paid by the unfortunate importer. Happy the man who escapes a multa!

Loose custom-house management on the frontier is not confined to Nuevo Laredo, though it is probably worse here than anywhere else. Late notices from Paso del Norte were that the shipment of merchandise into the country, both freight and express, was at a standstill because the official whose business it was to sign the papers necessary for the introduction of goods had gone away on a trip of some kind to Chihuahua, and as in his absence there was no one empowered to transact the business of his office nothing could be done. Such a way of doing business is simply childish and a discredit to the country. It seems incredible that at a point importing point all business should be suspended through the absence of one man.—Mexican Financier.

The Art of Early Rising.

The proper time to rise, says the Lancet, is when sleep ends. Dozing should not be allowed. True sleep is the aggregate of sleeps, or is a state consisting in the sleeping or rest of all the several parts of the organism. Sometimes one and at other times another part of the body, as a whole, maybe the least fatigued, and so the first to awake, or the most exhausted, and therefore the most difficult to arouse. The secret of good sleep is, the physiological conditions of rest being established, so to work and weary the several parts of the organism as to give them a proportionally equal need of rest at the same moment; and, to wake early and feel ready to rise, a fair and equal start of the sleepers should be secured; and the wise self-manager should not allow a drowsy feeling of the consciousness or weary senses, or an exhausted muscular system, to beguile into the folly of going to sleep. A few days of self-discipline, the body who resolves not to doze, that is, to doze some sleepy part of his body has once him in bed after his brain without kneaded, will find himself, Popular Science why, an early riser.—Monthly.

A soldier in a red coat and a hat, gallantly resolute, caused him to not long ago in coming back when mind the marines who the bar-advantage of looking like one—at least, it may be sometimes an advantage in situations of peril. Colonel McKenny, when serving in the West as a Commissioner of the Government, once owed his safety, in an encounter with a gang of Chickasaws, to their mistaking him for "Old Hickory." He gives the following account of the incident, which occurred in the evening soon after he and his negro servant had pitched their shelter-tent: Ben had gone with his tin bucket after water to boil our tea, when, coming suddenly back, he rushed into the tent with looks of wild amazement, exclaiming: "Injuns, sah! Injuns, shore's you live! I done hear 'em yell!" Just then came a distant chorus of unmistakable Indian yells. The negro was right. "We'll nebber see Washin'ton agin, sah!" cried the terrified fellow. "Dar' yer sword and pistols, kunnal; we'd better take down 'de tent, an' move on, sah!" "Shut up, Ben! Do you suppose I would leave such a nice camping-place as this, and travel all night before I found another?" "No, sah; but— What'd do use ob nice campin' groun' if yo's got to be killed on it?" "Put on the kettle, Ben."

He had scarcely reached the fire before half-a-dozen drunken Indians came staggering up to it. One of them, passing on, came to the door of my tent, and pulling aside the curtains, began to reel in, with gestures that intimated he meant to take possession. The light from the fire made everything almost as bright as day. I ran my fingers through the guards of two of my pistols, and springing to my feet, took the Indian by the neck and gave him a shove. He tumbled out of the tent heels over head, when the remaining five savages, seizing some their knives and some their rifles, rushed towards me.

Seeing my pistols cocked and pointed at the two foremost, they stopped. There was a moment of silence, when one of them suddenly stretched out his arm, and pointing at me with his finger, said in a loud voice: "Jackson!" In an instant all the knives were put up and the rifles lowered, and I became the object of a general gaze. Shortly after, they all in tolerable quiet, left the ground.

My hair being gray and having grown unusually long, and my habit being to wear it thrown up from my forehead, this Indian, who had doubtless seen General Jackson, concluded that the old white chief was sure enough before him. Very likely he had not only seen General Jackson, but knew something (perhaps by experience) of his way of handling Indians, and thought it best, therefore, with his comrades, not to place himself in a situation where the same sort of treatment might be acted over again.—Youth's Companion.

A Few Words on Quail-Shooting.

Now, a word or two about the best practice in quail-shooting. This game when flushed rises with a suddenness and force that are quite trying to the eyes and nerves of young shooters. The sound made by the wings of the bird adds to the startling effect. This is apt to throw you off your guard and render you somewhat confused and uncertain of hand and vision. The quail's flight is very swift, and you must shoot quickly; but you must also shoot deliberately. Be sure that you fire your right-hand barrel first, as it scatters the shot wider, and reserve your left-hand barrel for the long range, especially if you wish to make a double wing-shot. In flushing quail, the bird will sometimes rise at your very feet, so to speak, and then there is danger that you will be in too much haste to fire. The best way to prevent random shooting, in such a case, is to wait till your vision has adjusted itself, that is, until you clearly see the direction of the bird's flight. When once you have command of your vision, and have acquired the power of centering it on the flying game, you will be able to cover your point of aim with your gun without any hesitancy.

When your dog has pointed game, do not rush suddenly forward to flush it. Consider a moment, and look about the landscape to see if any person or animal is visible. Next consider in what direction the game is likely to fly. If any thick covert is near, it is quite safe to presume that the bird will go in that direction. Now step slowly and firmly forward, holding your gun in front of you with the muzzle pointing upward and away from you. The bird will rise in a steep incline to the height of, perhaps, ten or fifteen feet, and there steady itself for a strong, straight flight. If you can get your aim—or cover your bird—at about the time it begins to fly level, you will find your shot most satisfactory.—Maurice Thompson, in St. Nicholas.

An Early Writing-Paper.

Many centuries before Christ, Numa left writings upon the papyrus, whence our name, paper, is derived. This plant, which was revered as sacred by the old Egyptians, grows abundantly in shallow streams and marshes in upper Egypt and Syria. Bruce found it growing in the River Jordan, and noticed a curious fact, that it always presented the sharp, angular side of its pear-shaped stem to the swift current. The stem is eight or ten feet high, two inches in diameter, and crowned with a fringe of hair-like leaves, which circle a blossom of slender spikelets. Beneath the brown sheath which envelops the root-stalk of this dark-green plant lie other sheaths which are very transparent. These, when split into thin leaves and dried in the sun, were glued together, and formed the roll of papyrus, on which many of the ancient writings have come down to us. This paper was both flexible and durable. Specimens from Pompeii can be seen in the museum of Naples. In the fifth century papyrus paper, of which many
