Soldiers of Fortune.

The spirit of adventure and a desire to see more of the world have led many Americans to become participants, if not leaders, in foreign wars, and there are probably at this moment thousands of Americans whose blood is tingling to get out to China and throw their swords, and their lives if need be, into the scale of battle against the assailants of the Celestials. To them China must be looming from afar as the land of fortune and distinction. The life, the experience, and the money! What would they not give for the opportunity of being within reach of a military mandarin in Canton or Peking to pour out to him their aspirations to march anywhere as a Chinese mercenary from the banks of the Pekin River, if necessary, to the most inaccessible limits of the Song-Sai! To do the Celestial justice, he has never been slow in appreciating the fighting qualities of "foreign devils" when he required them, and many a dollar he has paid to American soldiers for the loan of their brains and swords. During the Taeping rebellion, which in 1860 threatened to destroy the Pekin Government, a large number of American soldiers and sailors were engaged against the rebels and did brilliant service. Frederick Townsend Ward, of Salem, Mass., was appointed Admiral General in the service of the Chinese Empire, and the gallant soldier sailor who fell with many of his fellow countrymen, at Ningpo in October, 1862, is still remembered at Peking with as much gratitude as the Chinese are capable of feeling for a foreigner who did them service.

But is not alone in fighting the battles of China that the American soldier of fortune has distinguished himself. At the outbreak of the Crimean war, a large number of American graduates proceeded to the Black Sea and did valuable medical service for the Russian army. Egypt is a still more conspicuous example of the thirst for foreign adventure of the American soldier of fortune. No sooner did the former Khedive, Ismail Pasha, resolve to add to his territory by developing a "vigorous foreign policy" in the Soudan and Abyssinia than he applied for and obtained the services of men belonging to this country who have since made their names famous in two hemispheres. In this connection such names as Major-General Mott, Brigadier-General Charles F. Stone, Majors Colston and Prout, and Generals Loring, Dye and Sibley, together with many others, naturally suggest themselves.

All these men did good service, not only as soldiers, but as scientific investigators of countries of which until their time there was not much accurately known. Whether assisting at some gorgeous fastasia gotten up by the Khedive, in braving the ravines and mountain fortresses of Abyssinia, or exploring the torrid wilderness of Kordofan, they added lustre to the name of an American abroad and on duty.

The English have gained so much influence throughout Egypt that it has ceased to be a field for the American with a free sword to spare, but there is certain to be room for him in the Chinese Empire. In fact, it is more than probable that the Chinese Minister at Washington has already received numerous applications for appointments from men here who are thirsting for active service abroad. These will not be merely ornamental mercenaries—China does not want these; she has enough of her own—but will prove as stern chevaliers of a good cause as any Sir Galahad, who boasted that his good blade carved the casques of men and his tough lance thrustured sure. Nor will they be of the metal of those old-fashioned chevaliers who were pleased when

"Perfume and flowers fell in showers
That lightly rained from ladies' hands."
They will simply be men contented with cold steel and iron for their apparel and the gold of the Chinese and the approbation of their fellow countrymen for their reward.—Chicago Interior Ocean.

Be Careful.

A short time ago a young woman residing not far from Whitby was telling in a neighbor's house how her husband had been troubled for several days with a severe pain in his head, that she had done everything she could think of to relieve it, that even the doctor's medicine didn't seem to do any good, and that she was about tired out. Thereupon a new neighbor, who had just been introduced to her, kindly asked if she had tried soaking his feet in mustard and hot water. Greatly to the astonishment of the woman who had made the suggestion, the wife turned upon her like a tigress. "Insult my affliction, will you, you shameful hussy!" gasped the wife of the sick man, working her fingers convulsively, her blood rising to boiling heat and her voice getting higher and higher. The hostess at this point interposed in the defense of the new neighbor, and quiet was finally restored. After the wife had retired, and explanations were entered into it appeared that some years before this sick husband had been deprived of both his

Registration Notice.

To the Electors of Tawas Township:
The board of registration of Tawas township will be in session at the Township clerk's office in Tawas City, on Saturday, November 1st from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m., for the purpose of registering the names of all qualified Voters that are not registered.

Prepare for winter.
Snow, beautiful snow.
Go to the skating rink.
Time to paint your linen dusters.
The first snow of the season yesterday.
Political speakers are being crowded thick and fast upon us.
The Iosco Driving Park Association have postponed their races.

Election slips promptly and neatly executed at the HERALD office.
All of the mills in East Tawas have been shut down for the past week.
The insurance on the Hale mill property has not yet been adjusted by the insurance companies.

C. R. Jackson of the Gazette and family left last Friday for a visit in Shiawassee county.
Rev. F. L. Bristol of East Tawas will spend the Sabbath at his former home at Ithaca, Mich.

The Republicans of Oscoda and Au Sable organized a large Blaine & Logan club last Friday night.
The East Tawas Lumber & Salt Company commenced running their mill last Thursday for the first time under the new management.

The board of Registration meet Saturday Nov. 1st. All who have not registered should see that their name is registered on that day.

The East Tawas skating rink was reopened last Saturday night. The band furnished music for the occasion and all enjoyed themselves.

Owing to repairs being made on the church building there will be no services in the Congregational church at East Tawas next Sunday.

Every business man or firm should be supplied with envelopes, letter, note and billheads. Call at the HERALD office and leave your orders.

Mrs. Sade McSweyn has just returned from Detroit with a large and fashionable line of fall millinery which she now has on display as her new store in East Tawas in the Couklin block. 49—Im.

The political meeting at Whitler last Monday night was an enthusiastic and large one. The school house was as full as it could be and the audience were entertained by a very able address by C. R. Henry.

The East Tawas Blaine and Logan club, with a large number of recruits from the Tawas club and from the surrounding townships, headed by the East Tawas band figured quite conspicuously at the political demonstrations at East Saginaw and Bay City last Thursday and Friday. In fact it was one of the finest appearing clubs in the processions.

Owing to some delay in the work the Tawas City roller skating rink did not open last Saturday night as was expected, but the opening took place last Tuesday evening when a large number were present to enjoy the fun. Several couples from East Tawas were present to assist in giving the rink a send off. The equipments of the rink are very satisfactory and the old as well as the young are joyfull.

The Tawas HERALD says the Prohibitionists in this county number 55—but not more than one-third that number of votes will materialize this fall. Now if it will tell us just how the vote will stand on all the county officers by the other parties, we'll move a suspension of the ballot, and that they be declared elected. That if you don't make Taylor's majority more than 1,249.—Gazette.

The HERALD has made no attempt at a prediction, but if there is anyone who can net wait until the 4th of November we would advise them to secure a copy of last week's Monitor and read that paper's very intelligent [?] article on the candidates for county officers.

Last Monday evening, between 6 and 7 o'clock the residence of Mr. James McEvoy situated across the river, opposite the depot, was discovered to be on fire in the second story of the upright part near where the wing joins on. The alarm was immediately given and in a short time a large number of persons were on hand and the work of saving the furniture commenced. All of the furniture in the lower part of the house was saved but the largest portion, which was stored away upstairs, was destroyed. It is supposed that the fire must have smouldered some time before breaking out, but its origin is a mystery. The loss on the building and furni-

Hon. S. O. Fisher addressed a large audience at Robinson's hall, East Tawas last evening. He went to Au Sable to-day.

J. W. Donovan, of Detroit addressed the political meeting at Simon's hall last Monday evening in the place of Hon. B. W. Huston, who was unable to be here.

The Monitor's lie in regard to Thos. McNealy paying for a suit of clothes for C. R. Henry in consideration that he would not be prosecuted, has been nailed. On November 4th the Monitor will learn what the people think of its cowardly and contemptible attacks on Mr. Henry.

In conversation with S. O. Fisher in Caro recently a man who is in favor of free trade said to him: "I am in favor of free trade trade; I like your style, and if you were a trader I would be pleased to vote for you." Fisher promptly responded: "I see you will have to vote for me, I represent that idea."—Ex.

Every one should hear Robert E. Fraser at East Tawas Saturday. Mr. Fraser is one of the best political speakers in the state. Mr. Fraser's appearance on the stump in this part of the state will be quite a treat as it was not expected that he would visit the shore, as he has so many calls elsewhere.

At about 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon Peter Jacobs of this place received quite severe injuries in the Prescott mill. While at work at the edger a six inch plank came back over the saw striking him in the abdomen. Just how serious his injuries are can not be told for a few days. It is hoped that he is not injured internally.

Our contemporary, the Saturday Night, of Au Sable, desires the defeat of Mr. Orth, the Republican nominee for county treasurer, claiming that he is not consistent in his politics. Mr. Orth was regularly nominated on the Republican ticket, claims to be a Republican and has always worked with the party and is a man who is in every respect competent to discharge the duties of that office, therefore we believe that it is the duty of every Republican to vote and work for his election.

Every Republican in the county should vote for George Orth as treasurer, he received the regular nomination and is in every way worthy of the support of the party. Mr. Richards, the nominee on the Prohibition ticket would without doubt make an excellent officer but as Mr. Orth has been regularly nominated and is perfectly competent to discharge the duties of the office, there is no reason why a Republican should cut him for the Prohibition nominee. As for Mr. Esmond he has no claim on either of the parties, being with the Democrats this fall in county politics, but working with and claiming to be a Republican in national and state politics, we see no reason why the Democrats of this county should feel like giving Mr. Esmond their support, he has done nothing for them, but is working against them. As they are compelled to vote for a Republican why not vote for one that is consistent.

The Fusionists had a very good meeting at Au Sable last Thursday, they were addressed by Rich. Trevellick. It had been intended to run an excursion train from East Tawas to that place, but owing to the failure on the part of the committee to perfect arrangements with the railroad company that part of the program was omitted, but the story was immediately started that Gen. Alger had countermanded the order, and refused to accommodate the fusionists with an excursion train, and the correspondent of the Bay City Daily Call, at Au Sable, without investigating the matter, wrote a contemptible communication to that paper. This correspondent is a sorehead Republican, who, when he found out that the Republican party would not take him up and put him in office, before he had lived in the county a single year, went over to the Fusionists and secured a nomination on that ticket and now has the consummate cheek to ask to be elected to office in the place of a man who has served his party and county well, a man who as supervisor has made one of the best that Tawas township has ever had and as a county official has transacted his business with perfect satisfaction to everyone; a man whose official career has never been marred with one dishonest act. This correspondent is H. M. Elliott, of Au Sable, and in his organ, the Monitor, he says of his opponent, "everyone becomes nauseated at the bare mention of Sibley G. Taylor's name," and that Mr. Taylor "is dead and the least we stir up his putrid remains the better it will suit the people." How well such Billingsgate and cowardly attacks upon Mr. Taylor will "suit the people" will be quite a surprise to our friend Mr. Elliott and his chum Mr. Featherly, when the ballots are counted on the 4th of November next.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to tender through the columns of the HERALD my sincere thanks to the many friends who so willingly rendered

Enthusiasm at Burleigh.

Some few days ago Burleigh was billed with posters stating that C. H. Henry would address the citizens of that township upon the political issues at Whittemore Tuesday evening. A large number of citizens from the Tawas desirous of giving the meeting a good send off, boarded the train that morning with the East Tawas band, several candidates for offices and three or four speakers. The Tawas crowd was quite a surprise to the citizens of Whittemore, but they were equal to the occasion and soon had ample arrangements made for the feeding of the party. Despite the drizzling rain which continued all day, quite a large audience gathered at Bullock & Horr's hall in the afternoon to listen to addresses by Mr. J. M. Walker, Robt. Hovenden and Mr. Emery Townsend. Mr. Walker who spoke first interested the audience with a very intelligent and able argument in favor of protection. He was followed by Mr. R. Hovenden, who delivered a very eloquent address, touching upon the records and policies of the principal political parties. Emery Townsend was then introduced to the audience, many of whom were well acquainted with him, as he delivered a fourth of July oration at that place last summer. His remarks were very brief, but to the point, very nicely illustrating the effect of free trade on the wool market by the decrease in the price of his wool clip for the past three years.

In the evening according to arrangement, Mr. Henry addressed a large number of the citizens of that town who turned out to hear him notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. The speaker dwelt with considerable length upon the tariff question which he handled very skillfully. Sibley G. Taylor took the platform for a few moments after Mr. Henry had finished and made a few good remarks, touching briefly on county, state and national politics.

The meeting closed with three rousing cheers for Blaine & Logan, Alger and Henry.

Proceedings of the Board of Supervisors.

Concluded from last week.
The treasurer's report to the finance committee showed the total amount of cash received during the year to be $67,566.30. Amount expended $66,661.51, leaving a balance of $904.79 on hand in the several funds. The report was accepted.
A motion was made that the distinction between town and county poor be restored which was carried.
Emos Gray was elected to succeed himself as superintendent of the poor.
The county treasurer was authorized to borrow $1,500 for not longer than three months and at a rate of interest not to exceed 8 per cent.

Notice.

Charles F. Gibson and Robert Fraser will speak at Robinson's hall, East Tawas, next Saturday afternoon and in the evening at Au Sable. It is expected that a large number of people from the county will be present to hear them and it is hoped that a large number will escort the speakers to Au Sable from the Tawasess.

TAWAS CITY, October 18th 1884.

Editor of the HERALD.
Dear Sir:—I see that my name was placed on the Prohibition county ticket for the office of Circuit Court Commissioner.

While I thank the members of that convention sincerely for this token of their confidence, yet I am ineligible to that office. Section 7188 Howell's statutes reads: "No person shall be elected a Circuit Court Commissioner unless he be at the time an Attorney and Counselor-at-law of the Supreme Court."

This qualification I do not possess and I wish all the voters of the county to know it, that no one may throw away his vote by casting it for me for the office of Circuit Court Commissioner. Yours Respectfully
JAMES O. WHITTEMORE

To the Electors of Iosco County.

Take notice that at a special meeting of Supervisors for Iosco county held at the court house on the 12th day of June 1884. "Resolved that the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars—$2,500—be raised by tax upon the taxable property of Iosco county for the purpose of building County Offices and fire proof vaults, and that such question be submitted to the electors of Iosco county at the next general election to be held in November next."

That under said resolution such matter will be submitted to the electors of Iosco county at the next general election to be held on the 4th day of November 1884 pursuant to the statute in such cases made and provided. The form of ballots will be as follows: Those in favor of it "For the Tax" and those not for it "Against the Tax." Dated Sept. 1, '84. E. E. WILLIAMS,
County Clerk.

Sherman.
General notes and political items.

On the 7th inst., our wily hunters H. McGrady & Bros. killed four large deer (in town) one of them weighing 250 lbs. Several gentlemen from Detroit and Massachusetts are here having big sport felling "the bounding doe." Some of the hunters seem to be deer hunters.

The officer of school district No. 1 has brought suit against James McIvor to reclaim $1,000 school moneys. This case and the legal matters that later brought lawyer White of East Tawas here are very vexatious to our tax payers who exclaim, "When, oh when will this settlement be rid of foolish and spiteful law suits."

The Union Sabbath school has appointed Messrs. J. Norris, Wm. Drager and J. McIvor a committee to investigate and determine the project of erecting a church edifice for the Shermites.

We are informed that on the night of the 7th inst. at Sherman Crossings two Greenback advocates from the town line made forcible presentation of the greenback cause and defended its honorable standard bearer against mud throwing and vile attacks. The speaker predicted his success and with it a grand renewal of universal prosperity, that the daily wages for common labor would not be less than $2; that the United States government would issue greenbacks in abundance sufficient to supply all wants of all classes of people.

A thorough canvass made of the township in view of the coming election shows in all 50 votes which be cast as follows president, dem., 10; Ben Butler, 11; Mrs. Belva Lockwood, 2; St. John, 1; balance Blaine & Logan. Congressional, Gibson 2; Fisher 1; Webster 47. Mr. Webster by virtue of his superior education and his complete fitness for the high position but more especially by virtue of his moral and temperance principles of which he has proven himself an uncompromising advocate has merited the choice of the town for the honorable office. grade carries his capital in his head. He is independent, and should be self-reliant, as his services will always be in requisition, unless, perchance, he has drifted into some section of the world where trade and manufactures are in a state of decadence. It may be an excellent thing to endow a youth with a splendid education, but often we find such young men failures in a business way. But there is no excuse for a first-class mechanic or engineer ever being found in such an unfortunate plight. The man possessing a good scientific or mechanical education who can not make his way successfully through life must be composed of very poor material. The good mechanic needs no golden ladder to aid him in rising to success, nor is there occasion for his reliance on social standing, or on the good offices of influential friends to open a path to fortune. Indeed, instead of seeking for friends they will seek him. An expert galvanizer a few weeks since was thrown out of employment, and scarcely had the doors of his mill been closed ere there came a telegram from a mill 1,000 miles away urgently requesting his services there. A representative of an extensive manufactory, in speaking of good mechanics recently, said: "We still have difficulty in obtaining all the expert help we need. This matter sometimes assumes a serious aspect, and we fear often that we can not run our works to their best advantage for lack of the proper assistance."

We here speak of the higher grade of workmen—of men who are proficient and who have mastered their calling; but mechanics who have not risen to eminence, but have acquired a good reputation, are in most favorable positions, far better than the horde of ill-paid clerks, salesmen and collectors, who have chosen a calling that will save them from begriming their hands with dirt and permitting them to wear good clothes. The Boston Commercial Bulletin, in speaking of the importance of the position of the mechanic, very forcibly remarks:

"Each ensuing day makes more prominent the fact that we have come upon the time when the mechanic is master. We have crowded professions and ill-filled trades. A chance to fill the position of sub-assistant clerk in a wholesale house is eagerly grasped at by a hundred applicants, though the wages received be scarcely more than a chance to learn the business." Let a master workman try to obtain an apprentice at three times the salary offered the clerk, and his applicants will be poor alike in quantity and quality. A skilled workman in any trade need never want for hire; he is eagerly sought after by a hundred employers; he is independent of the condition of the market; the skill and cunning of his hand and eye are too valuable to lose, and must be paid whether the products are slowly or rapidly consumed. If business ceases, the master hand is eagerly seized by some rival house, which knows and values the product of his skill. He who would crush down the obstacles to success in our own days must have as well as the wit to see the crevice, the strength to deal the blow. This is an age of the steam-engine, and it is the engineer, not the conductor, who is master."

The men who can do a piece of exact mechanical work, or who can invent a successful working machine or plan its erection, is a valuable member of society. He is a producer, and the world is both richer and better for his presence. His calling demands a fine development of intellectual thought, and, although the mental conception requisite to do a fine bit of mechanical work may not be of the same high order as that required of a sculptor or painter, yet it is of a high degree of merit, and may equal, in special circumstances, the efforts of the best artist in any of the various schools. It is a narrow-minded man who despises the mechanic because of the surroundings of his labor. Those who look down on him are generally men of inferior intelligence, who possess a poor conception of what is worthy of admiration, and whose esteem would be of little credit to any one.—Jeweler's Journal.

His Suspicions Were Confirmed.

A mild-mannered, athletic-looking young man stepped up to a stranger at the corner of Milk and Devonshire streets yesterday and pulled a twenty-dollar bill out of his vest-pocket. "I suspect," said he, confidently, that that is a counterfeit. Can you tell me if it is?"

The stranger looked the bill over and handed it back, saying that he couldn't tell himself whether it was bad or not, but if the mild-mannered, athletic-looking young man would step over to the sub-treasury in the post-office he could very readily find out, he was sure.

The young man crossed over and presented the bill to the clerk behind the bars. He suspected the twenty was bad, he said. The clerk turned it over and held it up to the light. Then he went over to a corner of the inclosure and brought a big heavy stamp down on the bill. When he handed it back to the mild-mannered young man he could very readily find out, he was sure.

"Why, you poor thing," said the young man, "you have spoiled it! What are you going to give me in place of it? I can't pass that thing now."

"Lucky thing for you," said the clerk, calmly, "you won't have a chance to try. I didn't spoil it, it never was good." And the clerk went about his work.

This angered the athletic young man. He almost frothed at the mouth. "You red-headed, white-livered, black-hearted son of a gun," he cried, "come out of your pen there and I'll wallop the life out of you."

The clerk didn't come out of his pen, and the athletic young man had simply to go away cursing.—Boston Globe.

In the quiet recesses of the river between the cascades the scenery was extremely beautiful, but the thickness of the forest made it impossible, except when very near the shore, to distinguish the picturesque kinds of vegetation peculiar to the tropics from the vast wall of green which hedged us in. It was only when taking our midday rest, or at our camps for the night, that I was able to study the flora around me and note the beauty and profusion of its forms. Orchids were abundant enough, and, although I saw no species of great rarity, yet several kinds which were in flower at the time were very lovely. Bromelias and tillandsias grew in thousands, and the immense leaves of the pothos were seen everywhere. In one or two places I noticed the rare and beautiful climbing palm (desmoncus), and in the open parts of the forest were great numbers of caladiums, the varicolored leaves of which are so familiar in our hothouses.

Animal life was in no way prominent, although there could be no doubt that the forest was thickly peopled, for at night as we sat around the camp-fire or lay in our hammocks many were the weird sounds that came from the thick jungle near by. The nightly concert was usually started by the bo'sun, a large cicada, who sat in the tree-tops and blew a tremulous whistle which could be heard to a great distance. He was followed by the hylas, or tree-toads, who gave vent to every conceivable sound, from that of the sawing of wood to the clanking of many chains, and were accompanied in their vocal efforts by their relations in the marshes, who kept up a deep and not unmusical bass. All night long the goatsuckers never desisted from their melancholy moaning, and once in a while a strange, mournful wail came from the forest, causing us to start and shiver as we heard it. It was the note of the bird called lost soul. Once or twice the loud, deep roar of the jaguar was heard, and it never failed to cause a panic among the Indians, who invariably moved their hammock-poles nearer the water or raised the hammocks higher in the trees to be out of the tiger's reach should he pass our way. Out of all the appalling, blood-curdling sounds that were heard in these tropical woods none could equal the noise that came from the throat of the red-coated, black-faced, howling monkey (myecetes seniculus), the "baboon" of the colony. Occasionally some of these baboons favored us with a little rehearsal during the night, but it was towards morning that the concert itself began, and then, until I became accustomed to it, there was no more sleep for me. Words are inadequate to describe the sound which these animals produce. It is something between a howl and a roar, with an occasional grunt thrown in, the whole being delivered with about the intensity of a fog-whistle, and the concert being participated in by baboons for miles around. When all these fellows are attending strictly to business the result in the way of a noise may be imagined.

Tracks of the tapir were several times seen in marshy places near the river bank, and I sometimes got a shot at flocks of the little, red sac-awink monkeys, which were very common on this river. Iguanas called "Waimueka" by the Indians, frequently tumbled from the branches into the stream when we paddled near the shore, and on two occasions some of our men brought in peccaries, or bush-hogs, which they had shot with their arrows near our camp, and which proved a most welcome addition to our larder, notwithstanding their rankness; but visible game was scarce, and a man would have had a poor living who depended on his gun for support.—Lor. Chicago Tribune.

Filters.

A good filter has come to be a necessity—at least in our cities and large towns, and wherever the drinking water is drawn from rivers, lakes, ponds, etc. Into these every sort of impurity may find free entrance from sewers, the drainage of farms, dead fish and other animals, and masses of decaying vegetables. Boiling the water may kill the microscopic parasites (bacteria) that cause infectious diseases, but it does not free it from its visible, disgusting matter.

A good filter accomplishes two things: it strains out the grosser impurities, and it also destroys—so many eminent chemists now believe—much of the finer impurity by oxidizing it—really burning it up.

This fact, that filters actually destroy impurity, is among the late discoveries of science. It was found, when the Thames received all the sewage of London and the other towns on its banks, that the filter-beds contained but little impurity compared with the great quantity of filth they must have intercepted.

The chemists were at first puzzled, but they were at length satisfied that the great bulk of it was burnt by the oxygen of the air, it being known that a film of air clings tenaciously to all surfaces, and hence to every particle of sand of which the filter consisted. Hence a filter is a strainer and a great deal more.

The power of the filtering material, charcoal or pure white sand—and neither sponge nor any other substance capable of decay should be used—is lost within from three to six months, and hence it should be renewed as often.

But much of the impurity is retained at the top of the strainer, and hence, unless it is frequently removed, it works down into the filtering substance and all the water must work its way through a mass of filth.

A filter whose straining-pot can be turned bottom upwards without taking it from the faucet is the only safe one. Of course, when turned the impurities are at the bottom, and are washed off by the flowing water.—Youth's Companion.

Cure for Piles. PILES are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulence, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding, and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. J. C. ...
