CHRISTMAS CARDS!

CHRISTMAS CARDS! CHRISTMAS CARDS at Quackenbush's furniture store East Tawas. We are informed that Judge Tuttle has made Rev. Geo. Fayette a present of 40 acres of land.

Levi Haywood was arrested Monday charged with keeping a house of ill-fame. On Thursday he had an examination before Werth and was bound over to the circuit court for trial. In default of $200 bail he now playeth checkers with his nose in Tawas jail.

Our friend, Brother Jackson, of the Gazette, seems to be laboring under the delusion that we were anxious to know how he voted at the recent election, and therefore states for our benefit that he did not vote for S. G. Taylor, but voted for C. R. Henry and C. F. Gibson.

Last Saturday night Deputy Sheriff Larabee

arrested and brought to this village W. M. Featherly, of the Au Sable Monitor on a charge of criminal slander wherein H. C. Bristol of East Tawas is complaining witness.

The Detroit News says: The Tawas

muskrats can not agree with these of southern Michigan about the weather prospects for this winter, and are putting extra roofs and storm doors on their houses.

Mr. W. B. Kelly expects to get into his new building very soon. He is building quite an addition to it to be used as a shop in connection with his furniture store. The building will be the largest of the kind in the village.

Chas. Gates has recently built a fine frame barn on the farm of Wm. Patrick on the Hemlock road. The farm is rented by Mr. Gates and the barn does credit to the many improvements, that are continually being made in that section of the county.

The liquor dealers of Ohio are making a strong effort to recover the money they paid as a license fee for the sale of liquor under the Scott law, which has been declared unconstitutional. The amount paid by them throughout the state is about $3,000,000.

John Huston's new store building is about complete.

The citizens of Whittemore are talking of a shooting match in the near future.

All who enjoy the sport should not fail to attend the shooting match at the Sand Lake house on Christmas day.

Mrs. Mary Murphy, late of Alpena, and well known at this place, recently lost her little daughter in East Saginaw, of diphtheria. She had just arrived at that city on her way from Alpena to friends in the western part of the state.

The children's masquerade at the skating rink last Tuesday night was a perfect success and was a very pleasant affair for the children as well as interesting for the older spectators. The costumes, touching elegance and drollery formed a very amusing and pleasant spectacle.

Up to the time of her arrival at this port last Sunday night, the paddle wheels of the steamer City of Mackinac, had revolved 5,050,718 times during the present season.

Levi Haywood was arrested Monday charged with keeping a house of ill-fame. On Thursday he had an examination before Werth and was bound over to the circuit court for trial.

Our friend, Brother Jackson, of the Gazette, seems to be laboring under the delusion that we were anxious to know how he voted at the recent election.

Mr. R. E. Pratt, W. H. Clough and Robt. Merrick of East Tawas were in Bay City the fore part of the week on business.

John Ramage is getting his house across the river along near completion. It will make a very neat and handsome residence.

The Knights of Labor are making every effort to make the ball and supper which takes place on Christmas eve a grand success. Tickets, including supper, $1.50 per couple.

The open and smiling countenance of our townsman, Thos. Curry, makes one think that all the world is at peace. It's a boy born just in time to build the fire last Tuesday morning, weighs 8 lbs.

The Monitor is afraid that the supervisors will allow the Pinkerton bill at their January session. He will undoubtedly be disappointed if they do not, as it will deny him the privilege of making another pow wow.

To the Public.

Deeming it to be the best interest of my patrons and myself I will with the beginning of the year 1885 adopt the cash system believing that I can give better satisfaction to all concerned.

Minnesota Gold.

The Duluth Herald of last Saturday contains a long article in regard to the gold fever that has prevailed there for the last six months. The following persons whose names are familiar to our readers have invested in this gold land:

Table with columns for Name and Acres. Lists investors in gold land such as Emery Bros., G. Stevens & Loud, etc.

Regarding the discovery of the gold the Herald says: As in many other such cases gold was discovered here quite by accident. G. Stevens of Northern Michigan and George F. Ash of Duluth went up the country in search of iron and in town 64, range 7, section 24, found considerable pyrites of iron and copper.

The first bead of gold secured was from rock found in 64 E. It demonstrated that there was $732 worth of gold to the ton. The second assay showed a decided improvement, showing gold to the amount of $2,940 to the ton.

Emery Bros. have obtained assays equally as good. Loud, Fox & Stevens have assays averaging $450, from rock taken from a vein 200 feet wide, but no core was used in selecting rock.

The Editors of the Bay City Tribune, and Au Sable Monitor, seem to be exercising themselves considerably, with the idea that the Republicans of Tawas Township, are venting their spite upon the Prohibitionists by granting licenses to saloons.

Prof. A. McInerney, is making preparations for a Christmas tree entertainment on Christmas eve, at the school house in district No. 1.

The village of Alabaster can boast, as being the only one in this county that retains its reputation of being a temperance place. Long may it embrace that sentiment and stand as an example to her sister villages and towns.

Mr. Jas. Kenney has taken a contract from Mr. B. F. Smith to place on skids a quantity of timber. In addition to this Mr. Smith has a number of men employed in the same work, and is making preparations to put up machinery for sawing lumber in a building constructed for the purpose.

Communication.

To the Editor of the TAWAS HERALD. The Editors of the Bay City Tribune, and Au Sable Monitor, seem to be exercising themselves considerably, with the idea that the Republicans of Tawas Township, are venting their spite upon the Prohibitionists by granting licenses to saloons.

He Thanks his Paper.

Mr. Editor:—I was induced by reading your good paper to try Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic for debility, liver disorder and scrofula, and three bottles have cured me. Accept my thanks. Jos. C. Boggs.—Ex.

Alabaster.

The village of Alabaster can boast, as being the only one in this county that retains its reputation of being a temperance place. Long may it embrace that sentiment and stand as an example to her sister villages and towns.

Mr. James Meistrup and family of Chicago, former residents of this village are paying relatives here a visit. As we passed Thanksgiving without any great display, had no fatted ox to offer up as a sacrifice for the propitiation of the people as "Sherman" but do now propose to all, who are desirous of pleasure during the sleighing season, by calling and purchasing a ticket or sending fifty cents, price of a ticket which will entitle you to a chance of getting a new swell bodied cutter to be drawn on Xmas.

Try it Yourself.

The proof of the pudding is not in chewing the string, but in having an opportunity to try the article yourself.

stronghold of prohibitionism? Does it look prohibitory to see ten barrels of whiskey landed on our docks in one day, and all for one little town of about 1,200 or 1,300 inhabitants, and no liquor license? Don't exercise yourselves gentlemen over that idea of spite.

As a member of the board of Tawas township voted to reduce the bonds from $6000 to $3000, I then voted to approve the bonds of two parties who wanted to sell liquor, and the securities on those bonds are the best that were ever offered in Tawas township.

I voted to approve them first, because the securities were good, second, to put a stop to juvenile tipplers, third, to stop the illicit sale in from 30 to 50 shirt bosom and private house saloons.

The above, gentlemen, are my reasons for approval of those bonds and they are not straw bonds. The securities appeared and made a sufficient showing, if they had not they certainly would not have been accepted.

MEMBER OF THE BOARD.

As a raindrop foretells a storm, so does a pimple upon the human body indicate health-destroying virus in the blood, which can be neutralized and expelled only by Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Sherman. Mrs. Wm. Kohn and family have returned from their visit at West Branch.

Miss Gusta Schroeder has gone on an extended visit at East Tawas, her absence is greatly felt in social circles.

Miss Jennie Norris has the largest flock of prize geese in the county; the flock number 78—what young lady comes next or first in poultry raising.

Mr. and Mrs. Harman and family of East Tawas, are visiting at the residence of Mr. Julius Schroeder, they have many friends in this settlement.

Mrs. Schoenback of Au Sable, and lady friend of East Tawas, are visiting Mrs. Schoenback's sister, Mrs. Wm. Drager.

Mr. A. Myer, of East Tawas, visited our settlement on the 5th on business and purchased a number of geese.

Messrs. Albert Schroeder and Albert Drager are getting out timber and making other preparations for the erect on of two new dwelling houses, to be completed by spring.

A goodly number of Union Christians attended the religious doing held in Mr. Wm. Drager's parlors, last Sabbath evening, among whom were several visiting friends from abroad, and the township officers.

Superintendent Norris, temporary preacher, being absent, Mr. Wm. Drager opened service by reading the fifth chapter of Matthew, which he earnestly explained and sincerely exhorted all to join in fervent prayer that the official acts and doing of our illustrious president-elect, Cleveland in the affairs of this great nation, be wisely directed.

Prayer and singing next followed some of the officers, becoming enthused openly confessed their religious negligence this being their first attendance at sacred service during their official career.

All left feeling better and proposed to repeat the service next Sabbath evening, when Mr. Norris will be present to give instructions.

Ninety-six.

Prof. A. McInerney, is making preparations for a Christmas tree entertainment on Christmas eve, at the school house in district No. 1. A good time is anticipated, and the Professor extends to all a cordial invitation to attend.

The village of Alabaster can boast, as being the only one in this county that retains its reputation of being a temperance place. Long may it embrace that sentiment and stand as an example to her sister villages and towns.

Mr. Jas. Kenney has taken a contract from Mr. B. F. Smith to place on skids a quantity of timber. In addition to this Mr. Smith has a number of men employed in the same work, and is making preparations to put up machinery for sawing lumber in a building constructed for the purpose.

The steamer St. John arrived at the dock on Tuesday from Bay City with a quantity of oats for Smith Bros. who are prosecuting lumbering operations in the vicinity of Harmon City.

Mr. Miller, the worthy editor of the Tawas HERALD made a flying visit to this town on Monday.

Mr. Jos. McCarty, inspector of schools for the town of Alabaster on Monday visited the school which is now under the instruction of Mr. S. G. Jenks of Ionia.

Though we cannot, as Sherman, boast of having a Professor, yet we have a competent instructor.

Miss Bean of Tawas City is paying our enterprising village a visit, she is the guest of Miss Kenney.

After the recent rain, many of the farmers began ploughing and found the ground in excellent condition for such employment.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. Benjamin Slingerland, who has been confined to his bed for several weeks with rheumatism is slowly recuperating.

Mr. and Mrs. Beard, who have been taking a visiting tour for several weeks, returned from Rochester City, N. Y., on Sunday.

Mr. James Meistrup and family of Chicago, former residents of this village are paying relatives here a visit.

As we passed Thanksgiving without any great display, had no fatted ox to offer up as a sacrifice for the propitiation of the people as "Sherman" but do now propose to all, who are desirous of pleasure during the sleighing season, by calling and purchasing a ticket or sending fifty cents, price of a ticket which will entitle you to a chance of getting a new swell bodied cutter to be drawn on Xmas.

A Startling Discovery.

Mr. Wm. Johnson, of Huron, Dakota, writes that his wife had been troubled with acute Bronchitis for many years, and that all remedies tried gave no permanent relief, until he procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds, which had a magical effect, and produced a permanent cure.

It is guaranteed to cure all Diseases of Throat, Lungs, or Bronchial Tubes.

Trial Bottles free at T. O. Gates' East Tawas Drug Store. Large size $1.00

Every business man or firm should be supplied with envelopes, letter, note and billheads. Call at the HERALD office and see your orders.

An End to Bone Scraping.

Edward Shephard, of Harrisburg, Ill. says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. I have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen Arnica Salve at 25 cts per box at T. O. Gates' Drug Store.

This Idea of Going West to Colorado or New Mexico, for pure air to relieve Consumption, is all a mistake. Any reasonable man would use Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup for Consumption in all its first stages. It never fails to give relief in all cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pains in the Chest and all affections that are considered primary to Consumption. Price, 50 cents and $1.00. Sold by Geo. S. Darling.

Where Bret Harte Lived and Thomas Nast Lives.

Bret Harte lived in Morristown, N. J., up to the time of his appointment as Consul to Glasgow, and it is there he has done some of his best literary work. When Mr. Harte first came to Morristown he was down at the heel, and for some time his expenditures were largely in excess of his receipts.

He boarded with his wife at a private house, looked shabby and ran into debt. A leading real estate agent said to me: "Bret Harte was very hard up at this time. But he wore a slouched hat, smoked a good cigar, and apparently did not let his debts trouble him. His fortune afterward brightened. One of his books brought him in considerable, and he had magazine contracts which paid him a good salary. He settled everything here before he left, and went away leaving many to regret his departure."

Tom Nast's house is a roomy structure on the corner of two pretty streets in the same town. It has large porches, and is almost hidden by the trees and shrubbery. A rustic fence, which Nast bought at the Centennial, surrounds the yard, and a fountain and several pieces of statuary are seen here and there among the trees. I did not see the interior of the house, but I am told it is furnished elegantly, and that at the Centennial exhibition alone Nast invested $25,000 for furniture for it.

Tom Nast is in present off on a vacation tour, but his family is living here in Morristown. When in the country he does all his work here, and he is one of the busiest men in New Jersey. He is rather a careless fellow about his dress and his chief exercise is riding at a dead gallop over the country regardless of the weather or his horse. He generally rides good horses, but he uses one up in a short time and gets a new one. Tom Nast is now 40 years old.—Cleveland Leader.

GEN. ALGER is slowly recovering from his illness and will be in good shape by the first of the year.

It is reported as the intention of the Democrats to increase the number of supreme court judges during the next administration so as to secure a majority in that tribunal.

SENATOR PALMER'S bill to refund $473 to Richard Hawley & Sons, of Detroit, for as claimed illegal extraction from them by the treasury department for duties on malt imported from Canada, has been defeated.

THE New York Herald, [Dem.] pays president Arthur the following handsome compliment: "Let him study the tranquility, the smoothness and success of Mr. Arthur's administration, and reflect for himself whether it is not in great part due to fidelity to the civil-service theory."

In its prediction as to who Governor-elect Alger will appoint to fill the several positions at his disposal the Detroit Post says: "Charles F. Gibson of Bay City, who ran for congress in the Tenth district, and who was swept off the track by the universal cyclone, is said to be the man who will look after the interests of labor in the bureau of labor statistics during Gov. Alger's administration. He is said to be popular with the laboring classes where he is best known. In fact, it is understood that he is a member of the order of knights of labor."

THE Tuscola county Advertiser: "It is now understood that Gov-elect Alger will make the following appointments, as soon as he enters upon his term of office: Warden Sales will succeed Warden Pond at the Jackson prison; W. H. Pettibone, superintendent of the Chicago and Grand Trunk railroad, will be railroad commissioner; C. V. R. Pond, formerly editor of the Quincy Herald, will be commissioner of immigration; Chas. F. Gibson, Bay City, will be commissioner of labor; Col. J. H. Kidd, of Ionia, will be inspector general of state troops."

Plums thrive best on a soil which is rich and naturally moist, but which has also been well drained.

There is one factory in the State of Connecticut which turns out daily 20,000 pounds of oleo-margarine.

Cooked potatoes are eaten greedily by hogs, and unsalable potatoes can best be disposed of in this way.

An Iowa farmer trains his grapevines on elm-trees, and claims improved results.

An Eastern farmer recommends a mixture of barley and oats for young stock.

It has been discovered that potash does growing potatoes but little good unless applied early and well mixed with the soil.

As long as this country is compelled to import annually large quantities of eggs there need be no fear that raising poultry will not prove profitable.

Secretary Chamberlain, of the Ohio Board of Agriculture does not believe that sorghum raising will ever pay in that State.

Seed potatoes should not be put into a barrel which has contained salt. If the potato is in any way bruised, enough of the salt will be absorbed from the wood to cause decay.

Allowing twelve quarts of milk to the pound, a New York dairyman says that at three and one-half cents per quart milk is more profitable than butter at 28 cents per pound.

In setting out an orchard number the trees and keep a register of them. When one dies erase from the register and replace it with the name of the tree set in its place.

If a cabbage that has failed to head is hung by a string from the top of the hen house within reach of fowls, it will be surprising to note how quickly it will be picked to pieces. By this method the cabbage is kept from the dirt.

According to the late reports of the Bureau of Agriculture, Indiana ranks first among the wheat-growing States. Ohio comes second, and Illinois third. The average yield in the Hoosier State is 18.04 bushels per acre.

Have the hen-house so constructed that no drafts can enter to afflict the fowls with roup, colds, etc. Always keep the house clean, have it warm in winter, and to do this have glass sash put in its south front.

It costs, as estimated, $400 per acre to transform a swamp into a cranberry meadow; the profits of the business, however, justify even this heavy expense in getting the land into bearing condition.

Poultry-raisers should not overlook the fact that there is money in raising turkeys. There has not been a time for years that they have not been in good demand and at fair prices. If you are raising chickens and eggs for market, keep also turkeys; they will pay.

If in transplanting forest trees the tops are cut entirely off, leaving only a bare pole, they will hardly fail to grow; there will be roots enough left to meet the demand of the few shoots which will start from the top, and growth both above and below ground will be well balanced.

I am only a mosquito, one of that outlawed class against whom the hands of the entire world are raised in perpetual warfare, and slaughter. I come when the buttercups begin to brighten the summer fields; when fragrant clover diffuses its incense on the soft, tropical air and azalias and the stately golden rod tremble in the zephyrs along the river bank. My advent is heralded by the gentle music of my wings. I sing the romance of mosquito life.

Little as I am I strike terror into the hearts of thousands. The moneyed magnate and the impetuous sport tremble alike at my approach. The high-handed tyrant of the household and the political boss acknowledge in me an object of fear. I am proscribed and undergo a species of relentless persecution that would crush many a haughtier spirit. Nevertheless, I bear up under it all and apply myself to my appointed mission, finding ample compensation in the approval of my own conscience. I have seen strong men who have braved the heat of battle—men whose ears the roar of cannon was muslo—tremble with terror at my approach. I know my power, but I can't say that I glory in the consciousness of it.

You must know that there are social distinctions made in mosquitodrom just as there are in well regulated society, and they are just, strong and immutable. Each mosquito is a creature of circumstances and into whatever channel chance directs his life he goes and follows it until death. When I was ushered into this world I had the good fortune to fall under the guidance of a grizzled old fellow, who had done years of honorable service in mosquitodrom. His wits were as sharp as his bill, and his skin, which was shrunken and wrinkled, was as tough as leather and calculated to resist the most savage assault. There was not a man of note upon the continent with whom he was not intimately acquainted. His recollections of persons and events were simply marvelous, so it was no wonder that I was an object of envy among the youngsters who came up along with me, as such a mentor insured my future success and social standing. I well remember the day when I was about to start forth into the world the old fellow said to me:

"Now, my son, for heaven's sake do not make yourself common and spoil all of your prospects in your first exploits by billing some politician or book agent. If you do your future is irrevocably blasted." And tears stood in my mentor's eyes as he bade me adieu. I took his advice. The first desirable person I saw was a rich bank cashier, who, it is needless to say, was deacon of a church. With a wildly palpitating heart and filled with excitement to such a degree that I couldn't utter a single note, I paid the old fellow my respects. I must confess that I was really pained and shocked at the startling language he used. It is said that a flogging mosquito stings ten times harder than an adult. He gave me an awful fright, the deacon did, and I determined to select some other than a strict church man for my next acquaintance. So I lit on a retired merchant and a severe moralist. I experienced the same startling results. I was young and had strong faith in mankind. Inexperience thrown upon a world of humanity moved by so many different forces will soon receive many severe shocks.

Perched on a netting in a fashionable hotel, with bowed head I yielded myself a prey to the doubts which surged upon me, when my old mentor dropped lightly at my side.

"Why so downcast, my boy?" he inquired, as he complacently wiped his mouth. He had just finished paying his court to one of the bluest bloods in the establishment and consequently felt in excellent humor. I explained to him what had happened and how my sensibilities were affected, and finally expressed my determination to devote myself to the cannille, when the old veteran shook with laughter and said:

"Why, son, yours is the experience of every mosquito. Its benefits may strike you as being doubtful when your good home training is taken into view, but the effect will eventually be good. It will teach you the frailty of man, his susceptibility to make a perfect demon of himself in secret while he masquerades as a saint. You will see how hollow most lives are."

I felt comforted by his advice and went about my mission once more, and though my path was literally crowded with curses, some low, some deep, I took it all with the consoling philosophy my adviser had advanced. I only received one shock after the incident I have referred to, and that was one time when I tried to make friends with Henry Bergh. When he felt my bill I had lit on his nose; he uttered something that did not sound at all like a greeting and struck murderously at me with his palm. He followed up his assault with several savage endeavors to murder me. Just think of it! After that I positively had faith in no one.

My association with the class of people I moved among placed me high in mosquitodrom and I was looked upon as one of its shining lights. It grieved me, however, to see how many of my young companions had fallen from the start. One made his debut by associating with an insurance agent and he has imbibed so much of his characteristics that his whole body has a bright, brassy appearance. Another struck a bibulous politician and he has been doing the politicians and other alcoholic gentry since. He is now a sot and unfit for respectable company. So it is very easy to see where the distinctions are made. A few years ago I had the misfortune to bill a dude in mistake for a gentleman and the mere recollection makes me sick at heart.

The summer season is here again and my work begins.—Philadelphia Times.

There is a strong feeling in various portions of the United States in favor of the total abolition of fences. It is stated that the cost of the maintenance of fences annually in this country is not far short of $80,000,000, a pretty snug sum if it might be saved to the farmers.

As to de fust query, dar, am a pool' ole man libin' nex' doah to Sir Isaac Walpole. Who has paid his rent for months past? Charity? No, gem'len; charity neber h'ars of anybody but a bold-faced beggar. Our friend, heah, Sir Isaac, has not only kept de roof ober de ole man's head, but has furnished him many a meal to eat.

"Up on Grove street, near de cabin of Waydown Bebee, am a pool' ole woman dat has gone blind. Brudder Bebee an' odder members has chipped in to take car' ob her, an' whatever she has had de pas' summer or has got now am due to deir kindness. Town charity hasn't diskibered her yet.

"Up on Scott street, clus to de cabin of Whalebone Howker, dar was a death de odder day an' two chill'n on war' left alone in de world. Charity left 'em alone in de house until de landlord turned 'em into de street, den charity walked off an' Brudder Howker took de orphans home an' will keep 'em frew de winter.

"Up my way dar am a sick man who wants medicines—a boy wid a broken leg who wants nourishin' food—a woman who has had a long run of fever widout her rent fallin' behind or her chill'en goin' hungry. Let de cry of distress come to Pickles Smith, Judge Cadaver, Samuel Suin, Rev. Penstock or any odder member who kin spare from his purse or his table, an' it am promptly answered. We know our nayburs an' we am naburly. We found no hospitals establish no beggars' headquarters, an' issue no call fur odder cities to send in dir paupers to be supported, but our naybur finds us at his sick-bed, an' misfortune finds our purses open. He who has charity in his heart need not go huntin' fur de poo' to relieve an' fur reporters to puff deir gifts. Charity dat rides aroun' town on a fo-hoss wagon will see a workin' man starve an' feed a loafer who has spent half his summer in de saloons. Let us drap de subjick an' proceed to business."—Detroit Free Press.

One of the most notable cruises was that made under command of Sir George Nares, in 1876, for the reason that, on the day of May 12, he touched the highest point of north latitude that had ever been reached, 89 deg. 24 min. The results of this expedition were regarded as being of great value and importance, and it is not unconsoling now to think that, in spite of the lamentable mischances of the Greely expedition, American enterprise carried exploration four miles to the north of this point, and determined the mooted question of the extent of Greenland. From this cursory review of some of the more conspicuous voyages, it will appear that the charm and fascination of discovery have led many noble champions to dare dangers that cannot be properly conceived by those whose fortune is within the comprehended limits of ordinary experience. The longing of science to look into the mystic possession of the closed secrets of the north has inspired an enthusiastic disregard of the perils and intense sufferings entailed by these apparently imprudent missions; and though there has been a strong element of conservative opposition to this hazardous course, where there has not been a public spirit to sanction this purpose of legitimate inquiry private enterprise has furnished the means. Reviewing these exploits of research, and perceiving how much larger is the proportion of disaster to the good obtained, it is no wonder many are strenuously resolved against sympathy with movements that appear so foolhardy if not criminal in their risks of life, and refuse to consider the nobler ends and aims, the holier impulses and desires that rise above the mere love of adventure and take the force of a heroic devotion to the broad interests of mankind.

Lord Coleridge on the Relative Value of Dead and Living Language.

LORD COLERIDGE ON THE CLASSICS AT YALE.

But for the gravity of the occasion, and the dignity of those who figured in its proceedings, we should say that this was a little funny, and might query whether the noble lord had not been misreported in citing the greatest orator of England in connection with classical education. But there can be no mistake, for his lordship again remarks, "The man who has influenced his contemporaries the most, generally speaking, the man of highest education" and he had previously said, "If John Bright comes here, you will know what English speaking is—you will know what English oratory is." Since the celebrated case of Balaam, who was sent for to prophesy one way, and when it came to the pinch, went back on his employers, and prophesied in exactly the opposite way, there has been no more conspicuous instance of incalculable waywardness in mental operations than was here furnished by the Chief-Justice of England. He might as well have broken into an eulogy of Napoleon Bonaparte before the Peace Society as to have named John Bright in Yale College in connection with dead language studies. He was expected to applaud the ancient classical scholarship as the supreme incomparable means of bringing the human mind up to its highest power; and he did this by quoting a man as the most commanding orator of England who knew nothing about ancient scholarship, and who has achieved his distinction entirely by the study of the English classics. He came to eulogize the dead languages, and gave super-eminence to a man who knew nothing of either, and had devoted himself exclusively to the mastery of his vernacular speech. Lord Coleridge represented the intellectual accomplishments that give the highest advantage in the bar and the senate as fourfold. The highest education is exemplified by (1) "the man who can state anything best"; (2) "who can pursue an argument more closely"; (3) "who can give the richest and most felicitous illustrations"; and (4) "who can command some beauty of diction"; and then he pointed to the man of all England who possesses the traits in the highest degree, and who is confessedly only a smatterer in Latin and Greek. He commended classical education, but he referred to another education, not classical, which yields still higher results. Certainly, if the Yale boys turn this memorable occasion to its highest uses, they will be incited to tread in the path followed by the most distinguished orator of England, and, wasting little time upon the
