WONDER if Julius Caesar Burrows has recovered sufficiently from the effects of the Fisher letter to know what hit him.

THE New York World strikes the proper chord when it asks "Why not pass the Wilson bill and reserve the tariff speeches until next campaign?"

IN Speaker Crisp and Chairman Wilson the democratic side of the house of representatives have leaders worthy of the support of every democrat in congress.

LAST Monday President Cleveland sent the nomination of Wheeler H. Pecknam, of New York, to the senate, to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

THINGS at Lansing begin to look as if a good investigation is needed, but there is small chance of one being had if it is going to pinch a republican. E. B. Winans is not governor now.

PERSONS commenting upon the slowness with which Mr. Cleveland makes appointments are wont to say that the republican party never created a vacancy that it did not fill. This is a mistake. There is that vacancy in the treasury.—Dayton Times.

LAST week Boutelle, of Maine, and Dalzell, of Penn., spent an hour or two each in abusing Congressman Johnson, of Ohio, for honestly supporting the platform, on which he was elected, but when Mr. Johnson got through with the gentlemen they thought they had been carressed by a female panther.

TOM JOHNSON, of Ohio, probably reaps more benefit from a protective tariff than any other member of congress. He is a manufacturer of steel rails which are protected at the rate of 58½ per cent. In his recent speech Mr. Johnson says such a tax is not necessary, but simply goes to increase the profits of the manufacturer. He is one of the men who is honest enough to stand by the platform on which he was elected, although it is not to his personal interest to do so.

THE Creator made coal for the benefit of mankind. He was not supposed to care for the rich more than the poor. Coal is not a product of labor. Monopolists own the mines. They hire the cheapest labor they can find to dig the coal. Yet protection-crazed politicians at Washington assert that the coal business will be ruined unless there is a tariff of seventy-five cents a ton for the further enrichment of monopolists who pay thirty-five cents a ton for mining it.—Jackson Patriot.

IN investigating the question whether the amendments reported as a lopped by the people really have been adopted or not, it is hardly worth while to stop at 1891. There have been a good many amendments reported in the years that antedate 1891; and in respect to some of them there was as much temptation to fraud as there was in 1891 or 1893. In April, 1889, for instance, the people voted on the question of amending the constitution so as to increase the salary of the governor. The state canvassers reported that the amendment had been adopted; but in the light of what we now know as to the value of such reports, it is impossible to feel confident on the point. Perhaps we have been paying the governor more than he is entitled to all these years and the state should receive a snug sum by way of return. It ought to be inquired into; and while the governor is about it he might do well to ascertain whether we have any constitution at all.—Free Press.

No live stock promises better average returns for the next five years than beef cattle. For seven years past the beef industry has been undergoing a readjustment, which has during the past two years placed it on a more stable basis. The immense ranch is no longer so much in the way of smaller herds. Speculators no longer regard the bovine a bonanza, and the situation assures normal, steady and profitable returns on feeding and grazing enterprises. The reduced supply throughout the entire country encourages the belief that the breeder will recure large profits. Cattle of all ages are in demand. If the cows and heifers are bred carefully, being mated with purebred bulls of the best quality, the produce for 1895 and following years will be of advanced value and paying property.—Orange Judd Farmer.

THE BOND ISSUE.

Secretary Carlisle asks congress to immediately authorize an issue of bonds. The treasury is actually in need of funds. It has been depleted by extravagant appropriations, which in the last three years' according to Senator Gorman, have exceeded the Government's revenues by $300,000,000. The McKinley act is also operating—as it was intended to operate—to decrease revenues while increasing taxes.

The government must have funds or it will default. Its creditors will not receive the money due them and its credit will be impaired. Hesitation on the part of congress is fraught with danger. A refusal to authorize such a loan as Mr. Carlisle desires to put upon the market would be dishonest. No new tax can meet the emergency. If congress should pass a tax bill tomorrow unanimously the proceeds would not find their way into the treasury in time to meet its requirements.

Congress should authorize the bond issue without delay. The people will understand perfectly that the new debt is simply another republican legacy.—N. W. World.

FISHER LANDS A BODY BLOW.

Ex-Congressman S. O. Fisher, of West Bay City, is a democrat, thoroughly grounded in the principles of the party to which he gives the most loyal allegiance. When the removal of the duty on Canadian logs was under consideration before congress, Mr. Fisher, though one of the biggest lumbermen of Michigan, advocated the passage of the measure as a step toward the relief of the people from the greivous burdens imposed upon them by McKinleyism. Since the opening of the discussion as to the advisability of placing wool on the free list, Mr. Fisher has again declared himself, his utterances being in accord with the teachings of democracy and the spirit of reform. He favored free wool without reservation. His communication to that effect afforded congressman Julius Caesar Burrows with a text, and he concentrated his powers of sarcasm upon its consideration. He claimed to present all there was of Fisher when he said that he was a lumberman, a banker and a democrat. Then the statesman from Kalamazoo, who is a volcano in words and a rushlight in ideas, wired Mr. Fisher, asking him how long he had been a wool grower, and how much money he had invested in sheep.

Julius Caesar hoisted himself with his own petard. What he had planned as an extinguisher proved a boomerang of 40-mule back action. He ment to hold Mr. Fisher up to ridicule; but instead thereof he made himself a laughing stock. Mr. Burrows did not know it was loaded; and now he is groping around in a mental fog with only a vague apprehension of what hit him. The would-be satirist collapsed when he learned from Mr. Fisher that he had been a wool-grower for ten years, that he has ranches in southern Colorado, and that he has $50,000 invested in sheep. Not content with imparting this unexpected information, Mr. Fisher makes sure of completely stampeding the man from Kalamazoo by inquiring how many sheep he has, how much money he has invested in them, what experience he has had in raising wool, and what profit he has enjoyed under the existing tariff laws. Mr. Fisher then proceeds, as appears from the dispatches, to show from actual experience that as the duty on wool has been advanced its price has decreased, and is liable to continue on the downward scale until placed upon the free list. He concludes by giving the orator a brief scoring because of his permitting himself to be used as a tool by unworthy men, and then drops him with the dull thud so seldom heard except at old fashioned hangings.

Mr. Burrows wool experience has been practically confined to pulling the downy produce over the eyes of the credulous farmers. Mr. Burrows is superbly adopted by nature to join the cymbal-clashers, the tom-tom beaters and the claquers; but whenever he essays an original act of statesmanship he and his party are sure to come out of the windup with one or more black eyes. He belongs to that class of our frail humanity who rush in where angles fear to tread; and now that it is all to late he realizes that in trying to make game of the level-headed financier and statesman from the tenth he was monkeying with a buzzaw in the "zip zip" stage of activity. That too much sympathy may not be wasted upon the elocutionist from the celery district we give the assurance that his self-esteem is such as to insure a speedy recovery.—Detroit Free Press.

A sensible ruling is that of the postoffice department holding guilty of violating the "green goods act" all persons sending letters through the mails for counterfeit money. If there were no buyers of green goods the business of making them would not be very profitable.

TO REDUCE POST OFFICE ORDER FEES.

The House of Representatives passed on December 14 a bill of much general interest, which has attracted very little attention in the newspapers. It was reported by the joint commission of congress to inquire into the status of laws organizing the executive departments, and it went through without any opposition. Its popular feature makes a reduction in the price of post-office money-orders, to place them on a par in this respect with the money-orders issued by the express companies, and it abolishes the postal-note. The argument presented in favor of the latter change was that the postal-note furnishes no security to the sender, for if one is lost no duplicate can be obtained. Under the new law a change of fees is enacted, which permits the issue of money orders for sums not exceeding $2.50 for three cents. As money-orders are subject to endorsement, if one is received at an office that is not authorized to issue or cash them, it can be endorsed to some one who will cash it. On larger orders the rates of issue are materially reduced. The measure went through the house so rapidly that its natural opponents did not have time to get their forces in line, but it is intimated that the express companies will be on hand when the bill comes up in the senate. These companies were in active opposition to the change in the postal laws years ago that instituted the parcels post, but the measure was so popular that congress dared not defeat it. The same will probably be the case with this bill. Further than this, it is understood that the express companies find their money order business so profitable that they may not care to make it a subject of public debate in congress, as already some banking institutions are said to be thinking seriously of entering into competition.—The Nation.

J. O. WILSON, Contractor and Builder, Sulphur Springs, Texas, thus speaks of Ayer's Pills:

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I ever tried; and, in my judgment, no better general remedy could be devised. I have used them in my family and recommended them to my friends and employes for more than twenty years. To my certain knowledge, many cases of the following complaints have been completely and by the use of Ayer's Pills alone: Third day chills, dumb ague, bilious fever, sick headache, rheumatism, flux, dyspepsia, constipation, and hard colds. I know that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the disorders I have named above."

"I have been selling medicine for eight years, and I can safely say that Ayer's Pills give better satisfaction than any other Pill I ever sold."—J. J. Perry, Spotsylvania C. H., Va.
