Is This Yours?

The young man who lost the following letter may have the same by calling at this office and bringing a box of cigars for the staff:

Bay City, Mich., Dec. 6th, 1895.

Mr. DARLING —: Seeing that you did not answer my letter, I will write in new hopes again. We are all dead and hope this will find you the same. It is quite cold for the middle of the summer. Did you have a splendid time to the sleigh-ride a year ago.

Say, — do you go with — yet? She is quite a nice girl, I don't think.

The first time I saw you was on the moon-light excursion that the Douglas took. Ha! Ha! another thing I thought of. What do you want for a Christmas present? A little doll like yourself.

Now sweetness are you any good at keeping dates? If so meet me at the corner of King and Hale stores, across from Bank corner.

Did you ever read the book of Dora Thorne, say, but it is out of sight.

Be sure and keep the date to-morrow night, I am a nice girl, I have light, light, extra light hair, black eyes, I let my hair hang in curls down my back, I wear a red cap with a tassell on it, so you see you will know me, and my name you will know when you see me.

Eight o'clock, sharp, to-morrow night. I go to the Catholic church Sunday night. If I can't see you Saturday night, I will be to church Sunday night.

Don't be a bit bashful, for I am. I was in Bay City when I wrote this, but took the next train for East Tawas, so you see I will be in E. T. for a few days, being an agent.

Be sure and come, for I would like to meet you before I leave Tawas.

Yours Truly,

SILVER MEN UNITE.

All American Bimetallic Societies Consolidate

For some time past negotiations have been pending for a complete consolidation, of the American Bimetallic league, National Bimetallic union and the National Silver committee, the three principal silver organizations in the United States, representing all sections of the country. Saturday, these negotiations culminated in an agreement by the representatives of the respective organizations by which such consolidation has been substantially perfected. Nothing now remains to be done but a ratification by the executive committees of these organizations, each acting separately, which will speedily follow.

The consolidated organizations will be known as the American Bimetallic union. Its principal office and general headquarters will be in Chicago, in the offices occupied by the National Bimetallic union, with branch offices in Washington, San Francisco, and perhaps other cities, both north and south.

It is the purpose of the united organization to press the campaign of education on behalf of bimetallicism with the utmost vigor in all parts of the country.

A conference of pronounced silver men will be held at Washington Jan. 22, when a plan of action will be outlined, which, it is said, will have an important bearing upon the political events of next year.

The New Political Organization.

A new political organization has just been perfected for the purpose of advancing important political reforms more particularly those relating to the money question. It is to be known as the order of the "Patriots of America," and it is to have secret sessions, on the same principle as the knights of labor and the trades unions.

The objects of the new organization are most commendable, but we fear that nothing whatever will awaken the American people to their desperate condition except such suffering and destitution as will cause a terrible revolution here, like that of a hundred years ago in France. At the same time it is certainly praiseworthy in Mr. W. H. Harvey, better known as "Coin," and his associates to make the effort to avert the bloodshed and destruction of such a revolution by a peaceful righting of existing wrongs. From a recent interview with Mr. Harvey we take the following particulars concerning the new order:

"While free silver is the piece de resistance of the organization," Mr. Harvey says, "it is not the sole one. Back of it the spirit of humanity which looks to the accomplishment of better government by eliminating personal selfishness from the acts of private citizens and public officials. The new order assumes the existence of evil influence which is consciously or unconsciously exerted by wealthy corporations and individuals upon the government executives, legislatures and courts. To successfully combat this evil the society will endeavor to arouse in the public breast the latent fire of patriotism and love for humanity."

"The order of the Patriots of America with the national headquarters in the Fort Dearborn building, Chicago has issued a prospectus in book form, giving the objects of the order and the reasons which have caused the organization of such a movement. Its national officers, first national patriot a national recorder and a national treasurer. It also provides for a first state patriot in each state who constitute a congress of patriots. There is also to be a first patriot for each county. The plans provide for opening lodges throughout the United States and all power is derived by the people voting in their lodges.

"It is a non-partisan organization and will put no candidates in the field. Each four years its members by ballot will decide by a majority vote what relief is demanded and will then proceed to select by a majority vote the candidate of their choice for president and congress in each district from the candidates nominated by the existing political parties. Its objects and aims are given the widest publicity, but the lodge meetings will exclude all who are not members." The promoters of the order say its policy as to secret organization is modeled after the actual sessions of the United States senate and are private only in the sense that members of a firm might exclude the public from their private deliberations; that, in this case, as in the case of the United States senate, the public welfare can be best promoted."

William H. Harvey, author of Coin's Financial School, is named as temporary first national patriot. Chas. H. McClure, of Michigan, national recorder, and James F. Adams, of Chicago, national treasurer. The constitution provides that there shall be no salary for the national officers, except the national recorder, and Mr. McClure, who will fill that office until the first regular election, declines to receive a salary. Mr. Harvey says he will in addition to charging no salary, put his income behind the order. There is no membership fee, except in the way of a voluntary offering. The monthly dues are classified from 10 cents to $1 per month. There is a co-ordinate branch of the order known as "The Daughters of the Republic" a charitable organization to look after the poor in the Patriots of America. — Petoskey Democrat.

CONGRESSMAN AITKEN, has announced himself a candidate for the republican nomination as governor, next fall.

ALMOST the first act passed by the republican congress was to raise the tariff on the necessities of life, thus raising the taxes of every laboring man in America.

THE war talk has abated some and the Detroit dailies now have an opportunity to devote their usual amount of space to the Pingree-Johnson street car "war."

THE New York World has made a careful pole of the senate, and finds a majority of eight free silver senators, and predicts that the house bond bill will fail to pass that body. This may be taken as good authority as the World is a "sound money" paper.

Gold for Gold.

The New York Evening Post says: The most interesting piece of news in financial circles just now, next to the report that a contract had been signed by J. P. Morgan & Co. for a new government loan, was the announcement that Lawson, Widdienfield & Co. had ordered $500,000 in gold from London, and that it will leave on Saturday. The firm mentioned is a new one. It is understood the gold is being imported for the purpose of paying for some of the new government bonds to be issued.

A curious thing in connection with the deal is that the bankers who sold them the exchange on which to import the gold will have to export gold to cover their bills. Foreign bankers say that for some time imports and exports of gold would occur simultaneously in consequence of the unintelligent action of congress and the terms on which subscriptions to the new government loan would be received.

The Relief Bills.

A Washington dispatch of Monday says: The hasty pudding tariff bill and its companion, the bond bill, are now in the hands of a senate committee. It is the intention of the silver men of the senate to propose and adopt free coinage amendments to both the tariff and the bond bills. Great efforts will be made to amend the tariff bill in the direction of higher duties, especially as to those agricultural products raised by the farmers along the northern border of the United States. They complain against Canadian competition. The committee on finance, to which both bills are referred, will meet to-morrow to consider them. The two measures were formulated and reported by the house committee on ways and means, or rather by the Republican members of that committee. The other members of the committee had no voice in drafting them, and no time was conceded them in which to prepare and present their views. When the bills reached the house the members of that body were accorded no opportunity to offer amendments to them. The time allotted to debate was limited to a few hours, and then the representatives of the people were called upon to vote either for or against the bills as they came from the hands of the ways and means committee. No such drastic course is possible in the senate. The members of that body have never abdicated their natural right to discuss at will the propositions they are called upon to decide by their votes. Probably they never will abdicate it. Legislation by committee prevails there as in the house, but to nothing like the same degree. The fate of neither of these bills will, therefore, be determined in committee, but in the open senate, and there will be no haste in arriving at that determination, even though a plea of urgency be made to hurry up action. That plea to be effective must always appeal to the cool judgment of the individual senators. The absence of any form of cloture makes each senator his own judge of the merit of any plea for haste.

Venezuelan Commission. President Cleveland has named the following gentlemen as members of the Venezuelan Commission:

David J. Brewer, of Kansas, justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Richard H. Alvey, of Maryland, chief justice of the Courts of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

Andrew D. White, of New York. Frederick R. Coudert, of New York.

Daniel C. Gilman, of Maryland.

Subsoiling.

After resting for many years the subject of subsoiling has been again brought to the front and is receiving considerable attention all over the world. Subsoil ploughing or subsoiling is the stirring to a greater or less depth of the soil which immediately underlies that which is ordinarily cultivated. In subsoiling the under soil is only broken up; it is not brought to the surface. The advantages claimed for it are that the deep stirring of the soil causes the ground to retain moisture better in midsummer; that it stores up and absorbs the water of the spring rains, and that it aerates the soil and enables the roots of the plant to penetrate further in search of food. Undoubtedly this view is correct in some cases, but not in others. Wherever there is a thick, hard subsoil, either naturally or as the result of ploughing for many years at the same depth, subsoiling will be an advantage. The hard stratum limits the supply of plant food and checks capillary action in dry weather, while it prevents drainage in wet seasons. Under these circumstances subsoiling is a decided benefit.

If on the other hand the subsoil is open, sandy and gravelly, subsoiling is highly injurious, as by increasing the drainage it decreases the storage capacity for water. Of course this would be an advantage in a wet year, but in America the dry seasons predominate so that our crops are more apt to suffer from a drought than from a super-abundance of moisture.

These facts show the impossibility of pronouncing offhand whether subsoiling is or is not generally beneficial. Generally speaking there has been considerable improvement in crops from its practice in Kansas and Nebraska, while in Illinois and Iowa the contrary is reported. This emphasizes the necessity for each farmer to understand the nature and condition of the subsoil on his farm before attempting to subsoil. As a rule fall subsoiling is much to be preferred to spring subsoiling.—N. Y. World.

Food for Children.

Most mothers know that sound bodies depend upon proper nourishment, and for that reason the children of a family are permitted to eat just what the grown-up-members do, much of which is not proper food for children, and is not composed of such ingredients as tend to build strong, healthy bodies. A child should eat five times a day during the second year, four times during the third, and after that, three times a day. The last part of this rule, if rigidly adhered to, is very cruel, because a child may become honestly hungry in the middle of the forenoon, when he had no appetite at breakfast. A glass of milk, some bread and butter, or an apple are very good for lunch at such a time. The best way to arrange the meals of a day is to have the hot dinner at noon, but as many of the children are away at school and cannot come home, the hot meal will have to be eaten at night. As very young children are put to bed at an early hour their supper should be light, so with little inconvenience their dinner can be given them at noon.

Pork, in most farmers' homes constitutes the chief substantial of every meal. A child must be unusually tough if he can keep healthy on a diet of pork, hot breads, strong tea, buckwheat cakes, and pastries day in and day out. Children should never be given bread fresher than twenty-four hours old. Much rich pastry, cake, and sweet preserves should not form much, if any, of the child's diet.

For breakfast a child can eat a little fresh, ripe fruit, some of the grains with cream and sugar, a baked potato and meat, or soft-boiled egg for a change. Coffee is not good for children, and where good milk can be procured, it is always better. At noon they may be given some good soup, meat, potatoes, and another vegetable, with some simple dessert. Bread and milk, eggs, baked apples, stewed prunes and soft custards are all good for the child's supper.

Children may eat as many potatoes as they like, if properly cooked. The best form is baked. Fried potatoes and fried meats are not good for children. Stewed prunes are considered especially healthy, and apples in any form are always acceptable.—Prairie Farmer.

Mrs. J. P. Bell, Ossawatimie, Kan., wife of the editor of The Graphic, the leading local paper of Miami county, writes "I was troubled with heart disease for six years, severe palpitations, shortness of breath, together with such extreme nervousness, that, at times I would walk the floor nearly all night. We consulted the best medical talent. They said there was no help for me, that I had organic disease of the heart for which there was no remedy. I had read your advertisement in The Graphic and a year ago, as a last resort, tried one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart, which convinced me that there was true merit in it. I took three bottles each of the Heart Cure and Restorative Nerve and It completely cured me. I sleep well at night, my heart beats regularly and I have no more smothering spells. I wish to say to all who are suffering as I did; there's relief untold for them if they will only give your remedies just one trial." Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

A minister in a small country village, who was noted for his absent-mindedness, was once observed to stop excitedly in the midst of his sermon and heard to mutter: "I knew she would. I knew she would!" After the service was over some one asked the reason. "Dear me," said he, "did I? Well, you know, from the pulpit I can just see old Mrs. Adams' garden, and this morning she was out pulling up a cabbage, and I thought to myself, 'Now, if that cabbage comes up suddenly, she'll go over,' and just then it came up and over she went!"—Ex.

Where it is required to make early hot bed put up the frame now, spade up the soil and fill the frame with leaves or litter. The sash can be put on at any time. Unless this precaution be taken now the ground may freeze so hard that the bed cannot be made in season.

Geo. C. Anschuetz and wife returned from their visit to Saginaw, Tuesday. During their stay Mr. Anschuetz made a visit to the Saginaw County Poor Farm. Mr. Messenger, the manager of the farm, not being present, the lady superintendent showed him through the house. Everything was found in first-class order, and the way things are managed speaks well for all connected with the management. Saginaw county taxpayers have every reason to feel proud of their new home for the poor. Mr. H. Fashelt who went with Mr. Anschuetz, is receiving medical treatment for asthma under a new process, and is feeling much better, but will have to remain several weeks longer.

State's Honorary Roll Still Contains 42,544 Names.

The census bulletin showing the number of United States, confederate and Mexican soldiers in Michigan, just issued by Secretary of State Gardner, contains some interesting facts.

The aggregate number of United States soldiers of the civil war returned is 42,544, of whom 39,946 are native and 7,598 foreign-born. Of the native, 1,525 are single men, 30,178 married and 2,871 widowed. Of the foreign-born, 455 are single, 6,267 married and 803 widowed.

The ages range from 40 to 95 years. There are 249 who are more than 80, and 6,464 who are more than 70 years old. The average age of all returned is 56.07 years. The average age of the native is 55.71 years, and of the foreign-born 57.70 years.

The population schedule required a return of diseases or temporary disabilities of persons, who, by reason of age or disability, were unable to attend to ordinary business. The number returned as sick or disabled is 14.23 per cent, or about 1 in 7 of the whole number.

There are only 259 United States sailors and marines left in the state and but 41 veterans of the Mexican war, the youngest of whom is 61 and the oldest 102 years.
