STUCK ON THE SCHEME.

Shore People Want Connections With Bay City.

"I have visited all the shore towns" said Manager Dewey, of the Valley Telephone company, "and found the sentiment of the people in favor of a shore telephone line. All promise to take stock in the enterprise and we shall now place the stock at their disposal. Meetings of the business men have been held in each place so that all know what is expected of them. We are not desirous of selling all the stock, as we could carry 75 per cent of it ourselves, if we had to. It is unlikely that we will make any attempt to dispose of more than 50 per cent of it.

Sufficient encouragement will prompt us to extend the line through to Cheboygan, which would be a good thing for vessel men, as we would than take in all the life saving stations. Merchants are particularly anxious to have the line completed and are taking much interest in it.

"We now have 260 telephones in splendid working order at Alpena, and the people there are more than pleased with the service. Our company recently received an order for 500 instruments from South Bend, Ind., and for $4,000 worth from Detroit. Elkhart and Goshen, Ind., are also going to use our system.

"We have enough wire in use to reach from New York to San Francisco. Our system is cheap and the service is of the very best, at least this is what is said by those who are using it. One man in Alpena, who has used for two phones, has saved almost enough from them in one year to pay for two shares of stock that he owns in the company. We find the people of Standish especially enthusiastic over the prospects of our entering their town.

"Once we start putting up the poles and wires we will engage a sufficiently large force of men to complete the job in 30 day."—Bay City Tribune.

School Attendance.

According to a census bulletin just issued by the secretary of state the number of persons reported as having attended school is 464,672, of whom 431,767 are native and 42,905 foreign born. Of the native pupils, 216,520 had native parents, 127,334 foreign-born parents, 82,544 one parent native and the other foreign-born, and for 5,369 the parent nativity is not reported. The average time of attendance of the pupils who attended school is, in the incorporated cities, 8.90 months, and in the country outside the cities 6.07 months, or 1.83 months less in the country than in the cities. In the cities the proportion of the pupils who attended from one to eight months is much less than the proportion attending nine and ten months, while in the country the reverse is true.

Wagon Roads of Steel.

Steel wagon roads as advocated by Martin Dodge, state road commissioner of Ohio, are likely to have a thorough trial in several states this year. These roads consist of two rails made of steel the thickness of boiler plate, each formed in the shape of a gutter five inches wide, with a square perpendicular shoulder half an inch high, then an angle of one inch outward slightly raised. The gutter forms a conduit for the water, and makes it easy for the wheels to enter or leave the track. Such a double-track steel railroad, sixteen feet wide, filled in between with broken stone, macadam-size, would cost about $6,000, as against $7,000 per mile for a macadam road bed of the same width, but the cost of a rural one-track steel road would be only about $2,000 a mile. It is claimed that such a road would last much longer than stone, and that one horse will draw on a steel track twenty times as much as on a dirt road, and five times as much as on macadam.—Chicago Tribune.

State Agricultural Society

An adjourned meeting of the executive committee was held in the New Grand hotel in Lansing, Feb. 3d. A resolution was passed that the Society hold a fair next September if suitable arrangements could be made as to place and if the creditors would all agree not to press matters as to debts before October. People representing Grand Rapids were present and held out good inducements for the fair to go to that city again. The whole matter of holding a fair and making arrangements for it was left to a committee of five besides the Secretary, consisting of the President, H. H. Hinds, Eugene Fifield, C. W. Young and I. H. Butterfield. The premium list was revised, the old year's business settled up, and Henry S. Fralick, the new secretary, installed in office.

A bond of $1,000 was required of the Secretary with two sufficient sureties and from the Treasurer a bond of $20,000 with the same number of sureties. With all the discouragements the State Agricultural Society has received, it is determined to go ahead and prosper and also try and relieve itself from its indebtedness. Even last year it paid expenses, divided its net receipts equally with Grand Rapids societies and had balance of $2,000 to pay on back premiums.

THE republican state convention to elect delegates to the national convention, has been called to meet at Detroit, May 14.

It has hitherto been the custom of the children attending the public schools of Austria and Hungary to kiss the hands of the teacher on arrival and departure. This has now been forbidden by an order from the imperial board of education, which bases its action on the fact that sanitary investigation has shown that kissing is unhealthy and should not be practiced when absolutely unnecessary.

A WESTERN genius has applied for a patent on a corn planter, which consists of two boxes attached to the forelegs of a horse, just above the fetlocks, in which was the corn to be planted. Cords passed over the pulleys attached to the saddle down to the hind legs, so that every time the horse stepped the tightening of the cord would open the boxes on the forelegs and some corn be shaken into the holes made by the front feet.

ANOTHER new swindling scheme has been devised and is practiced in the region of Sandusky, O. A farmer is induced to buy a bill of groceries of a traveling salesman, the goods to be shipped from some city. In payment the man agrees to take eggs. To make it all straight and right the farmer gives his notes for the goods and the traveling man gives his for the eggs. The goods and salesman are never seen, but the farmer's note turns up at the bank.

A CONTEMPORARY makes the statement that the greatest corporation on earth is the London and Northwestern Railway Company, of England. It has a capital of $595,000,000 and a revenue of $6,500 an hour; has 2,300 engines, and employs 60,000 men. Everything is made by the company—bridges, engines, rails, carriages, wagons, and an innumerable lot of other things; even the coal scuttles and wooden limbs for the injured of its staff. Repairs to the permanent way cost $130,000 a month.

SOME of our exchanges take frequent occasion to scold farmers for not taking care of their farm implements and machinery. Why, bless your innocence, what would become of the implement trade if your good advice was strictly followed? Don't you know that if you make implements last twice as long, you are lessening the demand for them, and consequently decreasing their manufacture? The careless, improvident farmer, who leaves his machinery where he last used it, is not good to himself, of course, but manufacturers and implement dealers have occasion to rise up and call him blessed.—The Plowman.

THERE is considerable concern in Boston about the future of James Russell Lowell's magnificent old home in Cambridge, at the gateway of Mount Auburn cemetery. The house is the property of the poet's daughter, but the land adjoining it is in the hands of real estate agents, and the fine estate will be soon cut up into building lots unless the property is rescued. The house is an old Troy mansion, one of the few still standing in excellent condition in Cambridge, and it is an object of great and increasing interest to thousands of visitors from all over the country. It would make a most desirable museum.

Sowing Cloyed Seed.

Having had much experience, as well as success, in the matter of sowing clover seed, I am frequently asked to give my plan of doing it. Many farmers believe that all depends on the time the seed is sown. This is a mistake, as all depends on the condition of the soil. Until recent years, farmers in southwestern Ohio sowed most of their seed very early—generally in February. There is nothing gained by early sowing, but much lost, as our farmers have learned to their sorrow. They are more than ever convinced of this fact since two years ago, when nearly all of the early-sown clover was killed by a late cold spell. I have practiced both early and late sowing for many years, and shall sow no more before March 10, preferring from that date up to the 25th. If during this period the conditions are right, I sow; if not, it is sown later.

The condition that I require is, that the ground be slightly frozen, just enough to cause the surface to become rough or honey-combed. Seed sown on such a surface will naturally find the lowest places, will fall to the bottom of the cell-like crevices, and when a thaw comes, the seed is so deeply covered that none will grow until spring has really come. Quit sowing just as soon as it begins to thaw, as the seed will stick to the soil whenever it falls. Never sow on snow if you want an even stand; for, should the snow melt quickly or go off with a rain, much of the seed is carried to the low places, and there grows in great bunches. Never sow after a rain, when the surface is smooth and packed, as in the condition of the surface is the great secret of success. If I fail to get the proper conditions from freezing, I wait until surely in April, when the wind and an cause the ground to crack almost as much as from freezing. I have had good stands when sown in this way.—Orange Judd Farmer.

The Bright Side of Farm Life.

That the average farmer's life is not exactly a bed of roses few will deny. But that it has its bright side is not to be disputed. Among the advantages held by the farmer over any other laboring class, the Denver Field and Farm thinks that it may be well to mention his independence. With his comfortable dwelling, well filled barns and cellar, the modern farmer is absolutely the most independent of human beings. Financial questions which the nation may be worrying itself about affect him but little. Labor strikes which involve thousands of dollars, and nearly all classes of men, pass him by unheeded.

It is impossible to find another business or profession which is less dependent upon the patronage or favor of others. He knows that if he raises more of any kind of produce than he requires for his own use he will be able to dispose of it, because his products are the necessities of life. In place of being dependent upon others he has the satisfaction of knowing that the whole world is dependent upon him. This independence is shown in many other forms. He is not compelled, as many others are, to rise at a certain hour and labor a certain number of hours each day, under the direction of others, until he becomes simply a piece of machinery, without thought or feeling of his own. But, instead, his work is performed as he thinks best, and at whatever time he may consider most suitable.

Neither is he worried by the fear of losing his situation, as many a one who is employed by others is bound to be at one time or another. His position is secure, and he knows that with a fair season his recompense is assured. Looking at the bright side of farm life from another standpoint, no one ever passed a fine farm in midsummer and did not envy its owner, the picturesque surroundings, the well kept fields and pastures, the fine horses and sleek cattle, the general air of peace and prosperity which hover over a well-appointed farm. At this season, however, inspired poets have caused many men in other walks of life to become farmers, and many of the wrecks along the country roadside were caused by men who had better have remained in other walks of life.

From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.

NO DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nerveless, as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Hilton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1889 and '90 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me, but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker."

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends."

"Oh, Henry," said she blithely,
As he sat down to dine,
"I have bought the sweetest cushion
For a dollar ninety-nine.
"It was bargain day at Skilton's
And they advertised it so
That the store was fairly crowded,
For the prices were so low."
"H'm he coughed and looked askewly;
"As sure as I'm alive,
We are selling that same cushion
At a dollar twenty-five."
Not a word then broke the silence,
Till his wife with many sighs,
Softly said in accents tearful,
"And why don't you advertise?"

No matter what the conditions of trade may be there is always a certain amount of business to be done. The man who studies the wants of his trade and keeps his customers thoroughly informed as to his whereabouts and what he has to sell, is the one who gets the largest share of what is doing. A pushing, aggressive business policy is better than waiting for the trade that may not come.—Caro Advertiser.

According to an Ohio paper, this is how a high school girl recently parsed the sentence, "He kissed me:" "He," she began, with a fond lingering over the word that brought the crimson to her cheeks, "is a pronoun, third person, singular number, masculine gentleman and pretty well fixed; universally considered a good catch! 'Kissed' is a verb, transitive too much so, regular every evening, indicative mood, indicative affection; first and third persons, plural number and governed by circumstances. 'Me'—Oh! well, everybody knows me." And she sat down.

 The funniest thing in dress is about to be sprung in the shape of a night dress with big sleeves. It is said a large number of women have been troubled with insomnia, all because they got out of their big sleeves into smaller ones at bed time. The night dress with big sleeves may settle the matter.

 It is a dull week when Alpena doesn't get her eye on a new industry. She does not always secure them finally, to be sure, but the list of industries now in operation in that hustling city, shows that the percentage of successful attempts is a good one. Last weeks talk was of a large knitting factory.
 A farmer who had not been in town for some time stopped in front of the electric light plant and enquired of a bystander, "What is that air building, a factory?" "No, a plant," was the reply. "What do you raise there?" he again quired. "Currents." "How much are they worth a bushels?" "We don't sell them by the bushel, we sell them by the shock." And the farmer drove on, scratching his head and looking wise.—Ex.

Wm. Elliott is having the Phillips block converted into a hotel. The carpenters started work on the building yesterday and will have it ready for occupancy for hotel purposes about April 1st. The building will be thoroughly repaired and renovated and its location will make it a much more convenient stopping place for the traveling public than Mr. Elliott's present location, Mr. Elliott's success as a hotel man in the past is a guarantee that his new venture will also be a success.—Oscoda Press.

Treasurer Griffith yesterday morning made another seizure of lumber on the Loud Co.'s docks and attempted to have the lumber which was seized removed, but was prevented from doing so, the Loud Co. refusing to allow men on their premises for that purpose. A writ of replevin was sworn out by Mr. Griffith and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Blakely. Up to the time of going to press nothing further has been done in the matter. The Loud Company will probably pay the taxes under protest.—Oscoda Press.
