

OSCO COUNTY!

Goes Republican by a largely reduced majorities.

Urquhart, on the stump makes a Big Run.

AND NEARLY DEFEATS SHIEN FOR SHERIFF.

This county goes republican again this year by reduced majorities from two years ago. The democratic-peoples-union-silver ticket made substantial gains in several townships outside the cities.

We have not received full returns from all parts of the county, but the indications are that the republican majorities will range from 100 to 575 in the county.

In the race for sheriff the candidacy of Alexander J. Urquhart, (rep) as a 'stump' candidate, made it very uncertain, but P. E. Shien, the regular nominee seems to have not far from 100 plurality. William Elliott made a phenomenal run in Oscoda and AuSable, but in one or two of the back towns the democrats cut him for Urquhart, who polled about 500 votes in the county.

Charles Force made a splendid race for probate judge against judge Laidlaw, running ahead of his ticket nearly 300 votes in the county.

Charles A. Jahraus for prosecuting attorney run ahead of his ticket in almost every precinct in the county, and is defeated by only about 225 votes.

The gold democratic ticket cut a very small figure in Isosco county, polling not to exceed twenty votes in the entire county.

The result by township as far as far as received up to going to press is as follows:

Doing up Lace Curtains.

Years ago, when lace draperies were done up at home, they lasted for years; now, after but few washings, they almost "drop to pieces." This is probably owing to the chemicals used by the professional cleanser, who sends them back immaculate, but with usually more than one little break. Quite a discussion has recently been going on in one of our well known weeklies, and among the various methods for successful laundering is the following: Pour a little boiling water over three large tablespoonsful of pearline; stir until mixed; take off the fire, then add a cupful of naphtha, and heat together for a few minutes, and then pour into a tub of warm water. Immerse the curtains (after shaking out all the loose dust) and squeeze and stir them for ten minutes; then cover with a cloth and let them soak over night. This loosens the dirt and starch and also bleaches them. In the morning stir well and pass them through the wringer. Put them into the boiler with cold water and a mixture of the powder and naphtha (nearly the same quantity) and let them boil briskly for five minutes. After boiling, pour them into a tub of clear water, then wring into a second rinse water into which a little boiled starch has been stirred, also blue or strained coffee, as one wishes, either a pure white or creamy tint.

This process will save rubbing, which is so hard upon the lace; the powder and naphtha makes the cleansing very easy. Be careful not to use the naphtha about the fire; mix it off the stove, as it is an explosive. Dry the curtains upon a frame, stretching them smoothly; they will need no ironing if the points and scoops are pinned down carefully while drying. Prairie Farmer.

JAMES LABERGE East

THE republicans have full control, and it is to be hoped that they will give us as prosperous times as they have promised.

If the republicans carry out their promise to secure an international agreement for the freemontization of silver, all will be well. If they do not, our prosperity will be only temporary.

"CONFIDENCE" has been restored (?) but unless silver is restored the American people will find they have been again deceived, and the prosperity which naturally follows presidential elections will only be temporary.

THE Silver party has been defeated in its first battle. The advocates of the restoration of silver should not be discouraged by any means. They have made a splendid fight against the combined forces of the money power of America and Great Britain. The question was one that was not thoroughly understood by many voters. The fight is not finished, nor will it be, until the American people have won their cause. Silver men, stand by you cause and victory will yet be won.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN is a defeated candidate, yet he stands out as the ablest champion of the people's rights that has appeared in the political arena during the past quarter of a century. His star has not forever set, as is claimed by his political opponents. He is in the prime of manhood, and will yet be given a chance to use his brilliant abilities, for the benefit of his countrymen, and when the time comes he will be found ready. The American people have learned to love this brilliant young statesman during the past few months and he will not be forgotten.

It Gives all Sides.

All through the campaign Public Opinion has successfully maintained its reputation for fairness. Every shade of thought upon all topics is represented in its American Affairs department; not one man's opinion but the opinion of every man who is a representative. Public Opinion (published at New York) is the one journal that enables its readers to keep posted upon the happenings in every field of human activity. Your local paper furnishes information as to purely local affairs, and Public Opinion furnishes a view of national affairs. To go outside these two papers, except for purposes of special investigation, is unnecessary. There will be much to learn in the political field after Nov. 3. The issue of Public Opinion for Nov. 12 will contain about 200 expressions of opinion upon the result of the election from the press of this and foreign countries. Send 5 cents for this issue or we will send a sample copy of our own selection free. For $2.50 you can be a thoroughly posted man for one year $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

Chapped Lips Remedied.

The winter is coming, even though it seems far off, and here is something for every mother to know. Of the many minor ills to which the small child is subjected in cold weather there is none much more disagreeable than the chapped lips which so often torment him. And when the "chap" becomes a deep crack in the middle of the lip it is even more trying. Then cold cream or vaseline often fails to produce any effect, and the split grows broader, until the lower lip looks as if it were cut in half.

The one quick and efficient remedy for this is a little phial of flexible colloid and a camel's hair brush. The mother must hold the sides of the lip together with one hand while with the other she dips the brush in the colloid and quickly paints over the crack with the liquid. It dries almost instantly and in drying forms a skin over the wound. Whenever this

THE RESULT VERY CLOSE IN MANY STATES.

The returns from the entire country, although incomplete in some states, are of a nature to insure the election of Mc Kinley. A sufficient number of states have declared for the republican party to make certain 260 votes in the electoral college for its leader. The electoral vote is as follows:

Michigan will give not far from 50,000 republican majority for Mc Kinley and the state ticket, except governor. Pingree runs far ahead of ticket, receiving nearly 70,000 majority

Hon. C. S. Hampton made an excellent run in the tenth district, against R. O. Crump, and succeeded in cutting Crump's majority of 4,000 two years ago, to about 700.

The Silver party elect two congressmen out of the twelve.

A. M. Todd, silver nominee in the third district is elected by about 600 majority.

In the eighth congressional district Ferdinand Brucker, the silver candidate, defeats congressman Linton by upwards of 1,200

The state senate will have about 20 republican majority. G. A. Prescott will again represent the 28th district.

John Donovan, of Bay, is reelected to the legislature, and will have 19 democratic colleagues. The state legislature will have 80 republican majority on a joint ballot.

Illinois gives McKinley about 55,000 plurality, and elects Tanner, republican governor.

Iowa gives about 60,000 republican majority.

Bryan carries Louisiana by upwards of 30,000.

Colorado gives Bryan 100,000 majority and elect both silver congressman and the entire silver state ticket.

Kansas goes for Bryan by about 5,000 and elects four democratic congressman to one republican.

Indiana is republican by a small majority.

Minnesota and Wisconsin each roll up republican majorities.

Ohio gave Mc Kinley 52,000, a republican loss of nearly 50,000 as compared with two years ago.

The present indications are that the next congress will stand, silver men, 168, republicans, 176, with 12 doubtful.

HOPEFUL.

C. S. Hampton Makes Light of his defeat.

Petoskey, Mich., Nov. 5.—Chas. S. Hampton, silver congressional candidate from the tenth district, has the following to say of his defeat:

"I am neither disappointed nor discouraged. McKinley's election will expose the humbug about 'restoring confidence,' and in four years the tidal wave will sweep away every vestige of toriyism. Bryan made a heroic fight, and is more to be envied in defeat than Hanna's man in victory."

"Personally, I am more than satisfied. We made a clean, honest fight in this district, against trickery, abuse and boodle, and have cut down the 4,000 of two years ago to a figure where a change of one vote in each precinct would have elected me. "I have run ahead of my ticket in every county in the district, for which I am sincerely grateful to my loyal friends.

Fall Care of Cows.

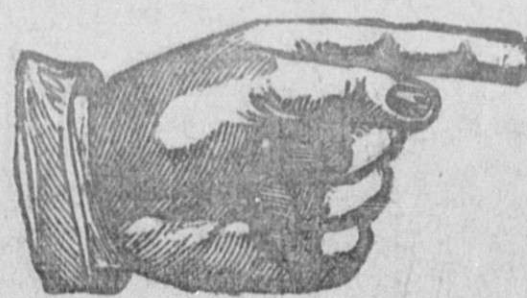

I do not know that I am given to worrying about other people's business, but of late I am troubled somewhat in regard to the welfare of thousands of cows throughout this country. This feeling is no doubt aggravated by the weather conditions that prevail here just now, and by the treatment accorded many of these her unkind owner a very large profit. Perhaps other farmers who do not come under my observation take better care of these producers of wealth. I sincerely hope so, for it seems to me cruel and shiftiness to allow milch cows to lie out in a cold rain all night. A cow that was fresh in milk during the early part of September and that has been brought to a full flow during warm weather, on succulent grass, with a grain ration added, and now becomes chilled and shrinks her flow by reason thereof, at once enters the list of doubtful cows, so far as profit is concerned for the season. When a cow has fallen off in milk, from insufficient food or improper treatment, it is very difficult to again bring her to a normal flow until she again freshens. The daily yield may be again nearly or quite restored, but it will require a lot of extra feed to do it. Her appetite is impaired, her digestive tract deranged, she is out of condition, and time and money is lost. It is with every animal on the farm just as it is with man, when he suffers from wet and cold irregularity at his meals, scant and improper food, etc. It is always my aim to carry the cows from warm weather and winter rations without loss or shrinkage in the milk flow. As cold weather comes on, grass ceases to grow; it also becomes frost bitten. Such a condition renders it more woody, and of course less succulent and nourishing. I began to stable nights some time ago. I use the Bidwell cow stall. This does not confine the cow's head, but gives her freedom to lie down naturally, and also keeps her absolutely clean. I bed them well. How much better it is to have them in the stable warm and dry, with no shrinkage in milk. I sleep better myself for knowing that I have done right. I always feed a cow all that she will eat up clean, and as the pasture ceases to afford plentifully I increase the grain ration, clover, hay, etc., until the change is complete.—C. H. Everett, in Prairie Farmer.

A novel and time saving device in the nature of a postal card has originated in Germany. If half that is said of American haste is true, the device should become popular if introduced into this country. One side of the card bears the postage stamp and the address. On the other side are printed words, followed by blank spaces, for replies to the questions suggested.—Ex.

Hot milk is a recognized drink in some of the German cafes. It is served in a cup with a saucer, and two lumps of sugar always accompany it. The drink has several things to commend it, since it has none of the dangerous qualities of tea, coffee or alcoholic drinks, and is declared by the doctors to be an excellent remedy for disorders of the stomach arising from certain forms of indigestion.

We once knew of a farmer's wife who objected to feeding three or four worthless dogs. We wonder if there are any more farmers' wives with similar tastes. This one quietly got rid of the dogs and substituted a pig which was her own little pig. She fed it what the dogs had been receiving from the kitchen scraps and in the fall it weighed over 800 pounds. Eight hundred pounds of live stock is worth more than half a dozen 'yeiler dygs.' There is a moral in this story longer than a pig's curly tail and louder than a dog's bark.

The new picture money which is being sent out by the government is undoubtedly artistic, although some people will have reservations as to its propriety. Another consignment has been sent out in the shape of $5 bills, with a design even more elaborate than that of the first $1 bill, with its misspelled "tranquility." The smaller note bore a picture of a reclining woman with one arm around a youth, to whom she is pointing out the first page of the constitution. The new $5 bill shows a woman representing civilization, holding aloft in the right hand an electric lamp and surrounded by other images intended to be alle-

Revival Meetings.

Rev. A. M. Hills, Evangelist of Oberlin, O., will hold a series of meetings in the Congregational church of this city, to begin in about one week. Mr. Hills comes highly recommended as the following recommendation will show:

Mansfield, O., Dec. 20th, 1894.

Rev. A. M. Hills has just closed a very successful series of evangelistic meetings in the Mayflower Congregational church, Mansfield, Ohio.

About seventy professed conversions, of whom forty will join the Mayflower church, and others will join other churches. My deacons with myself wish to express our high appreciation of Mr. Hills' work. He gave us a series of revival sermons which for logic, a clear and forcible presentation of gospel truth we have never heard surpassed and we have listened to some of the ablest evangelists of the day.

Women Censorship in Baltimore.

The women of Baltimore have set about their work of theater censorship in a sensible way and one that is likely to prove most efficient. They have organized for the purpose of discountenancing plays of an immoral tendency, and they will act by staying away when the performances are given. There is, however, to be no public or concerted action.

"The society as a whole," says one of its members, "will not boycott any particular play which may be considered improper, nor do the members pledge themselves to any such united action. If they join the society, they will simply promise to weigh carefully in their own minds whether they honestly ought to attend the performance of any play which is generally considered immoral or whether they ought to encourage bad conduct among persons on the stage by going to see stars whose general reputation is that of being immoral persons. Any other course, any vote against any particular play, would, if made public, very likely have a result directly opposite to the purposes of the society by sending hundreds of persons to see the play."

In addition to this voluntary censorship the club will have fortnightly meetings through the theatrical season, at which papers on the drama, critical, historical and otherwise, will be presented, together with discussions on current theatrical productions. At these meetings actors of good reputation will be invited to present their views on the same subject.

The club is the outgrowth of an idea in the direction of Mrs. Franklin, wife of Professor Fabian Franklin of the Johns Hopkins university. —Baltimore Letter.

How Lincoln Disposed of a Claim Against the Government.

During the war a very intimate friend and adviser of President Lincoln called at the White House to confer with him upon some of the many perplexing questions which were continually pouring into the executive mansion for solution.

It was after the seven days' battle from Mechanicsville to Malvern Hill, when disappointment at the north was almost as great as that produced by the conflict at Bull Run, and the president was considering the advisability of calling for a levy of 300,000 troops. Topics for discussion were so numerous and pressing that it was 10:30 o'clock before the visitor, rising, said, "Well, Lincoln, I must be going now."

"No, T—, don't go yet," Lincoln replied. "Sit down. Another matter yet. There is a man from Boston here with a claim against the government for $250,000. Yesterday he submitted a portion of his papers relative to it, with the request that I examine them while he was preparing the remainder. I told him to come here tonight again at 11 o'clock with the rest of his papers, and you know he'll come, so I want you to wait."

"Very well," the visitor replied, and they resumed their topics of state, Lincoln sitting with his chair tilted backward, his hands clasped over the top of his head and his feet upon the table, the visitor near by in a similar position.

By and by at the appointed time footsteps were heard, and the expected visitor was ushered into the executive chamber through a door at the back of the president.

"There, Mr. President," said the man from Boston, "is the remainder of those papers regarding my claim. I wish you would examine and report on them as soon as possible."

"Very well," said Lincoln, turning his head somewhat toward the visitor. "Just lay them on that table there, and I will examine them as soon as possible. It may be a day or two, it may be a week, but I'll report on them as soon as I can," and he turned his head to his friend again as if to continue their conversation regarding the exigencies of the war. Before going out the man from Boston suffered his curiosity to get the better of him, and he ventured to interrogate the president as to what he thought of the validity of the claim from the papers he had already examined.

"Your claim, Mr. —," Lincoln replied, turning toward him, "reminds me of Jim Price's rathole. You never knew Jim, did you? Well, he had all his life been roaming about from one place to another and had tried every way imaginable to make a living, but without success. At the time I speak of he was trying to practice law in a little town near Springfield, but soon tiring of this he thought to enter the dry goods business and accordingly wrote to an eastern house to know if it would furnish him with a stock of goods on credit, at the same time forwarding references as to his integrity. The eastern firm addressed an inquiry to one of these references, desiring to know if it could safely trust Jim with a certain amount of goods, and the reply was something like this: 'Jim Price's assets I would fix at $50,000, consisting of the following items: One wife, valued at $25,000, at least if I had such a wife I wouldn't take less than that for her; two children, valued at $24,998, at least if I had two such children I wouldn't take less than that for them; one office table, valued at $1.85; one inkstand, valued conservatively at 10 cents; one penholder, valued at 5 cents, and a rathole in the corner of his office that is worth looking into.'"

And the man from Boston went his way.—Chicago Tribune.

County Clerk Thomas Sheridan is now circulating a petition through Montmorency county asking for a grand jury to convene and determine if fraud is being committed by the board of supervisors in various financial transactions, particularly in the settlement with the county treasurer—misappropriation of the county funds being one of the serious charges.

When the patrol was going down Center ave. in Bay City recently, George Curtis, a prominent citizen of that place, thought it a novel ride, so jumped in. He was an object of attraction as he sat beside the uniformed attendant, and he had scarcely left the wagon at the police station when several of his friends appeared ready to offer bail and wanted to know what crime he was charged with.

Many hogs have recently died throughout the state and the cause has been generally attributed to cholera. A post mortem conducted by a farmer near Grand Rapids has disclosed the real cause of death. Punkins have been a plentiful crop, and farmers have been feeding them to their hogs. The seeds of the pumpkin remain in the animal's stomach undigested and death invariably results.

Joseph King, 22 years of age, was caught burglarizing Nellis' shoe store on Center avenue, Bay City, early Tuesday evening, by officer Ryan, and lodged at police headquarters. The loss is estimated at $50,000, covered by $41,000 insurance. The industry employed 100 hands and started up two weeks ago with a goodly supply of orders. Household Turpentine.

Turpentine is the best friend housekeepers have, and a supply should always be kept on hand. It is good for burns, excellent for corns, good for rheumatism and sore throat and a quick remedy for fits or convulsions.

It is a sure preventative against moths, a few drops rendering garments safe from such invader during the summer.

His Blunder.

A former minister to the United States from Argentina found great trouble in learning the English language.

"I make often many mistakes," he said, "when I speak American: I make a bad blunder the first time I am received at the white house. A beautiful lady tell me something which happened in your civil war.—She say she see it. Now, I think to myself, I will be polite and make the senora a grand compliment.

"I is impossible that you see it madam." I say. "You must have been born many years before the war?"

"All the time," he added. "I meant after the war. But I made a mistake. I say before. No, the lady was not pleased." She felt contempt.—Washington Post.

No waste for the Frugal housewife.

The frugal housewife does not leave the trimmings of her chops and roasts at the butcher's, but has them sent home with her meat for use either as fat or towards the soup stock. From the trimmings of six or seven good sized chops alone a good broth may sometimes be made for dinner, put them to cook as you would other soup meat, in cold water enough to cover, and simmer all the morning. Strain the liquid after it has cooked about two hours, and season with taptoca or barley, chopped onion and a bit of chopped celery, or part of the green leaves of a bunch of celery. Or you may use two or three sliced tomatoes and rice, with some beef extract for added flavor. Add extra water to dilute a broth or soup very cautiously.

Poisonous Potatoes.

It is not very rare to see serious accidents happen by poisoning from the use potatoes in places where food is supplied by contract, as in schools, prisons and barracks and astonishment is expressed that this precious and highly esteemed food stuff should be capable of doing so much damage. It is well to know that the potato, even when absolutely round, contains a certain amount of a vegetable alkaloid called solanine.

The remarkable point is that this solanine is much more abundant in summer than in winter; whereas it amounted to 0.044 per kilogramme from November to February, it reaches the figure of 0.236 in July and August. This evil would not be very great if the production of the alkaloid were not still further increased by the process of germination and putrefaction of the potato. The use of potatoes deteriorated in this way may give rise to cases of poisoning characterized by vomiting, diarrhea, fever, dilated pupils, convulsions and profuse sweating.

It is usually in the months of June and July that these accidents occur, at the moment when the potatoes of the preceding year have begun to germinate and rot. The contractors of the above mentioned establishments send these potatoes there, since they have no longer any marketable value, because the new potatoes are already large and reduced in price.

It is, therefore, necessary to watch these supplies in a most careful manner, and to

Last Tuesday our reading lesson was entitled, "The Two Breaths, and was about oxygen and carbonic acid gas.

Mr. Stephenson, our teacher, then said he would make some carbonic acid gas, and try the experiment with it. He took a white powder and put it in a tumbler with two kinds of liquid that looked like water, and the last liquid that he put in made it all bubble up, which he said was the carbonic acid gas coming off. The gas soon filled the glass and he took a lighted match and put it in to see if the match would burn. It would not, so we knew he had carbonic acid gas. He tried two or three matches, but they would not burn.

The next day Mr. Stephenson made some more, only a larger quantity. He used the same kind of powder and the two different kinds of liquid and fixed it in a large glass jar. He could pour the gas out of one dish into another, and he put a lighted match into it to see if the gas put it out, and it did.

He also took a small candle and poured the gas over it and it would even put it out.

When he made the gas it pushed the air out of the dish and flowed over the side and that proved that the carbonic acid gas was heavier than the air.

We have learned from this lesson two things, first, that carbonic acid gas will put out a flame, and second, that it is heavier than air.
