Editor Stout, of the Lake City Plain Dealer, has been sued for libel. We will bet the gent who has started the suit won't have anything that resembles a character when he gets through with George.

The following very interesting item is taken from the Detroit Evening News: "Harbor Springs—Snow has fallen six H. N. is an extensive poultry and produce to move about 10,000,000 feet of logs now on skids."

West Branch people are securing a large amount of newspaper space over the fact that mungrel pup belonging to a minister in that village chewed up an Oxford bible, belonging to the preacher's wife. Great dog, that!

Mr. M. Phelps of Oscoda, who has been in the employ of Mr. C. V. Hicks for some years, has taken a position in Mr. Hicks' store in Alpena. Mr. Phelps is an expert piano and sewing machine man.—Alpena Pioneer.

The railroad boys propose giving a ball at the Fitzgerald hall about the 18th, for the benefit of Wm. Nixon, one of their fellow employes, who has been confined to the hospital at Detroit and Ann Arbor for the past two months, as a result of severe injuries received on the road some years ago. The assessment will be about fifty cents and everyone should purchase a ticket for the assistance, as Billy is a genial favorite wherever known.—Alpena Argus.

Muskegon possesses a level headed police court justice. The gentleman has decided that it is not assault and battery to take a dead beat by the coat collar and threaten to shake him out of his boots if he does not pay his just debts. Good for the Muskegon justice. When it shall become recognized in civilized communities that the lazy fellow who deliberately beats his fellow citizens is no better than the man who pays his debts, and the creditor no longer liable to fine and imprisonment if he does threaten, or even use a little force in his treatment of the dead beat, the moral tone of every community will be enhanced, for then there will be fewer "critters" in form of human beings who will have the temerity to say to their victims, "get your pay if you can," for the creditors will oftentimes "take it out of his hide," and then balance the account. Laws as administered today favor the dead beat every time.—Big Rapids Herald.

Alcona will Fight.

A Harrisville dispatch says supervisors are preparing for important litigation with the state. In 1895 Aud-Gen. Turner notified the county clerk that Alcona's share of the state tax was $4,170; in a few days he sent another notice, that a mistake had been made, the amount being $400. The supervisors thereupon spread $400 on the roll.

It now appears there was a mistake in each notice. The amount should have been just $4,000. The auditor-general said he would keep the full amount of $1,000 from the delinquent tax returned, but the supervisors will fight.

The D. & M. Extension.

Engineer D. J. Casey of the Detroit and Mackinac is now working on the survey of the line from Rogers City to Cheboygan. The work, however, is not being done on the ground itself, but in Mr. Casey's office in the Ridotte block. Some two years ago a line was run from Alpena to Cheboygan by the surveyors. The road has since been extended to Rogers City over the route originally surveyed. Mr. Casey is now going over the remainder of the route. He says there is little doubt but that the extension will be over the old survey. The only question now is on what side of Black or Cheboygan lake the road will run. Some of the property owners want the line on the opposite side of the lake to the original survey and Mr. Casey and some of the officials of the road will have to take a trip over the ground and look the matter up before it is finally decided.

General Manager Hawks says there is no doubt in his mind that the extension will be built and that work will commence this spring. He said the New York end of the company had not yet been asked for the necessary cash but that when they were asked he expected they would readily fork over. Mr. Hawks looks for a great improvement in all branches of business in the spring.—The old D. & M. was a great money maker ever since the time it changed hands and with the increased facilities the road now has, earnings of the road should double.

It is forty-three miles from Rogers City to Cheboygan and when the line is completed the Michigan Central will have a competing line between this city and the northern country, including the straits and the upper peninsula. The country along the D. & M. is not only great farming land but is rich in timber. Its greatest wealth, however, is thought by the railroad people to be its summer resort prospects. Mr. Hawks informed the Tribune some time ago that he believed all the country along the lake and bay touched by their line was unsurpassed for summer resorts and next year they were going to open it up. "We think that if we can once get the people up there," said Mr. Hawks, "that they will fall in love with the country and go up every year. We'll get them up, too. If they won't go for half fare we will take them both ways for a dollar; and and if that don't bring them we will run free trains. We have tried that and know it will work," he added with a laugh.—Bay City Tribune.

He Slandered a Woman.

Mrs. Robert Dobson, of Haynes, shot James Anderson, a farmer, four times while he sat in his buggy in front of the Huron house in Harrisville, last Tuesday. Death was instantaneous. The woman, who had come in with her husband and three small children, to the farmers' institute for Alcona county, claims that Anderson injured her character by circulating slanderous stories. She demanded a retraction and when he refused she shot him. She is in jail and does not regret the act.

To Jail.

The case of O. L. Partridge, convicted of embezzlement from the Alpena Building and Loan Association, came up before Judge Kelly at Alpena, last Saturday, asking for a new trial. Investigation brought out the fact that Jurors Muason and Hapemehl talked with outsiders during the trial. Both were given 30 days in the county jail. Partridge was granted a new trial.

KAFFIR CORN.

A Test of Its Availability for Pine Plains to be Made in this County.

Kaffir Corn is an African cereal, which is being grown with great success in Kansas on the light, dry lands of that state, and if it can be raised on the plains of Northern Michigan, it would make this section of the state a great stock country. Mr. C. M. Garrison, advertising manager of the D. & M. Ry., will make an effort to have a thorough test made on all the various lands of this county during the coming season, and our farmers should give him their hearty cooperation.

In this connection we publish an extract of a letter written by a former resident of Cheboygan, to a citizen of that city, from Independence, Kansas. It is as follows:

"I have shipped you today by freight one sack of 'kaffir corn,' as I promised you when I was in Cheboygan last summer. I also on close up clippings from papers on the subject matter. I have made considerable inquiry among the farmers about its growth and yield, find that the general average yield is from 25 to 35 bushels per acre—(some say it has yielded as high as 60 bushels). This is when it has been planted in drill rows and cultivated same as corn. It has been drilled in broadcast and cut for fodder. The yield in this manner is simply enormous—cattle prefer it to hay. Am told that cattle and hogs will leave our common corn and go to this (Kaffir) corn when they have the choice. They tell me it makes good bread and griddle cakes—better than buckwheat and oat meal. It is very hard to grind however, to be fine enough for bread. It has only been grown here, to any very great extent, for the past two years, but all say it is the coming sure crop for Kansas. It will grow and do well on poorer or learner land than our common corn and stands the drough and hot weather like cotton. When common corn is curling up by the sun and hot weather, Kaffir corn goes on with its growing just the same.

It will mature in about the same time as Indian corn—some say it will sooner. It is gathered in different ways, some feed it whole and some has it chopped or ground, some cut and shock in, and some cut the heads off and leave the stalks standing. I believe it will grow and yield well on the sandy pine plains of Cheboygan, I send you the card of Wm. Bowen, from whom I got this, who will furnish you any amount should you need more. Don't be afraid of it, it is a success, and will pay to plant for either the corn or fodder. By the way, I have put in several heads of the Kaffir corn to show you how it grows. The sample in the heads is red corn, while the corn in the sack—shelled or rather threshed—is white. There is two varieties, white and red, so don't have them planted near each other, or they will mix. They say the white is the best variety. They say it should be planted in rows and a stalk about every eight or ten inches. Don't use any plow in cultivation.

The clippings referred to are from the Chicago Times-Herald, and are as follows:

"Wheat and corn may not be grown after this in Kansas," said Rev. John D. Woods, of Evanston, yesterday. "The Kansas farmer will turn his attention to the raising of African kaffir, and on that he will feed his family and his cattle and through it he will accumulate wealth and again enjoy prosperity."

The rainmaker and the visionary irrigationist have had their day in Kansas, according to Mr. Woods, who has just returned to Evanston, after a three years' sojourn in the Sunflower state. The Kansas farmer will no longer pray for rain—the less of it the better. The hot winds will no longer burn the crops, but they will thrive on it. Neither sand nor alkali nor grasshopper nor chinch bugs will again be all powerful factors in the annual computation, and everybody will grow kaffir and eat kaffir and buy and sell kaffir and Kansas will boom as she never did before.

The driest spot of land in the whole state will grow the biggest drop of kaffir, and the rich bottom land will grow kaffir, too.

"But what is kaffir?" asked a good Evanstonian, to whom the portly Methodist clergyman was dilating on the new source of wealth.

"Kaffir?" Why kaffir is a cereal of Africa, which grows in the hottest and driest places. It will grow almost anywhere where it is hot—and Kansas yields abundantly.

"A few years ago Jerry Simpson shipped a quantity of the seed to his constituents, and they planted it and fed it to their cattle. Two years ago we experimented on making flour out of it, with the hope that the product might be used to advantage in making bread, but we did not have the best of success. The mills could not grind it fine enough, so it was not altogether good to eat. Somehow the old burr process of grinding failed, and many thought our scheme for feeding hungry Kansas a failure. The product was good for the cattle, and when the farmer could raise nothing else he raised kaffir.

"Last year we experimented more. Nearly every mill in southern and western Kansas was tried, but with poor success, for the flour was invariably too coarse to be pleasant to eat, although the flavor was unsurpassed. We did not despair, and two months ago I came to Chicago, bringing with me 3,000 pounds of kaffir. For days I consulted with the leading millers of the city in regard to the grinding of the grain, and many of them tried new ways of solving the problem. At last we discovered a way, and the kaffir flour can now be made as well as any other flour. The old burr process was abandoned and immense rollers used instead.

"Less than a week ago the first successful kaffir mill was equipped at Marquette, Kan., and it is doing a wonderful business. It is superior in flavor to any other flour, and food specialists pronounce it more nutritious than the flour made from wheat. Kansas people are elated; and see the dawning of a new era. Within a few months I hope to arrange my plans so as to be able to erect a large mill in Chicago, and thus encourage still more the raising of the grain, which, to my mind, is going to be one of the chief articles of food within a few years.

Mr. Woods has provided his home with articles of food made from the best ground kaffir. The bread is not only wholesome, and palatable, but in appearance very closely resembles ordinary wheat bread. Pancakes of kaffir flour taste about as would that of wheat mixed with some granam flour. Mrs. Woods has taken a deep interest in her husband's effort to develop the use of this cereal, and has used it in various ways of cooking. Mrs. Woods says she has made successfully from kaffir flour almost everything possible to be made from wheat or graham.

I have made mush which could hardly be told from the mush made from corn meal," said Mrs. Wood. "I have also prepared from the kaffir flour a dish resembling oatmeal, which, I think, is very pleasant to eat. I believe the new food is going to revolutionize cooking. Our only drawback so far has been an inability to get the flour ground fine enough for pastry."

J. W. Heigh, who is here from Wichita, Kan., to assist in the new food project, says it is his opinion that within a few years kaffir will be grown extensively all through the west, especially in western Kansas, Indian Territory, Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. "I have seen," he said "some fine fields of kaffir in western Kansas, where practically nothing else would grow. The grain can be scattered broadcast, and will spring up like weeds, and nothing seems to be able to choke it. If properly planted 100 bushels may be raised to the acre. The plant resembles sorghum in appearance. The stalks grow from four to eight feet in height, and the leaves are more plentiful, and are also wider and longer, than those of corn. The grain itself is slightly larger than mustard seed, and is round, hard and smooth. The hull is very thin, and in grinding there is little chaff. The weight of the grain per bushel runs about sixty pounds, the same as wheat, but a bushel of kaffir will make 100 per cent more flour than a bushel of wheat. In this respect, and to the number of bushels per acre, the kaffir has a great advantage."

Mr. Wood, who has studied and taken such an interest in the project, is a graduate of Garrott Biblical Institute, of Evanston, and made that suburb his home for a number of years. During his absence he has remained a property holder there.

Our Great Introductory Offer

To secure widespread and favorable publicity for THE NEW STANDARD AMERICAN ENCYCLOPEDIA, we have decided to place a few introductory sets in each community throughout the country for comparison with all other reference works as to plan, scope, lateness of treatment and general practical and educational value. We feel that every set will create a demand for others. While the distribution will be general in extent, it will last for a limited time only, after which our regular subscription sale will begin, at prices ranging from $48 to $72 a set, according to style of binding. Now, however, to quickly and thoroughly introduce the work, as above stated, we make the price merely nominal (about the cost of paper and printing), the distribution being limited to a very few weeks, reserving the privilege of withdrawing the offer at any time when we consider a sufficient number of these introductory sets, at the special price, has been distributed.

Send $1 to THE ENCYCLOPEDIA PUBLISHING CO., 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and a full set of eight volumes of THE NEW STANDARD AMERICAN ENCYCLOPEDIA in cloth binding, will be forwarded to you at once. The balance is payable at the rate of $1.50 monthly for one year, or about 5 cents a day. If you prefer the half-Morocco binding, the monthly payment will be $2, and for full sheep, $2.50 per month for the year. We recommend the half-Morocco style, which is particularly elegant and serviceable, and will last a lifetime. If not as represented any set may be returned within ten days and money will be promptly refunded. Owing to the nominal price at which these introductory sets are sold, transportation charges must be paid by purchaser. Our confidence that the volumes will be cheerfully paid for is shown by sending a $48 set of books on payment of only $1. We also feel that you will thoroughly appreciate the superb new work and speak favorably of it to others. Sample pages, with specimen illustrations, will also be sent on application until the offer is withdrawn. We refer you to the publisher of this newspaper. Always mention name of paper you see this offer in. Address

Chancery Notice.

THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF JOSCO, IN CHANCERY.

George L. Cornville, Executor, vs. George J. Butterfield, J. Henry Cullham and Charlotte Cullham, Defendants.

Due proof by affidavit having been made to me that said defendant, George J. Butterfield, is not a resident of the state of Michigan, but is a resident of the state of Illinois.

On motion of Charles R. Henry, solicitor for complainant, it is ordered that said defendant appear and answer the bill of complaint in his cause within four months from the date of this order, and that in default thereof that said bill of complaint be taken as confessed by said defendant. And it is further ordered that this order be published in the Tawas Herald, a newspaper published in the City of Tawas City, in the county of Isoco, once in each week for six weeks in succession, and that the first publication be made within twenty days from the date hereof. Dated, November 13th, 1896.

WILLIAM H. SIMPSON, Circuit Judge.
