FINE STOCK OF NEW FALL GOODS JUST RECEIVED AT FRIEDMAN'S

THE sharp advance in silver during the past two weeks must cause our goldbug friends some worry. If rumors of an increased demand will cause such an advance in the price, what would be the result of its re-monetization by a country like the United States?

ATTY. GEN. MCKENNA last Tuesday announced his opinion in the matter of section 22 of the new tariff law. He holds in affect that goods coming directly into the United States from foreign countries through Canadian ports are not subject to the discriminating duty of 10 per cent and also holds that foreign goods shipped from countries other than British possessions in British vessels are not subject to the discriminating duty.

SAYS the New York Post (Rep.): Mr. Dingley's cry for haste with the tariff, on the ground that every day's delay ment a loss to the treasury of $108,000, sounds hollow in the face of actual returns. In New York the receipts for the Dingley's first day were $137,000, as against $361,000, from Wilson's last day, a clear loss of more than $200,000, caused by the advent of Dingley. Taking the figures for the country as a whole, the comparison is still more instructive. The deficit up to date is $25,000,000, and would be much larger but for the extraordinary receipts under the Wilson bill. When the unaided Dingley bill gets to work we shall have some magnificent deficits to explain.

It is stated that parties claiming to represent the state board of health, sent to examine into the condition of the water supply on the farms, make so-called examinations, find microbes and bacteria everywhere, and terrify the farmers into buying alleged disinfectants. The state board of health has no such agent or representative. When a representative of that board is sent out to make investigations, he will be able to exhibit letters of authority, or a commission from the board, with the official seal attached, which will show that he is an authorized inspector and not an imposter. Don't allow yourself to be imposed upon by frauds, who merely wish to sell their wares.

An Object Lesson.

One of the features on the New York Stock Exchange, yesterday, was the attention attracted by the further sharp rise of silver five-eighths of a penny in London, and a cent and a half in New York for bars to 56 1/2 cents per ounce fully five cents higher than the recent low point. The sensitivity of the market to any increased demand, or even prospective increase for the one fifth silver in Bank of England reserve, is, as yet, but an expectation demonstrates clearly enough what would be the result should the mints of the United States, France and India be thrown open to silver, or even this country alone. The lessening of the demand for silver by demonetization in 1873 and since is the sole cause of the drop in silver as compared with gold. The price of silver naturally fell, the demand for coinage purposes falling off; and the price of gold, just as naturally, rose because of the greatly increased demand for money use, a rise which showed itself in the general fall of prices and a further apparent fall in silver. The present advance in silver, on merely an expected demand, of five cents on ounce in a few days, furnishes an object lesson to the gold standard financiers which they may study with profit, if not with satisfaction.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

In view of the officially estimated deficit in the payment of pensions for the current fiscal year there may be some emphatic talk on this subject at the coming session of Congress. Lest some of your republican readers should say that this idea of a pension deficit was concocted by the opponents of the administration, the following language used by H. Clay Evans, Commissioner of pensions, is given: "I estimate that the total payment for the year will not exceed $147,500,000, and this appropriation for the year is $141,263,880," Mr. Evans speaks of this probable deficit of six and a quarter millions of dollars as indifferently as though he were talking of purchasing a pint of peanuts, and when his attention was called to the probability that the failure of the new tariff to produce the estimated amount of the revenue might cause Congress to object to passing a deficiency pension appropriation bill for this year, he gave away the republican plan for meeting such a contingency by saying: "If there should be an unexpected falling off in the revenue, the pension payments might be curtailed towards the end of the year".

The Home Rule Plank of the republican platform cuts no ice when it comes to providing for a cousin of Mr. McKinley, as was shown by the announcement that Frederick E. McKinley, of New Mexico, had been appointed receiver of public moneys Guthrie, Oklahoma. A cousin of the Vice President was also provided with an office, but not quite so big an office as he applied for. This was Edward F. Hobart, who aspired to be Governor of New Mexico, and who appointed receiver of public moneys at Sante Fe.

Indian Commissioner Jones hasn't resigned, and is not likely to do so voluntarily, although Boss Hanna's man has been appointed Assistant Commissioner over the protest of Jones. This is another straw showing the uselessness of republican objections to the carrying out of any of Hanna's wishes.

Ex-Secretary Hoke Smith passed through Washington a day or two ago, and he was fairly bubbling over with satisfaction at the bright prospects ahead of the United Democratic party, which always wins. He thinks the success of the democrat in Greater New York is certain, and that it will start a wave of party harmony that will result in the election of a democratic House next year and of a democratic President in 1900.

All the talk about Gen. Fitz Lee remaining at home and taking part in the Virginia campaign, was settled for good and all, when General Lee, in deference to a request of Mr. McKinley, made during a long conference between the two men at the White House, agreed to resume his duties as U. S. Consul General to Cuba as soon as the leave of absence upon which he came home, expired, which will be early in October. General Lee is mum about the situation in Cuba, but his opinions as well as the drift of his sympathy are pretty well known, and it is not believed that he would have agreed to return to Cuba had he not been given to understand that some action was soon to be taken by this Government that will put an end to the present deplorable condition there.

Boss Platt is using all his wiles to get Mr. McKinley to take sides against the candidacy of Seth Low for Mayor of Greater New York, and he is very sly about it, too. He is trying to convince Mr. McKinley, and has almost succeeded, that if he doesn't help to kill the aspirations of Low, he will have him to fight as a candidate for the Presidential nomination at the next Republican National Convention. Mr. McKinley is somewhat of a politician himself, and will not do all that Platt wants him to do, without exacting loyalty from Platt in 1900, but present indications are that he will join Platt in fighting Low, which will make it all the easier for a democrat to be elected Mayor of Greater New York.

At last a man has been found who is willing to acknowledge having had a hand in the putting of Section 22 in to the tariff bill, while that measure was in conference. It is Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, who says that the discriminating duties prescribed are intended to shut out freight now brought into the U. S. by the Canadian Pacific Railroad. But it will also shut out much stuff brought by other transportation lines, both by rail and sea.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

The mean temperature for the week ended Saturday, September 18 68.3 degrees, is 8.0 degrees greater than the normal. The first five days were a continuation of the excessively hot, dry weather which prevailed during the week preceeding. During this warm part of the week the temperature ranged from 11 to 15 degrees above the normal daily. On Friday there was a decided drop in the thermometer, and Saturday morning a light frost occurred in many localities, but the resulting damage was very light, and confined entirely to low ground. The mean temperature on Friday and Saturday ranged from 2 to 4 degrees below the normal. The warmest temperature, 96 degrees, occurred at Baraga, Clinton and Kalamazoo, on the 15th, and at Fitchburg on the 16th. The lowest temperature 36 degrees, occurred at Luzerne, Hillsdale Fitchburg, on Saturday, the 18th.

The average total precipitation, 0.52 of an inch, is 0.06 of an inch less than the normal. The great bulk of this amount fell over the upper peninsula, and the northern counties of the lower peninsula, while only light showers occurred over the central and southern counties.

The sunshine has averaged 63 per cent of the possible amount.

The weather conditions of the past week have been favorable to fall crops, but in the six southern tiers of counties the dry condition of the soil has been exceedingly unfavorable for fall wheat and rye seeding. The corn crop is now nearly all safe from frost and promises to yield above the average. Corn cutting is well under way and in many cases has been finished; about a week or ten days more of favorable weather will see the entire crop cut. Buckwheat has ripened very rapidly under the influence of the hot weather for the past two weeks and much of the crop is already cut and farmers are busy securing that which is still standing; it is generally a fine crop. Bean pulling is now about finished and most of the crop is safely secured. Clover seed is nearly all secured and the yield is very satisfactory. Late potatoes are generally matured but are yielding lightly; a few of the late varieties still need a week of favorable weather. In the southern half of the lower peninsula fall seeding has been very much delayed by the dry and dusty condition of the soil and over this district rain is needed not only to promote fall sowing but to germinate the seed already sown. The early sowing of rye and wheat over southern Michigan has come up unevenly owing to the dryness of the soil. Over the northern counties and upper peninsula fall seeding is nearly finished and the seed has germinated nicely. All fall fruits except pears and grapes, are yielding very poorly. The frost of Saturday morning was light and its damage very small and confined almost entirely to low ground.

Effect of Food Upon Milk.

The question as to the effect of food on the composition of milk has again been opened, and by no less an authority than Prof. Soxhlet, of Munich. In the present unsatisfactory state of our knowledge of the physiological side of milk production, any scientific contribution on the subject cannot fail to be of interest, for until we can learn more definitely the true relation between food and milk, experiments on the value of this or that feeding stuff or relation for milk production can hardly contribute much to the science of feeding for milk and must confine mostly to the financial side of the question.

In his latest published work Prof. Soxhlet shows that in some of the experiments which have been regarded as conclusive on certain points and which have had much to do with shaping the general opinion of the effect of food on milk, rations were fed which were less digestible than was assumed, i. e., that the particular substances tested, like fat, were added to the basal ration in such form that they were not digested by the animal. Hence, no effect could be reasonably expected. His investigations lead him to believe there is no direct transmission of fat from the food to the milk, as some have held; but that normal milk fat is a product of the activity of the lactal glands, and that its source is the body fat of the cow. The fat of the food affects the secretion of milk fat by replacing a part of the body fat, and thus causes a transmission of the body fat to the milk. He is confident that the fat of the food can effect one side increase in the fat contents of the milk; but he states that the fat is the only food constituent capable of doing this.

Feeding oils, tallow, etc., in such form that they could be assimilated by the animal body resulted in an increased production of fat, but when the same fats were fed in different form they were without effect because they were not digested. On this ground of failure of digestion Prof. Soxhlet explains many of the negative results in "feeding fat into milk," which have been regarded as strong arguments in the theory that the fat cannot be increased by feeding. This suggests the necessity in all feeding work of this kind of determining to what extent the rations are actually digested, and especially when substances are fed which may themselves fail to be digested or affect the digestibility of the other ingredients of the ration. This point may prove to be of much importance in interpreting the real effect of various materials added to the basal rations, not only in this particular line of work, but also in other feeding experiments.—United States Department of Agriculture.

Food Consumption by Cows.

It is not a problem to estimate how much a cow should be fed each day, provided the owner thoroughly understands the conditions and knows the characteristics of each animal; hence all rules given in stables for that purpose are useful only to a certain extent. It is a rule to feed according to the live weight of the animal, but practical results prove that the large animals may consume less than smaller ones and that cows differ in their preferences for foods of various kinds. It is a safe rule to follow, however, in allowing food to consider the production of each animal and allow accordingly. Nothing is gained by saving in the food if it can be converted into milk and butter. When a cow is doing good work at the pail she should have an abundance of all she will eat.—Philadelphia Record.
