Yours Truly,

G. W. MOUNT,

From Our Boys at Camp Alger.

CAMP ALGER, VA., June 9th, 1898. Well boys, when I was home the last time I promised to write you a letter, concerning the welfare of company B and its members.

First of all, I wish to thank you for the receipt of the HERALD while at Island Lake, and will say that it was greatly appreciated by both John Brabon and myself, for it is the only home paper we have received since we left. I will now tell you of the delightful trip we had from Michigan to Virginia. As you already know, the 33d Regiment Michigan Volunteers, including company B, left Island Lake on the 28th of May, at 12:30 noon. After waiting three days for the "red tape" system, to get the trains there that were to carry us. At Howell Junction we were transferred to the Toledo & Ann Arbor road. Each section was pulled by two engines and from there to Toledo we were whirled along at the rate of 50 miles an hour, through one of the finest farming countries in the world. At about two o'clock we reached Ann Arbor and there we were served with an elaborate dinner, consisting of "hardtack and coffee." Twenty minutes of a stop and we were again on our way to Toledo, arriving there at 3:15 p.m. On account of switching us around through the suburbs and changing engines, we did not get away from there until 4:15. Our next stop was Bucyrus, Ohio, where supper was served, coffee, hardtack and sandwiches. After leaving that place we passed through the oil country of southern Ohio, where on either side as far as we could see were pump houses, some of which were engaged in pumping the petroleum to the surface. The various houses were connected to each other by means of a 2 inch pipe extended into the air by scaffolds and all were operated by one large engine at the central station. We went to bed at 9:00 that night, and all were enjoying the "exquisite luxury" of once more sleeping between two nice white sheets with all our clothes off and our heads resting on a soft pillow, when all of a sudden we were awakened by the sound of martial music. By investigating the matter a little we found that instead of being attacked by Spaniards we were still on American soil, having just pulled into the station at "Coming," Ohio, where the population had turned out Ed. Masse to give us a send off. At 11:30 the big train began to move again and after considerable handshaking and 30 minutes of right-royal entertainment, we tumbled into bed again for a good night's sleep. At 5 o'clock in the morning I heard somebody saying, "May de good Lowd help you, boys" and when I poked my head out of the window the first thing I saw was an ebony hued face and from there to the end of our journey the colored population was in majority. On making an inquiry I learned that we were in Charleston, W. Va., and were waiting for a change of engines. This stop, however, was not long, and we were soon speeding along through a country that the northern boys had fought their way over, thirty years ago, for practically the same cause that compels us to go today.

The scenery that one encounters in passing through this country is good for "sore eyes." For 3 hours we were in the Valley of the Kanawha river, running parallel with that stream most of the time. About 8:00 o'clock we crossed the Kanawha and after winding around through the hills for a while we came into the New River, 40 miles from the foot of the Alleghany Mountains. In passing through this country we enjoyed ourselves immensely and one would have thought that the boys had been suddenly taken with color-blindness by the way they threw kisses at the "black girls." On one side of us was a wall of rock, varying in height from twenty to one hundred and twenty feet and on the other side we could look away across the valley and see the large plantations and occasionally a small town where the negro is at home.

Last, but not least, by any means, was the ride over the mountains, for it is hard to describe the beautiful scenery that greeted our eyes here. In passing up through some of these grand ravines we could look on either side and see nothing but green foliage that extended far up the mountain side, dotted here and there by the little white villages or summer residences of the southern planter. Part of the time we would be up on the mountain side and the next moment down in the valley or dashing through a tunnel for a race down the other side. In making this trip we made an ascent of 1800 feet and passed through 23 tunnels, the longest being one mile and three quarters, known as "Big Bend." We also went through a great many small villages with names such as "Eagles Roost," "Hawks Nest," and "Happy Hollow," etc. At Hinton, a city of 5,000, we were given quite a reception and also at Stanton, W. Va.

We arrived at Dunn Loring, the last station on the route at two o'clock on the morning of May 30th, where we stopped until 8 o'clock and then had two and one-half miles of a march to Camp Alger. On arriving here we were marched into what looked to us like an old clearing covered with under-brush about four feet high, and here is where we spent Decoration day engaged in setting up our camp. We are situated on the east side of the "Gallas Road" in what is known as the "Old Peach Orchard," where the Federal troops camped during their retreat from

ARMOR PLATED BOYS.

It is important in these days that there should be armor plated boys. A boy needs to be iron clad on His lips—against the first taste of liquor. His ears—against impure words. His hands—against wrong doings. His heart—against irreverence and doubt. His feet—against going with bad company. His eyes—against dangerous books and pictures. His pocket—against dishonest money. His tongue—against evil speaking.

The Christian armor on her citizens gives more security to the nation than all the armor plate can on her ships.—Christian Guardian.

St. Paul has been chosen as the place for the next convention of the national W. C. T. U. the time set being November 11-16.

Of all predisposing causes of stroke, the use of alcoholic liquors is the greatest.

The state of Pennsylvania, to its shame be it said, has contracted with a certain brewing company, for two carloads of beer a week to be furnished to its volunteer troops assembled at Harrisburg.

A physician says that the best immunity from yellow fever is a temperate and pure life. This is a truth our soldiers should know. Let the friends of every boy in blue now connected with the invading army tell him that his safety lies in abstaining wholly from debauchery and whiskey, the two greatest enemies of the military.—Michigan Christian Advocate.

Truth at all costs should be the watchword of every honest soul. The bond of society is confidence whose basis is truth.—Rev. J. A. Henry.

According to returns made to congress by the district commissioners there are 547 retail and 147 wholesale liquor establishments at the national capital. This is a reduction of nearly half in the numbers of saloons within a couple of years, said to be due in a great measure, to the high license exacted from the proprietors.

OUR COUNTY SCHOOLS

Superintendent McElhinney has secured Hon. Perry F. Powers, member of the State Board of Education, to deliver the address at the Commencement exercises of the class of '98. The exercises will be held at the high school on Wednesday evening June 22. The subject of Mr. Powers' address will be "The School and Home." The Baccalaureate Sermon will be given by Rev. A. Waterbury, at the Baptist church on Sunday evening, June 19.

THE GIRL GRADUATE AND THE BOY, John Randall, editor of the Mail Telegram, published in Mio, Michigan is not only a genius in practical mechanics, a scientist of no mean caliber, but withal a philosopher. He has supplied his little town, though far from railroads, with a good telephone service, and a cheap and excellent system of water works. His words on the foregoing topic are well worth our consideration.—ED.

This is the time of year when the papers teem with columns of matter about the "sweet girl graduate." That is right, but where is the boy? This year a neighboring city graduates a class of eleven-ten girls and one boy. While this ratio may not hold good in all localities it is plain, if not soon stopped, this sort of thing will reach 16 to 1 without the consent of any other nation on earth.

But where is the boy? Several of him are working to earn a living and they will make a success of life although handicapped by a lack of educational equipment. But several girls are doing the same thing while men claim to be out of employment. The work theory, then, does not account for the missing boy. But many of him are loitering about the streets and low saloons and therefore have no time to attend school. A few of him get an excellent educational equipment for the battle of life, which equipment, though extremely valuable, cannot be made to take the place of brains in either sex. Then there is quite a number of him (the boy) who are too utterly useless to go into any of the foregoing classes. They attend school a very, very little and then resolve to be an editor, a teacher, a philosopher or possibly a preacher. By going into these eminently respectable callings they prevent the over crowding of other occupations and thus more or less completely supply a "long-felt want," although in no other sense are they even a moderate success. Then there are many of him in school. Truly their name is legion, but they make little progress in their studies. Thus after much research has the boy been accounted for, although he rarely graduates.

But the girl! She is there and in exactly the proper shade of pink, "looking cool" and comfortable although it is quite possible that her shoes are several sizes too small. Yet with the exception of a few minor defects and deformities required by fashion she is "all right." And we are glad she is there. A few years ago the editors and teachers and philosophers told us that it was the mission of women to get married, presumably leaving the men free to attend to more important matters. We don't remember that anybody has controverted this statement, but after much research among ancient as well as modern authorities we have discovered that as many men as women commit matrimony. Queer, isn't it, that an obscure country newspaper should discover such an astounding fact? It is, however, a yard-wide fact and warranted not to shrink while the world exists. And the philosopher who has the hardihood to assign to either sex a greater prevalence of the contagion known as matrimony is certainly off his trolley.

Then there is a certain class of philosophers, generally females, emancipationists, who hold that their sex has been held in bondage so many generations that it is greatly inferior to the race of being known as men. However, we fail to recall a single instance where a girl belongs to a different race than her brother, or even to a different family. We must therefore conclude that both sexes come into the world with exactly the same natural advantages. And all other limitations and handicaps are self-imposed. But the girl is getting the best of this business. There is no keeping her back, now that she occasionally gets a tea-cupful of fresh air into her lungs. And you ought to prefer pork and beans to angel food. "Ay, there's the rub." If she would confine her diet to angel food we might smoke cigarettes and still graduate with her. Exercise, and occasionally proper clothing, are working wonders for the girl, while the boy gets a coffin nail between his teeth, allows his brains to dry up, and goes to the rear. To be sure, the girl is required to deform her waist until her figure resembles that of a sawdust doll "made in Germany" expressly for export. This necessary deformity makes her a little weak-minded and hysterical, but it is nothing compared to the sins and shortcomings of the boy. For he that sooth the wind reapeth a large crop of whirlwind, but utterly failth in algebra.

In view of these facts wouldn't it pay us the biggest kind of interest, boys, if we would try to be as decent as our sisters? While we have been learning bad habits they have mastered algebra, and are leaving us far behind. Why should a girl go through life unscathed except for a few trifling marks outlining her dress stays on her liver, while so many of us fall outside the breastworks? Let us brace up, sober up and then climb up to the head of the procession.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

To the Democratic Electors of the State of Michigan.

The Democrats of Michigan will meet in state convention in the city of Grand Rapids on Wednesday, June 23, 1898, at 12 o'clock noon for the purpose of nominating party candidates for the following state offices: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Auditor-General, Attorney-General, Commissioner of State Land Office, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Member of State Board of Education. The convention will also transact such other business as may come before it.

According to the rules adopted by the democratic state convention held in Detroit in 1880, and since followed, every county in the state is entitled to one delegate for each 500 votes cast for governor at the last general election, and one additional delegate for a fraction of not less than 250 votes. But each county is entitled to at least two delegates. All delegates must be residents of the county which they represent.

The delegates from each congressional district will meet in caucus at 10 o'clock on the morning of June 22 at quarters to be hereafter designated by the state central committee, and will select persons for recommendation to the convention for service upon the several committees of the convention.

Each district will be entitled to one vice-president of the convention and one assistant secretary, and one member on each of the committees on credentials, permanent organization, and order of business and resolutions.

The secretary of each county convention is requested to forward to the secretary of the state central committee at Lansing by the earliest mail, after the delegates to the state convention have been chosen, a certified list of such delegates as are entitled to seats at said convention from their respective counties.

County chairmen in calling county conventions to elect delegates to the state convention, are requested to include in the business to be transacted by the county convention (in all counties where applicable), the election of delegates to the congressional and state senatorial and representative conventions, when called.

All electors who approve of the Chicago platform of 1896 are invited to participate in the Democratic primaries under this call.

FRANK L. DODGE, Secretary
FRED A. BAKER, Chairman
Detroit, May 16, 1898.

The bill authorizing the issuing of $200,000,000 of war bonds has become a law. It will now require only a few weeks to finish the war.

It is already announced that the sugar trust and the standard oil trust will refuse to pay the tax of one quarter of one cent on their gross receipts in excess of $250,000 imposed by the war revenue law, and will go into court to fight the constitutionality of the law.

The present indications are that Hon. J. R. Whiting of St. Claire county, will be the nominee at the state convention next week for governor. Mr. Whiting has rendered his party long and valiant service and is entitled to the nomination. He is capable, popular and will make a standard bearer around whom the democracy of Michigan can rally with confidence.

The fact that the war revenue law provides for the coinage of the silver bullion owned by the government at the rate of $1,500,000 a month destroys every argument advanced by the gold standard men against the coinage of the seigniorage. The amount to be coined each month is less than was proposed by the silver men, but authorizing the coinage of any amount was recognition of the principle advocated by the silver men.

It is openly charged on every hand that much of the inconvenience that the troops have been put to has been directly traceable to the incompetence of many of the civilians appointed to important staff positions by Mr. McKinley. Secretary Alger now says that in ten days every man in the army will be provided with his full equipment for war. Then there can be no further valid excuse for pottering along instead of at once fighting the war to a close.

We understand that the name of Hon. James K. Wright, of Grayling, will be presented to the state convention next week for the nomination of commissioner of the state land office. No better man could be found for the position. Mr. Wright has served two terms in the United States land office and is thoroughly familiar with the duties he would be called upon to perform as commissioner of the state land office. He will lend strength to the ticket and we hope to see him nominated.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer says: "Lieutenant Hobson, who was in command of the valorous little party which sunk the collier Merrimac across the narrow entrance to the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, so as to shut the Cape Verde fleet in, is entitled to towering credit in more ways than one. He conceived the idea of sinking the boat; he made the plans, and carried them out; and after escaping from the sinking craft he showed the highest order of sense in making direct for a Spanish ship. Had he tried to make a landing, he and his gallant party would have been shot to death." It has been said by those associated with Hobson in the navy, that he "has wheels in his head," but there are few navy officers who would not gladly have wheels in their head if they brought the name and fame that will be his in history.

Growth of The University.

The University of Michigan began in 1817 with nine students and one department, that of literature, science and the art. It closes the fifty-seventh year of its history at the coming commencement with 3,114 students and seven separate faculties. In its first decade the increase was slow, from 9 to 154. The medical department was added at the beginning, the law department at the end, of the second decade, when the total attained 533. At the end of the third decade women were admitted, and the total, including the new pharmacy department, was 1,102. Thus the third decade more than doubled the attendance of the second. From 1870 to 1875 there was but 25 increase, due probably to the business depression succeeding for several years the panic of 1871. From 1880 to 1898, however, the attendance has almost trebled. The falling off in the attendance of the literary department in 1895 6 from 1,523 to 1,204 is due to the separate organization of the engineering department, whose students hitherto had been incorporated with the literary department. Just before and during the war the literary department fell off in number from 287 to 217, rapidly regaining, the last year of the war, and quickly passing beyond, its previous registration. Since the years of business depression in 1870-75, its attendance has steadily increased, barring the subtraction of the engineers already alluded to.

Last Friday a nine-year old son of Fred Bishoff, of Tawas township, found a dynamite cap which he was playing with when it exploded, tearing away the two middle fingers of his left hand. The little fellow was brought to this city and Dr. Darling dressed the wound.

The flag day entertainment given by the ladies of the East Tawas Episcopal church Tuesday evening was one of the most pleasing affairs given by local talent that our citizens have had an opportunity to witness in a long time, and it is to be regretted that it was not attended by a large congregation.

The Boys Brigade of this city have secured rooms in the Bager building in which to hold their meetings, and will fix it up in a comfortable manner. Next Tuesday evening the boys will give an ice cream social at their rooms and the public are earnestly requested to give the boys a good attendance.

Lewiston has been undergoing one of the worst epidemics of diphtheria ever known in the state during the past two weeks. The first case appeared June 2, and 17 cases were reported that day. During the next seven days thirty-two cases and eight deaths were reported. The town has been quarantined and every effort is being made to stop the spread of the disease.

It is certainly a mistaken idea in economy to let buildings go year in and year out without occasionally giving them a coat of paint. The damage done to unpainted or old painted buildings by the elements is the cause of much greater expense in the end than would be an occasional coat of paint. Not only would the cost be less, but well painted buildings add to your own enjoyment, and they are also a source of beauty to all beholders, and help to make the town itself a "thing of beauty."

Capt Will A. Price, of Alpena, has been authorized to recruit a company for the 35th Mich. vol., and was in this city yesterday enlisting men. The following from this locality signed the muster roll: L. P. Lathram, John Phelps, Eli Grice, Ezer Couchey, Ed Tompkins, of this city. E. Heinrich, Harry Johnson and Will Bunker, of East Tawas. The boys will be examined early next week and probably ordered to Island Lake. This company is recruited from Alpena, Alcona, Iosco, Montmorency, Crawford, Ogemaw and Aranac counties. If there are any others who wish to enlist, particulars may be had at this office.

Ladies Attention.

Mrs. A. Galbraith, of West Bay City, will be at Miss Owen's store in East Tawas, next Monday, and at Mrs. Hulbert's, in this city, on Tuesday, with a full line of sample of fine wollen hosiery, and will take orders for present or future delivery. The attention of our lady readers is especially called to the excellent long leggins which she carries. Those of our citizens who purchase of Mrs. Galbraith last fall can attest to the superiority of these goods.

From Our Boys at Camp Alger.

"Bull Run," in the late war. There is an old well a few rods from camp that was dug by Moseby's Gurrillas during one of their raids through this country.

The location of the 33d is about 12 miles from Washington, 8 miles from the Potomac River, or 3 miles from Falls Church, the headquarters of Camp Alger. We have been here two weeks and during that time we have had a great many visitors from Washington, mostly congressmen and senators from the northern states, such as the Messrs. Crump, Bliss and Wm. A. Smith. The discipline in Camp Alger is just as strict as though we were in the enemy's country. No person is allowed to pass in or out of the guard lines without a pass signed by the captain of his company.

The hours of military drill has been shortened to one hour in the forenoon and one in the afternoon, on account of the warm weather, but the lost time is almost taken up by various other drills, such as "setting up" exercises, bayonet exercises and theoretical drill. Just now the boys are being instructed "how to care for a wounded comrade." These instructions are very interesting to us for the forenoon that are used is surprising. For example, by learning these tactics one man is able to pick up and carry from the field another man that is almost twice as large as himself.

The first battalion of the 33d went to Dunn Loring the 8th inst to meet the 34th Michigan and we had a hot time you bet. They are camped just across the road from us.

We received our guns on the 9th, and it is considered as a pretty sure sign that we will not be here much longer. We only hope that this is so for we are anxious to get a crack at the "Dons." We also sincerely hope that we will not be assigned to garrison duty at some fort for if we are it will certainly destroy all hopes of ever seeing active service. However we stand about as good a show as any about going to the front, for our Col. is full of fight and we are now fully equipped for service. In regard to the way "Uncle Sam" feeds us, I will say that for about 8 days, commencing with the time we broke camp, at Island Lake, we did fare pretty slim, but since that time, however, we have got all we wanted to eat. Of course, the bill of fare isn't like it would be at a $3 per day hotel, but it is the kind of food that will toughen us for what we will get later on. We get fresh meat once a day the rest of the food being hardtack, soft-bread, beans and potatoes.

One thing is certain, however, and that is, viz: "There is altogether too much 'red tape' in the quartermaster's department." Hoping this will find all our friends at home enjoying as good health as we are, we remain,

Yours of Course,

Harvesting Wheat.

The approaching harvest bids fair to be an abundant one, and as the price is very good and likely to advance, it behooves the farmer to spare no pains to secure his wheat at the proper time, that he may obtain the highest price on the market. In order to have harvesting go on smoothly, the binder should be in perfect order. Look it over before beginning and see that every part does its work nicely. If any part is too badly worn, replace it with a new piece. When the wheat is ripe and cutting has commenced, is no time to stop for repairs. Help enough should be engaged to shock the wheat properly as fast as cut. Secure competent, trustworthy men who will do their work right, for it is important to have it well shocked. If solidly shocked and well covered, it will stand considerable rain without injury. If the work is carelessly done, wet weather may seriously damage both grain and straw. Two persons working together can shock to a much better advantage than either alone. Each taking two sheaves, they should set them tight together at the top, and down solid at the butts that the sheaf may crush stubbles and stand solidly on the ground. If the sheaves are merely set on top of the stubbles, the shock will almost invariably settle to one side and fall over. The outside sheaves should be set toward the center of the shock, and by using two good sheaves for caps, the shock will shed rain very well. The caps should be crossed, as they will shed water better, and dry sooner, than if put up on any other way. When wheat was cheap, it was customary to cut only a little at the corners to facilitate turning, and then start in with the binder afterward cutting the reverse way. It looks rather wasteful, but the only part wasted, is where the main wheel pressed it down. Much hand labor is saved in this way, and it is questioned whether the labor saved is not worth more than the grain lost. Where a large area is to be cut, it is always best to begin in time, to prevent the last getting overripe and shelling badly. The regular and frequent oiling of the binder should not be neglected. Neglect of this not only causes the machine to run much harder, but causes it to wear much faster. A little at a time, and often, should be the rule in oiling. The faster any part runs, the more oil it needs. Use a thick, heavy oil that contains but a small per cent of coal oil. In harvesting as in other farm work, it is well to remember that undue haste makes waste. It does not pay to overwork the team for the sake of finishing a few hours sooner, especially in hot weather. Many horses have died from sunstroke caused by overwork. Better save the team, though it takes a little longer. It greatly lessens the danger, as well as refreshes the team, to water them between meals, say about 9 a. m. and 3 p. m., a pail of water to each horse will be of great value. Not only while harvesting, but during the entire hot season should this be practiced. The team needs water between meals as well as the driver. Where no water is available in the field, it can be taken there on a sled in a cask or old milk can. In favorable weather after wheat has stood in shock from four to six days it can be stored in the mow, or stacked. Some prefer to thrash directly from the shock, but this method is open to various objections. In bad weather the thrashing is frequently delayed so long that the grain is badly damaged. It necessitates the employment of so much extra help and so many extra teams for getting the grain to the machine that the expense is augmented quite considerable. A farmer should always aim to grow his crops at as little expense as possible.—Prarie Farmer.
