FROM THE FRONT.

An Interesting Letter from John Brabon, Co. B., 33d Mich. Vol.

The following extracts are from letters received this week from John Brabon, by his parents, and gives some idea of the fighting and situation at Santiago:

In Front of Santiago, De Cuba, June 30th, 1898.

I am setting on the rocks looking at the ocean waves. I have just had my dinner—hard tack and coffee, without milk or sugar, that's all. I have taken a swim in the ocean. It is a good place to bath—fine sand bottom. The waves nearly reach me and I am 30 feet above them. I can see Sampson's fleet out at sea, about seven miles toward Santiago. The rocks are full of boys writing home.

We moved our camp yesterday to a better place. It rains here every day and sometimes at night—mostly thunder showers. Our picket line was with in 100 yards of the Spanish picket line yesterday. Have not heard today how they are. The Spanish call us cowards because we don't run after we shoot, but go right ahead and shoot again. The way they fight is to shoot and run back about 30 yards and shoot again. I have had to move back 100 yards from the ocean as it is getting rough and the water is coming on the rocks.

They have skirmishes here every day. Yesterday the Spanish were killed and lay on the ground like flies. I did not hear how many, but there were quite a few. Two Spaniards were captured about two miles from here and brought in. I have not seen them yet. If this was not war time I would call this paradise. It is beautiful here.

Castle Morro was shelled last night and wrecked. We will not move from here for some time as it seems to be a healthy location. There are no snakes here, but the crabs are as large as your two hands. It has begun to thunder again and I will go to camp and flush there. I am in my tent but it has not commenced to rain yet.

We have to sleep on our guns with our clothes on, ready to be in line in a minute. I have not had my clothes off since landing here.

July 2d, 1898.

We move about half a mile this morning. It is only 111 in the shade. I will tell you something of the first battle I was in. As we were marching along a shell came sailing about 10 feet over our heads and fell in Co. L, killing two and wounding three more. You ought to have seen us fall in the rocks and hide. The Captain called us out and every man got into his place and he took us over a hill until the boats had blew the forts to pieces. The last shell the Spanish fired struck within 20 feet of me, but it did not hurt anyone. The Spaniards are good soldiers but they have not got the nerve to stand up and fight. They fight like Indians and you can not tell where they are as they use smokeless powder.

The Spanish flag (flag) was shot away once, but they put it up again. The second time there was nothing to put it on as the fort was all shot to pieces. We were within 100 yards of the fort up to 3:30 p. m., when we came back to camp. The boys are well and happy here. They have been fighting at Santiago for two days and word comes this morning that they have captured it. There are about 250 wounded men here.

Our Captain (Hitchcock) has the reputation of being the coolest man in battle yet. He don't get excited a bit, but is very careful of his men and very kind to them. If he ever gets hurt, Co. B. will be turned loose for a minute and will average him as long as there is a man alive to do it. They all love him like a father and he calls them his boys. He is an old bachelor. While I am writing I have just read Peter Everiz advertisement. Let him hello for me and that his adv. is read in Cuba.

I have just been down to see some of the wounded. They are mostly shot in the arms and legs and look awful all covered with blood. One man had his shoulder shot off, but he kept right on fighting with his left hand until they told him to go to the rear.

July 7th, 1898.

This is Thursday, but one forgets what day it is here as they are all alike. I was in the hospital yesterday and last night helping there. Will Borland is there all the time. It is a fright to go through there and see some of them and know that they are living. There is one man who was shot in the left shoulder and the ball came out of his hip, but he is going to live all the same. Another man was shot three times through the bowels, but he is getting along all right. Will Borland and I got off for an hour last night and went in the ocean for a swim. Just think of us in the "breakers" for fun. We had a good time for that hour. We are all well, but nearly tired out with work and hot weather. It is nice here at night, being cool after the heat in the day time.

I suppose you have read how Lieut. Hobson was exchanged for Spanish prisoners. I was in the road when he came into camp, and was lucky enough to shake hands with him. He is a fine looking man. He says the Spanish took pretty good care of him after the first four days he was a prisoner.

I never was so lonesome in my life as I was yesterday. I was washing a poor fellow's hands and face when he spoke to his mother, and it took me back to the time when my mother used to wash me. I nearly shed tears when I thought of it. This poor boy will be home soon as one of his feet was shot off, but he is doing nicely now, and will leave for the U. S. today or tomorrow if a boat goes.

We had a fine dinner today. This is the bill of fair: *Tomatoes, *potatoes, *turtle *soup, coffee, pork, hard tack, *lemons, and *coconuts. Those marked with * are to buy with our own money, but that is all we have to buy and is all we have to spend money for.

On July 7th, Major General Miles issued a general order asking commanding officers to restrict the use of intoxicating liquors in the army while it is in service in the hot countries, as it is a tendency to impair the health and value of the troops.

We say to the young: Do not touch strong drink; it is poison to the body and soul. The danger of the drink habit is far greater than you can know. You may see no danger in the drink habit. We do, and earnestly warn you of it.—Hon. Neal Dow.

The Standard Distilling and Distributing Co. is a new gigantic whiskey combine with $24,000,000 capital incorporated in New Jersey and headquarters in New York. The new trust, it is said, includes every distillery and distributing company in the United States, except one.

An old gentleman who was in trade in a Kennebec village for more than half a century used to relate an anecdote of a business rival who was a famous liquor seller in the days when "everybody kept it." The temperance agitation of 1844 had changed the notions of many persons in Maine as to the propriety of selling liquors and at length the matter of for or against the traffic came up for a vote in a town meeting. The seller alluded to was very strenuous in his opposition to all restraint in his business and labored heartily with the voters to resist the encroachment on their "rights." But in the course of the vote it became necessary to have a division of the house. All for the traffic went to one side of the room, all opposed, to the other. The common use of alcoholic drinks had left its mark upon the faces of its victims and the crowd that assembled on one side of the town house to insist on their customary toddy was not so pretty as it might have been. To the surprise of everyone, the famous old seller, after a moment's hesitation, deliberately went to the temperance side. "What are you over here for?" the astounded people began to question. "You don't belong here, that's your side over there." The old man looked around in disgust and retorted, "you don't suppose I'm going over there in that crowd of scabby noses, do you?" A look at the uncanny assemblage of his customers had appalled him.—Lewiston Journal.

IS CONSTITUTIONAL

Tax Law of 1893 Upheld by The Supreme Court.

Lansing, July 18.—The supreme court decided a case today that materially strengthens tax titles purchased for non-payment of taxes. The property of the Ridge Copper Mining Co., situated in Ontonagon county, was bid off to the state for non-payment of taxes of 1893. Subsequently the state sold its title to J. Everett Ball of Marquette for a comparatively insignificant sum and today supreme court ordered a writ of assistance issued to Ball, to place him in possession of the property, valued at $2,000,000. The company attacked the constitutionality of the tax law of 1893, but the court held it sound in every particular.

The court reversed the judgment of the court below in the case of the Detroit Fire & Marine Insurance Co. v. Eugene B. Wood et al. The property involved was two houses and lots in Lansing, which the insurance company became possessed of by mortgage foreclosure. Wood got a tax deed for the premises on which stand two three-story brick terraces on payment of $132 27. This transaction took place after William A. Moore had remitted to the county treasurer the amount reported by the latter as sufficient to redeem the property from sales already made to the state for delinquent taxes, and also pay taxes due on which sale had not yet been made. It appears that the county treasurer was mistaken in his understanding of the status of the case and unwittingly made it possible for Wood to make the purchase. The court held that it was only because the state made an application of the insurance company's money that was not intended by the latter that Wood was enabled to obtain the deed for the small sum paid. It was therefore, ordered that the deed to Wood be set aside on payment of the sum paid by him, with interest.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

The temperature during the week ending Saturday, July 16th, was cooler than the normal, the average temperature for the state was 66.6 degrees, while the normal is 70.0 degrees. The temperature deficiencies were decided during Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and frosts of considerable severity occurred. The last four days of the week were from 2 to 4 degrees warmer than the normal.

The average precipitation, 0.05 of an inch is 0.42 of an inch less than the normal. Practically no precipitation occurred in the lower peninsula up to Saturday evening; light showers occurred in the upper peninsula.

The sunshine averaged 65 per cent of the possible amount.

Reports indicate that the frosts of last Sunday and Monday have done considerable damage to corn, potatoes, beans and garden truck throughout the northern half of the lower peninsula. In the five southern tiers of counties there was very little frost and it was quite generally confined to low grounds, and the resulting damage was light. In the northern counties, where the damage was the greatest, corn and potatoes were badly nipped. While the weather conditions have been very favorable for the completion of haying, wheat and rye harvest, the absence of rain is having a bad effect on oats, potatoes, corn and spring clover seed. Corn is in generally good condition, but during the last few hot days has been curling some. The hot dry weather has killed some spring clover seeding and pastures are drying up. Haying is very nearly completed in the lower peninsula and the cut has been finely secured: wheat and rye harvest are quite generally finished in the southern half of the state, and the grain has been nearly all secured in stack and barn. Wheat threshing has commenced and the threshers report a fine and abundant yield. Oats are ripening fast and in the extreme southern part of the state oat cutting has begun, the crop will yield lightly. Barley cutting has begun and the crop is generally a good one. There is a general need of rain in all counties of the lower peninsula, especially for corn, oats, beans, potatoes and pastures. As the season advances reports regarding apples are less encouraging, but other fruit prospects continue good.

It has been frequently remarked by the prognosticators that the candidacy of Col. George A. Loud, for the congressional nomination in the tenth district is simply a play to be in line for the nomination two years hence, the run of the cards quite clearly showing that Crump will be renominated. The knowing ones, however, say that Michigan's Manila hero will not have to wait two years for at least a portion of his reward. They assert that as a matter of fact, he will be the Pingree candidate for senator in the Oscoda district this fall, and, as much as it grieves them to do so, the artists concede that the nomination is his almost for the asking. That looks like one for Pack.—Detroit Evening News.

Just as we Predicted.

When we were urging congress to expand the currency and furnish more money for business, as well as for war, we were ridiculed by the gold press, which declared that all the country needed to carry on the war was less money and more taxation. We told them that the issuance of bonds would furnish safe investments and withdraw money from business, and that with the bond issue to absorb the circulating medium the new taxes imposed by the Dingley bill would not only be onerous, vexatious and burdensome, but that they would not produce the expected revenue. We pointed out that while the United States was putting out five hundred millions of new money in the shape of silver under the Bland and Sherman acts there were more than seventeen hundred millions of surplus revenue which was applied to the payment of public debt; that after the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act with a view of reaching the gold standard the revenues fell off and the debt increased in four years two hundred and sixty-two millions.

We contended that it was necessary in order to enable people to pay taxes, there should be money in the country for that purpose. It was contended on the other hand that the best money there was in circulation with which to pay taxes the easier it would be to make payments and the larger would be the revenues. The war revenue bill has gone into operation. The loose money of the country has been absorbed by the new bond issue, and the new taxes are so vexatious and difficult to pay that it is almost impossible to do business at all. The only activity in any line of business is in war supplies. In ordinary times the business of the war would create a boom, but under existing circumstances the only boomers are the lucky ones in trade with government officials. However rich these lucky fellows may get the country trade at large will not realize much benefit from their peculiar gains. The people will have a chance in the fall elections to say whether they want more taxes and less money to continue to be the settled policy of the country.—Silver Knight Watchman.

Washington Letter.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, July 18, 1898.

It is now stated that Commodore Watson's fleet is at once to start to Spain, but there are still those who refuse to believe it before it actually goes, and others who believe that if actually started, it will go with no other intention than to scare Spain into asking for peace. Cablegrams from Madrid and other European points, say that Spain has already asked for our terms of peace, but it is officially denied in Washington.

It is semi-officially said that no movement on land against Havana will be started until fall, owing to the fear of yellow fever, and officially stated that the movement against Porto Rico is to be started at once.

Representative James Hamilton Lewis, who began his congressional career by being called a dupe, but who has long ago won, by his common sense and all around ability the respect of congress and of the eastern public—the people of Washington, the state he represents in the house, recognized those qualities long before they sent him to congress has tendered his services to the government as a field officer in the volunteer army. He has been connected with the Washington State Militia, of which he is now inspector general, for about eleven years. Unless the outlook for peace grows promising enough to stop army appointments, it is likely that Mr. Lewis will get a commission.

"The war has been a very lucky thing for the republicans of Illinois, for if it had not occurred they would have been ingloriously defeated." This is what Mr. P. E. Furman, a well-known democrat of that state, says, and the same thing will apply equally as well to other states, for it is as plain as the nose on your face that the republicans are going to make their campaign on the war, although they deserve no more credit for the action of congress in voting all the money the administration asked for to conduct the war than do the democrats and the populists, who voted for all the war appropriations. As to the policy of the party in his state, Mr. Furman says: "The Illinois democrats stand steadfast by Bryan and free silver, both of which they indorsed at their state convention, the other day."

The man who claims that any one party monopolizes all the patriotism in this country thus proclaims his own ignorance. It seems to be pretty generally understood in Washington that the republican congressional committee intends to make the imputation, if not the direct claim, that republican patriotism in congress was the whole thing, the basis of its campaign documents this year an implication as false as it would be possible to make. As a matter of fact, if any one party in congress deserves more praise than the other for unselfish patriotism, it is the democrats. Although they know that the administration being republican, and a majority of the house being republican, the successful conduct of the war would necessarily be beneficial to the republican party, not a single democrat hesitated either in advocacy of the war or in providing the money to carry it on successfully. If the action of the democrats, and the populists in congress was not actuated by pure and unselfish patriotism, some republican should tell the country what actuated those men who voted for the war, although fully aware that their votes would, temporarily at least, be beneficial to their political opponents. Let the truth be told no matter who wins.

Brave old George Dewey has been at it again. Results; destruction of the Spanish fort in Subig Bay, five hundred prisoners and a notice served on the German Emperor, through the commander of the German cruiser, Irene, to keep his fingers out of the Philippine pie.

A Pension Circular.

The following circular has recently been issued by Commissioner Evans, of the pension department:

Recent investigation had by this Bureau to ascertain the methods employed by public officials in executing pension vouchers, has demonstrated an almost total disregard of the laws and regulations governing the subject.

It is clearly evidenced that the illegal, lax, indifferent and perfunctory procedure now extant has become a menace to the proper and safe conduct of the affairs of this Bureau, so far as it relates to the payment of pensions, and special efforts are contemplated to correct the existing abuses.

While it is believed that many officials who assist in the execution of pension vouchers have no conception of their criminal liability in the premises, it is equally certain that many others to secure an advantage in the numerical number of their clientele, knowingly and wilfully resort to violations of the law.

To the end that the former class may profit by this notice, this circular is issued.

There can be no justification in the prevalent haste and laxity existing in many offices, by which post-dating, false certification, false claim and "stock" witnesses have become a factor in the administration and acknowledgment of pension vouchers.

It is the intention of this Bureau, where the facts warrant such action, to institute criminal proceedings against the parties who indulge in these illegal and irregular practices and they are warned accordingly.

By following strictly the instructions printed on each voucher, the matters complained of may be entirely remedied.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick and son, and Miss Alice Brennan, who have been visiting relatives and friends in East Tawas, for the past month, returned to their home in Toronto, Ont., Wednesday.

Deputy Great Commander O'Connell has been the guest of D. G. C. Davey, of East Tawas this week. He inspected the work of the Degree team of Baldwin Tent, Tuesday evening.

Our City School board organized last Saturday evening by the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: Moderator, G. A. Prescott; director, Charles A. Jahraus; assessor, Henry Funk.

An old Scotch farmer says that the best manure for a run down farm is brains. This is just as true of any other farm. It will apply to one that is not run down, and if applied as it should be it will never run down either.—Ex.

Howard Bristol, driver of E. L. King's furniture wagon, attempted to turn around near C. H. Prescott's residence, last Saturday evening, the wagon was overturned and the driver thrown and considerably bruised and cut about the head. The wagon was broken and one of the horses injured.

Tom McCassey, son of Patrick McCassey, was quite severely injured yesterday, while working on the grade of the Alabaster branch of the D. & M. It appears that while driving team he was struck on the side of the head by a log and was unconscious for some time. He was brought to his home in this city, and is expected to be all right again in a few days.

Jacob Katterman received a telegram Tuesday evening stating that his father, Michael Katterman, was not expected to live. Mr. Katterman went to Detroit about three weeks ago to visit his son Charles and was taken sick on his arrival. His illness took a more serious turn last Friday and owing to his advanced age it is doubtful if he recovers.

The Christian Science people have lately carpeted and improved the appearance of their hall in the Lowe block, East Tawas, and now have a most comfortable meeting place. Their services are held at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. on Sundays and at 7-30 Wednesday evenings. The topic for next Sunday meeting is, "Love.—Elijah's communion with God on Mount Horeb." Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services.

From a Marquette exchange we learn that Ben Trudell has been appointed temporary keeper of the life saving station at that point. Capt. Cleary, of that station has been ordered to Omaha, Neb., to take charge of a crew of nine picked life savers who will give exhibitions at the Trans Mississippi exposition. During his absence the station at Marquette will be in charge of Mr. Trudell. Ben's many friends here are glad to know of his promotion.

As a prominent young man of this city was pedeling to East Tawas a few evenings ago, he noticed a couple of young ladies ahead of him. Just as he was about to pass them one of the girls dropped back. The young man passed her and came up to the leader. She did not look up, but supposing that it was her chum, made a remark that might be translated into the fact that she wished her saddle was an easy chair. The young man blushed so red that he looked like an Italian sun set and stammered his regrets that she was so uncomfortable.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Carr left Wednesday morning for Twinning, where they will make their future home. Mr. Carr has just completed the finest store building in that village and is putting in a complete stock of furniture and general merchandise. During the three years that Mr. and Mrs. Carr have been residents of our city they have made a host of friends who regret their departure. In Mr. C., Twinning secures a public spirited business man who will keep pace with any of the many hustlers in that hustling little village.

Lemons for the Toilet.

"Lemons!" exclaimed a woman who believes in them religiously. "Why, I wouldn't be without lemons a whole day for anything. I once heard of a French woman who was considered the most beautiful woman of her time, and she attributed good looks to eating eight lemons a day for 365 days in the year. I'd be willing to gamble on it that lemons will do great good toward beautifying one through and through, outside and in. Nothing in the world bleaches the skin, hands and face like a little diluted lemon juice applied at night, and strange to say, unlike most bleaches it softens the complexion. Then the finest of manicure acid is made by dropping a teaspoon of lemon juice into a cup of tepid water. This removes all stains from skin and nails, and loosens the cuticle naturally and much better than any sharp instrument. A dash of lemon juice in plain water is an excellent tooth wash, removing not only tartar, but sweetening the breath, and a teaspoonful of the juice in a small cup of black coffee will drive off a bilious headache before the sufferer can say caterpillar. Life would be very barren to me without lemons, and so it would be to any woman who knows the secret of their efficacy. Best of all, the juice of lemon taken with a teaspoonful of soda, cooking soda, after each meal, will decrease the flesh.—Ex.

Seeding to Wheat.

On the farm one thing trends on the heels of another through the growing season, and the farmer who plans ahead the most wisely and puts in his work to the best advantage is likely to be the most successful. We are now in the midst of wheat harvest, but on many farms it will be necessary to start the plows for the wheat crop of 1899 as soon as possible, and we wish to give some suggestions founded on long experience. First, when the land is in good condition to plow, says Mr. Brown, in Commercial Gazette, let nothing interfere with this work. Early plowing is best, as there is more time to get the land in that perfect condition which gives the best seed bed, and as all that we can do to insure a good crop of wheat ends with the sowing, we ought to let no opportunity pass to get the land into the best possible condition. It took farmers many years to learn that to get the best wheat and be most sure of a crop required a solid seed bed, and there may be some who have not learned it yet, and the farmer who plows late has not a good chance to get this kind of a seed bed. Another thing which I have learned is that it is wise to pulverize each day as fast as you plow, and in very hot, drying weather it is often best to do this every half day. The object of this is two fold to save labor and to retain the moisture. Often one hour's work at this time will do more good than four after the land has been dried and baked, and some years, if the land is not pulverized as soon as plowed, there will be no time until the wheat ought to be sown that this work can be done. Usually a roller will be the best implement to use for this purpose, but a very good substitute for it, and under some conditions of soil the best thing to use, is a heavy plank drag, and on farms where two teams are kept it is best to make them large enough for four horses, as they will not only do better work, but do it much faster, as four horses will draw a sixteen-foot drag and level and pulverize three acres or more an hour, as each half mile the horses walk will nearly cover an acre. The object of this pulverizing is, first, to stop evaporation and save the moisture now in the soil, as a rough surface full of openings dries out rapidly under the influence of sun and wind, and, second, to put the land in such condition that a moderate rain falling will moisten it so that the seed will germinate. I presume that every farmer has noticed the difference in the effect of a shower in which a half-inch of water fell on a finely compacted field and one rough and cloddy. The former will be put in good condition for sowing, so that the seed will come up at once, while the other will scarcely show a few hours later that it has had any rain on it at all, and cannot be seeded so as to insure germination until another rain falls. Do not make the mistake of sowing wheat on a poorly prepared seed bed, for it is better to defer sowing several days than to take chances on a crop badly put in. As a rule, I prefer early seeding, which, in this latitude (half a degree north of Cincinnati) means the first half of September but if from any cause we not sow until October we put more on the seed bed and often get a good crop. I am not in favor of heavy seeding, but would use more seed on a late sown field than on one sown earlier. I have grown thirty bushels to the acre several times from a seeding of three pecks to the acre and think five pecks enough on any land, if the seed bed is well prepared and the land moist so that it will germinate. I believe that the wheat is much more liable to lodge when sown with two bushels of seed than than half that amount. I occasionally see a farmer rolling his field after drilling the wheat; this I think is a mistake, as the principal object in drilling is to leave the ridge to hold the snow and protect the wheat, and so all the rolling should be done before the wheat is sown. In this part of Ohio nearly as much wheat is sowed on corn land as on that which is plowed for the crop, and I estimate that more than half of this is sown in the standing corn, with little or no preparation of seed bed, and when the field is weedy and grassy, or the corn blown down, the crop is badly put in, and often much corn broken down and left on the ground to take damage. I never seed in standing corn, and usually get as good a yield of wheat where the corn is cut off, as on land that is plowed for the crop. I think that there is no doubt that enough more wheat can be grown always, to more than pay for cutting up the corn, and in many cases very much more. Some years ago neighbor of mine, who has rich bottom land, cut up half of a field, and then, as he did not need the fodder, sowed the rest in the standing corn, with the result that the part where the corn was cut up made a crop of thirty bushels to the acre, and the other part fifteen bushels. I would rather be two weeks later in getting my wheat sown with the corn out of the way and a first-class seed bed prepared than to sow early in the standing corn. There is another point in which my practice is different from most others, but which I know pays well, and that is in cutting up the corn when wheat is to be sown after it. I find it pays well to put forty rows in a shock row, making the shocks thirty by forty hills, and thus getting lands forty rows wide to sow, when I first tried this, I supposed that the cost would be nearly twice as much as to make the shocks ten by twelve hills, but I was pleased to find that it only cost one cent a shock more to cut it in this way, and the advantages are great enough to pay if it cost three times as much. There is more loss of seed wheat and of land when the shock rows are only ten rows apart, and in twisting around the shocks with harrow and drill there is sure to be some corn torn down, and the bare spots all over the field are unsightly. The advantage in sowing the wheat is not the only one, for when the corn is husked the ears can be laid to one side and the fodder to other, and instead of driving over the grain the shock row can be used for the drive way. In reading this article over I notice that I omitted to say one thing which I intended to, and that is that I think that we get a better crop of wheat when the corn is cut off, for I think that the shade of the standing corn is an injury to the wheat. - Prairie Farmer.
