THE YACHT RACES

The Jennie, of Bay City Wins the Second Race for the D. & M. Cup.

The Yacht races were sailed last Friday, Saturday and Monday and brought quite a number of boats which had a reputation for speed to the Bay to take part, although the number was not so great nor the races so satisfactory as last year. The fact that it stormed Sunday spoiled the pleasure of the excursionists and prevented the race being sailed for the cup and special prizes.

The race for small boats set for Friday had only two entries the Vulcan a small cutter of 16 feet water line, from Alpena, and the Comrade of 20 feet water line, from Bay City. By agreement between the owners and judges they were both entered at 16 and 18 feet. The wind was very light and the Comrade provided with balloon and light extra sails rapidly sailed away from the smaller boat and won the first and second money, amounting to $16, which was pooled to make one prize. The smaller boat with more canvas would have given the larger a close rub.

Saturday the race for large boats found the Comanche at the line at promptly two o'clock, but for some reason the race was delayed until three, an hour after advertised time for the start. There was a heavy sea and strong wind blowing and when the race was finally started with the Aurora, Tramp, Vision, Cassalen, Truthseeker, Comanche, Moccasin and Jennie, the strain on the rigging of the Comanche from the long pounding in the sea waiting for the start, parted the steel bands of the throat halliard blocks and threw her out of the race. The race otherwise was a good one, the Aurora and Tramp holding first place and especially the Aurora doing beautiful windward work and each time turning the Can buoy first, although the Tramp caught her each time on the run before the wind, and crossed the winning stake first. The Aurora was given the prize by 41 seconds on time allowance. The Jennie in this race sailed the course in the shortest time, and if on time when race was started would have captured first prize.

Monday's race found only one boat at the line at the starting hour.—2 p.m.—the Cassalen, the winner of the cup last year. The Aurora had returned to Bay City Sunday. The Moccasin was some distance behind the Cassalen on the line, and the Tramp and Jennie strung out at intervals of half a mile astern, so that it was a procession a mile long at the start. The Comanche started from Tawas City in time to be at the line promptly, but the wind dying down very light and dead ahead, becalmed her near Emery's dock so that she did not reach the line until an hour after the start, crossing about two miles astern of the Lookout. The first three-fourths of the course was sailed in a very light wind, and the last quarter in a freshening breeze, the Jennie finally finishing first, Cassalen second, Moccasin third, Tramp fourth and Comanche fifth. Lookout sixth. In this race the Comanche sailed the course in the shortest time by a wide margin and beat the Lookout by an hour or over.

The second leg of the cup thus goes to the Jennie, which sailed a beautiful race well maintained by the Cassalen merely a fish boat. It was not the Tramp's day; she delights in a strong wind and some sea and windward work.

The races were not entirely satisfactory from another point of view, in that no opportunity was given to test the different boats. The boats from Bay City have all raced together, and their respective merits were well known, and the main interest in the races centered in the question of speed between them and the Tawas boat, the Comanche. It seems very unfortunate that when Mr. Harting should have taken all the pains he has, and done the work which he has performed to make the races interesting and a fair test of the racing qualities of the boats, and was on hand each day promptly at the advertised hour to race, but made to wait an hour or over to accommodate the outsiders, to his damage and loss, that on the last day, when from no fault of his or the others, the boats could not reach the starting line exactly to the minute, he should be shut out from the race, and the same or part of the consideration shown others could not be extended to him, when it would have resulted in the only fair test possible under the circumstances.

After the races were over, and the Comanche claiming the special prize it was found that the flag had been delivered to the Lookout, because some one had rumored that the Comanche had not turned the stake off Tawas City. Thus she lost again as the flag was spirited away and could not be found.

Circuit Court.

The jury in the case of Grant Lewis vs. Temple Emery, which was out when we went to press last week returned a verdict of no cause of action, after a deliberation of about seventy-five hours. Thus ends a case which has been on court docket for six years and has been tried four times in the circuit court and once by the supreme court.

Judge Simpson imposed fine and cost to the amount of $100 or six months in the county jail on Supervisor A. E. Dudgeon, for the wilful neglect of official duty.

C. E. Marvin and Frank Burt, convicted of violating the liquor law were assessed $100 fine and $47.12 costs each, or six months in the county jail.

The tax case against the H. M. Loud & Sons Lumber Co. was commenced and was still before the court when it adjourned Wednesday until October 11, next.

Farmers' Institute Report.

We are in receipt, from the Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, of Institute bulletin No. 4, being a report of the Farmers' Institute work in this State during the past season. The volume is a book of about 275 pages, containing a very complete report of the Institute work of the state in all its various phases; a complete report of the State Roundup Farmers Institute, which was held at the Agricultural College last February; and also a large number of local addresses delivered at County Institutes. A very nice engraving of Hon. Chas. W. Garfield, of the Board of Agricultural, adorns the book.

The report indicates that last winter's work was very successful, indeed. There were held 67 County Institutes, meetings of two-day or more, and 84 one-day Institutes. The total attendance of all sessions at all Institutes held in the state during the year was 118,692. The number of members of Institute societies was 7,080. The average attendance per session, of County Institutes, was 211; of one-day Institutes, 152. Of the total attendance at all Institutes, 31,559 were reached by one-day Institutes; the remainder, 87,133, by the County Institutes. The Women's Sections, of which there were 58, were attended by 8,705 women. The local expense of all Institute work done in the State last year, as reported to the Superintendent, was $1,464.66.

Every paid-up member of our County Institute Society is entitled to one of these bulletins, and they will be distributed through the Secretary of that society, Len J. Patterson.

OUR COUNTY SCHOOLS

One week more of vacation. William Kehoe contemplates a year in college. He has his eye on the Ferris school.

The teachers at the institute will go to the Park and light house tomorrow if the weather is fair.

Whittemore and the "Hottos" district adopted free text books at the annual meeting in July. That is the best possible thing to do.

Institute in session at East Tawas this week. Teachers from all over the county except Whittemore. What's the matter with Whittemore?

It will become the duty of the voters in the school districts of this county to decide whether they will come under the free text book law, or go under the so-called uniformity law, or remain as they are, at the next annual meeting.

The teachers who wrote second grade examination will be pleased to know that the first problem in arithmetic was stated wrong, and the commissioner has been directed by the Dept. to not consider it in marking the papers.

The commissioner has sent to the town clerk of the county supplies of report blanks, for the school directors and school inspectors. It is expected that the clerks will at once transmit these blanks to the officials, that the reports may be returned at once.

The Reading Circle books are three in number this year, Uncle Sam's Secrets, Teaching the Language Arts, by Hinsdale, and Howland's Practical Hints for teachers. They are published by D. Appleton & Co. and come to the teachers at $2 per set, no sets broken. Mr. Price will handle them at the institute.

If the district neglects to vote on the text book matter at all, it becomes a uniform text district. By doing this the district binds itself to throw out the present set of books, and to use the new books to be chosen by a commission, which has not yet commenced its work. That is you saddle the expense of a change on the people, and agree to buy new books, that have not been published yet, and of whose quality you, nor any one else, know anything about. Buying a pig in a bag is a first class transaction compared with the one suggested. Do not forget that you must definitely vote No, in order not to come under the uniformity law.

The following is the location of the teachers as far as known as this time: Maria Ayslop, of AuSable, upper Wilber school; Maude Green, Sullivan School; Murlin Beardslee, Laidlawville; Nellie Howell, Arnold School; W. H. Price, and Florence Oakes, Whittemore; Teresa Shaver, Alabaster; Bertha Pringle, Arn school; Allie Brennan, Jordan school; Maude Shippy, lower Hale school; Alice Nesbitt, upper Hale school; Peter Osborn, first Hemlock school; Minnie Shippy, first Town line school; W. H. Hartley, 7th and 8th grades East Tawas; Margaret McGillivray, Supt. at Oscoda; C. N. McElhinney, principal at Marlette.

The Chief Burgess of Milesburg, Pa., says DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the best pills he ever used in his family during forty years of house keeping. They cure constipation, sick headache and stomach and liver troubles. Small in size but great in results. Dr. G. S. Darling.

UP in the tenth congressional district the democrats and silver republicans have named a strong candidate to make the run against Congressman R. O. Crump. A comparison of the capabilities of the two candidates must result in favor of Judge R. J. Kelley, who is recognized as a man of ability and one who would be a credit to his constituents. The question is, will the voters of Michigan stop to think? At the present time the entire country is enthused with the joy of victory. The people are not in a state of mind to listen or to exercise sober judgement. If the fall elections were to take place within a month, but one ticket would be visible in the count, because the people are always eager to reward success, and there can be no doubt of the success of the war. When the people become wrought up with a fervor of patriotism it takes them some time to cool down. The probability is that the voters of the fall of 1898 will vote the head of the ticket and pay not the slightest attention to the names which follow. If the people of the tenth district will think a few moments before they deposit their ballots, it will be Congressman Kelley. —Detroit Evening News.

An exchange says: Dewey is far the greatest man on earth. Besides being made an Admiral and thanked by congress and slobbered over by press and public, he has about seven hundred thousand things named after him, ranging in size from a locomotive down to a plug of tobacco. He will go down to posterity smiling benignantly in rosy colors from the labels on tomato cans. A few years hence nearly one-third of the dirty little brats that run the streets will be christened Dewey. George Washington won't be in it. Lincoln will be relegated to a back seat. Why, two Clifford old maids came near having a fight this week because each one wanted to name her cat Dewey. It's Dewey everywhere. Another old maid is so stuck on the Admiral that she goes out every morning and takes the Kneipe cure on the lawn just because the grass is all dewey. Some of our bills to delinquent subscribers were due a long time ago, and are getting so mill-dewey with age that we will have to put them in an attorney's hands for collection and we won't dewey a thing but make it lively for delinquents."

Washington Letter.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON Aug. 22, 1898.

"Let Admiral Dewey dictate our policy towards the Philippine islands." That is the sum and substance of the advice that some of his most level headed friends, who have observed the fact that Dewey has not made a single mistake from the day he destroyed the Spanish fleet to the day he forced the surrender of Manila, have been giving Mr. McKinley, who apparently is still without a policy of his own. It has been urged upon him that Dewey during the nearly four months he has been in Manila bay, has thoroughly familiarized himself with the condition on the islands, and would be better able than any man who is not there, to say what relations we ought to maintain towards them. It has also been pointed out to him that the public confidence in Dewey's judgment and patriotism would cause his decision to be received without question by the people. All of these things Mr. McKinley has acknowledged, and he would doubtless be glad to adopt and act upon the advice were it not that some of his political advisers have aroused his jealousy of Admiral Dewey as a possible rival in 1900, and told him that Dewey must be kept in the background if he wanted to keep him out of the White House.

Not satisfied with reducing the salary of a man who was at one time considered competent to fill the position of chief clerk, the Civil Service commission has dismissed the man for criticism of his superiors in office, an awful crime, in the minds of his superiors. The aforesaid criticism consisted of an answer made by the clerk, E. D. Bailey, to public defamation of himself by the commission. The commission has never forgiven Bailey for having exposed some of its humbuggery when a witness before a senate committee, and has probably wasted much time, highly paid for by the people's money, in scheming how to humble him, or push him out of office, without seeming to be actuated by any other desire than the good of the service, only to make a fizzle of it at last. Bailey may have deserved dismissal—many think the whole civil service outfit does—but he should have been given a proper cause for his discharge and it should have been so entered on the record.

Gen. Blanco is showing a disposition to take advantage of the published disinclination of the administration to send an army of occupation to Cuba before cool weather, to carry things with a high hand at Havana and to prejudice the rabble against the U. S. Blanco's intention to make future trouble for us is so plain that it is worrying the administration no little, and demands that Blanco be peremptorily called down and reaching Mr. McKinley from all sections of the country.

That there is no limit to Spanish gall was shown by the unofficial objection made by the government of Spain to the selection of Senator Davis, of Minn., chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, to be one of the American Peace Commissioners, because his anti-Spanish views were too strong and too well known. Were such an objection held to be valid. Mr. McKinley would have to choose for peace commissioners such men as Senator Wellington, of Md., and Senator Hale, of Me., about the only two senators who made their friendliness towards Spain conspicuous during the debate which preceded the war. It will be all up with Mr. McKinley if every one of the five peace commissioners chosen by him, are not known to be strongly anti-Spanish in their views. Already there has been some criticism of the selection of Secretary Day, for that very reason, but it has remained within bounds because it is known that Mr. Day will advance the opinions of Mr. McKinley, and not his own, when the peace commission meets. Another exhibition of Spanish gall, which was probably put out for a feeler, was the attempt of Sagasta to appear to take it for granted that the Spanish Ambassador at Paris would be the presiding officer at the deliberations of the peace commission. His talk merely caused a smile in Washington. As the victorious power, the U. S. has the right, not only to name the presiding officer, if such be needed, but to insist that its commissioners take precedence in every way over those of Spain, and Mr. McKinley is not likely to waive those rights; he knows too well how such waivers would be received in this country. Already there is a growing impression that we have been entirely too lenient in all our dealings with the Spaniards, and the people are apt to call a speedy halt before the thing goes much further.

Prof. Ira H. Whittemore, an old Tawas City boy, now principal of the Washington school at Victor, Col., was joined in marriage with Miss Marie B. Stearly, a charming young society lady of that city, on the 15th inst. Ira has a host of friends this county who extend to him congratulations.

A party of Oscoda scorchers came down to this city Sunday and while racing on the sidewalk Niel Purdy's wheel collided with the fence in front of the jail throwing him. He received a severe cut under his left eye besides several other bruises. Dr. Darling dressed the wound. It was fortunate that he was not worse injured.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Whittemore and family and Mrs. V. E. Rix, of Oscoda, arrived home Wednesday from California. Frank's many friends are glad to welcome him back to Iosco county after a year and a half absence and hope he will in the future always adhere to the belief that Iosco is the best county in the United States.

Earnest Walker and Arthur Wood, the lumber inspectors, were up the shore on a fishing expedition a few days ago. They didn't report just how many fish they captured, but each claim that the other was nearly frightened out of his wits by a strange noise of some wild animal prowling about their camp, but which proved on investigation to be the most harmless and docile porcupine.—Grand Marais Leader.

E. C. Blanks, of Lewisville, Texas, writes that one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was worth $50.00 to him. It cured his piles of ten years standing. It also cures eczema, skin diseases and obstinate sores. Dr. G. S. Darling.

Subsoiling vs. Deep Plowing.

Comparatively little is now written about the benefits of deep plowing, a practice which forty or fifty years ago nearly all agricultural papers and writers strongly favored. People have learned that in all soil, the very richest portion is at or near the surface, and that to plow it under very deeply is to make an inferior seed bed for the future starting of the plant. Deep soil is still considered valuable, says American Cultivator, but it must be deepened gradually by successive plowing of an inch or so every time the field is plowed anew, and by the growing of clover, whose roots will penetrate the subsoil and increase its available fertility. The greatest help to clover roots is found in the practice of deep stirring of the subsoil yet without raising it to the surface as would be done in ordinary plowing. In all long cultivated fields the soil below the depth of plowing has been compacted and hardened by the tread of horses in the furrow or by the pressure of the plow along the bottom of the furrow, which is required in order to turn it. Many times when the field is plowed the plowshare compacts the moist clay, so that when it dries out it forms something almost like stone or brick at the bottom of the previously made furrow. Many times when plowing old fields we have come to these shells on the bottom of the previously made furrows. If it was in summer time and the soil was dry, it was almost impossible to break through the shell formed at the depth the field had usually been plowed. But when the soil was moist in early spring it was easy to turn up the soil deeper, though as this soil was cold and untempered by frost, it generally meant a lessened crop of whatever was grown on the land that season. It is the practical experience of the effects of deep plowing which long ago convinced farmers that as regarded all spring crops, deep plowing was a humbug advocated only by those who had only theoretical and not practical knowledge of what they were writing about. With that opinion we are entirely agreed. And yet though it may be deemed a denial of what has just been written, we believe that gradually extending the depth of the plow, at least until it goes down to eight or nine inches, is a necessity, if we would have the best crops and the best farming. This gradual deepening of the furrow will enable the soil to hold so much moisture that we shall be practically saved from the danger of midsummer droughts, which in all the older sections of the country are now what the farmers who grow hoed crops are most afraid of. We have long advised shallow plowing in spring for hoed crops. They will certainly grow faster early in the season if plowed shallow, or what is practically the same thing, plowed deeply in fall and thoroughly cultivated before planting the following spring. But we wish to retract in part, our old-time estimate of shallow plowing as being always the best. When the soil has been deepened by subsoiling and by the liberal use of clover roots as a subsoiler, it needs a deeper spring plowing than would otherwise be required. Seven, eight and even nine inches depth may be not too much on land that has been prepared for it, and fertility extended to this depth. In no such case should the spring plowing go below the depth that the land has usually been plowed before. But if the plowing has been done the fall before, and if the soil is well enough underdrained so that water at no time stands on or near the surface, the seed bed in spring may be as favorable to germination as it naturally would be with shallower plowing in spring. The point we wish to make is this, that deep or shallow plowing must very largely depend on circumstances. The land that has been prepared for deep plowing either by subsoiling or more gradually by clover, may with good results, be plowed as deeply as any body may choose. But with all land not thus prepared, deep plowing is as likely to prove disastrous as it ever was. — Prarie Farmer.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

U. S. Department of Agriculture climate and crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Michigan Section, for the week ending August 20th, 1898. The mean temperature for the week ending August 20, 1898, 66.4 degrees, was identical with the normal. Quite a number of the nights were cool although most of the days have been warm. The average total precipitation, 0.41 of an inch, is 0.11 of an inch less than the normal. It was fairly well distributed to all portions of the lower peninsula; in the upper peninsula there has been very little or no rain. The sunshine has averaged 54 per cent. of the possible amount. The light showers which have occurred in nearly all counties of the lower peninsula during the past week have proved of much benefit to corn, late potatoes and pastures. There is still a need of more rain in some counties for these crops and also for fall plowing. Correspondents quite generally report an improvement in the condition of corn, late potatoes and pastures. Corn is rather short, but is earing fairly well and has now begun to mature. Buckwheat is in blossom and in a promising condition. Beans have made poor progress; they were too badly injured by the drought during July to recuperate; bean pulling has begun in the more southerly counties; the crop is yielding lightly. Fall plowing is well advanced in all counties of the lower peninsula and preparations for wheat seeding are being rapidly pushed; more moisture would be very beneficial to this work. Oat harvest has been in progress in the upper peninsula and most of the crop is now secured. Peaches are in good condition and yielding plentifully. Grapes, pears and plums are also in a promising condition, but apples continue to drop badly and indicate a light crop.

The editor of the Evans City, Pa., Globe, writes. "One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named. I cured my children after all other remedies failed." It cures coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. Dr. G. S. Darling.
