OUR NEXT GOVERNOR

A Man Who Can be Trusted and is Always on the Side of Right

HON. JUSTIN R. WHITING, OF ST. CLAIR.

He Will Make an Able, Honest and Fearless Executive.

He Has Repeatedly Been Placed in Positions of Honor and Trust and His Record Proves His Worth—Successful in Business, Upright in All His Dealings—Broadminded in Thought and Clear in Judgement—Generous, Genial and Popular in His Social Relations.

In the nomination of Hon. Justin R. Whiting, of St. Clair, the people of Michigan have an opportunity to place at the head of their state government a man worthy of Michigan's place in the sisterhood of states. He is a man of strict integrity and unblemished character; a successful business man, who has contributed largely to the material welfare and prosperity of our great state; a man of culture and refinement, fitted in every way to honor the position he is chosen to fill, and to reflect credit upon his fellow citizens.

Justin R. Whiting was born in Bath, Steuben county, New York, February 18, 1847. He was the oldest son of Henry Whiting and Pamela (Rice) Whiting. His father removed to St. Clair when the subject of this sketch was only two years old. At 16 years of age Mr. Whiting had fitted himself in the public schools to enter the University of Michigan. He enrolled in the classical department, but left at the end of his sophomore year to take a position in his father's large mercantile establishment. In 1869 he went to Clinton, Iowa, where he engaged in business for himself, and was very successful, selling out at the end of two years to return and enter into a partnership with his father under the firm name of H. Whiting & Son. Two years later he assumed entire responsibility of the extensive business, and on the death of his father became the head of the firm with his life-long friend, Mr. J. George Zink, as a partner.

Mr. Whiting was one of the projectors and original owners of the Diamond Crystal Salt Works, and has taken an active interest in all matters pertaining to the business and welfare of his city and vicinity. He was instrumental in securing the erection of the Somerville School for Girls, and up to 1868 was trustee of that institution, contributing largely in both time and money towards the maintenance of the enterprise. He was also one of the promoters and stockholders of the St. Clair Mineral Spring Company, securing the building of the Oakland House, which has now become famous as a summer resort hotel. He was for many years director of the union school board, and has always labored zealously to promote educational affairs in the community.

He began his political career as alderman of the city of St. Clair, and in 1879 was elected mayor. In 1876 Mr. Whiting left the Republican party, in which he had been reared, because of the position which the party then first began to assume upon the money question, and for some time he labored zealously with the National Greenback party. When the Democratic party adopted the views on the money question which the Greenback party had so zealously advocated. Mr. Whiting drew his vote and influence with the Democratic party, and has since that time been one of the most active and earnest workers in Democratic ranks.

In 1882 the Greenbackers and Democrats united in nominating Mr. Whiting for the state senate, and he was elected in a district which had always before that been overwhelmingly Republican. As a member of the state senate he was an active and zealous advocate of all measures favoring the people as against the monopolists, his services in behalf of the minority representation bill being especially valuable to the shareholders, who had heretofore been at the mercy of the majority stockholders. He declined renomination for the state senate, but in 1886 was elected to congress from the seventh district, having a majority of 814 votes over John P. Sanborn, the district having been always considered one of the most rock-ribbed districts in the state. He was re-elected in 1888, 1890 and 1892 successively, because of the fidelity with which he served the people of his district.

Mr. Whiting's career in congress is not only a credit to himself, but to the entire state. His vote and voice were always on the side of manhood, and opposed to the encroachments of the money-bags. He was one of the first to condemn the demonetization of silver, and to insist upon the reinstatement of that metal to the place it held prior to the secret legislation of 1873. He gave his earnest and effective support to all measures calculated to check the schemes of the money power, to replace the people's paper currency with a bank money which should enable them to hold in their clutches the business and prosperity of the entire land, and in every contest between democracy and plutocracy Justin R. Whiting was found on the side of the people.

He was a member of the ways and means committee in the Fifty-second and Fifty-third Congresses, and in the latter William Jennings Bryan was his associate upon this important committee. The close and intimate relations of these two gentlemen during the sessions of that committee cemented a warm personal friendship that has grown stronger with every year, and it was because of that friendship Mr. Whiting accepted the nomination for lieutenant governor in 1896, sacrificing his own interests in the hope of helping to carry Michigan for his warm friend and former associate.

Mr. Whiting is a member of the Masonic fraternity and has held the office of treasurer in lodge, chapter and commandery. He is also a member of the Sons of Veterans. In 1871 he united with the Methodist church, and has always been an active and liberal supporter of church work and charity.

He was married in 1868 to Emily Frances Owen, and eight children are the fruit of the union.

Mr. Whiting's business career has been one of unbroken success. He is known in business circles as a careful, prudent and enterprising business man, open and upright in all his dealings, and possessed of unusual good judgment and an appreciation of sound business principles. It was because of these well-known characteristics that he was unanimously chosen by the three conventions of Grand Rapids for the highest position in this state, an office where these qualities are at the present time so sadly needed.

In social life Mr. Whiting is genial, popular and entertaining. He is generous and public spirited, and is always actively interested in every worthy enterprise, contributing liberally both of time and money. He is a fluent and impressive speaker, with a commanding presence and clear, ringing voice, and his earnestness and sincerity carry conviction to all who hear him.

It is expected that Mr. Whiting will make a thorough canvass of the state, and wherever he goes the people, regardless of politics, should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear him.

The Chief Burgess of Milesburg, Pa., says DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the best pills he ever used in his family during forty years of house keeping. They cure constipation, sick headache and stomach and liver troubles. Small in size but great in results. Dr. G. S. Darling

OUR COUNTY SCHOOLS

The district buys the chalk; why not the books?

Misi Maria Hyslop resigned her position in the upper Wilber school, and Miss Bertha Pringle takes her place.

Miss Mary Smith, formerly of the Au Sable schools, is with the Oscoda schools this year. That is nice for Oscoda.

Miss Minnie Stephenson, well known to many of the teachers of the county, has charge of the music in the St. Clare schools this year.

State Supt. Hammond has an article in this month's Normal Instructor, on Rural schools. It is very interesting. Write the publishers for the copy, they will send it free.

Send to Houghton, Mifflin and Co. for one of their "Portrait Catalogs" at once and use the pictures in your literature work. It will only cost you a postal card, and is worth lots more.

The Teachers' Association will have two meetings this year, one in November and one in May, probably. J. A. Campbell is president, Margaret McGillivray Vice-president and W. H. Hartley Secretary and Treasurer. The officers will decide the exact time of the next meeting soon. It should go to Oscoda this time.

There will be no examination for teachers in October this year, as but one certificate expires at that time, and the supply of teachers is more than sufficient for the needs of the county. If five or more teachers desire the examination it will be held, but otherwise the small number would warrant the expense that an examination would cost. The state law leaves the question to the Board of School Examiners, and at the last meeting the matter was discussed, and the above decision arrived at.

The Department of Public Instruction has issued a fine collection of facts in reference to free text books. A copy may be obtained from the Department at Lansing, free of cost, on application, and it will be found exceedingly interesting reading by any one interested in the text book question. State Supt. Hammond sent questions to the leading book dealers in the state and also to thousands of the parents, in regard to the prices paid for the school books in use in the state. A comparison of the prices paid, and the cost to the people where the free text book system is in use, proves that the latter is the more economical system.

Pingree continues to assure the republican party that he will reform state affairs. He has had a chance, but his record shows the contrary. He should not have a second trial.

What real reform have the people had at the hands of Pingree? Isn't it about time the real goods were delivered? Whiting should be elected if the people are to be benefited. He will prove a second Winans.—Pontiac Post.

Paradoxical.

There is a touch of irony in the proceedings of a republican convention which indorses Pingree reforms and renominates corporation legislators.

GEO. S. STOUT, Secretary. LEN. J. PATTERSON, Chairman.

It will require a large amount of "white-wash" to cover up the dirt, if an investigation is ever started as to the neglect and abuse of the volunteer soldiers.

THE Bay City Tribune is devoting much space in an attempt to prove that Crump opposed the $2.00 tariff on lumber, but the fact still remains that his vote is recorded for it.

THE question as to who is responsible for the sufferings and neglect of the wounded and sick volunteer soldiers has at last been settled (?). Mark Hanna says the men are themselves are responsible.

EVERY approach towards the gold Standard means a scarcer dollar with a larger purchasing power; in other words, that everything is growing cheap in terms of money, and that money is growing dear in terms of all other things.—Silver Knight Watchman.

THE Kalamazoo Telegraph in an appeal to stop the talk about the war scandal says "we can safely trust the administration to punish the guilty parties." Yes? Well, who is to punish the men who appointed these guilty incompetents knowing them to have no recommendation except political pull?

Nearly one-half the republican papers of this district opposed the re-nomination of Crump, denouncing him as being incompetent and unfit for the position which he has held for the passed four years. With the exception of the Harbor Springs Republican, everyone, so far as as we have been able to ascertain, have "eat crow" and are doing all in their power for his re-election.

No man in the tenth district worked more faithful for the success of the democratic cause in 1896 than Judge Robert J. Kelly. His work was not entirely devoted to the meetings which he addressed, but he gave the cause much time in a personal canvass. Judge Kelly today stands as square on the principle of the Chicago Platform as any man in the country, and when the republican press of this district attempts to convince the voters that he does not they have undertaken an immense job.

THE funniest campaign document out is the speech(?) of R. O. Crump, claimed to have been delivered before the house March 31, '97, relative to the tariff on lumber. The funny part of it is that the speech was never delivered, but was written for Crump, and published in the Congressional Record under the "leave to print" rule, for the purpose of helping him out when his constituents jumped on him for the stand relative to this important question. The fact that Crump voted for the $2 lumber tariff still remains.

SINCE Saturday tears, cheers and the boom of cannons have mingled at nearly every town in Michigan as our citizens have greeted our soldiers on their return from Cuba. It is a sad return. A little more than four months has gone since the citizens of this great state bid farewell to the rugged, stalwart men who had responded to the call for the defense of this nation. No finer troops answered the president's call than those. The story of the war has since been written and these boys who have seen service under the tropical sun, who have heard the shriek of shot and shell, who have endured the privations of camp, and witnessed their comrades give up their lives from wounds and fevers, all for honor of "Old Glory" have returned. Their condition can not fail to awaken pity in the hearts of all. The fever stricken climate of Cuba has wrought sad changes in their appearances. Wasted and worn many have had to be carried from the trains to their homes and many have been left in hospitals by the way. All glory to these brave boys. May their future life be one of ease and happiness.

POVERTY A CRIME.

Pingree's Creed is that of Class—No Man for Office Who is Poor—A Damnable Sentiment that Should Defeat Its Author.

"When you see a man without any money, who wants to go to the Legislature, you just look that fellow over carefully. He'll bear watching."

It was not a Vanderbilt, a Gould, a Cleveland, nor a Hanna, who pronounced that sentiment, so sweeping as it is and so opposed to the spirit of our government. It was not a plutocratic aristocrat who thus evidenced his conception of the right of class to rule. It was Hazen S. Pingree, by grace of the honest votes of poor men Governor of Michigan, who, standing before a crowd of toilers in Fayeta's Opera House, Detroit, Monday evening, July 15, 1898, shouted forth this damnable slander against those who have been his warmest friends.

Think of it! A man may not aspire to office unless he have money! He is prejudged a thief and boodler who dares court the favor of his fellow-men, unless he can expose a bank account, the size of which this self-styled Friend of the People, this anti-wealth howler, this political Don Quixote, did not presume to decide.

In a government supposed to be of the people, in which each citizen has all the rights accorded his fellows, we are enjoined to look with suspicion on any man, except he be wealthy, who accepts a nomination to the Legislature. His life record may be spotless, but the moment he expresses a laudable desire to impress his views upon legislation he must meet the implied accusation.

The idea is a damnable one, and the man who gave it utterance is unworthy the support of any self-respecting toiler.

"I think DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the finest preparation on the market for piles." So writes John C. Dunn; of Wheeling, W Va. Try it and you will think the same. It also cures eczema and all skin diseases. Dr. G. S. Darling.

A Handsome Parsonage.

The new parsonage just completed by the German Ev. Emanuel Lutheran society of this city is the finest residence in the city. The main building is 40x32 feet, with a wing 22x30 feet. The building is built on a solid stone foundation. It contains thirteen rooms exclusive of halls, store-rooms and closets. A fine stone cellar has been built in the rear 12x22 feet. The plan of the interior, is excellent, everything being arranged in the most convenient manner. The workmanship throughout is excellent. The carpenter work was done by Chris Hosbach and Albert Malone, except a portion of the inside finishing which was done by Rev. Karrer. Joseph Boomer did the mason work. The painting and graining was done by Charles Katterman, and is an exceptionally fine piece of work. Rev. Karrer and family are now occupying their new home, having moved in last Friday. The society is to be congratulated on their prosperous condition and their fine church property.

You will find his store crowded with one of the finest and best lines of Staple and Fancy Groceries, Glass Ware, Granite Ware, Bazaar Goods, Etc., ever exhibited in the Tawas.

Give him a call and be convinced that these statements are facts.

Investigation Needed.
When the day for investigating the conduct of the war department arrives, the medical department of the army should not be overlooked.

Neglect of the sick and wounded soldiers was a disgraceful feature of the Santiago campaign, and the affair of the pest ships in which soldiers were transported from hospitals in Cuba to hospitals in this country ought not to be forgotten.

In discussing this subject the Medical Record, which is excellent authority, says:

"It has not yet been made clear why some of the transports came to New York without medicines, and in one or two cases without surgeons. Surely the commander-in-chief did not leave the surgeons sidetracked at Tampa along with the quinine pills.

"This sending of sick troops on a sea voyage without surgeons, medical supplies, or even digestible food, is too serious a matter to be dismissed with a mere statement that such was not the case, and that all the newspapers misrepresented the actual condition of affairs. Those at the front who had the matter in charge should throw some light on the whys and wherefores of such lamentable results.

"The surgeon-general still owes it to the public, to the profession and to the noble, faithful and energetic members of his corps to urge the fullest investigation into all the facts and to answer still more effectively than he has thus far done the widespread criticism of the management of his particular department."

When a journal devoted to the interests of the medical profession finds it necessary to use language such as that quoted, the fact is made evident that there is need of investigation in the medical branch of the army.—Chicago Dispatch.

No man is greater than his party. Mr. Pingree cannot win a fight that his party is against.

Make Butter to Suit the Consumer.

One thing should always be borne in mind by the person in making butter to sell. The butter is for somebody else to eat, and it is for your interest to suit them, whether it just suits your taste or not. Habit has a great deal to do with our likes and dislikes. You may have been accustomed to sweet cream butter; if so, you probably like that best. Or, you may have got use to eating butter made from very ripe cream, and the butter not washed to expel the buttermilk, causing it to have a very decided flavor and taste and so you look upon fine, delicate-flavored butter as insipid. Or you may like little or no salting or high salting; light color or high color. But all this is of no consequence. It is no matter what you like. You want to make it to suit your customer, and you want your customers to be those who are able and willing to pay a good price for what suits them. If the customer wants sweet-cream butter, make it; if unsalted, make it so; if he desires it high salted, salt it high, and so on. Always make it the same for the customers. They are getting tastes formed which you can make it profitable to gratify. It is not the province of the maker of dairy butter to try and educate the tastes of the people who buy butter, but rather to cater to their tastes when he finds out what they are. If one is making butter to put on the general market, he wants to make what the market demands and will pay the best price for. The best way to learn the market demand is to have the butter inspected by an expert judge who is a dealer and knows what takes best in the market. Ask him to criticize it and tell you just what he thinks of it; and do not get angry at what he tells you, but try and profit by what he says. The object of this article is to help farmers to make such butter as the best paying customers in the general market demand.—Prairie Farmer.

A Word for the Private Dairy.

As a rule, not enough encouragement is given farmers to induce them to improve their butter product, but on the other hand, they are frequently told that good butter can be made only in public creameries, and they are advised to send their milk to them. There are good, indifferent and decidedly poor dairymen, and the same can be said of the buttermakers employed in public creameries. Good butter is good butter, and poor butter is poor butter, whether made on the farm or in a public creamery. When honestly judged by an expert, says Pioneer Press, butter must stand on its merits, wherever it may have been made. But the public is not the expert judge, and therefore, creamery butter many times passes on its reputation where farm butter of really good quality would not be allowed to pass. But when it comes to the question of opportunity, farm dairy butter is ahead, because all the conditions from the herd and the pasture or stable, to the packing of the butter, are directly and almost completely under the control of the proprietor and if he is the right kind of a dairyman all of these conditions will, as a rule and in the main, be such as are required for the production of butter. If he is not the right kind of a dairyman, or striving to become one, he is neither fit to produce milk for a public creamery or make butter at home. It seems to the writer that there is and has been for some time, organized and combined efforts to boom the public creamery if not to disparage the farm dairy. The government, through the agricultural department, does a good deal for the one and but little for the other. All state and national dairy organizations favor the first and give the latter but little attention. In fact, one national butter makers' association in this country does not admit to its membership private dairy butter makers, yet a produce commission merchant or a manufacturer of public creamery apparatus can become a member by a payment of the required fee, while a good, enterprising farmer or his wife, eager to gain information in the art of butter making would be debarred from joining the association or attending the meetings. Before dairying attains the high plane of improvement it ought to attain in this country, all this must be changed.—Prairie Farmer.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

"U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Michigan Section, for the week ending September 3d, 1898."

The mean temperature for the week ending Saturday, September 3d, 74.1 degrees, was 10.7 degrees warmer than the normal. This is an abnormal departure. The excess of temperature during the last 4 days of the week daily ranged from 15 to 17 degrees more than the normal; the early part of the week was cooler. Maximum temperatures of over 90 degrees have occurred in all parts of the state.

The average total precipitation, 0.18 of an inch, was 0.38 of an inch less than the normal. This rainfall was not general, most of it being confined to the upper peninsula and extreme southern counties of the state.

The sunshine has averaged 80 per cent of the possible amount.

The past week has been characterized by abnormally high temperatures, a general and decided deficiency of precipitation, and a large amount of sunshine. Corn has matured very rapidly, too rapidly for best results. Many farmers have cut corn earlier than they expected in order to save the stalks for fodder; corn has eared fairly well but the ears are somewhat shrunken; corn cutting is now quite general in the principal corn counties of the lower peninsula. Generally late potatoes have done fairly well and will yield a fair crop. Bean harvest is about completed but the yield is only about half a crop. In the northern counties of the lower peninsula and in the upper peninsula pastures are green and affording excellent fodder, but in the southern half of the state the hot dry weather has burnt them up and considerable stock is being fed. Fall plowing and preparations for wheat seeding have progressed steadily, but farmers are waiting for rain before generally commencing wheat and rye seeding although much of that work has already begun. Reports concerning peaches, pears and grapes are very encouraging, but plums, although abundant, are rotting badly on the trees. Reports regarding apples are about the same—early ones poor and fairly plentiful—late ones scarce.

Taking the Gold Cure.

Employees of the Michigan Central, who were told Bryan's election would mean lower wages and less work while McKinley's success meant the opposite, are finding out that ante-election promises do not find post-election fulfillment.

Within a month after the election they began taking the gold cure, and are at it yet. Many men have been recently discharged, and additional work put on those remaining without extra pay.

It is too bad that the "closing of a war in which the American soldier has again proven his valor and superiority should be marred by universal inquiry into the responsibility for mismanagement which has caused our men, both at home and in Cuba, untold misery, disease and death. Incompetency in administration has not brought disaster at arms, but it is not to the credit of those in Washington that it did not. The glory of American heroism has triumphantly shone upon the world in spite of adverse circumstances. The private soldiers of the country have won its battles, while the favored commanders have only sought to shift blame from their own shoulders.

Whether honest or dishonest, Gov. Pingree can never accomplish his ends in the Republican ranks. His party's legislative nominees are anti-Pingree men, and he will only be permitted to head the ticket to aid their canvass. Without Democratic votes Pingree cannot win. Democrats should remember this, and the fact that the only actual step ever taken to equalize taxation in Michigan was by the Democratic Legislature of 1891.
Vote for Whiting and the Democratic ticket.
