J. R. Snody, formerly of Whittemore, was elected assessor of the new village of Onaway, Monday.

Miss Margaret McGillivary, superintendent of the Oscoda schools, has accepted a position in the public schools of Duluth.—Press.

If you have a cough, throat irritation, weak lungs, pain in the chest, difficult breathing, croup or hoarseness, let us suggest One Minute Cough Cure. Always reliable and safe. Dr. G. S. Darling.

Two lieutenants in the 35th, Ralph McCoy of Grand Rapids and Geo. E. Ball of Marquette, and Wm. E. Mould of Cheboygan, late of the 33d, have been appointed lieutenants in the regular army.

Ninety thousand pounds of sugar beet seed has reached New York from Germany for the West Bay City Sugar Co. Five cars will be employed bringing it to West Bay City where it will be distributed to the farmers having contracts with the company.

As the season of the year when pneumonia, lagrippe, sore throat, coughs, colds, catarrh, bronchitis and lung troubles are to be guarded against, noting "is a fine substitute," will "answer the purpose," or is "just as good" as One Minute Cough Cure. That is one infallible remedy for lung throat or bronchial troubles. Insist vigorously upon having it if "something else" is offered you. Dr. G. S. Darling.

J. Sheer, Sedalia, Mo., conductor on electric street car line, writes that his little daughter was very low with croup, and her life saved after all physicians had failed, only by using One Minute Cough Cure. Dr. G. S. Darling.

R. J. Crable has sold his horse "Council Chimes" to the "Village Farm" at Buffalo, N. Y., the consideration being $3,000. The horse was one of the best in this part of the state both in breeding and action. He has no record but has shown a 2.08 clip. The horse will be taken to Buffalo next Monday.—Alpena Pioneer.

Time only emphasizes the fact that Ogemaw county made no mistake in electing a woman to the office of prosecuting attorney: Mrs. Abbott is making a record that cannot fail to meet the approval of the taxpayers of that county. Public officials who for years have disregarded the law are being shown that their doings will no longer be tolerated.

Not one child dies where ten formerly died from croup. People have learned the value of One Minute Cough Cure and use it for severe lung and throat troubles. It immediately stops coughing. It never fails. Dr. G. S. Darling.

An eastern editor is said to have hit upon a plan to keep subscriptions paid up that takes the cake. Every time a delinquent subscriber is mentioned in the paper his name is inverted. For example; pouq pouas and wife are spending a few days in Chicago. Every other subscriber understands what it means and there is a grand rush to get right side up again.

"Give me a liver regulator and I can regulate the world," said a genius. The druggist handed him a bottle of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. Dr. G. S. Darling.

While George Knight was hauling logs to this place Wednesday night he drove off the end of a culvert, throwing him off the load followed by three logs, one of which fell on his breast laying there for about a half hour before his cries brought help. He was taken immediately to the office of Dr. Ammerman who found his left arm broken in two places below the elbow and somewhat injured internally. At this writing he is doing as well as can be expected.—Twining Record.

For frost bites, burns, indolent sores, eczema, skin disease, and especially Piles, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve stands first and best. Look out for dishonest people who try to immitate and counterfeit it. It's their enorsement of a good article. Worthless goods are not imitated. Get DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Dr. G. S. Darling.

A tramp who applied for admission to the jail at Marshall was refused because he had done nothing entitling him to board at the expense of the county. He asked if the commission of assault and battery would make him eligible, and being told that it would he raised his fist and swatted the officer that gave the information a hard one right on the proboscis. He is a guest of the county now but the official who figured in the case is on his guard when any hobo applies to him for information of a similar nature.

A COFFIN trust is the latest. A cradle trust is probably next—then the trust will save you from the cradle to the grave.—Ex.

THIS year the government will fall one hundred and eighty millions of dollars short of paying current expenses notwithstanding the good standard, the Dingley tariff and the war tax.

KID Lavigne of Saginaw, met his master in Mysterious Billy Smith at San Francisco Friday night. The Kid's brother stopped the fight in the 14th round to save his brother from a complete knock out.

Gov. FINGREE has signed the Atkinson bill, and named Robert Oakman, of Detroit, Col. E. M. Irish, of Kalamazoo, and George B. Horton, of Fruit Ridge, as the railroad assessors, there-under.

GOLDEN Rod will be the name of the new American yacht that will defend the American cup in the international races. Shamrock, a yacht building in Ireland, will be England's champion in the races.

Now that the testimony of the trust is being taken in Miles' investigation, the Detroit Journal is using "scare" headings and giving it first place on front page. The testimony of the boys who had the rotten beef to eat while in Cuba, was hardly mentioned in this rankest of rank pautician sheet.

SENATOR CHANDLER, who has a reputation for talking against things supported by his party, but always voting with the party, has an acute attack of anti-trustphobia just now. He talks against the trusts as seriously as though he was a good democrat or populist, but that is no reason to expect that he will vote against any measures desired by the trusts which may come before the senate, in the future; he certainly has not done so in the past.

THE short cut to wealth—organize a trust—issue twenty million dollars in certificates against property worth five million dollars—sell ten millions of the common stock—put the cash in your pocket—retain ten millions of preferred stock, control the business and absorb the dividends. You can now pity the poor fellows, you will find poring over the twelfth census who will be shocked to find that the men of moderate fortunes have disappeared, while millionaires have been multiplied.—Silver Knight Watchman.

More Taxes, Bond Issues or Currency Reform?

According to the estimates of Mr. Cannon, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, there will be a deficit of $60,000,000 during the remaining four months of the present fiscal year. The estimate of the deficit for the fiscal year 1900 is $100,000,000 as a minimum.

The net available cash balance in the treasury on March 1, was $269,624,471. Unless there are more bond issues on new taxes the deficits must be met with this money.

Therefore unless the congress shall lay more taxes next winter or Mr. McKinley issue more bonds, the net available cash balance in the treasury on July 1, 1900, will be about $100,000,000.

And this includes the $100,000,000 of gold reserve.

It is not necessary to enlarge upon the meaning of such a condition of the national finances. The people still keenly remember the results of narrow margins about the gold reserve in Mr. Cleveland's administration.

It is too late now for any retrenchments that would materially change these figures. There are only three ways of escape from a greatly depleted gold reserve and all its consequences while the Presidential campaign of 1900 is on:

1. More taxes laid by the congress next winter.
2. A large bond issue next spring.
3. A radical reform of the currency that will abolish the necessity of maintaining a gold reserve.

Obviously the easiest way for the republican party to escape at least the foregone certainty of defeat in the fall of 1900, is by radical currency reform. But will Mr. McKinley's Heavenly Twins permit him to bring his lofty thoughts and the lofty thoughts of his syndicate down to such a low level as a vulgar "home problem?"—N. Y. World.

Good Roads.

This topic was given much consideration at the recent "Round-up" of the State Farmers' Institute at Pontiac, and in speaking of it the Holly Advertiser says:

"Good Roads," by F. F. Rogers, Port Huron, provided to be among the best things of the institute. Mr. Rogers demonstrated in a convincing manner that one of the most essential things for the success of any community is to have well built roads. He had several drawings showing how they should be constructed. Discussion was led by A. E. Palmer, of Kalkaska county, who thoroughly explained the system in force in his county, and said the best way to get good roads was to build one and then have all farmers coming to town drive over it. He stated that when this question had been submitted first in his county it was carried by four majority, and later on when the county road commission had asked for more money, the people of county voted almost solidly in favor. He stated that the best advertisement for a town was to have good roads leading into it.

Our Debate.

On the twenty-first of February, in ninety-nine a debate was held exactly on time, And the best subject that we could choose, Was "that the Indians were more than the Negroes abused."

Twelve young girls in this took part, Not a boy among them to show his art; Six for Indians and six for Negroes, Each hoping to win as the story goes.

Well, on this night when the clock struck eight We opened with a song we thought appropriate, The name of the song was "Old Black Joe," A negro melody of long ago.

Now came Mable Crandall, the first of our six Who spoke of the Negroes stealing young chicks, And also finding a melon patch,

After first lifting the chicken-coop latch. Mable Redhead, on the Negro side came next, Who delivered well her dear beloved text; Edyth Marsh now followed, a stranger in our town,

She spoke of the "white men taking all the ground."

Then came Florence M. looking like a ghost, As she well might look before a might host; Jennie K. followed on as the fifth, And tried to show that her words were no myth.

Effe Jacobs now took her place And as white as a sheet she was in her face, Her paper trembled and shook and shook As though she was holding some mighty book.

And now came Rhona to speak on our side, Who talked of the Indians with satisfied pride,

Of what they could do if but given a chance, Which they all might see if they'd just take a glance.

Mildred now came in her quiet way. She thought that the Indians had had their day, And now the Negroes should be slaves no more, Nor whipped with the lash that made them sore. But alas! for poor Elsie, I cannot express Of the fear that she had lest her side be depressed Over the verdict that soon would be passed On our most famous debating class. Then for the flower in the class, our Daisy, Who vowed that the Indians were really lazy; Now Mabel Wharton the last of our six, Who told of the Negroes playing up tricks. And last, but not least by any means, Came Irma, a young girl in her teens, She asked the judges to favor their side, And by their decision we all would abide. Now, when the debate was done, The great discussion was then begun; Then the judges were free to decide Which they thought was the rightful side. While the judges decided the time seemed long So we thought we would have a quaint little song, Which was sung by sweet voiced Claire, About "Mama's in Heaven" over there. And when the song ended it was tedious to wait For the verdict of our debate, Which was, as the chairman said, quite amused "That the Indians were more than the Negroes abused." The winning side were delighted, And thought their opponents might feel slighted, So they sang the song "Ten Little Indians had John Brown, Which greatly amused the people of the town. U. No Who.

Communication.

A visit to the public high school would serve to confirm the current opinion of its healthful condition and good management. It was my pleasure during the past week to spend an hour with the classes in the upper rooms, and was pleased indeed with the material in hand for the manhood and womanhood of Tawas City's future. Much might be said in favor of good government and careful painstaking effort on the part of the teachers, Mr. J. A. Cambell and Miss Mason. The apparent interest and hard work on the part of very promising pupils, coupled with such teaching forebodes nothing but the best results.

AGRICULTURE.

Michigan Crop Report.

Issued by the secretary of state, March 8.

The weather for February has been variable and very unfavorable for all kinds of crops. The first half of the month was exceedingly cold, the temperature being below zero for days at a time. In many parts of the state it was from 10° to -40°, temperatures low enough to kill most all fruit buds and thousands of trees as well. During this cold weather most of the counties had very little snow; the counties bordering on the west shore and the northern counties had some snow but the central and eastern counties, south of Saginaw Bay, were practically bare. On account of this the ground froze deeper than for many years. Later, during the last half of the month, the weather was warm, with some rainfall. The ground not being thawed out this water stood on the fields, causing damage in many places. Many regular correspondents report damage to fruit trees and to fruit and to potatoes in cellars.

In answer to the question, "Has wheat during February suffered injury from any cause?" 632 correspondents in the state answer "yes" and 86 "no." In the southern counties 426 answer "yes" and 28 "no;" in the central 168 answer "yes" and 13 "no," and in the northern counties 38 answer "yes" and 45 "no." The number of weeks snow protected wheat in February was 1.07 weeks, snow protected wheat in the southern counties .94 of a week, in the central counties .98 of a week and in the northern counties 2.71 weeks.

The average depth of snow on February 15 was, for the state, 1.16 inches and at the end of the month 1.15 inches. The average depth of snow for the southern counties February 15 was 1.33 inches, and at the end of the month .25 of an inch. In the central counties the average depth February 15 was 1.39 inches, and at the end of the month .74 of an inch. In the northern counties there was 7.86 inches of snow on February 15, and 6.25 inches at the end of the month.

The condition of wheat compared with an average on March 1 was, for the state, 74 per cent. The average condition was, in the southern counties, 74 per cent, in the central counties 71 percent and in the northern counties 87 per cent. These percentages, to be of value, must be considered in the proper manner. A low average condition now may not mean a short crop; it largely depends on the climatic conditions for the next six weeks whether wheat is damaged badly or not. The figures indicate that the weather for the month has not been such as tends to preserve its vitality, although many correspondents think that much wheat is killed now.

No diseases reported among live stock. Condition, for the state, of horses and sheep is 96 per cent, of cattle 94 per cent and of swine 95 per cent.

Rations for Horses.

Working farm horses should be fed from six to ten ears of corn in the morning and should be given a small armful of good, clean, bright hay. As they usually do not have much time to eat in the morning, this will be sufficient and will give plenty of strength. The above also makes a good ration for noon and night feeds if one has nothing else, but when a variety of feeds may be had I would give, at noon, one peck or threshed oats, wet if the horse is inclined to choke, and a good-sized armful of some kind of hay. I prefer clover if it is properly cut and cured. For the evening I give sheaf oats, cut in one-half inch pieces by running through the cutting box, mixed with a scoopful of bran and shipstuf dampened, and I give them plenty of good hay. The horse should be salted regularly or, better yet, nail up a small box in some out of the way place in the stable and fill it with salt so the horse can lick it when he wants to. Also give him plenty of fresh pure water, keep him well bedded and curry him once a day. If the above rules are followed and the horse is all right he will stand plenty of hard work and will fatten on it. If the horse is not intended to work hard all the time and one has a pasture, let him run on it part of the time. Keep him in a good, warm, dry stable in winter; give him plenty of air in summer; never feed him musty hay, and give him oil cake occasionally. There can be no better ration for horses than corn, oats, hay and shipstuf.—C. H. Shick, in Prarie Farmer.

Brood Mares.

The approach of the breeding season brings up the question to farmers as to whether or not they shall breed the mares owned on the farms. Most, if not all, of these mares are expected to perform the regular farm work, and the question is, will it pay to breed them under the conditions at present surrounding the market for horses? Of course it is a question which each one must settle for himself, says Michigan Farmer, but it is safe to say that if the mares are not better than the average, sound, free from physical defects, and of good disposition, it will not pay to breed them to good stallions at a pretty high fee, and it is not safe to rely upon cheaper and therefore inferior ones. There are some suggestions in the following extract which can be studied to advantage by those who have mares to breed: The successful breeder—the man who breeds horses for a purpose, and the one who never has to waste time hunting for buyers—is the man who proceeds in the same manner as the builder of a house, who first fortifies the structure by placing under it a substantial foundation of material that has been tested, and proven durable and lasting. In fact, the foundation usually, in proportion to the whole, costs more than any part of the structure, except where the builder is abundantly able to indulge in special comforts, pleasures and luxuries. To build up a substantial, durable type of horse of any breed—one that will fill the demand of the market for which it was intended, and command a fair margin of profit, the foundation must be of tested material. In the case of a poor foundation under a house, if it should prove weak, it might be strengthened so as to keep the structure standing, making it safe, so that it would last for generations. In the case of a horse with a poor foundation the strengthening process is a question. The difference, however, between a house with a poor foundation and a horse with a poor foundation, is that the horse can reproduce its kind and the house can not. Very few architects and builders would be so foolish as to build a second house, using material for the foundation that had proven unsatisfactory in the first case. Does the breeder exercise the same care, good judgement and caution as the architect and builder, when he finds that the foundation under his colt has a weak spot, and that it was inherited from the sire or dam?
