An exchange that has made a profound study of feminine human nature says: "Call a girl a chick and she smiles; call a woman a hen and she howls. Call a young woman a witch and she is pleased; call an old woman a witch and she is indignant. Call a girl a kitten and she rather likes it; call a woman a cat and she'll hate you. Queer sex, isn't it?"

In "The Progress of the World," the editorial department of the Review of Reviews for August, the questions connected with the Manila censorship and Secretary Alger's resignation are discussed and also the differences between Secretary Gage and the Civil Service Reform League. There is also some comment on the Buffalo conference of political and social reformers.

The Tawas Herald has enlarged its pages by adding another column all around. The writer has often speculated as to the cause which induced our brothers on the shore to limit their news space to a five column quarto, and we congratulate Bro. Patterson on his improvement. The most noticeable change, however, will be in the Herald's editorial columns which have heretofore helped to bear democracy's burden. From this out that journal will bid for all kinds of patronage by remaining independent in politics.—West Branch Herald Times.

Weekly Climate and Crop Bulletin.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Michigan section, for the week ending July 29, 1899:

The mean temperature during the week ending July 29th, 71.7 degrees, was 3.3 degrees above the normal; the average precipitation, 0.63 of an inch was 0.16 of an inch above the normal; the sunshine averaged 70 per cent of the possible amount.

The weather conditions of the past week have generally been very favorable for the advancement of crops and harvest work except in the upper peninsula, where frequent showers have interfered with haying.

In the principal agricultural counties the condition of corn, late potatoes, buckwheat and pastures is very good. Corn has made splendid progress and reports indicate that it is earing moderately heavy. Potatoes have made good progress and are in fine condition. Wheat and rye are nearly all secured in the principal winter wheat counties, and threshing is well advanced.

In the southern counties oat harvest is well along and much of the cut is secured: the yields are generally very good. In counties where oats have not been cut the crop is in a very promising condition. Pastures are in fair condition. Sugar beets, beans, buckwheat and garden truck have all made good progress. Plowing for fall wheat and rye has begun. Apples continue to drop badly, while those remaining on the trees are rather small and scrubby.

THE earnings of Michigan railroads for the month of June was issued by the railroad commissioner Monday. The earnings were $3,153,063.44, as against $2,633,685.03 for the month of June, 1898, the increase being $519,378.41. For the six months ending June 30, the total earnings were $16,495,895.97, as against $14,896,181.88 for the corresponding period of last year. The per cent of increase was 10.72.

REPORTS to the state board of health show that rheumatism, diarrhea, neuralgia, bronchitis and consumption in the order named caused the most sickness in Michigan during the week ending July 29. THE Locher dog bill is now a law of the state. This bill provides that each township board shall appoint a dog warden who shall issue to all who shall apply and pay a tax of $1 for each male and $3 for each female dog, a license and the parties owning the dog shall cause the dog to wear a collar with the number of license on the same. It also makes it the duty of warden to kill each and every dog he finds which has not the necessary credentials with him.

An exchange remarking upon the force of habit has this to say: "It is a curious fact that the average barber becomes so accustomed to asking his customers if the razor hurts, that half the time he puts the question almost unconsciously. One of our wielders of the razor makes this confession: 'It was called out to shave a dead man one day,' he said, 'and had scarcely made three strokes over the face of the corpse, when I leaned over and gently asked, 'does the razor hurt, sir?' Suddenly it flashed upon me what I was doing and a smile forced itself upon my face.'"

DR. CHARLES U. SHEPARD, in charge of the experimental tea garden at Summerville, S. C., has made a report to the secretary of agriculture covering progress to date. He says there are now about 50 acres of land under tea cultivation and that 3,000 pounds were sold last year at a profit of 25 per cent. It is estimated that when all the plants now growing arrive at maturity they will yield 10,000 pounds annually. Dr. Shepard expresses the opinion that the weather conditions will prove satisfactory. The labor problem has been solved by establishing a school for educating negro children in tea-picking. The quality of the tea also has proved satisfactory.

NOTEWORTHY is the growth of independence of thought and expression among the better class of newspapers in the United States. Time was, and well within the memory of young men, when the newspapers were so entirely partisan that to have acknowledged that their side could be wrong or the opposition right, even in minor matters of public policy, in the opinion of the editors would have been to commit journalistic hari-kari. Of late years people have become accustomed to distrust political papers and political editors who assume a guardianship over men who are in every way competent to think for themselves.—Minneapolis Times.

PERHAPS the most peculiar sentence ever passed upon a person in the courts of Ohio, was passed upon James Firsden in Bowling Green, by Mayor A. R. Campbell, who made himself widely known by fining himself for a misdemeanor. Young Firsden, although 13 years of age, has just finished a 30 days sentence in jail. When arranged before Mayor Campbell he was sentenced to attend Sunday school and church for eight weeks every Sunday, or go to jail for twenty days. Upon presenting a certificate from his Sunday school teacher at the close of the time he is further to be paid one dollar by Mayor Campbell for his good conduct. On refusal to attend church the boy is to be locked up and the sentence carried out.—New York Times.

The Disputed Alaskan Boundary Line.

The announcement that the international joint high commission had failed to come to an agreement upon the questions submitted to it because of the inability to agree upon a treatment of the disputed Alaskan boundary has not been a surprise to those who have been interested in the subject in the past and have been permitted to observe the claims made by the Canadians interested in Alaska and the Northwest Territories and their determination to secure a new boundary that would give Canada harbors on the coast of Alaska and enable her to reach her valuable possessions in the interior without being subject to American customs regulations.

The question in dispute relates only to that line which separates the possessions of Great Britain and the United States along the strip of land belonging to the latter which extends down the coast from the Alaskan peninsula and shuts off the British possessions from the waters of the Pacific Ocean.

This boundary line is described in the treaty of February 16, 1825, between Russia and Great Britain, and was mapped out by Russia shortly after. Great Britain contends that the Russians misinterpreted the treaty, and that the true boundary line according to the terms of the treaty should be much nearer the coast and should give several salt-water harbors

How Fighting Bob got his Title.

"Fighting Bob" Evans did not get his title for anything he has done since he entered the navy. It was given to him while he was a student at Annapolis. When he reached the navy school he had with him a framed copy of the Lord's prayer, which his mother had given him. He hung it on the wall over his bed. The rules at Annapolis forbid ornaments of any kind being hung on the walls. The inspecting officer ordered Evans to take it down. He refused and drew himself up in a warlike attitude. Finally an appeal was made to the secretary of war. Meanwhile Evans had written home about it. His parents got up a petition to the secretary and the prayer was allowed to remain. It is hanging yet on the walls of Evans' old room. And he was nicknamed "Fighting Bob" in consequence of the incident.—Ex.

Sun Dried Beets.

"Sun dried raisins in the south are a success, why not sun dried beets?" is an important question that is being raised at present. For two-thirds of a year a factory must, under the present condition of culture and immediate use, lie idle. It is believed that the raw material can be conserved in such quantities by proper methods of sun drying and storage, where sliced beets could be kept entirely free from dampness, as will permit a factory to run throughout the greater part of the year. Ten years ago, says the Beet Sugar Gazette, an experiment was made along this line which was followed by excellent results. The dry, warm atmosphere in three days reduced the beets to one-fourth their original weight. Later the extract was found to be fully up to the standard observed in the fresh beet juice.

Some Curiosities of our Calendar.

"As we are at the beginning of a year," says La Science pour Tous, "there is still time to recall certain curiosities of the Georgian calendar. Thus, since the reform of the calendar by Pope Gregory XIII, in 1582, no century can begin with a Wednesday, a Friday or a Sunday. Also the same calendar can be used every twenty years. January and October of the same year always begin with the same day. So do April and July also September and December. February, March and November also begin with the same day. New Year's Day and St. Sylvester's Day also fall on the same day, except of course in leap years. Each day of the week has served as a day of rest somewhere; Sunday among Christians, Monday with the Greeks, Tuesday with the Persians, Wednesday with the Assyrians, Thursday with the Egyptians, Friday with the Turks, and Saturday with the Jews. Finally, the error of the Georgian calendar, compared with the actual course of the sun, does not exceed one day in four thousand years. As it is quite probable that neither you nor I shall ever verify this, we shall not risk very much by believing the statement."

Duties of Ministers.

To what extent should ministers of the gospel undertake to regulate public morals by other means than preaching? asks the Christian Herald, of Detroit. That they have rights and duties as citizens, it says, cannot be denied—to attend the primaries and to vote. But this they do as citizens. It is very different when they adopt resolutions or petitions beginning, "We, the clergymen," etc., invoking law or magistrate to put down this or that immorality. * * * Ministers may thus accomplish the specified result contemplated—they may prevent dancing at a mayor's reception, or exclude objectionable statuary from public view, or close up a Sunday show, but, it asks in conclusion, do they not in the process endanger the peculiar influence they possess as men appointed by God to secure righteousness by the simple proclamation of the gospel?—Ex.

The Elks' Carnival.

Peter Sells, the veteran showman who personally superintended the first production of the Midway, which is to be seen at Saginaw, Aug. 14 to 19, pronounced it the greatest amusement enterprise of the age, rivaling in splendor and magnificence the famous Mardi-Gras Carnival of New Orleans and LaFiesta of Los Angeles. He predicts that it will inaugurate a new era in amusement history, and will become an annual event wherever given. The Midway is only one feature of the show, as an industrial exposition is conducted on the same grounds, and daily parades add gaiety to the week. Half rates have been made on all railroads.

The August term of circuit court convened Tuesday, Judge Simpson presiding. The assault case against Patrick Dean, a nolle prosequere was entered. A jury was drawn in the case against William Conklin, charged with careless use of fire arms. The proceedings were there quashed, owing to defects in the information. These were the only criminal cases on the docket. The Judge heard a few motions and then adjourned court until next Monday.

Help the Cause.

There has never been a political campaign that will equal in importance that of the one to be fought next year. The republican party, backed by the money power of this country and Europe, is alert and aggressive. Flushed with the victory of three years ago it will seek by every means in its power to maintain its supremacy.

Democrats must be up and doing. They must wage an unceasing war upon their enemies. In no better and more effective way can this be done than by the circulation of good, sound democratic newspapers. The publisher of the Chicago Dispatch, the great national democratic weekly, will send to every new subscriber for three months a copy of The Chicago Dis-

PICK-UPS.

The cleaner the barns and stables are kept, the less annoyance at the house from flies.

The help you have to watch or follow after and finish the work, is very expensive at any rate.

Care and feed make stock, stock make manure and manure make the farm. Keep up this rotation if you would prosper.

Despise not the small things on the farm. Anything that brings in a few cents every day, will fill up a corner in the pocketbook surprisingly in the course of a year.

It won't pay you to hold your wheat at all if it is of poor quality. Better get rid of it now on the very best terms possible and let the other fellow take his chances on it.—Farmer's Guide.

Under favorable circumstances and on good soil millet sown now will make a fair crop, and if you are short of hay or fodder it will come in mighty conveniently before winter is over.

It is time now to shape up something for the fair. If you don't care to do it yourself, encourage the boys at least to rub up a colt, feed a pig a little extra or give the pumpkin vine a little extra cultivation.

The boy on the farm isn't consulted as often as he should be to get him earnestly interested in what is going on. Then the boys are usually smarter than the old man, and he knows it, but hates to acknowledge it.

Take something to your county fair. You'll think more of yourself the whole of next year if you excel every other farmer in the county in the growing of some crop or in the raising of animals.

Don't injure your meadows or pastures by pasturing too closely. Better use some grain, or sell your surplus stock than to eat the grass into the ground, and spoil your grass for next season.

The fruit grower should remember that in preparing the soil, in selecting plants, in hoeing, cultivating, pruning, thinning, protecting, and in every detail, he is performing an important part in the quantity and quality of his fruit one or two years hence.

The main profit of the poultry business is derived from the eggs; therefore keep the breeds that yield the largest number of eggs. Pure bred strains with proper care will produce from 140 to 200 eggs per annum each. Leg-horns leading the list. If eggs were sold by weight, it is likely there would not be much choice between the different breeds on the point of egg production.

EARLY THINNING OF FRUIT.

Whether or not it pays to thin the fruit of an orchard, everyone agrees that with a few trees it is advantageous to thin an overbearing crop down to a reasonable number of choice fruits. In an experiment reported by the department of agriculture thinning was found to increase the total yield and to decrease rot. The thinning was practiced with apples, peaches and plums, early thinning giving the best results. It was concluded that it pays best to commence work of this kind immediately after the fruit is set.

CLEANING UP.

Just about now weeds are beginning to mature seed. We may have cleaned out our cultivated fields nicely, but along the fence rows, in the pastures and around the garden and truck patch there may be enough weeds maturing to seed the whole plantation next year. We are apt to neglect the sharp scythe. Very few weeds will make a second growth this late in the season, and one good mowing will be sufficient to put things to right for the balance of the season. Usually there comes a wet day when other work has to stop. We can then get out to cleaning up. It is best to let weeds lie just where they are cut, if the only object is to kill them as they will thus scald everything beneath them that is growing. It is not only money in one's pocket to keep the corners and out-of-the-way places cleaned up, but it is a great satisfaction as well.—Guide.

WASTES AND LEAKS.

It is the many little wastes and leaks on the farm that keep so many tillers of the poor and penniless much of the time. If farmers would take the trouble to ascertain the value of that which is thrown away and goes to waste at this season of the year, they would, perhaps, make better use of much that is considered worthless. We like the manure pit on the farm for the reason that you always have a place to dump the refuse from garden or field, yard or barn where it will be rotting and making a valuable manure. Vegetable tops of all kinds are rich in nitrogen and make excellent additions to the manure heap. Potatoes, parsnips and turnips have tops and vines that contain large quantities of potash. Corn cobs, wagon loads of which might be scraped up around the barn or pig pen on many farms, constitute a very serious loss. The ashes of cobs contain nearly twenty-five per cent of potash. When we consider that the potash in the cobs is all derived from the soil on which the corn is grown, we see at once the importance of properly saving them. It is estimated that the fertilizer ingredients in a ton of corn cobs are worth, at current rates for such articles, fifty-eight dollars. We can save this fertilizer by using the cobs for fuel, or rotting them in the pit.—Guide.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR BOY?

Have you got a boy? Does he get up early, milk cows, feed team, cattle and pigs? Does he take the team and plow, or drag, or rake, or mow all day? What are you doing for him? Do you give him anything at all except his board and clothes and a little schooling in winter? What inducement do you offer him to stay with you and help you on the farm? inquires J. S. Triggs, of Rockford, Iowa.

Suppose that instead of enforcing your legal claim to his services until he is of age, and thus disgusting him with farm life, and paving the way toward an unloved, neglected old age for yourself, you do the fair thing to the boy?

Give him something for his own, let him be earning and saving a little money. Don't deny him an opportunity if he desires it, for an ignorant man is going to be placed at a fearful disadvantage in the coming years; give him the best team and the best tools to work with and encourage him by kind appreciation.

The reason so many boys leave the farm disgusted, is because they are treated like little slaves by selfish, avaricious parents, you can treat a boy like a horse, or an ox, but the horse or ox will not run off and the boys can and will, and we don't blame them.—North American Horticulturalist.

THE ENGLISH SPARROW AT HOME.

The Farmers' Gazette, of Dublin, Ireland, quotes from Mr. Howley, a well known naturalist of Newmarket, England, as follows, in regard to the English sparrow:

He says: "In 1899 I killed

many were examined before noon each day. During the fortnight I found corn of some kind and a few seeds, and lots of buds of the fruit trees, more especially gooseberries. Toward the latter end of the month, and in the first week of March, very little seed or corn was found, but principally the young shoots of peas, radishes, lettuce, endive and wheat; not an insect scarcely to be found. Later on, toward the end of March and the early part of April, their crops were filled with buds of the cherry, apple, peach, pear, any quantity of shoots of peas, lettuce, cabbage and flower shoots, with a few insects, occasionally a small quantity of wheat or barley and some kind of green seeds. I also found shoots of nearly every tree in the gardens, from the lime to the sycamore; in fact the majority of their food up to this time was shoots of trees and scarcely anything else.

"My opinion (which I have based upon a good trial) is that so many sparrows in one neighborhood is decidedly a nuisance, and causes a great deal of loss to the farmer, gardener and florist. They are mischievous brutes, and to my idea, take delight in driving away insect-eating birds that would do good, and not content with this, they pull up and eat all the garden seeds, destroy no end of fruit in the bud, pull great holes in the thatch of your stacks, barns and sheds, and do but very little good to any one."

PRUNING VINES IN SUMMER.

The chief art in gardening consists in not allowing our plants to have their own willful way, but to make them behave as we want them to do. Vines, generally, make desperate attempts to get to the top of a tree or bush that they twine around, and the lower portion is nothing but a serious of naked stems. When we set them to trellises we want this proceeding reversed. We desire as many branches close to the ground as at the extreme upper portion of the pole or frame on which they are supported. The educated gardener understands how to do this. The grower of grapes under glass has to know how to do it, as otherwise he would have grapes in the apex of the roof and no where else. He applies the same principle to the growth of flowering vines out of doors as to his grapes under glass, or to the grapes in the outdoor garden, for that matter, with equal results. Indeed, there could be few better methods of learning whether one has a real gardener or only a wolf in sheep's clothing, than by nothing whether he allows the honeysuckles to grow in crow's nests under the coping of the piazza front, or whether the branches are of equal strength from the apex to the ground.

And yet, the art is very simple. It is simply to pinch out the apex of the strong growing shoots that want to get up still higher, and leave the struggling shoots at the base alone. The growth force, suddenly checked by the stopping of the upper shoots, has to be expended somewhere, just as the sudden stoppage of water being forced through a pipe may burst that pipe. It is diverted to the lower and weaker shoots, which become, before the season is over, as strong as the upper ones.

In the hands of a good gardener, a grape vine trellis will have fruit over every part of its surface—and have as fine fruit at the apex as at the base. But how rarely do we see these masters of the art; and how simple the art is after all.—Meehan's Monthly for June.
