A GOOD ONE.

The Twenty-fifth Annual Fair of the Agricultural Society Promises to Be.

The Dates Are September 27th, 28th and 29th.

The twenty-fifth annual fair of the Iosco County Agricultural Society will be held on the society's grounds, between the Tawas, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 27-28-29, and promises to be the best fair ever held by the society. Premiums to the amount of nearly $1,000 are offered. Liberal purses are hung up for the horse and bicycle races. Another trotting race and a running race have been added to the program, which will add much interest.

The county school exhibit will be one of the special attractions, and with the liberal prizes offered should draw competition from every school in the county. Those desiring information relative to this feature should apply to Prof. A. A. Ellsworth, Tawas City.

The revised premium list is a big improvement and cannot fail to give better satisfaction to the exhibitors. The different divisions and classes are much better arranged, and each will be in charge of competent managers.

The grounds and buildings are being put in good shape and the officers are doing all in their power to make this the most successful exhibition ever held. Of course, their success will depend on the interest taken by the citizens of the county, and it is to be hoped that all will do their share towards making it a success. Let every farmer prepare to take something that will add to the exhibit. Take the best you have and try and beat that of your neighbor.

The races will be held during the last two days, Thursday occurs the colt race, the farmers' trotting race and a special race for 3-year-old colts that have never been tracked.

Friday will occur the 3-minute race, the free-for-all trot and the running race; also the bicycle race. For the ladies, a prize will be given for the most graceful rider. The gentlemen's race will be one-half mile heats, best two in three.

In addition to the prizes offered by the society, there are a number of special prizes offered by the merchants.

Premium lists can be had by applying to T. W. Conklin, East Tawas.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Michigan section, for the week ending Sept. 9, 1899:

The mean temperature for the week was 64.6 degrees, or 1.9 degrees above the normal; the average total precipitation was 1.05 inches, or 0.45 of an inch above the normal; the sunshine averaged 54 per cent of the possible amount.

Showers have been general in all parts of the state and the severe drouth is broken, but the rainfall in most lower peninsula counties was insufficient. More rain is needed for fall plowing on high land and clay soils, and is also necessary to germinate fall sown wheat and rye. Corn cutting has made rapid progress during the past seven days, and in the four southern tiers of counties a large part of the crop is in shock; in the more northerly counties corn cutting has been quite generally begun. The severe drouth during August has greatly shortened the yield of corn, especially the late sown. Bean harvest is about completed and a much shortened crop is nearly all secured. Showers of the past week have been very beneficial to pastures and late potatoes. Late potatoes have improved, but indicate a light crop. Buckwheat is in very poor condition, much of it having blasted in flower and it has filled poorly. Sugar beets need more rain but are still in fairly good condition. Apples continue to drop very badly and will be a very light crop. Fall plowing is well advanced in the southern counties and some seeding has been done.

In Iosco county, the showers were insufficient; corn and late potatoes need rain badly; beans and buckwheat in poor condition; beets and pastures need rain badly.

It may not be generally known that there is a law on the statute books of Michigan making the offense of swearing in the presence of ladies or children a criminal offense. Ignorance of the law excuses no man and while it might seem unjust to one who was ignorant of such a wholesome statute, were he arrested and made to pay a sharp penalty for its infraction, there is no excuse for any person to do violence to his manhood and lower himself to the extent of not being a gentleman by the use of profanity and vulgar talk in the presence of ladies and children on the street or his family at home.

Biggle Poultry Book is the most comprehensive and helpful poultry book ever gotten out. In addition to the vast amount of valuable information covered in its seventeen chapters, there are sixteen beautiful colored plates, showing true to color and shape, 23 varieties of poultry. Chickens, ducks, turkeys and geese are all shown in their proper plumage, and with comb, beak and shanks as true to nature as it is possible to produce. Also 42 handsome engravings in half-tone and 61 other helpful illustrations of houses, nests, drinking vessels, etc. The price is 50 cents, free by mail; address the publishers, Wilmer, Atkinson Co., Philadelphia.

MICHIGAN holders of timber licenses in Ontario, Canada, through Robt. Smylie, of Detroit, and the Canadian Bank of Commerce, of Toronto, have begun a test suit against the crown to have set aside as unconstitutional the parliamentary enactment of December, 1897, requiring that all timber cut in Ontario shall be manufactured there. In addition to the legal redress asked for, the supplicants also ask heavy damages on account of the crown commissioner's refusal to renew their licenses in 1898-99 unless they promised not to export logs. It is understood that the case may be carried up to the Canadian privy council. The delay in starting the suit was due to the hope that relief would be secured through the work of the joint high

The department of state, through the agricultural division, expects to make a display of agricultural products at the state fair this year. It desires especially to exhibit samples of sugar beets from the various counties. Samples of sugar beets should be sent to Justus S. Stearns, secretary of state, Grand Rapids, Mich., so that they will be there by Sept 25. A limited number of these samples will be analyzed by a chemist from the Michigan Agricultural College experiment station, for the purpose of determining the percentage of sugar the beets contain, and also for the purpose of exhibiting the process by which the result is obtained.

The Theater From the Inside.

That there are five thousand theaters in America, and that one million and a half people attend them each week-day night, spending seventy millions of dollars a year on theater-going, are the surprising facts with which Mr. Franklin Fyles, the dramatic editor of the New York Sun, will open an important series in the next issue of The Ladies' Home Journal. The series will be called "The Theater and Its People," and will run through seven numbers of the magazine, lavishly illustrated pictures made by twelve different artists. The articles will treat of every phase of the theater, the play and the actor, from the inside, and will tell how the theater is managed; the actual money which plays have made; how an actor is trained and what the actors are actually paid; how a play is written and what the authors receive; how a play is rehearsed; the first night of a play; how the actresses "make up" and what they use; and in a minute way the two last articles will show what goes on behind the scenes on the stage during a performance. It is a curious fact that this will be the first time that the theater and the actor have ever been exhaustively treated in a magazine, and that there is no book on the subject in existence.

Help the Cause.

There has never been a political campaign that will equal in importance that which is to be fought next year. The republican party, backed by the money power of this country and Europe, is alert and aggressive. Flashed with the victory of three years ago it will seek by every means in its power to maintain its supremacy. Democrats must be up and doing. They must wage an unceasing war upon their enemies. In no better and more effective way can this be done than by the circulation of good, sound democratic newspapers. The publisher of the Chicago Dispatch, the great national democratic weekly, will send to every new subscriber for three months a copy of The Chicago Dispatch for ten cents. If you are not already taking the great political weekly, send in ten cents at once. You should not only do this yourself

High Water Advertising Mark. The New York Herald of April 17 printed an editorial statement that on the previous day (Sunday, April 16) its paid advertising reached the high water mark in that journal's history. "The Chicago Tribune" on that same day, last Sunday, April 16, printed not only more advertising than the New York Herald, but what is believed to be the greatest amount ever printed in a single issue of any regular main edition of a newspaper. Leaving out of account the twenty-two columns of advertising printed by the New York Herald on that day, the record of the Tribune for April 16 surpassed that of the Herald for the same day by more than 10,000 square lines of paid advertising. Even allowing the Herald all 6 claims in its issue, exclusive of its Brooklyn and New Jersey supplements, the New York Herald on that day still fell short of the Tribune by more than 4,000 lines in the actual amount of paid advertising. The exact figures are given as follows: The New York Herald of April 16 printed in its main edition, exclusive of its Brooklyn and New Jersey supplements, 77,823 square lines of advertisements. Including those supplements it claims 84,762. The Chicago Tribune of the same day 88,480 square lines of paid advertisements. The comparison should be made in lines of equal measure, because the "New York Herald" is longer and contains 305 square lines, while those of the New York Herald contain only 284 lines of equal size. For the four Sundays ending April 16, the number of columns of advertisements in the New York Herald, according to its own claims and including its Brooklyn and New Jersey special section, was 1,067.25. In the same period of time "The Tribune" printed 1,064.43 columns of actual paid advertisements. These, reduced to square lines, give the New York Herald 307,928 lines and "The Tribune" 330,771. The "New York Herald" were printed in that period 23,983 more square lines than in the New York Herald. Therefore the New York Herald printed an average of 26.23 columns less each Sunday than "The Chicago Tribune."

Notes for our Farmer Friends
Gathered from Many Sources.

POULTRY-RAISING FOR FARMERS.

It has not been long since the poultry business was not considered worthy the attention of the farmer, and even now there are some farmers who fail to see any real inducements for them to take hold of it. They think it is too small and insignificant an occupation to justify them. The farmers' wives should be highly applauded for the stand they have taken. Many of them have succeeded wonderfully well in raising the standard of the poultry business, and have made it the most profitable department of the farm in proportion to the amount of capital invested. Only a small amount of capital is necessary to introduce a good-sized henry on the farm, and women, as a general thing, are well qualified to take that part of the farm and carry it along successfully. Although farm wives' opportunities along general business lines may not be many, yet they are quite sufficient to carry out the ordinary transactions required in the poultry business. I have in mind one farm wife who says the greatest opportunities of the age lies in the direction of the poultry side of farm life. She claims, from actual figures, that the profits from one hundred hens outweigh those from a twenty-acre wheat tract. Some claim the poultry business is being overdone, but we think not, in fact we think the farmers in this vicinity have much too small a stock on hand to make it profitable. Some are enlarging their flocks, while others seem entirely indifferent to the possibilities that lie within their grasp. The products of the poultry yard were never better at this season of the year than at the present time. As there seems to be a growing demand for the products of the henry, so also there seems to be a disposition on the part of poultry raisers to enlarge their flocks and to improve the same each succeeding year. Now we do not think it advisable for farmers to invest in fancy stock altogether, but would suggest a judicious selection of improved stock. As there are such a number of different breeds it is difficult to advise which is the best. If eggs are wanted the Brown and White Leghorns, which are almost perpetual layers, might be chosen. It might be well, perhaps to try a few of the standard fowls, such as the Plymouth Rocks. They have a world-wide reputation and are superb as a table fowl. The pure bred fowls are winning their way from farm to farm proving conclusively the advisability of giving them a fair trial.—J. J. Taylor in Prairie Farmer.

study of the roots of the corn plant show that many of them would naturally grow within three or four inches of the surface, but when the upper layer of soil is dry they cannot obtain nourishment from this portion of the ground. Another injury to the corn crop from deep cultivation is the tearing out of the corn roots by the cultivator shovels. By pruning these roots the ability of the plant to secure nourishment is greatly hindered and the crop injured thereby. It is very important that the cultivations should be sufficiently frequent to prevent a hard crust from remaining on the ground for any length of time.

MAKING THE HORSE.

Now is the time to remember that the colt of the present is to be the horse a few years hence, and the kind of a horse he is to be depends largely upon his treatment now, says Farm, Stock and Home. Good care, ample food and judicious exercise are the essentials at this time. By ample food is not meant over-feeding. Some grain should be fed during the summer, but not so much that the little fellow will be disposed to eat freely of grass or other bulky food, for the latter is necessary for the proper development of his stomach and digestive organs. Two pounds of oats a day should be given to the colt after weaning, and should be allowed to learn to eat some even before weaning. Vary the grain feed with barley or even corn; and if occasionally ground grain in a thick slop is given the effect will be good. But this feeding should be moderate, and not calculate to develop overmuch fat. Exercise the colt should have, but that, too, temperately. Over-exertion would be as bad for the colt as no exertion. It is well, also, to begin breaking or educating the colt at an early age. Secure its confidence by kind treatment and gentle words, accustom it to strange sights, to sudden noises and other alarming things, enough to teach it that they are not dangerous, and so begin to develop the mind as well as the body of the horse that you want to see command a good price later on.

PICK-UPS.

The most profitable acre on the farm is that devoted to a well tended vegetable and fruit garden.

The principle of co-operation is the best remedy for most of the evils farmers complain of. When will they put it in practice?

Hogs and hominy are all right in their way. But the farmer who provides these only or mainly for his table supplies is not living up to his privileges.

Run your farm to make a living from it, and you are almost sure to get a good one and make money besides. If you farm to make money alone it is doubtful if you get either.

In beginning farming it is a safe rule to carefully observe and follow pretty closely the practice of farmers who have made a success of cultivating soils similar to your own.

Concentrate your working capital, labor and fertilizers on one-half the acres you are now tending and see if farming does not pay better dividends and cost less trouble.

If you have stable manure to apply this fall don't plow it under. To get the most out of it apply to the thin parts about over the wheat field either before or after the seeding, which ever is most convenient.

We seldom make any improvement on the farm that after it is completed there isn't something about it we'd change if the work was to be done over. We are never as careful about complet-
