Are the Dates Chosen for the Next Annual Fair of the Iosco County Agricultural Society.

The board of directors of the Iosco County Agricultural Society met at the court house in this city last Saturday to make the necessary arrangements for the next fair. Much business was transacted and plans laid for the exhibit next fall. The dates chosen were, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 26, 27 and 28, and every effort will be made from now until that time to make it the best and most successful fair yet held.

The executive committee was instructed to issue the annual membership tickets at once and have them placed in the hands of the directors for sale, and an effort will be made to increase the society's membership, and thus work up a greater interest and larger exhibit.

The officers are also planning for several special features which will make the fair especially interesting to every class of people, announcements of which will be made as soon as completed.

The society is in the best financial condition it has been for a number of years. All premiums have been paid in full and the indebtedness much reduced. A liberal patronage at the coming fair will place the society in condition so that many needed improvements can be made on the grounds and larger and more premiums paid for exhibits. The people from all sections of the county should give it their liberal support.

Dear Mother and Sister:

Your letters reached here while I was out in the mountains, where we had a battle, I will tell you about it first. We left camp January 5 and camped in the mountains that night. Next day we moved to within about two miles of the enemy's forts. We were behind high mountains and out of sight of the enemy, and supporting some artillery which our men had placed just across the creek from the forts. That night we moved up to the foot of the hills on which were their forts. We were huddled together in a space about 50x20 feet, when all at once several shots came whizzing right in among us, but no one was hit. The first fire was not returned so they did not fire any more. We slept or waited for morning, when, leaving our blankets rolled and taking nothing but our haversacks and canteens, were on the move before daylight. We were at the foot of a slope running up to the fort when the artillery opened fire, and could see it plainly. One shot struck the wall tearing away a portion of it, the next exploded right over the fort.

The 44th Vols. went up here, while we moved back down the creek and went up opposite the main fort. It was a hard climb, but our men all kept in line. Our Co. was followed by Co. D. Our company was divided into platoons, and I was in the second which was in command of our second lieutenant. One platoon would fire, while the other advanced a ways, and then advance while the other fired. We went up in skirmish line. While we were waiting for orders the lieutenant allowed four of us to go to a small fort on our left, which had been vacated. We got about half of the way when eight or ten bullets passed over our head. Three of us dropped behind a large stone, and the other fellow ran back to the company. We waited a while to see if they would fire again, but I think they were kept busy from some other quarter, so we joined the company without further trouble. While we were there the company were firing on a fort some 200 yards distance. After 25 or 30 rounds had been fired the insurgents had a fine flag and more rifles and cannon than any of the others. While we were doing this, the rest were driving out insurgents wherever they could find them. The 44th passed us and went up to the higher forts, all of which were taken with very little resistance, the insurgents generally deserting their posts when they saw us coming. Col. Snyder, of our regiment, said it was a grand sight. We took twenty-nine forts, rifle pits and outposts, and were done before dinner.

I examined the forts and thought they were very strong, none of them seemed to be much the worse for the usage they got. The upper ones were on a high mountain, with a flat plain behind them large enough to hold 5,000 troops. We camped there that day and night, and left the next morning for the other side of the island. We reached Balamban, an insurgent town, but all pretended to be our friends. We took a couple of their head men to Cebu, and captured three more on the way home.

We had a tough march, wet, sandy and cold, with no bedding except a few weeds bunched together. We reached home after a ten days absence tired and sore, but not one fell out of our company.

We expect to go to Toledo on a scouting trip soon. There is some talk of us being home for the 4th of July. We are the fourth regiment in foreign service. * * *

The Progressive Teacher.

Without labor nothing can be achieved in this great busy world. The progressive teacher is "up and doing." Do not think you can fool the public or the children under your care. If you want to keep abreast of the times you must use all means to improve. You must attend associations, take the reading circle work and have access to the columns of two or three good educational journals. By all means do not neglect the educational journals. It may take a good deal of time to peruse the columns of two or three educational journals every month, but labor you must if you wish to become a successful teacher.—School and Fireside.

We have teachers in Iosco county who never attend associations or institutes, who do not even take an educational journal; to whom reading circle work is merely a useless expenditure of time and money. In the words of the immortal Lincoln: "They may fool some of the people all of the time; all of the people part of the time, but they cannot fool all of the people all of the time."

And such a situation would certainly make the republicans sit up.

THE Michigan crop report for March shows that the month was a cold one, the average temperature being 22.8, which is 5.4 below the normal. The precipitation was 1.80 inches, which is .54 below the normal. Ice did much damage to wheat in many places. The average condition of wheat in the southern counties is 60, central 70, northern 79 and in the state 64. Rains are needed. In most parts of the state there is a good prospect at the present time for a fair crop of fruit.

A SINGLE acre of Washington timber recently measured by the Division of Forestry, contained 218,690 feet B. M. of Red Fir, 11,000 feet of Hemlock, and 6,000 feet of Cedar; making a total stand of 236,690 feet. The smallest Fir on the acre was 3 feet in diameter and the largest, 8 feet. The height of the forest approximated 300 feet. The Hemlock was scaled down to 20 inches in diameter and had it been scaled to 12 or 14 inches, as customary in the East, the stand would have been several thousand feet greater. The acre was measured near Wilkeson, Washington, about 30 miles from Tacoma.

Memorial Day.

The following extract from general orders No. 5, department of Michigan, G. A. R., is an appeal which should be supported by every loyal American. Memorial Day is the one holiday that should not be desecrated by sports of any description: "At a later date General Orders will be issued referring to the completer arrangements for the observance of Memorial Day, May 30. At this time the attention of Posts is drawn to the subject with the suggestion that steps be taken early to make the day one to be impressively observed."

Make early announcements of your programs and appeal to your citizens in time not to arrange sporting programs, which will tend to divert attention from or belittle the importance of our memorial services. This day should be kept not only as a memorial but as a day when our young should be taught lessons of patriotism, when we should all again renew our devotion to the Union and pledge ourselves anew to the faithful discharge of our duties as patriotic citizens.

When sporting programs are gotten up which engage the thought of our young and draw the people away from the Memorial services, the purposes for which the day was set apart are defeated. Ask your municipal authorities, if necessary, to request all citizens to respect the day, and protest in time against any programs which will violate its purposes.

Our citizens are not all fully aware of how general and intense the desire is in our Order to secure the proper observance of this day and not have it diverted to other purposes.

We would not deprive any one of legitimate sport or interfere with the programs of others at proper times. Some holidays are properly devoted to sports; men may stand on their heads on the Fourth of July and yet violate no rule of propriety.

In behalf of all the surviving Union soldiers who placed their lives on the altar of their country to save this Union, not only for their own generation but also for those who should come after them, and who wrought the victory which has brought such grand fruitage to us as a people, and given us the power and prestige we now enjoy and made this country a nation to be proud of. I ask all citizens to lend their influence toward securing the proper observance of this day. Whenever possible have the citizens take a part in the management and services for the day. They have mere vigor and are as patriotic as we, and if placed on the committee will gladly lend a helping hand.

The Golden Wedding.

The following poem was read at the Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Benedict:

Just fifty years of sun and storm, You two have passed together, And here we come a merry throng In spite of wind and weather, To sing your golden wedding song, This March the twenty-third, And celebrate the happiest day, That good wives have ever heard.

And what a view of the past is yours, The changing years provide, Since first you stood with him, Who now still claims you as his bride. Just fifty years we do not know, The tale those numbers breathe, Nor all the dreams and hopes and fears That round their memory wreath.

Dear children sit within your home, And children's children too, Yet welcoming smiles are seen through tears For the loved that once you knew.

Just fifty years ago dear friend, Your face was wondrous fair, But care and grief have shadowed it, And blanched the sunny hair, But to him who stands beside you now And looks into your eyes, You're lovely in your winter frost, As 'neath the April skies.

Then welcome in this happy day, Made sweeter by the past, And throw aside all doubts and fears, Its clouds and storms have cast. The future? That our Father knows All things are for the best, You've trusted Him for fifty years, You can trust Him for the rest.

So here we sing the wedding song, You'll join us all I know, And pledge the happy bride and groom Of fifty years ago.
