An exchange says that the man who went out to milk and sat down on a boulder in the middle of the pasture and waited for the cow to back up to him, was the brother to the man who keeps store and would not advertise because he reasoned that the purchasing public would back up to his place when it wanted something.

"The Boston Medical and Surgical Journal" says that a Boston physician was recently called to a family which he found in such destitute circumstances that he gave, in addition to his prescription, a $5 bill. Happening in the next day, he discovered that his gift had been thus spent: Three dollars to the priest, which of course was all right, and $2 to get another doctor.

The man who will drive his horse into town, never blanket it, but hitch it to a post with its breast to a cold wind blowing at the rate of twenty miles an hour, while he himself goes into the hotel or store to toast his shins by the warm fire ought to be kicked all over town. If a man can't buy a blanket for his horse or is too thoughtless or shiftless to take decent care of an animal, he ought not to have one and the quicker he dispose of it and gets a job digging ditches, cutting cord wood, or some like employment, the better.

A great many people think a newspaper should have about a page of local news whether anything happens or not. Delude mortals! Local editors cannot make people break their necks commit suicide or do any of the other exciting things that go to make up the material out of which the reporter delights to weave paragraphs. Furnishing domestic news when there is none is very much like extracting blood from a turnip. It is no more than fair that those who grumble at the lack of local news in the paper should stop and think whether they could not give the editor an item or two worth printing, and, if so, let them hold their peace or growl at their own remissness.

The following method for determining the age of eggs is practiced in the markets of Paris. "About six ounces of common cooking salt is put into a large glass, which is then filled with water. When the salt is in solution an egg is dropped into the glass. If the egg is only one day old it immediately sinks to the bottom; if any older it does not reach the bottom; of the glass. If three days old it sinks only just below the surface. From five days upwards, it floats; the older it is the more it protrudes out of the water.

THE record of new companies having a capitalization of $1,000,000 or over in the country, in November, shows the total capitalization is $148,150,000, as a compared with $108,350,000. Twenty-nine companies with an aggregate capital of $69,000,000 were formed during November in West Virginia. In New Jersey the companies had a total capital of 39,000,000. Thus West Virginia takes the lead as a trust state.

WM. JOHNSON of the New Voice, Chicago, visited Manila to see the effect the new American saloon was having on the American army and the natives. Out of 60,000 soldiers it was found that 15,000 had been in the hospital through drink, 900 have been driven mad by its effects, and nine out of eleven suicides were placed at the door of drink by the doctors. The injury done outside the army cannot be estimated.

RAILWAY managers are generally of the opinion that the wooden freight cars will fast disappear from service on the roads of this country. The steel car is much lighter, therefore much less expensive to haul, its carrying capacity is greater, and therefore its earning power is greater in comparison to the wooden car. The steel car costs less than the wooden car which is a saving in the beginning. It is much stronger and withstands hard service and wrecks better than the wooden car, requiring few repairs, and its life is said to be one-third longer than the old style car, through this has not yet been demonstrated.

In The Year 2000. Among the startling prophecies, concerning human developments in the twentieth century, now only thirty days distant, are one by President Pritchett, of the Boston Institute of Technology, and another by Sir Robert Giffen, the eminent English statistician.

According to the first-named scholar the population of the United States will be increased to nearly 95,000,000 in 1910; in 1950 to over 190,000,000. He does not estimate it for the year 2000, but at the rate of growth which his estimate for 1950 assumes—nearly, 150 per cent. for the fifty years beginning with 1900—the American people one hundred years hence will number 475,000,000.

Sir Robert Giffen says that the population of Europe and of European origin—in which he includes the United States and all other countries settled by descendants of European stock—have increased from 170,900,000 in 1890 to 500,000,000 in 1900. And he predicts that at the coming century (2000) the 500,000,000 will have become 1,500,000,000 or more.

It is not conceivable that the twentieth century will be more warlike and destructive of human life than the nineteenth, which has been more crowded with wars than any previous century of the Christian era. Therefore, the threefold increase of the populations of Europe and countries of European origin and sympathetic civilization which has occurred in the present century is not unreasonably anticipated in the next. Meantime, the yellow and black races are not increasing at all. Time and tide fight on the side of "the noble Caucasian."

But try to think of the American people of A. D. 2000—475,000,000 of them! What a Presidential campaign they will have when that year rolls round!—N. Y. World.

Wealth Against Common Wealth.

The reports from Washington regarding the subsidy bill serve to confirm the impression that it is a gigantic grab supported by interested parties and a few extreme protectionists. It is announced that the bill is being arranged for by a conference presided over by Senator Hanna, to which are invited representatives of the ship-building interests. The intention is to put the bill ahead of all other legislation and to railroad it through congress before public opinion has time to express itself. Members opposed to the bill are to be given to understand that unless they fall into line any legislation which they may have to propose will be blocked.

It would be a gross betrayal of public trust to enact a law by such methods, even though it were a great public benefit; but what evidence have we that the public is to be benefited by this subsidy? Already we are sending steel ship plates to England, and foreign countries are coming here to have their ships built because they can get them cheaper and better here than anywhere else in the world. We have in this country cheapest wood, the cheapest steel, the cheapest machinery, the cheapest coal and the highest priced yet cheapest labor.

Why then must we grant many millions of dollars to people to build and operate for us? Is it because of the lack of capital? The chief beneficiaries will be the Pacific Mail run by the Vanderbilts, the Goulds and their partners, and the American and Red Star lines, owned by the Standard Oil Co. Their poverty appeals to every one. It will be pleasant to reflect every time we buy a revenue stamp that in so doing we are helping out poor Mr. Rockefeller. How many millions ought we pay to reduce the Standard Oil Co. to change the flags on its ships from Belgian to America? We want an American merchant marine, and we are going to have it, but there are better ways of getting it than by subsidizing that benevolent organization. —T-Daily

PLEADS GUILTY!

White Admits He Aided to Rob the State and is Given 10 Years at Jackson Prison.

He is Pardoned by Pingree in Less than 24 Hours, as is also General Marsh.

Gen. Will L. White, late quartermaster general of the state of Michigan, appeared before the Ingham county circuit court at Lansing, last Monday and pleaded guilty to the charges against him, as returned by the grand jury. Judge Wiest sentenced to the state prison at Jackson, for a term of ten years. It is generally believed that White will be pardoned for both White and his pal Gen. Marsh, who had been previously convicted. The pardons each provided that the convicts shall pay the sum of $1,000.00 per year for a term of five years to the treasurer of Ingham county.

Tuesday Gov. Pinree issued pardons for both White and his pal Gen. Marsh, who had been previously convicted. The pardons each provided that the convicts shall pay the sum of $1,000.00 per year for a term of five years to the treasurer of Ingham county.

By his act in issuing pardons to these men Pingree should lose the respect and confidence of every law abiding citizen. His acts in the matter indicate that there is some grounds for the intimations that he has had a hand in the stealings. Be that as it may, Pingree has very appropriately put the climax on one of the most corrupt and disgraceful administrations ever known in the history of Michigan.

It is Pingree's political death, may his ashes ever burn.

About Presents.

The Farm Journal contains the following excellent advice about Christmas gifts:

Do not give presents after you have complained for weeks of the nuisance of the custom, if you give them and do not like to, keep your dislike a secret, Christmas can be celebrated in other and better ways than by ungraciously bestowed gifts. Don't take the tone that you are "cut up" if some one gives you a present on whom you have nothing to bestow in return. The thing is not supposed to be a matter of bargaining; receive the gift graciously, and if you prefer to repay the obligation, do it in some other way and time. Do not send Christmas presents in the wrappings they were sent from the shop in. Wrapped up in tissue paper, tied with ribbon, with a sprig of holly stuck under it, they will be much more satisfactory and Christmasy.

A Rather Novel Complaint.

An English traveler once met a companion, sitting in a state of the most woeful despair and apparently near the last agonies, by the side of one of the mountain lakes of Switzerland. He inquired the cause of his sufferings. "Oh," said the latter, "I was very hot and thirsty and took a large draft of the clear water of the lake and then sat down on this stone to consult my guidebook. To my astonishment, I found that the water of this lake is very poisonous! Oh, I am a gone man—I feel it running all over me. I have only a few minutes to live! Remember me to"—

"Let me see the guidebook," said his friend. Turning to the passage, he found, "L'eau du lac est bien poisonneuse" ("The water of this lake abounds in fish").

"Is that the meaning of it?" "Certainly." The dying man looked up with a radiant countenance. "What would have become of you," said his friend, "if I had not met you?" "I should have died of imperfect knowledge of the French language."

One Too Many For the Deen.

A well known dean of Norwich tells the following good story against himself: Some few weeks ago he came to a stile in a field which was occupied by a farm lad, who was eating his bread and bacon lunch. The boy made no attempt to allow his reverence to pass, so was duly lectured for his lack of manners. "You seem, my lad, to be better fed than taught." "Very like," answered the lad, slicing off a piece of bacon, "for ye teaches Ol, but 'Ol feeds meself."—London Answers.

Wouldn't Sign.

A newspaper man was asked to publish an article roasting a citizen. "Certainly," he said to the caller, "What shall I say?" He was furnished with an outline of what he wanted and wrote an article that was a scorcher. "That's splendid," exclaimed his friend, delightedly, when the article was read to him, "That's right, that'll make his old hair crinkle." "All right," said the editor, "let me see, what are your initials?" "Good Heavens," said the citizen, "you are not going to sign my name to that." "Why not?" asked the editor. "I wouldn't have anyone know I had anything to do with that for the world; I can't afford to get into a scrap with my neighbors." The editor smiled benevolently and said, "Why should I mix up in a scrap that does not concern me? Why should you expect me to assume the blame for the publication of an article to which you are afraid to sign your name?" The man stopped his paper and went away mad.—Battle Lake Review.

The Irl R. Hicks 1901 Almanac.

Whatever may be said of the scientific upon which the Rev. Irl R. Hicks bases his yearly forecasts of storm and weather, it is a remarkable fact that specific warnings of every great storm, flood, cold wave and droth have been plainly printed in his now famous Almanac for many years. The latest startling proof of his fact was the destruction of Galveston, Texas, on the very day named by Prof. Hicks in his 1900 Almanac, as one of disaster by storm along the gulf coasts. The 1901 Almanac, by far the finest, most complete and beautiful yet published, is now ready. This remarkable book of nearly two hundred pages splendidly illustrated with charts and half-tones engravings goes as a premium to every subscriber who pays one dollar a year for Prof. Hicks' journal, Word and Works. The Almanac alone is sent prepaid for 25 cents. Order from Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Rambler Clipper, and Ideal bicycles for sale by WHITTEMORE & PHINNEY.
A wise old gentleman says that if a young man meets a girl with rosy cheeks who says, "I can't start for thirty minutes, yet, because I want to help mother do the dishes," she wants to sit right down on the door step and wait for that jewel. And he wants to stick to her like a burr to a mules tail. She is worth her weight in gold and much more worthy of your esteem than the simpering simpton who gads the streets solely to gad and flirt with every young man she meets. Every man old or young, has an opinion of the girl that gads the streets which he always make public. Sixteen to one, such a girl will make life miserable for the whole community by her shiftlessness and by her gossiping tongue. A girl unfaithful to her mother will never be worth a one-eyed button to her husband if she ever succeeds in getting one. The girl with good sound sense, becoming modesty, and a realization of her sphere of usefulness wins the kind of respect and admiration worth having.—Ex.

NATURE'S CURE

A Girl's Experience.

My daughter's nerves were terribly out of order. She was thin and weak; the least noise startled her, and she was wakeful at night. Before she had taken one package of Celestine King the change in her was so great that she could hardly be taken for the same girl. She is rapidly growing well and strong, her complexion is perfect, and she sleeps well every night.—Mrs. Lucy Mc Nutt, Brush Valley, Pa. THE FARM CORNER.

Newsy Items Gathered From Many Sources.

KIDZIE ON FERTILIZER.

At a recent meeting of the Farmers' club of the M. A. C., Dr. Kedzie, the widely known college chemist read a paper on the subject of "Farmers and Fertilizers." From the M. A. C. Record we take the following extracts:

He said his first encounter with fertilizer agents was at the time of the state fair in 1883, two samples of fertilizer were presented, but the ones to whom the judges awarded second were dissatisfied and demanded an analysis. The samples were sent to Dr. Kedzie with the result that the decision was reversed. Another encounter which the Doctor related in his peculiarly interesting way, was with a company which was selling a fertilizer at $20 per ton. He analyzed it and found it to be actually worth only 34 cents per ton. He published this fact in Detroit papers and the company's business stopped at once. The encounters gave rise to state inspection of fertilizer.

Speaking of the farmer, Dr. Kedzie said that were only three things which were of value to him as fertilizer, viz: potash, phosphoric acid and nitrogen. Samples of soil from twenty eight counties showed that in clay soils there is plenty of potash present in the form of silicate of aluminum called feld-spar. This is continually decomposing and if the soil is skillfully managed will be entirely sufficient. Phosphoric is the one thing which the farmer may be compelled to buy. The source is bone and it is found deposited in the form of phosphates. He said the farmer must raise his own nitrogen by raising clover, beans, peas or other leguminous plants. Nothing is of more value to the farmer. Nitrogen may be purchased in the form of sodium nitrate. Farmers cannot afford to sell clover hay, for the nitrogen contents, if purchased would cost twice the value of the hay.

MAKE THE STABLE WARM.

Now is the time to attend to this, if it has not been done already. Many farmers are a little careless along this line. Make yourself and your animals comfortable to do the chores in there, when long. Batten the cracks. Line with straw on the inside holding in place with any old strips of boards, if you live in a cold climate and cannot do better. There can hardly be a reader so poor that he cannot make his stable reasonable warm. Don't neglect this matter, friends. It will save feed and make cows give more milk. But then it is a pleasure to make all stock comfortable. The writer has been hard up, probably, as any of you, and still he fixed the stable in the old barn so it was quite comfortable to do chores in there, when the cows were in, without any coat on in any weather. You can do it. Get at it in this month and be ready for the cold storms. You can sleep better when they come because your cows and young cattle and horses are warm. Of course when you build a new barn you will make the stable warm.

Line it all round inside with 1 1/2 inch flooring. This will be solid enough so that nothing will kick it down, or a hole through it, and the matching will make it tight. On the north you might put paper under the boards. We used Norway pine lumber, and it stands, as it is almost as hard as oak you know. But fix up the old barn now and it will help you to save money to build the new. Be comfortable as you can as you go along.—Ez.

WASTEFUL FARMING.

In early days agriculture was wasteful in that the land was not have been done as well as today if there had been the desire or the knowledge of how. In the years that have followed there has been wasteful farming, and as farm products went down and farming became less and less remunerative the more wasteful was the farming conducted.

When the farmer is prosperous then he can till his land, and all his land, and till it well, but when the products of his farm give him little or no return for his labor then it is that he tills in a wasteful manner. We believe that the cultivation of the best crop will be the turning point in the career of many farmers. Here, in their despair, comes a new cash crop in which there is good returns for all the labor expended, and the more labor the higher the returns.

In the cultivation of the beet crop the farmer who has had the experience of the past two seasons, realizes that his land is improving and that it promises greater returns for other crops. His farm is cleaner and less expensive each year to work, it looks better, he has little ready money on hand and all these things improved conditions, give him heart and prompt him to harder work. While the beet crop may not be a cureall for all unsatisfactory farm conditions, it is a mighty good thing to have on hand just the same and has given many a farmer a new lease on life.—Ez.

FALL MANURING.

So far as the other farm work will allow it is never advisable to let manure accumulate to any considerable extent. The best and most economical plan or management with the manure is to haul it out as soon as possible after it is made.

On most farms there are unusually plenty of places where manure can be applied to advantage, so that there need be no delay on this account, says the St. Louis Republic. Manure can nearly always be profitably applied to growing wheat, especially in the fall. In a measure, a good dressing of manure will act as a mulch and lessen more or less the injury so often done by alternate thawing and freezing. The rain and melting snow, aided by thawing and freezing, will carry the soluble portions of the manure into the soil, where it can be reached by the feeding roots of the plants.

Top dressing is one of the best way of manuring wheat, especially when the manure is not too coarse or trashy, so that it can be scattered evenly. Top dressing of the meadows can nearly always be done to good advantage in the fall or early winter. When a good even stand of grass is once secured it is often an item to keep the land in grass as long as a good crop is secured, and if this plan is followed it is often best to give a good top dressing of manure. Growing of a good crop of grass one year after another will gradually take up the supply of available plant food and it is just as necessary to fertilize meadows as any other part of the farm.

But it is not best to apply fresh course manure on the meadows, not only because of the difficulty of spreading it evenly, but because the coarse litter will not rot thoroughly during the winter, and when the hay is harvested this trash will be raked up with it. Top dressing the meadow is an advantage the same as with wheat, in that acts as a mulch to protect the plants during the winter. It is an item, however, to distribute as even as possible.

Another good place to top dress during the fall and early winter is the orchard. Under ordinary conditions it is not best
