The National Educational Association.

Every progressive teacher in Michigan should attend the next meeting of the U. E. A. which convenes in Detroit July 9-15, 1901.

The researches carried on under its auspices, have made plain many difficult educational problems. Thousands of dollars were spent by the Committee of Ten in preparing and compiling its reports on secondary school studies. The Committee of Fifteen on training of teachers, correlation of studies and organization of city schools and the Committee of Twelve on rural schools.

Teachers, you need a nouting. This gives you what you require at a very small cost. One fare rates will be given, tickets good until Sept. 1st. The rates will enable you to visit the Pan American Exhibition at Buffalo. The opportunity offered our teachers at a small expenditure of time and money, to see hear and meet the leading educators of America is one which will never again come to the majority of Michigan teachers.

State pride demands a large attendance of Michigan teachers. Never again in the professional life of the present Michigan teacher will the present opportunity present itself. The last meeting held in Detroit was in 1874, 26 years ago. Let us place Michigan in the front ranks of membership. The meeting is ours and state pride demands a good showing.

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Commissioner.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It absolutely guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, lagrippe, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at G. S. Darling, and J. E. Dillon East Tawas.

He Reversed.

"Why, what's the matter, daughter? Been married but a brief month and weeping so bitterly! Tell me what is the trouble. Surely you and Jack haven't quarreled already, have you?"

"No, mamma."

"And he hasn't gone away and left you, I'm sure."

"Oh, no, mamma! Jack wouldn't be quite as mean as that."

"Then what in the world can have happened to make you so miserable? Is Jack in trouble—I mean, has he met with any reverses?"

"Yes, mamma, that's it! His reverses. When he was courting me he never left the house till 12 o'clock or after and now he's reversed that rule and never comes home until about that time."—Richmond Dispatch.

Strikes a Rich Find.

"I was troubled for several years chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H., "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50 cents. Satisfaction guaranteed by G. S. Darling or J. E. Dillon druggist.

Like Oliver Twist, children ask for more when given One Minute Cough Cure. Mothers endorse it highly for croup. It quickly cures all coughs and colds and every throat and lung trouble. It is a specific for grippe and asthma and has long been a well known remedy for whooping cough.

Germany's Menace to Uncle Sam.

It is in South America that Germany and the Monroe doctrine are destined to come in conflict, writes Douglas Story in the New York Herald. Already she is sending goods to the value of $50,000,000 annually to South America, and some one hundred thousand of her citizens are settled in the four republics of Brazil, Argentina, Chili and Mexico. Railways, banks and mines are passing into the hands of these German settlers, and more than one South American loan has been successfully negotiated in Berlin. There are interests that Germany little likely long to trust to the corrupt governments of southern republics. Should any serious interference with her interests be alleged against one or other of these governments the kaiser is not the man to be withheld from reprisal by the mere quotation of the Monroe doctrine. He is a man of deeds.

Remarkable Cures of Rheumatism.

From the Vindicator, Rutherfordton, N. C.

The editor of the Vindicator has had occasion to test the efficacy of Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice with the most remarkable results in each case. First, with rheumatism in the shoulder from which he suffered excruciating pain for ten days, which was relieved with two applications of Pain Balm, rubbing the parts afflicted and realizing instant benefit and entire relief in a very short time. Second, in rheumatism in thigh joint, almost prostrating him with severe pain, which was relieved by two applications, rubbing with the liniment on retiring at night, and getting up free from pain. For sale by, Dr. G. S. Darling.

Sherlock Holmes' Methods.

Methods used by Sherlock Holmes, fictional detective, so impressed the Massillon authorities that they provided the police with books telling of the great achievements of Holmes' and gave them instructions to apply Holmes' principles in all cases. Accordingly, when it was reported a trunk was broken open and $85 stolen at John Steyens' boarding house, Officer Seamen proceeded to investigate along Holmes' lines. He found the brass hasps securing the trunk lid had been severed with a sharp instrument. None was found in the vicinity, and the landlord was asked if he had an ax. He produced one from the coal house, where he said he always kept it. There were small particles of brass on the blade which just fitted the cuts in the trunk. The officer argued that if robbers had committed the crime they would never have logged away the ax, therefore they deduced it must have been the landlord. When they arrested him he was so amazed at their line of reasoning that he admitted his guilt. He is in jail.—Mansfield Shield.

"Close Shavers" Take Notice.

It is not generally known among men that a close shave is apt to bring on a cold. Barbers, however, are acquainted with this fact, and it is rather on account of it than through any desire to bring their patrons back soon again that they do not, unless ordered to, administer close shaves. "A close shave," a learned barber said yesterday, "removes not only the hair, but a portion of the skin as well. It removes, in fact, a thin layer of skin all over the line of the beard. No blood is visible to the naked eye, but under the microscope a close shaven face reveals a thousand widely opened pores, each excluding a tiny drop of blood. You know how the sudden removal of heavy clothing tends to bring on cold. How much more, then, does a close shave which is nothing less than a removal of part of the skin clothing tend, with the exposure that it creates of pores and nerve tips, to induce colds, sore throat and even pneumonia."—Philadelphia Record.

OBITUARY.

The remains of the late James Keeley, who died Wednesday Feb. 27, of pleuro-pneumonia, arrived in Midland, Thursday Feb. 28, accompanied by his wife, his little daughters, Eva and Wilma; Miss Alice Hannah, of Tawas City, Miss Margaret Hannah, Mrs. Wm. Munderback and Mrs. Wm. Martin of Saginaw. They were met by sorrowing friends and relatives, and the remains taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. John Haley, where the many friends came to pay their last tribute, to the dead. The funeral was held from St. Bridget's Catholic church on Saturday morning, at nine o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Father Malone. The organ pealed forth solemn strains of the Requiem, as the casket, containing all that was mortal of Mr. Keeley, was silently borne to the foot of the altar, by the following friends who acted as pallbearers: Messrs. John Matthews, Edgar Payne, John Costello, John Bearnish, William Ryan, and James O'Neil.

A solo "Glad Kindly Light" was beautifully rendered by Mrs. James O'Neil.

After the singing of the Requiem Mass, the Rev. Father Malone, preached an appropriate sermon.

The interment was in Calvary cemetery. Besides his wife and two little daughters, he leaves an aged father, Wm. E. Keel of Midland; two sisters Mrs. John Haley, of Midland, and Mrs. Bernard Cussick, of Ohio, Cal., and one brother, Martin Keeley, of Jackson, Ala. to mourn his early demise.

THE state of Delaware is to be congratulated on her determination to be without a representative in the United States senate rather than to have "Gas" Addicks. No representation is better than misrepresentation.

Now that New York has planned to erect a great naval arch as a water gate at the south ferry in that city, she will proceed to pay its cost by taking up subscriptions in other parts of the country.

At the village election held at West Branch Monday, a very sensible plan was adopted. Politics were laid aside and only one ticket was nominated, which was composed of the best men in the village, many of whom could not have been prevailed upon to accept a party nomination, even if sure of an election.

THE country will wait with more or less impatience for the terms of the new canal treaty that Secretary Hay is negotiating with Great Britain. If it contains any surrender of Alaskan territory, Mr. Hay will be worse surprised by its reception than he was by that of the deceased Hay-Pauncefote convention.

AFTER all the new steel trust isn't absolutely the whole thing. It appears that there are a number of little companies, with capital running as high as $50,000,000 in one instance which still stand outside the combination. We can remember the time when a $50,000,000 organization was considered quite important.—To-Day.

THE compilation made by the tally clerk of the house of representatives at Washington show the measures brought before the congress which has just expired. There were 14,336 bills, 3,000 reports, 345 public acts, 1,250 private acts and 395 joint resolutions. To act on these congress had just 197 days. The wonder is that we got out of it as well as we did.

ADDRESSES will be given at the spring meeting of the Michigan Schoolmasters, Club to be held in Ann Arbor, Friday and Saturday, March 29 and 30, by Charles F. Thwing, president of Western Reserve University, James B. Angell president of the University of Michigan, and Albert Leonard, president of the Michigan Normal system. President Thwing will speak on The Obligations and Limitations of the High School, and President Angell on the Moral Obligation of the Secondary Teacher.

ACCORDING to a recent consular report from Madeburg, Germany, the production of beet sugar in the world is now twice as great as that of cane sugar. This victory of the beet over the cane is ascribed to the influence of the science of chemistry in developing the industry of beet sugar making. This influence is especially exerted in Germany, where more than a thousand chemists are exclusively employed in the sugar factories. The manufacture of beet sugar has taken a sudden start in Spain since she lost her colonies in the war with the United States.

NINE tenths of the business men of today are asking themselves the question "does advertising pay?" What is the remaining tenth doing? It is reaping the harvest of dollars and cents the result of well written, judiciously placed advertising, it consists of the successful minority who have the sound judgement, the acute business sense to know that in good times and bad, it is an eternal truth that it pays to advertise. It consists of many of the merchant princes of this broad land, men who have earned their way to fortune by the way of printer's ink and news paper space.—Ec.

THE present system of election ruins the state legislatures for the sake of ruining the senate. The degradation of an Addicks or Quay campaign infects both the state and national capitals. The people thoroughly understand the situation. They never fail to demand a change whenever they have a chance to be heard. Their representatives in the house are almost unanimous. It is only the senate that blocks reform. And if the senate will not get out of the way it can be cleared out. The state legislature can do it. That is the most promising direction to turn our efforts now.—New York Journal.

Pan-American Stamps.

First of the sheets of the Pan-American exhibition stamps, upon which the bureau of engraving and printing in Washington has been at work for four months, have been finished. The stamps are in two colors, and a sight of this latest production of the bureau will make the viewer a "stamp fiend" if he harbors the least bit of philatelic sentiment in his make up.

The stamps for the Buffalo series will be printed in sheets of 200 instead of 400. On each is a picture of a railway train. The sheets will dry in a week or ten days. Then they go to the pressers again, and the boarder, with the inscription "Commemorative Series, 1901," etc., will be printed in red. This series is the 2 cent variety. In all six kinds will be printed.

Stationery for Farmers.

As the years go by it is pleasing to note that more farmers write letters on printed letter heads and have their cards on their envelopes. It was once thought that no one could do this unless he was engaged in the production of some pure blood farm stock. No one believes that now. Let the farm be named, and then give that, with the name of the owner and his postoffice address, and the business is done. The cost of printing is trifling in comparison with its benefits.—Lanark Gazette.

H., "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. IF THE people of the republics and countries of Central and South America fully realized to how great an extent misinformation with regard to their several countries exists in the United States and Canada, the Pan-American Exposition would be taxed beyond its limit to provide space for the exhibits that would come from those countries to enlighten the people of the United States and Canada concerning their neighbors to the southward. If, on the other hand, the people of the United States and Canada knew to any appreciable degree of the wide opportunities for the profitable investment of money and energy which offer themselves in Central and South America, they would not require such exhibits to awaken their interest, nor would such opportunities long remain unknown or unpossessed.

The Object of the Exposition.

The ideal had in view by those who planned the Pan-American Exposition and toward the accomplishment of which nothing is being left undone that energy and effort can bring about or suggest is that in all that appertains to the industrial and intellectual development of the countries of the Western Hemisphere the Pan-American Exposition shall occupy the position of a great International "Information Clearing House." While interesting millions as a beautiful spectacle, it will afford an opportunity to the peoples of the three Americas to become better acquainted with each other, and it will prove a very prominent factor, too, in developing a proper and just appreciation in each country of the industrial wants and trade possibilities of their neighboring countries of the Western Hemisphere.

While their view of the duty and task imposed upon them in this regard has been broad the generosity and public spirit of the promoters and management of the Exposition in providing for the setting of the Exposition in landscape and building effects and in arranging for the sumptuous, intellectual entertainment of visitors within the grounds have been broader. It is safe, I believe, to now risk the assertion that as a result of all this the verdict of those who visit Buffalo next year will be that in certain phases, and in not a few, the Pan-American Exposition will be justly entitled to rank in history as the most beautiful and successful of American Expositions.

No one who has approached the subject of Industrial Pan-America seriously believes that the artificial trade conditions now existing between Canada, the different Central and South American republics and the United States—as they affect and restrict commerce and communication between the different countries—can long continue, nor can it be controverted that great changes for the better in these regards have taken place during the past few years. Indeed, a greater advance has been made during the past ten years in the countries of the Western Hemisphere in all that counts for the better than during the 50 years preceding. This statement, made broadly, can be verified in detail. It applies to everything that has tended toward stability of government, toward the betterment and improvement of the people of the different countries, toward the building up therein of permanent national wealth and in the direction of utilizing to a greater degree than heretofore the products and resources of these countries.

Governments and Export Products of South America.

It is true that exceptions to this statement can be easily pointed out; but, broadly speaking, it will bear investigation and will be found to be correct. For example, with few exceptions the seemingly unending boundary disputes—all of which, by the way, came down from the old Spanish regime as an inheritance and which have been for 70 years the source of untold expense and of constant irritation and oft threatened war between practically all of the republics of Central and South America—have been amicably concluded. The closing days of the century find that chief source of trouble in Latin America happily reduced to a comparatively small point. It is but just to these republics to say in this connection that due credit should be given them for the fact that in reaching this result they have consistently recognized the theory of arbitration to be the proper and true method by which such international disputes may be solved. Today no boundary difficulty of any kind affects the peace of the east coast of South America, and but two such questions are still to be adjusted upon the west coast. Stable government, well administered, has been reached in very many of the republics south of us. In some—notably in those toward the extreme south of the continent—the most striking and rapid advances imaginable have been made during the past ten years in their material development and in the prosperity of their people.

This has been especially true of the Argentine Republic and of Chile. Fifty years ago the latter supplied flour to the entire west coast of South, Central and even to that of North America. The development of California and Oregon, however, changed this, and today the latter not only supplies their own wants, but as well a large section of Central and part of Western South America with breadstuffs. Chile on her part has become the world's nitrate producer and notably so in copper, while her vineyards have increased with each year.

In the Argentine Republic the changes that have occurred are even more striking, because they relate to things with which we of the United States and Canada are more familiar. It is, for example, relatively speaking, but a few years since the United States was shipping flour to the Argentine Republic and to Uruguay. Today, as a result of the immigration that has poured into those republics, but principally into the first country, and as a result of the application of North American farm machinery to the great alluvial basin of the River Plate, the Argentine Republic alone exports to Europe 35,000,000 bushels of wheat and half that amount of maize each year. Not content with having thus become the competitor of the United States and Canada in the Old World in the exportation of breadstuffs, the same republic has also become their competitor—and a strong and growing one, too—in the exportation of meat products. Few have any idea of the growth of this industry in the River Plate republics. Thirty years ago Great Britain imported less than 300,000 pieces of frozen mutton. Indeed that was the beginning of that industry. Today there are killed, frozen and exported to Europe each day from the province of Buenos Ayres alone, in the Argentine Republic, 13,000 carcasses of as good mutton as the world can produce, while innumerable square miles of alfalfa fields dot the republic and furnish rice, cheap fattening material for 30,000,000 or more of cattle possessed by the country.

The advantages the people of the United States and Canada might obtain by grasping the true meaning of the above facts would appear to me many and their value very great.

If they would, for instance, but realize the significance of the one fact that a well bred, fat steer can be and is being produced in the Argentine Republic and exported to England at a total expense at least $15 less than it is possible to do the same thing in either the United States or Canada—while a great advantage lies with the producer of River Plate mutton—they would realize the strong appearance of probability to the often quoted statement made by some that the not distant future would bring River Plate mutton to our tables in the United States.

Great Cattle Zones in the South.

Many public men in South America believe this will occur, reasoning as they do that the conditions in the United States are such and their development in manufactures is so pronounced that it can be looked upon as altogether probable that within the next ten years meat will be profitably exported to the United States from the great cattle zones of South America. They also believe that the turn of the tide that has carried the United States into the position of a lender of money rather than a borrower will then carry the well known aggressiveness and zeal of American financiers and industrial operators into South America, where a highly profitable field would be found for the employment of capital in the development of many of the smaller industries now in existence there and in the consolidation and operation on a large scale of the meat producing plants there and in the handling of breadstuffs and all their related industries.

Millions of acres of tillable land, in an excellent climate, with every facility except immediate transportation, await those who will seriously look for it in South and Central America, and it was the earnest wish and purpose of those who formulated and planned the Pan-American Exposition that in all the above fields they might, through the Exposition, do something tangible toward bringing to all a better knowledge than now exists concerning the countries of the Western Hemisphere and that there might result from the Exposition something of value in the direction of a wider dissemination of that practical knowledge of our surroundings and of our future industrial outlook so much desired by all of us and so essential to a proper realization on our own part of the problems of trade and of commerce that are in store for us and for our children to solve, that through it the people of the Western Hemisphere might more clearly appreciate than they now do the enormous resources of the Western Hemisphere and the possibilities it contains for the building up of an enormous industrial empire, containing as

D. & M. Railroad.

The railroad commissioner's report which has just been issued says "The main line of the D. & M. Company, from Bay City to Alpena, a distance of 131 miles, was found to be in first class condition. The Company has rebalanced track and thoroughly repaired all bridges. Depot facilities are adequate; passenger service all that could be desired; right of way fences in fair condition; crossing plank and signs in good order. The track between Alpena and Tower has been rebalanced and is in good condition. Station buildings are adequate. Company has cut down a number of the grades and filled in sags between Cathro and Posen, which makes a decided improvement.

The Prescott and Valentine Lake branches have received all necessary repairs to tracks and bridge structures. The Rose City branch is very much improved, it having been rebalanced this year, which is a very desirable improvement. This company has built 6½ miles of logging branches this year, which are constructed satisfactorily. Company has renewed 90,142 ties; renewed several culverts; built 17½ miles of fence and rebuilt 6 miles. Company owns 946 freight cars, all equipped with automatic couplers, and 610 of same equipped with air brakes. All engines and passenger cars are equipped as required by law. All branches are provided with passenger service, which seems to be satisfactory to the public.

Farmers are up against a new bunco game. They sign what they believe to be an order for a gold watch, which they are to receive free, or at a normal price, and the signature turns up at the bottom of a promissory note. It is the old story. The man who expects to get something for nothing is likely to get swindled.—Ex.

We are often asked why such and such items were not in the HERALD. It is not because we did not want it, but because we did not know of it. The Tawas make a large town and we are very busy. When you know of a news item call us by phone, stop us on the street or any old way so we get it. We want all the news. Help us to get it.

Besides his parents and one sister he leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his untimely death.

Mrs. C. E. VanDeusen, of Kilmour, Wis., was afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation for long time. She says, "I have tried many preparations but none have done me the good that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have." These Tablets are for sale at Darling's drug store. Price, 25 cents.

You wouldn't think of calling on people who never intimated that they desired your company. Why, then, should you trade with merchants who never ask you, through advertisements to do so? An advertisement is an invitation for the purchaser to call. It is also to post the buyer as to what each merchant has for sale and sometimes the price. Read the ads., then, and trade with the merchant who values your patronage enough to ask you in.

The stomach controls the situation. Those who are hearty and strong are those who can eat and digest plenty of food. Kodol Dyspepsia cure digests what you eat and allows you to eat all the good food you want. If you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, belching or any other stomach trouble, this preparation can't help but do you good. The most sensitive stomachs can take it.

Reports to the state board of health indicate that influenza, bronchitis, neuralgia, rheumatism and tonsillitis, in the order named, caused most sickness in Michigan, during the past week. Cerebrospinal meningitis was reported present at 2 places; whooping at 12, measles at 29, diphtheria at 33, typhoid fever at 45, smallpox at 72, scarlet fever at 110, and consumption at 176.

There is possibly one thing the croaker has never thought of, and that, there is no reasonable excuse for any man to live in a town if he don't like it. If you have no commendation to say of your town, its institutions or people, migrate. You won't stop the town clock by going away. The church bells will have the same musical ring, the dogs will bark just as briskly, the fish in the river will bite just as well, and the pure air, bright sunshine and sparkling water will have healthgiving properties. Speak a good word for your neighbor if you can; if you can not do not everlastingly stand around and enlarge upon his faults. If you have become thoroughly sour and disgruntled move away; go somewhere where things suit you; anywhere at all but go.—Ex.

He Declines.

W. H. Hartley has sent the following letter to the chairman of the democratic county committee which fully explains itself.

TAWAS CITY March 9, 1901.
The action of your county convention, in placing me in nomination for commissioner of schools comes at a time when I am not in a position to accept. The interests of education in the county would not be bettered by a change, even if it were possible.
The duties of this important office are of such a nature as to require a much longer term than the law provides, consequently the re-election of our efficient commissioner at this time should meet with the approval of all good citizens, regardless of party. Thanking you for the honor conferred I am,
W. H. HARTLEY.

Each ward will be entitled to five delegates.
Dated March 14, 1901.
By order of
CITY COMMITTEE.

The Stars and Stripes at Acre.
A good American had been making some soul stirring remarks about the glorious star spangled banner when an Englishman who is pretty well Americanized told a little story apropos: "I remember once to have seen the stars and stripes applauded uproariously on a peculiar occasion. It happened many years ago when the British flag wasn't as popular in the United States as it is now and a party of us Englishmen were at a theater in New York considerably farther down town than theaters are now to be found on Broadway. The play was 'Richard I.' and if you remember there is a scene in the play where Richard, after putting his foes to flight in terrific style, mounts the walls of Acre and plants the British colors there. Evidently the management knew the temper of the audience and felt that even under such circumstances the British flag would not be a good thing, so what did they do but give Richard the star spangled banner, and, by all the gods, he took it with him in the charge and planted it on Acre's walls. It was ridiculous, of course, and we Englishmen laughed, but the audience took it quite as the correct thing, and the way the people stormed and shouted and clapped was enough to have made Richard turn over in his grave. Historically it was away off, dramatically it was open to criticism, but patriotically it was a howling success."—Washington Star.

Trigonometry in X Ray Work.
"Few people know," said Dr. J. C. Egelston while performing an operation at the City hospital, "that it takes trigonometry to locate a bullet in the body. But in every X ray operation in which the bullet or foreign substance is deeply imbedded a mathematical computation is necessary to show just how deep the bullet is. The X rays make the flesh transparent, leaving only the bones and foreign substance visible, so that you see just where the bullet is, and yet you don't know where it is. You know its latitude and longitude, so to speak, but those measurements are surface measurements, and you don't know how deep the object is beneath the surface. The point on the surface of the body beneath which the bullet is can be readily located, but how far beneath that point is the bullet?
"This is the question that trigonometry has to answer, and by knowing the answer a great deal of unnecessary cutting may be saved, and what might otherwise be a difficult and dangerous operation may be rendered comparatively safe and easy. If the bullet enters one side of the body, for instance, and lodges within an inch or two of the skin on the other side, the other side of the body would be the one from which to operate."—Kansas City Journal.

The Chinese Cuisine.
Though Chinese cuisine has been credited with some utterly fabulous dishes, such as white mice served alive, which add piquancy by their squeak as they dive down the gullet, curiosities in the edible line do form a considerable list.
Bird's nest soup, for instance; a clear soup made from the refined gluten with which a certain species of swallow fasten their nests beneath the rocks; stewed "sea slugs," another nasty sounding dish, but transcending in flavor the aldermanic green turtle fat. There may be, too, on first introduction, some prejudice against fried grasshoppers. But courage in this instance is rewarded by a deliciously crisp, brown mouthful, of a delicate nutty flavor.
It is a fallacy to suppose that pork forms a constant article of diet in China. As a matter of fact, it is too expensive and is only eaten on high days and holidays or at restaurants. Neither do milk, beef or game enter much into Chinese cookery, the first two being tabooed on religious grounds. Dog flesh is eaten in the south but rarely and only by the poorest of the poor.—Blackwood.

A Curious Receipt.
Hanover's registrar discovered a very curious document some time ago as he was looking through a bundle of papers that date back to the eighteenth century. The document is a receipt—probably the only one of its kind in existence—which was given to a Hanoverian captain by a canon of Duisburg during the Seven Years' war.
"I, the undersigned," it reads, "herewith acknowledge that I have received 50 blows of a stick, which were inflicted upon me by a lieutenant of Captain B's regiment as a punishment for the stupid and frivolous calumnies which I have uttered in regard to the regiment of chassours. For my imprudent words I now admit that I am profoundly sorry. I received my punishment lying on a heap of straw and held by two men, and I bear testimony to the fact that the officer struck me as vigorously as he could with a stick that was as thick as my finger.
"In proper form and with due gratitude I sign this receipt and avow that all therein is true."

Not the Greatest.
Smith—I suppose Dobber regards himself the greatest artist that ever handled brush.
Jones—You do Dobber an injustice. He never presumed to regard himself in any such light. Why, I have heard him say very modestly that he was a second Raphael. Isn't that admitting that Raphael was a greater painter than himself?—Boston Transcript.

Would Like Some.
"What do you find in that stupid old paper to keep you so busy?" petulantly asked Mrs. Youngcouple.
"I was just looking at the money market," he answered.
"Oh, do they have a money market? Are there ever any bargains?"—Indianapolis Press.
