Pennsylvania Weasels.

Possibly few who read of "kings' robes of royal ermine" appreciate that the rightful and first possessors of the beautiful coat is sometimes a denizen of the Keystone State. It may be that some subtle force suggested to turncoat monarchs to choose the pelt of this animal for their own. In fact, during the greater portion of the year the ermine is a plain egg sucking weasel. As winter comes on he assumes a white coat, with a black tipped tail.

Putorius noveboracensis, as the scientist calls the weasel or ermine, ranges from North Carolina away up into Canada. It is rare, however, to take ermine or white coated weasels in Pennsylvania, although two specimens have just been received at the Academy of Natural Sciences from Sullivan county. In fact, south of Pennsylvania the weasel never changes color in winter, and this fact goes far to substantiate the theory of protective coloration. Thus when snow covers the ground the white ermine becomes nearly invisible, while in his weasel's guise during the summer he is not nearly so conspicuous as he would be did he wear his white coat all the year round.

Another interesting fact is that while the animals that live in the north always change color those in the south do not, the reason being that their white color would not protect, but destroy, them, as there is almost no snow in the south.—Philadelphia Record.

A Cruel Blunder.

Two brothers had the habit of calling on the same South Side girl. One of the brothers, George, was to take part in some private theatricals, and the girl had promised to fix up a shirt and a pair of shoes for his costume. The articles were to be delivered to her on a certain evening.

Frank, the second brother, took it into his head to call on the girl that same evening. Frank knew nothing of the arrangements George had made with her to help him with his costume. He rang the bell, asked the maid to tell the girl that Mr. Allen had called and sat down in the parlor.

The maid went up stairs and presently returned, trying hard not to smile. "Miss Jones says she is busy just now and that you are to send up your shirt and shoes," was the message she handed Frank.

"What?" he yelled. "I'm to take up your shirt and shoes." "Thanks, but I may need them myself to go home with. I hope Miss Jones will be better in the morning. Never mind; I will close the door myself."—Chicago Chronicle.

Where He Failed.

The young man drew himself up to his full height.

"I have," he cried, "an unsullied character, an ardent heart, a versatile mind and strenuous biceps."

The young girl yawned and seemed interested.

He was quick to push his advantage. "I am the possessor of a town and country house, a yacht, a stable of thoroughbreds and a box at the opera."

She hesitated, and a slight flush betrayed that she was listening. "I have got," he continued, with a certain fierceness, "30 servants, 40 pairs of trousers, 50 ancestors, three automobiles, six prize bull pups and an army commission."

Ah, she had found her tongue at last! "And how many golf medals?" she lisped.

The young man shuddered. He felt that he had lost. He had played nervily and high, but she was above his limit.—Judge.

They Like Fat Girls in Tunis.

A Tunisian girl has no chance of marriage unless she tips the scale at 200 pounds, and to that end she commences to fatten when she is 15 years old. She takes aperients and eats a great deal of sweet stuff and leads a sedentary life to hasten the process. Up to 15 she is very handsome, but at 20 what an immense, unwieldy mass of fat she becomes! She waddles, or, rather, undulates, along the street. Her costume is very picturesque, especially if she be of the richer class. They are clothed in fine silks of resplendent hues of a bright red, yellow or green and wear a sort of conical shaped headdress, from which depends a loose white drapery. Turkish trousers and dainty slippers, the heel of which barely reaches the middle of the foot, complete the costume.

Quite Willing to Migrate.

A traveler passing through a fever infected locality said to an Irish resident:

"Pat, I'm surprised that you stay in a place where people die so thick and fast."

"Faith," rejoined Pat, "if you'll be after tellin me av a place where people never die O'll move there tomorry an end me days."—Chicago News.

Busy Days.

"I suppose the demands on the time of a successful financier are very great."

"They are," answered the highly prosperous citizen. "I am kept so much occupied telling young men how to succeed in life that I scarcely get an opportunity to attend to my regular business."—Washington Star.

Detroit's Celebration.

The spectacle which will close the three days' Bi-Centenary celebration at Detroit of the Cadillac, July 24, 25 and 26, will surpass anything of the kind ever given in this country and probably, in the world.

There will be floats from 35 feet long upwards to 60 feet long. They represent, in the first place, the petition of Cadillac before Louis XIV at the court of France; next, his landing at Detroit; then, the conspiracy of Pontiac; the battle of Bloody Run; Gen. Cass' anger over the surrender of Gen. Hull; an allegorical float on the marine interests; a representation of the placing of the old stone cross; and so on to the extent of 20 floats all of which are so rapidly approaching completion that the grandeur of the spectacle is a surprise to those who conceived it.

The last day of the celebration will be one of the most interesting, as on it occurs the floral parade which will occupy the entire morning and rival in beauty those parades of which Newport and Saratoga are famous. The railroads of the state have already agreed on a rate of less than one cent per mile for this day of the celebration. In picturesqueness this day will not surpass the opening day in its great parade but will be interesting along an entirely different line.

Each day possesses some peculiar feature which, to certain minds, makes it the best, while others will select another day as superior. Each day is, however, complete by itself.

It Dazzles The World.

No discovery in medicine has ever created one quarter of the excitement that has been caused by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It's severest test has been on hopeless victims of consumption, pneumonia, hemorrhage, pleurisy and bronchitis, thousands of whom it has restored to perfect health. For coughs, colds, asthma, croup, hay fever, hoarseness and whooping cough it is the quickest, surest way in the world. It is sold by G. S. Darling and J. E. Dillon who guarantee satisfaction or refund money. Large bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Not Correlative.

Mrs. Housekeep—Do you really mean to say you are looking for work? Harvard Hasbeen—No, lady; that's neither what I said nor what I meant to say. I said I was looking for employment.—Philadelphia Press.

Settled.

Two ladies contended for precedence in the court of Charles V. They appealed to the monarch, who, like Solomon, awarded, "Let the eldest go first." Such a dispute was never known afterward.

In the fourteenth century the slaughter of women and children after a town or castle had been taken by storm was one of the most common occurrences of war.

The rooster makes two-thirds of the noise, but the hen does all the work.—Chicago News.

Heartburn.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich heartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn may be removed. For sale by Dr. G. S. Darling.

Too Rich For Him.

Jinks (meeting Winks in light lunch cafe)—Hello! What are you doing here? Winks—Getting my lunch, of course. Jinks—But I thought you were keeping a swell restaurant down town. Winks—So I am, but I wouldn't keep it long if I ste there. It's too expensive.—Philadelphia Press.

When you want a modern, up to date physicy Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price, 25 cents. Sample free at Dr. G. S. Darling's drug store.

The Pennsylvania machine thinks that it would be just as well for Postmaster General Smith to bring Neely and Rathbone to justice before interfering in Philadelphia affairs.

The work of the state tax commission is declared by some to be no good. There are others who imagine, and large tax payers at that, who consider it many dollars worse than no good.

The legislature of Connecticut pays $300 per annum to each reporter regularly assigned to cover its sessions. It is not explained whether this is intended as hush money or to secure a good advertisement.

The State Department expects to have a treaty for the purchase of the Danish West Indies ready for Congress when it meets again. The principal obstacle in the way heretofore was the doubt as to what the Supreme Court would decide about the colonies. Now the department "knows where it's at."

The United States minister to Denmark calls attention to the fact that our commerce with that little land of about 2,500,000 population is greater than that with China, which has about 400,000,000, all of which goes to show how much greater our trade with China may be when it approaches Denmark in civilization.

The present constitution of the state of New Jersey, adopted in 1814, has remained unchanged for fifty years and remains practically the same as when first adopted. The term of the governor of New Jersey, which expires in December, is three years, and New Jersey is now the only state in the country which adheres to a three years term.

The failure of the Seventh National bank, of New York city, again directs attention to a business practice which is the cause of more trouble and anxiety, and is fraught with more of the possibilities of disaster, than any other custom that enters into ordinary banking affairs in large cities. The daily transactions of stock broking houses are enormous. They bear no reasonable relation to the capital of the concerns involved. When at three o'clock, the account of the broker is balanced with his bank, it is not unusual that the checks which represent the day's transactions are as fifty to one in the relation they bear to his actual credit balance. In order that these enormous operations may go through, the banks must certify checks to an amount greatly in excess of the sum at that time standing to the customer's credit, trusting to the ability and disposition of the broker to make his account good at the close of the business day. It is greatly to the credit of the stock houses that banks are so seldom left in the lurch; but this accident does at times occur, and with disastrous results. In the case under consideration the over-certification of the checks of a stock firm is given as the cause of the trouble; and doubtless the insufficiency of the security held for the large indebtedness of the house involved was partly owing to the necessity that the bank should take what it could get as security for a debt already contracted in the overdrafts made.—Saginaw News.

Notice To Wheelmen.

There's positively no need to endure discomfort by reason of chaffing, sun burn, insect stings, sore and perspiring feet or accidental bruises. You forget these troubles in using Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Infalible for pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and piles. Sold by G. S. Darling and J. E. Dillon. 25 cents.

An Old Saw Exploded.

Mayor A. J. Mills, of Kalamazoo, read a paper the meeting of the League of Michigan Municipalities, at Battle Creek, last week, on the topic of the old saw, "Pay as you go," and he proceeded to tear the adage into tatters. It is true his remarks were applied to municipalities, and he maintained that while an individual could keep his expenditures within his income and pay as he went, a municipality could not. Mayor Mills continues:

The bonding plan permits a community to enjoy all the privileges, comforts, safeguards, and I may say luxuries of modern civilization, while the "pay as you go" plan condemns them to the payment of exacting tribute without those things that are so conducive to health, comfort prosperity and business growth.

In short, under the one plan a community can never become a city while under the other, even a small community, without burdening its inhabitants may furnish them with all that a metropolis could afford so far as material comfort and indeed luxuries in municipal betterments are concerned.

After discussing the necessity for proper sinking fund he demonstrates beyond peradventure its sufficiency, reliability and safety in a most careful and masterly manner and illustrates by saying that to produce $700,000 at the end of 100 years a sinking fund of only $565.60 per annum invested at four per cent, payable yearly, will provide the same result.

The trouble is that when an individual borrows money on a bond or mortgage, he will not nine times out of ten, make any provision for a sinking fund unless he is compelled to do so. For instance, if he borrows $500 by a mortgage on his house, he lets it go until it is due without saving a cent, and usually loses his house. If he gets the same from a Building and Loan association he will pay $9.50 or so monthly until he has paid the loan back and several hundred more, nearly double what the loan would have cost him as an ordinary mortgage because he has been compelled to save. If he loses his house, he loses it usually after he has paid enough to have cancelled the ordinary mortgage.

All the great financiers make money nowadays by borrowing money of other people and grabbing all the interest it accumulates, and he is a great financier, who can do it. The little fellow who borrows money and never thinks of paying it until due is fool, instead of a financier, except in rare instances where he knows what he is doing.

Education In England and America.

A recent writer on American education finds in our free public school system a part of the explanation of American commercial progress, since education sharpens the wits and gives the masses higher efficiency. England spends six shillings on every child, America nine. Massachusetts has 353 school boards, Lanshire (with a larger population) has only 50. There is no comparison between the amount of educational work in the higher branches especially, in England and America. In America there is no such idea as that you can educate a man, but in England one finds the idea like a pestelence. In America, high school education is universally available. Instead of a child having, as in Lancashire, to take train 7, 10, or 15 miles, at great expense to the parents, the high school in America is almost always close at hand and the high school is under the control of the authority that controls the primary establishments. Education in England has always been hampered by the church. Progress on broad national lines has been constantly thwarted by the intolerance of those who recognize no education which does not include the teaching of their own creeds. They make no concealment of the fact that in their opinion the children—and that involves our industrial efficiency must be sacrificed to the church. Not long ago the London Guardian, the leading state church newspaper, made this unblushing confession: "In order to keep going our own church schools, we are obliged to block wherever we can the general progress of the educational movement;" and a few weeks later it stated: "It is the state church interest which keeps back rural education." Here is the blight of a false idea of religion.—Ec.

Just A Warning.

The insolvency of the City National bank of Buffalo is laconically ascribed to "bad loans." The downfall of the Heath bank in New York last week was due to suspiciously large credits extended to a shaky firm of promoters. Two bank failures, ever when the failed concerns are large institutions, by no means constitute an unsatisfactory state of the country's commercial interests; but these two failures do point to a danger that is peculiarly imminent at a time of business expansion and unprecedented speculation and promotion. Under such conditions every credit is pushed to its limit, and resources are spread out for beyond the straining point.

In his financial letter, of Saturday's case, Mr. Henry Clews pointed out that the greatest danger of the market, at present, is overconfidence. The failures in New York and Buffalo may serve as a needed warning to other banks, and check the universal tendency to take too much account of the general prosperity in deciding whether a particular proposition is sound or not. A more remote but equally significant warning is coming from Germany, where the beginnings of a condition strikingly similar to that which afflicted the United States in the early '90s are already apparent. The cause, too, is the same. A period of inflation and overspeculation had carried the nation off its feet, and nothing but ultimate disaster was possible. With our own bitter lesson so short a distance behind us, it may be that last week's two big failures and the news from Germany will prove sufficient to induce more careful scrutiny of securities and a wise reduction of the margin of risk in making loans.

If the first warnings go unheeded now, there may be in store for us a repetition of the experiences of '93, which administrations and governmental policies will be unable to prevent, and then the people may perhaps be brought to see how little of their prosperity depends on their votes and how much upon their own wisdom, restraint and discretion in conducting their private business affairs. We have had, on an exceedingly small scale, during the past seven years, an illustration of exactly what happened on a large scale eight years ago. In all probability, the immense concentrations of financial interests which have taken place in this country within the past half decade would have a steadying and sustaining influence, if the boom disease were permitted to bear its legitimate fruits, and the low water mark of the last panic might not be approached; certainly it would not be touched. The lessons of that time, however, cannot be much longer ignored without demanding heavy payments.—Evening News.

Troubles of A Minister.

To benefit others Rev. J. T. Vernon, of Hartwell, Ga., writes: "For a long time I had a running sore on my leg. I tried many remedies without benefit, until I used a bottle of Electric Bitters and a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which cured me sound and well." Sores, eruptions, boils, eczema, tetter, salt rheum show impure blood. Thousands have found in Electric Bitters a grand blood purifier that absolutely cures these troubles. Satisfaction is guaranteed or money refunded by G. S. Darling or J. E. Dillon. Large bottles only 50 cents.

Plant Sensitiveness.

A French investigator finds that plants are sensitive to certain poisons in quantities so minute that they completely baffle chemical analysis. For instance, plant showed the effects of sulphate of copper dissolved in 700,000,000,000 times its weight in water—a state of dilution scarcely imaginable, much less detectable by ordinary methods. This raises the presumption that the character of the vegetation of a country may depend on minute quantities of toxic substances present in the soil.

A Good Cough Medicine.

Many thousands have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble, give it a trial for it is certain to prove beneficial. Coughs that have resisted all other treatment for years, have yielded to this remedy and perfect health been restored. Cases that seemed hopeless, that the climate of famous health resorts failed to benefit, have been permanently cured by its use. For sale by Dr. G. S. Darling.

Time and Telephone Work Wonders.

"I was startled the other day and in an entirely new way," said a prominent electrical engineer. "The use of the telephone has become so much a part of my life that in talking with my friends and acquaintances every few days I apparently kept up the acquaintance as of old, when I used to see them more regularly. A few days ago I had occasion to visit an old time friend of mine with whom I had talked probably once a week or oftener for the past three or four years, but whom I had not seen during that period. "When I met him, I was startled. His black beard had turned gray, almost white, and he had changed in other respects, as was natural, during the three or four years of that period, yet through the use of the telephone I had in my mind's eye seen him as of old every time I had talked with him, and you may imagine how surprised, even shocked, I was to see this change in him. "Did you ever have a similar experience? I imagine the increasing use of the telephone causes many of them. You hear the usual voice on the telephone and mentally picture the friend as he looked when you saw him last, which may have been a year or several years in the past."—Electrical Review.

The Florida Razorback.

The Florida "razorback" is the hog indigenous to this climate and soil. He is usually large of limb and fleet of foot, being the only known porker that can outrun a dorky. He has a tail of wondrous length, which, while he is in active motion, he twists into the tightest cork-screw, but with which he quietly feeding he raps his leathery sides much in the same manner that the docile cow uses her tail.

He is self supporting. He earns his own living and thrives equally well in the highwoods, in the flatwoods, in the hummocks and in the marshes. He subsists upon anything he can find above the earth or underneath its surface. He has a clear, farseeing eye and is very sensitive of hearing. Nature has equipped him with a snout almost as long as the beak of the wild pelican of Borneo, with which he can penetrate the earth many inches in quest of worms, snakes and insects.

He is the most intelligent of all the hogs and is likewise the most courageous. He has been known to engage in mortal combat with a coon for the possession of a watermelon and to rend asunder a barbed wire fence.—Forest and Stream.

Hints For Smokers.

Here is a good tip for a smoker: The best pipe grows foul sometimes, and the various patent cleaning devices are of little use in making it fresh. But if you pack the bowl tight with grass or hay and lay the pipe aside for a few days you will have it as sweet as when it was new. Talking about smoking, here is a good idea for lighting matches: Don't light them on your trousers, for you'll burn slits in them, nor on your shoe soles, for you'll rub the heads off. The plan is to rub them on a piece of paper—a folded newspaper, an envelope, a ticket. The silica in the paper acts like sandpaper.

Many people can't smoke a dozen cigarettes without getting a sore throat. Inevitable cigarette smokers are frequently troubled with a perpetual cold in the head. It is not the smoke that is to blame, but the dust. Now, if you use a cigarette tube—amber, cherry or cardboard—a tiny bit of cotton wool in the bottom of it will catch every particle of dust. Try this, and you'll have no more sore throats. But you may not enjoy the smoke.—Exchange.

When Hurry Was the Fashion.

The following extract from the London Times of May 14, 1801, gives an interesting picture of the good old days: "It is now the high fashion to run, or at least to trot, through the streets at a rate of six miles an hour. A running walk is absolutely necessary for any young man who has the least pretension to ton. You must lounge in a hurry and saunter with expedition. It is an old proverb, the more haste the worst speed, but Bond street daily shows us the more hurry the less to do. When we see our idle youths riding race horses, walking for wagers or boxing for fame, we must agree with Horace that 'strenua nos exercet inertia!'"

ceaseless Growth of the Ears.

The systematic examination of more than 40,000 pairs of human ears in England and France has resulted in some interesting conclusions. For one thing, it is ascertained that the ear continues to grow in the later decades of life. In fact, it appears never to stop growing until death. A woman who has small, shell-like ears at 20 years of age will be very apt to possess medium sized ears at 40 years and large ears at 60.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Puzzler.

Lady Passenger—Do you know, captain, I have never been able to understand how you find your way across the ocean?

Captain—Why, by the compass. The needle always points to the north.

Lady Passenger—Yes, I know, but supposing you want to go south?—Glasgow Times.

The Same Old Cry.

"I wonder what Eve said when she found she had to leave the garden of Eden," said Mr. Grumpin's wife.

"It was just about what all women say when they are starting on a journey. She complained that she didn't have a thing to wear."—Washington Star.

Wanted Her to Have the Best.

Nell—Rather conceited, isn't she? Belle—I should say. He said the best was none too good for me, and then he proposed.—Philadelphia Record.

In Following Brands:

Hot on the Trail of Coffee!

What will you take to try a single pound of Chase & Sanborn's High-Grade Coffee?

All beginnings are hard, as the thief said when he began by stealing an anvil. But listen to the facts!

The beginning of everything is a curious machine used only by them. It separates out the full-grown berries. Other firms would call this extravagant, but you won't when you come to drink the coffee.

These berries are then only roasted to order. The same day they are hermetically sealed in canisters so that not a breath of aroma is lost. (By the great Abu Bakr of blessed memory, what a flavor this gives to your coffee pot in the kitchen!)

Your grocer breaks the hermetic seals and puts the coffee into Chase & Sanborn's imported parchment-lined bags, each bearing the Seal trade-mark with their signed warranty of Highest Quality. This he gives to you.

And you never buy any other coffee afterward!

Edward O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien, of this city, met with a serious misfortune last Monday, which resulted in the loss of his right hand. He was employed in Loud's mill at AuSable, and in attempting to catch a board which was going over the trimmer saws, his hand was caught and forced onto one of the saws and so badly lacerated that it was necessary to amputate it above the wrist. The young man was brought to his home in this city Tuesday evening and is resting as comfortably as could be expected.

Oscoda and AuSable have established a strict quarantine against the Tawases, which took effect last Saturday. The peculiar thing about this quarantine is the fact that it was not thought necessary until the supervisors' from those places had completed their labors at the session held here last week. It is also reported on good authority that there are cases of small pox in those towns and that no efforts are being made to prevent its spread. We believe in taking all necessary steps to prevent the spread of this disease, but the action of the officials of the north end looks a little ridiculous.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Curtis Baker, Bookwalter, Ohio. Sold by Dr. G. S. Darling.

In East Tawas but one new case has developed since last week, and that is in a family already afflicted.

Weekly Climate and Crop Bulletin.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, climate and crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Michigan section, for the week ended June 29, 1901.

The mean daily temperature for the week ended June 29 was 74.0 degrees or 6.0 degrees above the normal; the average total precipitation was 0.87 of an inch, of 0.13 of an inch above the normal; the sunshine averaged 73 per cent of the possible amount.

Generally, the weather conditions of the past week have been favorable for crop growth, field work and haying. Abnormally high temperatures have prevailed, especially in the extreme northern portion of the state. Showers are quite general in the southern counties, but in the northern and central counties the conditions were very dry until Friday and Saturday.

On the whole, corn has greatly improved. Oats have improved somewhat and are heading; potatoes are doing finely; wheat harvest has just begun in the extreme southern counties. Haying has made good progress.

All reports concerning sugar beets continue very encouraging.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

"I have been in the drugstore business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form." For sale by Dr. G. S. Darling.

Much heading for Little Money.

The New York World has got the cost of printing down to a minimum. Its latest offer of its monthly newspaper magazine is interesting if from no other cause than that it shows the acme of "how much for how little."

The Monthly World is a 32-page magazine with colored cover. Its pages are about the size of the pages of the Ladies Home Journal, and it is copiously illustrated in half tone. The illustrations are the result of the of the best artistic skill, aided by all the latest printing press appliances, making a magazine unrivalled in the quality of its contents and its appearance.

Each issue contains stories of romance, joye, adventure, travel; stories of fiction and fact; stories of things quaint and curious, gathered together from all over the world; the results of scientific research, and editorial reviews. It numbers among its contributions the leading literary men and women of the day.

A feature each month is a full page portrait of the most famed man or woman of the moment in the public eye.

In collecting and preparing for publication the literary matter and art subjects for the Monthly World no expense is spared.

The New York World will send six numbers of this newspaper magazine on receipt of fifteen cents in stamps. Address The World, Pulitzer Building, New York.

It is easier to keep well than get cured. DeWitt's Little Early Risers taken now and then, will always keep your bowels in perfect order. They never gripe but promote an easy gentle action. Dr. G. S. Darling.
