In September the sales were far in excess f othe normal owing to the great interest in the news of the president's assassination and condition, but by October matters had settled again and it has been assumed that the circulation during the month of the two papers was on a basis of merit.

Compared with the same month a year ago. The Detroit Evening News and the Detroit Tribune combined show an average daily increase in circulation of 26,230 copies, while the average gain of the Sunday News, Tribune has been 2.676 copies, During October the average daily circu-latien was 99,565 copies, which is more than all the other daily Detroit papers combined. The circulation of the Sunday News-Tribune has reach ed an average total of 44,166 copies. In the matter or advertising there has been a parallel increase, the space

Conceive, however, a case in which only one clear line of duty appears, and that consistent with personal advantage. Should the thought that others may misconstrue our motive into a "politic" move, deter us from doing right? Far from it. Care should be taken, though, that in a desire for preferment the intrinsic right of duty should be recognized. Our plea is not for more of policy -the less rather-but for a care in criticising an act of "policy" which may neverthless be the only right course to pursue. - The Oaks.

Michigan Immigration.

According to the report of immigration Commissioner Powderly issued Saturday, 5,188 of the 10,818 im migrants that entered Michigan during the last fiscal year were Finns and Scandinavians. About one-seventh, or 1,489, were Italians, who outnumbered the Poles in the proportion of 14 to 8. The number of English, Irish, Scotch, French and Germans combined hardly equaled the number of Italians, there being 717 Germans, 570 English, 110 Irish, 25 French and Scotch. The number of Holland Dutch exceeded the English by 22, while there were 607 Croatians, 378 Hebrews, 56 Lithuanians, 53 Magyars, 150 Slavoks and just four and one-half times as many Syrians as Scotch.

The whole number of skilled mechanics is 988. Immigrations from Japan fell off 50 per cent, while immigration from China doubled.

THE TULIP.

When and How to Plant It-Pleasing Bedding Schemes.

When a bed of tulips is being planted, the work should be done early in the autumn if the best results are desired. Although they may be planted on into November if the ground is not frozen and still produce flowers, the results will not be satisfactory. The bulb has to make the most of its roots in the autumn before the earth freezes, for nearly as soon as the frost is gone As a result of a fall, Edmund in the spring the bloom is beginning to appear. Then there is no time for the bulb to make roots, but instead of that the roots must be making or feeding flowers and also producing a new bulb. The sooner they are planted in the autumn the better, as more time is given' for root formation, and the stronger the roots the larger and finer the flower the coming spring.

Although tulips are perfectly hardy, they do much better if they are given some protection during the cold winter months. Put a covering of stable manure over the bed after it is planted in the autumn to the depth of from four to six inches. This will keep the bulbs from being repeatedly thawed out and frozen up should the winter be an open one. Besides this, the strength is washed out of the manure down into the soil Religion, morality and knowledge by the autumn rains, and thus the soil being necessary for good government is enriched. By this annual covering the flowers are made much larger and of more brilliant color. Of course if must be removed as soon as the frost is out of the ground in the spring.

Most pleasing effects can be made by filling a whole bed either with one variety or with two or more varieties and having flower stems of an average length.-Gardening.

Rev. 1rl R. Hicks is not D ead.

Notwithstanding a widely current rumor that the Rev. Irl R. Hicks was dead, he never was in better health, and never did a harder and more successful year's work than that just closing. He has just completed his large and isplendid Almanac for 1902 and with his staff of able helpers, has brought his journal Word and Works, justly forward into international reputation. For a quarter of a century Mr. Hicks has grown in reputation and usefulness as the the people's astronomer, and forcaster of storms and the character of coming seasons. Never were his weather forecasts so sought after as now, his timely warnings of a serious drouth this year having saved the people from loss and suffering. Millions of bushels of wheat were harvested through his advice to plant crops that would mature early. The American people will certainly stand by Prof. Hicks, when it costs them so little and the benefits are so great. His fine almanac of 200 pages is only 25c, and his splendid family journal is only $1 a year including the Almanac. Send to Word and Works Pub. Co., 2201 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

DESTRUCTIVE FRUIT ROT.

Brown Rot of Plums and Peaches and How to Combat It.

Brown rot (Monilia fructigena), otherwise variously known as peach rot, plum fruit rot, ripe rot of plums, blight and other terms, every year does more or less damage. Last season it was particularly destructive in the great peach orchards of Georgia. At times it has played havoc with the Delaware and Chesapeake peninsula crops. This year, ther fattened for $30. If he is rich, but the cow's nose. It proved to be a perwhere the fruit crop was comparatively short, its inroad was all the moreseverely felt, and it has helped to re- servation. duce the peach and plum crop in New York and New Jersey as well as in other sections. Generally speaking, there is probably no more serious fungous enemy to stone fruits, and the loss occasioned annually throughout the country | brought to the position of respectabiliat large must be very great.

To fruit growers this disease is best known in connection with rotting of tended her. Surely the greatest prothe fruit, and the loss inflicted in this way undoubtedly constitutes the greater part of its injury. On a peach the first indication of infection is a small more or less circular brown spot. This rapidly enlarges. In a short while after infection a peach may become quite rotten, brownish and more or less shrunken, either falling to the ground

A fine looking cow offered for sale by a dairyman always carries a letter of discredit, says W. F. McSparrow in National Stockman. If the unfortunate dairyman is "poor, but honest," he will not sell her for a good cow. The law is he must fatten her and send her to the butcher. But the dairyman is getting very far from "brains" when he goes into the beef business, and if he bought her as a dairy cow he is likely to feed her $20 worth of corn and sell and then put the ring thus equipped in dishonest, it is hard to tell what he fect success. I have used the same will do. I could only speak from ob- ring since on another cow, and no suckvision of the dairy law is feed. I cannot understand why every farmer dairyman is not also a breeder, so that he can add to the dairy law "better breeding;" also, then he will get a proper understanding of pedigrees, for he will be making them, and the weeding out practice can be adhered to without an actual, visible money loss. I have a full appreciation of the expense of raising a two or three year old cow, but it is easier than going out and buy ing a risky one and paying the note. Some claim a poor dairyman can't af ford to raise his cows, but largely what they eat is never missed. It is like feeding the children that come.

Cleaning the Creamery Churn.

J. Bunting of Michigan in Creamery Journal tells how he cleans his churn as follows: I use a handful of sal soda and one of salt, together with two tablespoonsful of potash or lye with four ordinary pails of hot water. I pour this in the churn and start it going, but I am always sure to leave the venting plug out. I run the churn for about two minutes, draw the water off into a washtub and use it to wash my strainer, butter ladle, paddle, bricker, etc. After I have washed my churn outside and inside with this solution I pour cold water into it and rinse it by running for about two minutes. After drawing off the water I sprinkle with that position, if she were a right smart cow, she might toss her head up so as to let the underside of the ring drop on her udder and thus be able to get the teat in her mouth without being pricked. I think it would be impossible for a -cow to suck herself while standing if this device were in her nose.

By using a copper ring the screw that fastens the open joint does not become so fastened by corrosion that it cannot be removed and the device taken out when the habit is thought to be or eventually shriveling up on the tree.

In plums the indications of infection may not be so evident, and the fruit may be infested with the mycelium and show but slight, if any, appearance that such is the case.

This difficulty of distinguishing infected from sound fruit has frequently caused serious loss to the shipper. Fruit gathered in the evening for morning shipment may prove to be so generally infected as to render it valueless except for immediate use.

The rotting of peaches en route to market may be attributed largely to brown rot fungus. The peaches leave the orchards more or less infected with spores, which develop the disease during transit.

As a preventive of this disease A. L. Quintance of Georgia says nothing has been found of more value than spraying the trees and fruit with bordeaux mixture. Other authorities incline to the ammoniacal copper carbonate.

But spraying should not be depended on entirely. When there is much rot, a large number of shriveled, dried up peaches are left on the trees, and in these the spores of rot pass the winter. All "mummies" on the trees and the ground should be gathered and destroyed.

Pruning out the blighted fruit spurs and twigs would render the work more complete, as the fungus is capable of developing the spore tufts from these parts. Proper thinning of the fruit is another important point. Where the fruit hangs in more or less of contact the rotting is likely to be worse. Orchards should be as free as possible from moldy fruit before picking begins. Some large orchardists make it a practice to regularly collect and destroy the rotten fruit.

Fall Pruning.

As to whether fall or spring is the best time for pruning there is a disagreement among fruit growers. One thing we have found out, howeverwhen it is necessary to remove a limb of considerable size, an inch or over in diameter, the best time is September and October. Wounds made at that season, though they may not heal over as quickly as at some other times, will never decay. Owing no doubt to the ripe condition of the wood, the cut surface dries and becomes as hard as bone. We have tested this for many years and know it to be so.

In all pruning particular care should be used to make smooth cuts. No stubs should be left sticking out. It is surprising to observe in passing along the road how frequently this important rule is disregarded and that, too, by persons who profess to understand the business. Another important point is the removal of all dead and decaying limbs. Another is to cut off one-the least desirable one, of course-of the branches of every fork in order to prevent the tree from splitting when loaded with fruit .- National Stockman.

Inspection of Dairy Products.

The practical guarantee as to purity placed upon export dairy products by the department of agriculture ought to aid in permanently increasing our hold upon foreign consuming markets. Sec retary Wilson has decided to establish under the law a system of inspection of dairy products intended for export at Boston, New York, Chicago and San Francisco. A beginning will be made in a tentative way with a view of perfecting the service. - New England Homestead.

In making up a dairy ration one should consider the effect of the ration, first, upon the animal; second, upon the product as to quality; third, upon the product as to quantity; fourth, upon expenses, and fifth, upon the manure. The effect of the ration upon the animal is, in the opinion of H. Hayward of the Pennsylvania experiment station, the most important point to be considered, for no matter how well a ration may be balanced, according to any of the standards, if it does not keep the system open and in a normal condition the animal cannot do normal work. As a careful feeder knows, condition is indicated by the sleekness of the coat, brightness of the eye and general carriage and appearance of the animal. A ration may as well be composed of cornstalks and cornmeal if it fails to keep the animal's system in a normal, natural condition.

Winter Feeding.

The farmer who has a silo filled with good corn ensilage, a little mixed hay and some corn in the crib can settle the winter feeding question easily and economically, since all he needs to supplement the farm products is a nitrogenous concentrate, says a correspondent of National Stockman. The feeder who has neither silage nor roots will find it more difficult to decide in regard to his winter feeding, for instead of depending upon the laxative effect of ensilage to keep his cattle in good condition he will be obliged to use some commercial byproduct for this purpose. Of these linseed meal and bran have this effect upon cattle in a pronounced manner. Although both these feeds are at the present time very high, more or less of one or both of them must be fed, since it is absolutely necessary if the best results are to be obtained to keep milking cows or feeding cattle in a good normal condition.

Amount of Hay to Feed. When hay or other roughage is in cured or the animal put in stable for the winter and the ring preserved for future use.

Improving a Wornout Farm. A Maine dairyman who is making the business pay is G. C. Jacobs, says New England Homestead. Last year he had eighteen cows and twelve heifers in his herd. The heifers were two and three years old and not in milk all of the time. He sold the cream to a factory, where part of it was made into butter and the remainder sold fresh. factory, which amounted at the end of the year to $1,400.

Twenty years ago he bought an old run down farm and kept increasing his stock as the hay would warrant. Beginning with a half dozen cows, he has steadily increased until now he has fifty in his herd. Corn, oats and bar ley are raised and ground for the cows. Cottonseed meal is bought and fed with It. The dressing from the barn fertilizes the ground for another year's crop. The cultivated land is seeded down, and se the exchange goes on until now he owns one of the finest farms in Kennebec county.

The calves are all dehorned when young, and each year he sells some of the older cows and replaces them with heifers. He uses a separator, and the skimmilk in summer is fed to young pigs and in winter to the calves, which thrive and grow rapidly on this diet. His farm is well equipped with all modern improvements, and with in dustry and perseverance he is slowly and surely making farming pay.

Concerning Danish Butter.

Professor G. L. McKay of the Iowa Agricultural college, who has been abroad absorbing dairy information, has the following to say regarding Danish butter:

It has been a great problem to me that the Danish butter has a higher percentage of water than ours has, yet at the same time it has a mealy, dry appearance. Investigation showed 'ne that their methods of churning and working were peculiar. The churning is at a moderately high temperature. and the butter comes soft. It is drop ped at once into cold water and then put on the table and worked three quarters of a minute, after which it is again put in cold water for a moment. then brought back and worked one to one and a quarter minutes. This makes only two minutes of working When finished, it is packed into kegs for the market. It is said that this method is used to get the buttermilk out and to have it clear, but it is probably intended to work the water into the butter as well. The Danish butter will average 5 per cent more water than ours, and yet it does not show it.
