A GOOD CAMPAIGNER.

Senator Elect McCreary of Kentucky was in Washington a few days ago calling upon his old friends in congress whom he knew when he represented his state in the house.

"McCreary was a fine campaigner," said a Kentuckian. "When he went the rounds of his district, he kissed all the babies, praised the cooking of the housewives, judged the cattle of the farmers and adapted himself to all circumstances. One night he drove up to the house of a farmer to stop all night, but arrived after the supper hour. The good woman of the house insisted on getting him a supper, but he resisted and said he would take anything cold that she had.

"She told him she had some cold ham and cold biscuits and would warm the coffee.

"Never mind warming the coffee, madam," said McCreary. "I prefer it cold." Next morning at breakfast the good lady handed him a cup of sickly looking liquid, saying, "Governor, you seemed to enjoy the cold coffee so much, I saved some for your breakfast."—Cleveland Star.

Mistakes of Story Writers.

Easterners who write western stories for the eastern magazines are a source of never ending amusement. Recently we quoted from a story by Cyrus Townsend Brady, in which that author had a woman perform the marvelous feat of riding on horseback ninety miles in two hours. This he accomplished by naming two Oklahoma towns that distance apart as her starting point and destination. Not long since an eastern magazine contained a mining story which located a chain of mountains in Kansas about forty miles south of Topeka. In the March Harper's is an Oklahoma story by a woman. One scene is located in a camp, and she has the Texas cowboys getting out before breakfast to "rub down" their ponies. If a Texas cowboy should rub down his pony, the pony would fall dead from sheer astonishment.—Kansas City Journal.

Buttons Made of Milk.

Were you aware of the fact that buttons are now made of milk in England? Old milk, too, that has soured and is valueless so far as dairies are concerned. It is sent to three large manufactories in the east end of London and there churned, very much after the manner of making cheese, into buttons. This cheese is then put under enormous pressure until every drop of moisture is wrung from it, when it is passed into a chemically heated room. It is then, while under great heat, bleached white and flattened out ready to be punched into the required shapes. It is found that buttons can be made in this way at less than half the cost entailed in manufacturing bone ones, and besides never rubbing away they do not change color.

Mozart's Skull.

German scientists are said to be searching for the skull of Mozart, which has been stolen. The story is that the great composer died poor and his friends did not even mark his grave. Only the sexton knew the grave, and into his hands the skull fell in a few years. His son gave it to Jacobus Hyrtl, a brother of the famous anatomist, and to this brother it in turn was passed along. Then it was given the city of Salzburg, Mozart's birthplace. In 1894 the skull disappeared. It was found, but has now disappeared again.

Not Like His Father.

President Roosevelt was dictating an important letter to Assistant Secretary Loeb when he happened to glance out of the window and saw his son Archibald chasing a badly frightened possum. The president dropped his work, went to the window and watched the possum dart into a clump of bushes and slip out in another place and escape.

"Everybody has always said," remarked the president to Loeb, "that Archie was not a bit like me. He let that possum get away."

He Didn't Speak.

Senator Pettus the other day arose as if to address his fellow members, and a hush of expectancy at once fell upon the chamber. Every eye was upon the venerable statesman, who, with great deliberation, reached around into the tail pocket of his long frock coat and drew forth a plug of tobacco. Unconscious of the attention he was attracting, he bit off a chew and sat down without saying a word. Everybody smiled.

The Cold of Space.

Teisserene de Bort, the French aeronaut, has secured the lowest temperature mark on record, 72 degrees C., or 97.6 degrees F. The reading was registered on a thermometer in the trial balloon sent up recently, which rose to a height of 38,000 feet.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Ancient Games, Some of Them Played by Little Savages.

The little savages of years gone by were much more fond of and devoted to games and sports than we are nowadays. Perhaps that was because they hadn't as much to do as the people of modern times. The rougher the game was the more they liked it.

The ancient Australian's most popular sport was a wild game called Marn Grook. It was very much like football, only, if possible, rougher. They had a ball made of skins. There were no goals, and the object of the game was for each side to keep the ball in its possession, and this often resulted in a small battle, for as many as liked could play, an even number being on each side.

Then these same people used a curious little toy called a "weet," and "throwing the wee weet" was one of their favorite pastimes. This resembles our "putting the shot," only the weet was small and light and could be thrown to an incredible distance.

The inhabitants of Tonga, also savages, had a game which the boys and girls of Scotland play today. One person would hold some small article behind his back, and another would try to guess which hand it was in. The Scotch have written this verse to it:

Nevie, Nevie, Nick Naek;
Which hand will ye tak?
Be ye richt or be ye wrang
I'll beguile ye if I can.

If a person were clever enough to change the article from hand to hand, he kept it, but if his opponent guessed rightly it was forfeited.

One of "the Finest."

"The nicest man I ever saw,"
Said little Nan to me,
"Is the one who stands outside our school
When we're let out at three.

"He's dressed just as the soldiers are;
He wears gold buttons, too,
And he stands up so proud and straight,
The way the soldiers do.

"He always says, 'Come, little kids,
I'll take you 'cross street,' and
I guess 'cause I'm the littlest girl
He always holds my hand.

"And all the cars and horses stop;
He's so big, they don't dare
To say, 'Get up' and drive 'em on,
Because he's standing there.

"He makes believe to chase the boys
And shakes his fist, and then
He laughs and laughs, and they all come
A-scrampering back again.

"Sometimes he pats me on the head
And says, 'Ho, little girl,
You going to wait till Christmas comes
To cut me off that curl?"

"And one time when it rained the street
Was muddy, and I cried:
He picked me up and carried me
Right to the other side.

"The nicest man I ever saw,"
Said little Nan to me,
"Is the one who stands outside our school
When we're let out at three."
—Theodosia Pickering Garrison in St. Nicholas.

The Retort Discourteous.

Miss Standing—Do you like my photo, dear?

Miss Sitting—Yes, it's perfectly lovely.

Miss Standing—Do you think it does me justice?

Miss Sitting—Justice isn't in it, dear; it is positively merciful to you!

CONDENSED STORIES.

Andrew Carnegie Was Bulletined For a Debt of Sixty Cents.

"Andrew Carnegie, $0.60," was the entry on the bulletin board of the St. Andrews Golf club, up in Westchester, and for three months, says a writer in the New York Tribune, the golfers of that organization got a lot of merriment out of it. When the great steel master came home from his Scotch castle, he saw the curt little announcement, too, and promptly put a stop to further laughter over it by sending in his check for the 60 cents. It was not because the club management feared that Mr. Carnegie had defaulted intentionally on the trivial debt that his name was posted for nonpayment, but because the rules of the club are made to be enforced, no matter against whom.

There is a regulation at St. Andrews that little incidental debts incurred by the members must be paid within the month in which they are contracted, under penalty of posting on the bulletin board. Mr. Carnegie forgot the rule or the debt, one or the other, for he sailed away for his bonnie Scotland to be gone three months, leaving unpaid the 60 cents. It was for caddies or for some one of the other little extra services for which golfers must pay, and at the expiration of the time limit allowed by the rules up went the debt on the bulletin board.

"When love flies out at the window," remarked the observer of events and things, "papa is generally seen coming in at the door."

She—Does she rest the violin on her chin or her shoulder?

He—Oh, on her shoulder. It would never rest on her chin, you know.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the hardest kind to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire year. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever seen," says J. H. Bowles, Groveton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly."

Republican Co. Convention.

A well attended convention of the republicans of this county was held at the court house last Monday, for the purpose of electing delegates to attend the state and district conventions. The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock and all business completed and the adjournment had by 12. Hon. M. J. Connine was the chairman, and William McGillivray, secretary. The only resolution adopted was the following, all other delegates being instructed.

Resolved, by the republicans of Iosco county, in convention assembled, that our expressed preference for congressman from the tenth congressional district is Col. George A. Loud, of Ausable, and that the delegates elected to represent this county in the next congressional convention, to be held at Bay City on the 28th inst., shall use all honorable means consistent with republican principles to secure the nomination of Mr. Loud.

Delegates were elected as follows, to the different conventions:

State—E. F. Loud, S. B. Gardner, P. E. Shien, C. R. Jackson.

Congressional—Temple Emery, G. A. Prescott, M. J. Connine, L. B. Smith.

Senatorial—J. E. Dillon, William McGillivray, Alfred Welch, J. W. King, Charles Thompson, R. G. Hartingh.

Representative—W. O. Emery, G. W. Mount, John McFarlane, V. E. Rix, John Preston, J. G. Dimmick, Harvey Brown, A. R. Weir, John W. Curtis.

Sparking Sunday Nights.

The following from an exchange contains more truth than poetry.

The sparkers are looked upon as a nuisance. Nine-tenths of them are boys who have not got their growth, and they look so green that it is laughable. Most of them do not possess a second shirt and are no more qualified to marry than a steer is to preach. A green boy without a dollar, present or in prospect, sparking a girl regularly, is a spectacle for God and man to look upon.

He should be reasoned with and if he will not quit till he is able to support a wife, he should be quarantined or sent to a convent. Nine-tenths of these human calves should not be allowed to run at large without having yokes on them. They marry, and have children before they have mustaches—they are father of twins before they own two pairs of trousers. If there was a law against it, I suppose the youngsters would evade it some way.

It is time enough for these little bantams to think of finding a pullet, when they have money enough to build a hen house. But they see a girl who looks cunning and they are afraid there is not going to be enough to go around, and they put in their lies and before they own a cook stove are hitched for life; and a few months later, the gosling husband has to get up in the middle of the night and run for the doctor, and then abuse him for not running too. Then he runs after his mother or mother-in-law, and when he gets back he is greeted with a daughter. Then of course he wears a broad grin to think how smart he has been.

Dangerous-if Neglected.

Burns, cuts and wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yanketown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, a few boxes cured the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits.

The Judge's Joke.

the supreme court the other day asked to be excused.

"Why do you wish to be excused?" asked the court.

"Well, your honor," replied the man, "I dond know goot English ven I hear it."

"I guess you will do," said Justice Blanchard, with a twinkle in his eye. "You won't hear much good English here anyhow."

Why He Liked Them.

"Well, I must say I like the old-time songs the best."

"Why so?"

"Nobody sings 'em."—Baltimore American.

Exclusiveness.

"Pauline is very exclusive. Isn't she?" "Oh, yes; quite. She never introduces an eligible man to any other girl."—London King.

One of the best ways of getting rid of moss and lichens adhering to the bark of trees is an application of lime white-wash.

In taking trees from a nursery or forest, preserve all of the roots and fine rootlets possible. Dig out instead of pulling up the tree.

When the fruit or leaves of any plant or tree are eaten by insects of any kind, spraying in good season and sufficiently often is the safest and best remedy.

Gladiolus bulbs should be planted in full sunshine, four or five inches deep and about one foot apart. Good soil, rather sandy, is best, avoiding manure, especially if fresh.

SHERMAN SHOTS.

John J. Wood is preparing to move to Montana.

There is plenty of trout fishing, but not many trout.

G. A. Pringle went trout fishing the other day and got—wet, that's all.

Everybody is busy trying to get their crops in the ground, but it's too wet.

Louis Pringle is preparing to move Canada, where he is offered a good situation.

The farmers who have been under quarantine with smallpox are about the only ones who have their spring work done.

Elm Grove Tent, K. O. T. M., met Tuesday evening and elected George Pringle as their delegate to the Great Camp meeting.

Mrs. G. A. Pringle has been busy for the past week entertaining her two sisters from Pittsburg, Pa., and her brother from Oregon.

We see no reason now why we should be under quarantine from the Tawas as the only cases of smallpox now here are away back in the woods where it is hardly possible to get on horseback, which makes it impossible for smallpox to walk out. Brave up, Tawasans, and open your gates to Sherman once more.

Lew Collins and Thomas Glendening attended the convention at the county seat Monday, as delegates from Plainfield.

Our highway commissioner was recently seen on a bike, then in the ditch, and next with the road grader. He says it is nice to ride a wheel, but tough to light so.

RENO RUMBLINGS.

A snow storm arrived last Saturday morning.

Rev. Scott delivered a sermon last Sabbath at the Methodist church.

Mrs. Emma Cooper and daughter visited Mrs. Nash, at Emery last Monday.

A little daughter arrived last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson.

Last Friday night a son came to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robinson.

Ladies' Aid Society met last Wednesday with Mrs. M. Robinson. In about two weeks they will give a social and will dispose of a quilt for the benefit of the society.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well known attorney of Nacona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble.

Jason Pender is improving and we are in hopes that the visit of the smallpox will soon be a thing of the past.

Howard Belknap caught a 25 ounce trout in Porterfield creek, near our village, last week. That beats the record.

J. H. Dutton, section foreman at Ossineke, spent Sunday with his parent here, returning on the early train Monday morning.

Dr. Mooney is improving and will soon be out of quarantine. We shall be glad to see his face on our streets again, even if it is slightly marked.

Frosty nights are in order, but still the fruit buds keep on opening and the farmers keep on sowing, relying on the promise that there shall be a seed time and a harvest.

At the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Earhart, on Tuesday last, occurred the marriage of Miss Luvella Earhart to Mr. Fred E. Hess. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large party of friends of the popular couple, and all join in wishing them a long and happy voyage on the sea of matrimonial bliss.

The manufacturer of lumber of twenty years ago would be amazed were he to see the kind of logs that are being sawed up to-day. Some of them are mere pipestems, while others are rotten almost to the core. Logs which fifteen years ago would not have been bothered with in the woods, are sent long distances by rail for sawing.—E.

A neglected advertisement is as serious to the business man of to-day as a neglected stock of perishable goods. Stale ads. are just as indigestible as stale groceries, and very often the destroying effect of the advertisement is just as serious as that of groceries. People prefer fresh reading in advertising and news matter and discuss it with more relish if it is kept fresh and crisp, just as they do things they eat. Thousands of dollars are wasted annually in misfit advertising, the sort of advertising that talks at random with no direct aim. Advertising that is intended to hit something must be aimed directly at the object it wants to reach.

A New Boat for Ottawa Point
Life Saving Station.

A splendid new self righting and self bailing life boat has just been relieved and unloaded from the car near the water-works, and taken "home" by the life savers. It is 34 feet in length and weighs between 4 and 5 tons and will be operated almost entirely by sail although it is equipped with seats and outfits for ten oarsmen.

It was on exhibition at the Pan-American last summer and the following message to N. Sims was written on the bow.

Mr. Sims,
This is the boat President McKinley rode in just before he was shot. J. V. W.

J. V. W. are the initials of Jacob Van Weeldon, of Grand Haven, who,
with Mr. Sims, was among the Life Savers detailed to the Trans-Mississipi exposition during the summer of '98 and last year was serving in the same capacity at the Pan American.

The boat was sent from Buffalo to the government supply house at Grand Haven and later shipped here.
Mr. Van Weeldon assisted in loading it, and, knowing that Sims was at the station to which it was shipped, sent him the above message.

It is rather remarkable that the life-boat sent to Ottawa Point in '99 and now in use there, should also have seen service at an exposition, but it is true. It was at the Trans-Mississippi during the summer of '98, and during President McKinley's visit there, Oct.
10 to 15, it was fitted out to carry him around the lagoon, but a few minutes before the time set for starting, a storm came up and he decided not to risk the exposure, and the disappointed life savers rowed back to their station.

Ottawa Point seems to be a favorite with exposition life-boats.

NINETTE

Pretty Ninette! She entered the studio with eyes shining like stars, the soft color coming and going in her cheeks, the dewy lips, arched like Cupid's bow, tremulous with excitement, and it was no wonder that his artist soul reveled in her beauty. When the day's work was over, he called her to him and showed her the picture, which was approaching completion.

"We shall soon have it done, my dear, and then we will send it away to the big city, where there will be none so beautiful as my little fisher girl. Only a few more days and our work is over." He drew her close to him and pressed a kiss on her innocent lips, which to him was but an expression of thankfulness to the child who had helped him to win the fame he felt sure was within his grasp, but to her it was the awakening of a soul, and he, northerner that he was, did not understand how soon womanhood, with all its joys and sorrows, comes to maidens under a southern sun.

She silently left the room and thoughtfully pursued her way to her home. Her few simple duties over, she crept to her bed, still with this new secret warming her heart and opening out a new vista of happiness in her life.

Mother she had none. Her father, a rough, uncouth fisherman, was seldom at home, except to sleep off some drunken orgy. It was strange that so lovely a flower could have sprung from such a parent.

Some time in the night Ninette was awakened from a deep sleep by hearing voices outside the hut and soon distinguished her father's and those of some of his cronies. As she listened she grew cold with a sudden chill as she heard them plan to waylay and rob some one, and she held her breath to catch the name. Ah, heaven! Could it be that she heard aright! "The picture fellow," they said. "He has plenty of money and jewels worth taking." She must save him, he who had caressed her so fondly, her dear friend, for even to herself she scarcely dared call him by any fonder name yet. She would listen to all their plans, and perhaps she could warn him.

"He will be coming home along the cliff road from the chateau that holds his sweetheart," said her father's voice. "They will think he fell over," he added, with a fiendish chuckle.

"Hiss!" said another. "The girl may wake."

She could hear no more, for they moved away, but the iron had entered her soul, and jealousy had made a woman of the girl of yesterday. "Over the cliff to see his sweetheart." Then she could never be anything to him. She was only a child to amuse him. Then all her passionate nature rose in revolt. No one else should have his love, she thought. They might throw him from the cliff. She would have the remembrance of that kiss of yesterday.

She covered her head in the bedclothes and shivered and wept until morning. Then with the bright sun came better thoughts, and she remembered the grand picture that was to go out into the world—she must save him or it would not be finished. She would go along the cliff road at evening and warn him of his danger. So, alternating between love and jealousy, she spent all the day, and when the sun sank to rest behind the hills she was on her way over the rocks and up on to the cliff, where she could hide herself and watch for his approach.

It grew dark, and the moon was hidden behind black clouds. A storm was coming up. Still she did not stir. The thunder rolled, and lightning lit up the heavens with titful flashes. Perhaps he would not return tonight, and she prayed he might not, although it was agony to picture to herself the lady at the chateau pleading with him not to go out into the night. Hark, that was his voice surely singing softly to himself, and in one of the flashes she saw coming from the chateau road the form of him she loved. In one swift moment she exulted that he had left his lady in spite of pleading, but the feeling was brief, for from the other direction she heard voices and realized that the evil deed planned in darkness the night before would be executed unless she could prevent it. Nearer and nearer they came until they were almost opposite her hiding place.

Holy mother, what can she do? There is no time to warn him as he comes jauntily on to his doom, and she sees like a flash his mangled form on the rocks below to be washed out with the cruel waves in the morning. Then the picture rises before her in all its divine beauty. Her brain is bursting with excitement. Unknowingly she rushes out of her concealment, and the rufians, seeing the form in the darkness, think their victim is in their power. In her frenzy she has gone too far. One false step and she falls over the cliff. A lightning flash lit up the sky, and there was one shriek as of a lost soul as she went over the edge. The men turn and flee for dear life, thinking in their superstitious fear that evil spirits are pursuing them. In an instant all was over, and, unable to find the cause of the disturbance, the artist kept on his way home.

The next morning the village rang with excitement, for the frightened men had confessed all, and the body of the girl was found in the surf.

Willie—Yes.
Charlie—Why, she's old enough to be your mother!
Willie—I know it. But you see we were playing pingpong, and I accidentally hit her in the eye with the ball.
Charlie—Well, that was bad.
Willie—You see, she felt so awfully cut up about it that I had to do something to console her.—Yonkers Statesman.

William Wirt's Reformation.

William Wirt, the great lawyer, attorney general of the United States and prosecutor of Aaron Burr when he was tried for treason, was stupefied and made sensuous by liquor. At times he lost all self control and self respect. On one occasion while drunk he fell in the streets of Richmond. While lying there asleep Miss G., the most beautiful woman in the city, to whom he was betrothed, came along, saw him and placed her handkerchief, on which was her name, over his face. He awakened, saw the name, learned the incident, and it reformed him.—Beverages.

Filbert—Aren't you afraid to be so knowing about poker when your wife is around?
Kilty—Quite the contrary. It is the man who laughs the loudest over a poker joke who knows the least about the game. My wife knows that, and it is my cue to be the man who does the loud laughter.—Boston Transcript.

HEART STIMULANT.

Cold Applications Superior to Drafts of Alcohol.

There is a deep seated belief amounting almost to a superstition that alcohol is a very important heart stimulant, especially when the organ is weak. Whatnitz, the great authority on hydrotherapy in Germany, has often told us of the very great value of cold as a heart stimulant or tonic and that it is far superior to alcohol in this respect. Dr. Kellogg gives the method of application as follows:

"The application consists of a compress applied to the portion of the chest wall over the heart. This comprises the space bounded by the second rib above, the fifth border of the sternum, a line following a half inch to the right of the nipple and the sixth rib below. The compress should be large enough to cover this space and to extend at least two inches outside of it. Ordinarily the best effects are produced by employing water at a temperature of about 60 degrees. The compress should be wrung moderately dry and should be very lightly covered. It is desirable that cooling by slow evaporation should be encouraged and be continued for some time."

Dr. Kellogg continues: "In Germany and France it is the custom to administer alcohol to the patient just before putting him in a cold bath. Some practitioners, as Whatnitz, administer but a very small amount, a single mouthful of wine, for instance, while others give brandy in considerable quantities. A few American practitioners employ brandy freely with the cold bath. The unwisdom of this practice will be apparent on due consideration of the following facts:

"One purpose in administering the cold bath is to secure a true stimulant or tonic effect by arousing the vital energies through excitation of the nerve centers. Alcohol was once supposed to be capable of effecting this and was used for this purpose in typhoid fever and various other morbid conditions accompanied by depression of the vital forces. At the present time, however, it is well known, and with practical unanimity admitted, that alcohol is neither a tonic nor a stimulant, but a narcotic; that it depresses and does not excite; that it lessens and does not increase the activity of the nerve centers, and that this is true of small as well as large doses, as has been shown by the researches of careful investigators."—Health.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Give the roots of trees a deep and broad bed of soil to start and grow in.

In pruning the grape cut back to the third bud, as it is usually the first entirely perfect bud produced.

When winds prevail from any direction, as they usually do, lean the tree a little in that direction when setting out.

The essentials in making a good garden are rich soil, plenty of manure, good seeds, timely labor and a fair season.

Having the soil in a good tilth and planting in straight rows will save much labor in cultivating in the garden.

WEBSTER AS A DRINKER.

The Great Orator's Deep Potations Before Two Famous Speeches.

Daniel Webster was invited to Richmond in the 30ties. He accepted the invitation, came to Richmond and went to the Exchange hotel. He was invited by the state legislature to address them and the people of Richmond, and a committee consisting of James Lyons of Richmond and Robert E. Scott of Fauquier, two of the most eminent lawyers in the state, were sent down to the hotel to escort him to the capitol building. They found Mr. Webster in a state of intoxication in such degree that Mr. Lyons said to Mr. Scott: "This man can't make a speech. You must take his place!" Mr. Scott replied, "No man can take the place of Daniel Webster."

After delay, during which Mr. Webster improved a little, he was asked if he would go to the capitol. He replied, "Yes." With great difficulty Messrs. Scott and Lyons supported and helped him to the capitol. When they reached the rotunda near the Washington statue, Mr. Lyons said, "Mr. Webster, do you think you can speak?" "If you will give me a drink of brandy, yes."

A messenger was sent to a neighboring hotel and a bottle of brandy brought. Mr. Webster poured out successively two goblets full and drank them off, straightened himself up, shook himself as a lion might have done, walked steadily and directly to the position from which he spoke, on the south porch of the capitol, and in the presence of an audience of 5,000 people, which consisted of the intellectuality and beauty of Richmond, male and female, made his celebrated October speech, one of the greatest even of his life.

Edward Everett related that on the day Webster replied to Hayne of South Carolina he walked with him to the capitol; that he seemed so badly prepared that he doubted him and feared that he was not equal to the occasion; that just before he rose to speak he drank a goblet of brandy and then made his great speech in reply to Hayne, which is an English classic. Such was the effect of the beverage on Webster.—Beverages.

OLD TIMES IN TENNESSEE.

When Pelts Were as Plentiful as Pennies in the State.

Probably few people know that the original name of the state of Tennessee was Franklin or that in 1788 the salaries of the officers of this commonwealth were paid in pelts, but the following is a correct copy of the law:

"Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Franklin, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same, that from and after the 1st day of January, 1788, the salaries of this commonwealth be as follows—to wit:

"His excellency the governor, per annum, 100 deerskins.

"His honor the chief justice, 500 deerskins.

"The secretary to his excellency the governor, 500 raccoon skins.

"County clerk, 200 beaver skins.

"Clerk of the house of commons, 200 raccoon skins.

"Justice's fee for serving a warrant, one minkskin."

At that time the state of Franklin extended to the east bank of the Mississippi river, and on the west bank was that great unknown forest region of Louisiana. It was then a "terra incognita," save a few canoe landings and Indian trading posts on the river banks. It was known as the district of Louisiana and in 1805 was made the territory of Louisiana.

The state of Franklin, which became Tennessee in 1796, was almost as little known. The now great city of Memphis was a mere trading post and was not laid out as a village until 1820.

Pelts were as plentiful in those days as pennies and much better distributed for purposes of currency and barter. The pioneers were perhaps as happy and as well contented as is the average citizen now.—Arkansas Gazette.

"Clothcraft"

is the trade-mark name of a new line of strictly all wool Men's and Young Men's Clothes. The suits and overcoats put out under this label can safely be called the best that can be made.

"CLOTHCRAFT" CLOTHES are made by The Goldsmith, Joseph, Feiss Company of Cleveland, Ohio.

This Company has for years enjoyed a reputation among the trade as the most conscientious makers of men's clothes in the country.

The line of "CLOTHCRAFT" CLOTHES is just the best clothing that this famous house knows how to make. It is made in their own clean factory with the most modern facilities, by the most skilled workmen that money can employ, and under the most favorable conditions.

Every garment bearing the "CLOTHCRAFT" label is guaranteed all wool and the guarantee of the makers is as good as a U. S. Bond. We are the exclusive agents of this line of men's and young men's clothes and cheerfully add our guarantee. We not only guarantee that the goods are all wool, but that the fit and finish are superior to any line of men's and young men's clothes ever sold for anything like the price charged for "CLOTHCRAFT."

Suits and Overcoats of the "CLOTHCRAFT" brand can be had from $10.00 and upward.

We have a limited number of handsomely gotten up Style Books showing some of the leading "CLOTHCRAFT" styles. You can have one of these books free if you will call for it.
