MISS DOROTHEA KLUMPKE.
She is the Foremost Woman Astronomer in the World.

Miss Dorothea Klumpke, an American woman, after years of struggle and study has achieved the proud title of the greatest woman astronomer in the world. Twenty-one years ago Dorothea Klumpke left San Francisco, where she was born, to go to Paris to study music. Her dreams of becoming a prima donna faded into a mist as her

studies of technique left her worried and discouraged. Inspired by a view of the grim old observatory which she saw daily from her window, where it had stood since the days of Louis XIV., she determined to study astronomy and enter that building, where no woman had ever been employed. This wild dream dominated her life and absorbed all her energies.

She devoted herself to higher mathematics and was the first woman to gain the degree of doctor of mathematics at the Paris Academy of Sciences. She studied optics, physics, chemistry, the use of the telescope, stellar photography and other essentials. She mastered them all and fought her way bravely through a maze of prejudice and opposition.

When she tried for the degree of doctor of science, the French professors, fearing the innovation of a woman scientist, made her examination as difficult as their ingenuity could suggest.
For two hours this delicate, fair haired, blue eyed, gentle, feminine woman stood firm at the blackboard—and triumphed.

In 1857 she won a place in the observatory in open competition with fifty Frenchmen, and, with five associates, all women, she has for the last seven years been working on a photographic map of the heavens.—Ledger Monthly.

Don't Be Masculine.
The line between an intellectual woman and a masculine one seems so distinct that it is wonderful how any one ever confounds them; but it is done, and we see every day some girl so far forgetting the charm of womanhood as to imitate the language, manners and as far as possible the dress of men.
This is neither wise nor attractive. If she wishes to imitate men, let it be in their best and strongest attributes, and not in their weaknesses.

The Vinegar Cruet.
To remove vinegar stains from the cruets fill nearly full of warm water; then add a teaspoonful of lye and let stand for a couple of days. Rinse thoroughly, and they will be clear and bright. If the water pitcher gets covered with a sort of coating and you cannot wash it off, try cleaning it with a lemon rind. It always works like a charm, removing every particle of the lime.

One of Mrs. Gould's Closets.
At Georgian Court, Lakewood, N. J., Mrs. Gould has a closet almost as large as the average hall bedroom, which is used exclusively for underwear. Its walls on three sides are lined with shelves on which the daintiest of French lingerie is stowed away between sachets of soft silk the size of the shelves themselves.

Children's Stockings.
To save darning and to increase the wear of children's stockings put a piece of wash leather at the back of their shoes. This will prevent the shoes slipping at the heel and will add to the comfort of the little wearer.

It should be a positive duty in every well regulated home to come down to breakfast with a cheerful morning face, to find fault with nothing and to talk of pleasant things.

For a lunch fit to be eaten by the most fastidious serve a veal cutlet, scalloped tomatoes, cheese, wafers and tea. It is thoroughly enjoyable.

What She Needed.
"I don't know what to do about my daughter Lucy," said a perplexed mother who had come to an outspoken but kindly old physician for advice.
"She seems so listless and does not seem to have any interest in life and she's so irritable at times. I don't think that she has exercise enough, and I want to know what you think about my sending her to a gymnasium or to dancing school. She's tired of her bicycle, and the lawn tennis season is past. What would you advise?"

"How old is she?" asked the doctor.
"Nearly nineteen."
"Can she cook?"
"Oh, no; she knows nothing about cooking."
"Can she sweep?"
"No; my maid does all the sweeping."

"Does she take care of her own room and make her own bed?"
"No; I do that. Her room is next to mine, and I've always attended to that."

"Does she have any part whatever in the household duties?"

"No; I cannot say that she has."
"No duties, no responsibilities, no sense of obligation, no part in the work to be done in every household?"

"Well, no."

"Then, madam," said the doctor frankly, "your daughter has no need of a gymnasium in which to spend her pentup energies. I don't wonder that she is irritable and unhappy."

"What would you advise?" asked the mother weakly.

"I would advise you to make her feel that she has a part and a place in your home life; that its duties must be borne by all the members of the family in common and that she must do her part toward contributing to the general comfort of the home. A girl of her age with no home duties, no responsibilities, no interest in her home, needs more than a gymnasium or a dancing school to make her helpful and happy."
—Philadelphia Ledger.

Show That Love Exists in the Home.
There is abundant reason for urging upon the home circle, rich or poor, the culture of love, without which no true home culture can exist. How can it be done? First, be willing to show the love that already exists. It is like a plant with shriveled, drooping leaves.
Bring it out into the light; show it; put it in the warmth of the sun.

Is the husband and father silent, gloomy, withdrawn into himself, brooding perhaps over the fact that, no matter how hard he tries, he never can meet the family demands? Show him that you know he is tired, that you love him for his constant effort, that you love him the same even if he has failed to do all he had hoped. Show him how well and cheerfully you can get on with a little for this time, sure that the next time he will succeed.

If you are his daughter and have acquired the habit of thinking of him chiefly as a man from whom the money comes for the things you need, get out of that relation by planning to do or get something for him. Has your mother been in the habit of reminding him that your birthday was at hand?
Find out his birthday and begin to plan for that, a little gift from every child, a song sung for father, a little speech from his little son, a little fun in which you coax him to share—it may mean a new life to him because it means a new sense of how truly you love and believe in him.

When it comes to showing the dear mother how you love her, be sure you get father to help in planning the good time for her.—Mary Lowe Dickinson in Success.

Eleanora Duse's Dramatic Career.
It was in the little town of Vigevano, between Piedmont and Lombardy, that Eleanora Duse, the greatest trage-dienne of Italy, was born about forty years ago. Her father and grandfather were actors, and in the hard life of a band of strolling players at county fairs, in the ruins of Roman churches and in the mean little open air theaters of provincial towns Eleanora made her debut at the age of thirteen. Her life was one of suffering, hardship and privation, and often she went through her part bravely when almost faint from hunger, and it was the school of suffering that developed and gave soul and intensity to her wonderful dramatic powers. Her power is largely due to these trials.—Ledger Monthly.

Wardrobe Hangers.
Many more articles can be hung on a wardrobe with proper hangers than those on the old plan. Bars are fastened under the upper shelf, which will hold six hangers, and more can be hung on the doors. There should be separate and distinct bars for the bodices.
Skirt hangers and bodice hangers should be kept distinct, and all should be well covered up. Dust penetrates everywhere.

Wet a cloth in cider vinegar, wrap ping cheese in it, to keep moist and prevent molding

Remember that a few growing plants adorn any room.

CULINARY CONCEITS.

Water is better than milk in most cooking recipes.

Baked apples, cream, a plain omelet, bacon, pancakes and coffee are appetizing for breakfast.

To preserve the fresh color of vegetables boil fast in plenty of water, with cover of the kettle off.

Dry sponge cake cut in slices and toasted, then served hot with a thin spreading of butter, makes a very nice luncheon dessert.

The boilings of salt beef or pork make excellent pea soup if the salt be neutralized by the addition of some brown sugar and several carrots.

It adds to both the flavor and digestibility of baked beans if a half teaspoonful of mustard is added to the water that is poured over the beans after they reach the baking dish.

Persons who do not like codfish balls made from the salt variety often find them appetizing made of the fresh fish. Once boiled, the fish will keep a week, and enough for two breakfasts is thus possible.

So few cooks prepare breakfast bacon right. Get bacon of good quality, slice it thin and lay one piece at a time in the skillet, turning it over and over until seared. When the skillet is full, turn every piece over again, using a fork.

Create Interests For Yourself.

Definitely make up your mind to take up something—religious, philanthropic, intellectual, what you will—the growth of which you can watch and to the success of which your individuality will be an essential.

This is a matter strongly akin to our main subject of the realization of ideal love. Many and many a girl marries a man not because she cannot live without him, the one valid excuse, but just because she fears the years are rolling by and that she ought to marry, or she is afraid that the present home may be broken up and then she may be dependent on the charity or employment of others, or she is overwhelmed by the emptiness and monotonous smallness of life and is ready to welcome any change.

Every girl, except the few for whom no "want of pence" can ever arise and the many whose first duty is evidently at home, should if possible so fit herself that, should the day of need ever arise, she may be able to face the world without external help. Hard work? Yes, of course, it means hard work, but in its train comes the priceless sense of freedom and independence.

Cleaning the Cellar.

In housecleaning always include the cellar, turning off all registers carefullly. Then attack the corners and use lime and lump charcoal freely, particularly if there should be any suspicion of dampness. The walls should be whitewashed twice a year, and all cellars should have cement floors.
Hanging shelves should be used for all stored articles, so that the floor may be easily swept every week. Never pile wood on the floor, but on raised boards, so that centipedes and spiders may not collect underneath. The condition of a cellar is always a test of good housekeeping, besides being an all important factor in the health of the family. If the cellar and bathroom are always in good order, the other rooms are not apt to be much "out of the way."

The many friends of Clark W. Aiken, the general agent of the Plano Machine Co., were shocked to hear of his unexpected death at his home in Owosso last Tuesday. It is claimed that his death resulted from an overdose of aconite taken at Standish five weeks ago, which was reported in these columns at that time. It was only by the prompt and energetic work of the doctors that Mr. A.'s life was saved at that time, and while he has attended to business, it was very evident that he never fully recovered from the effects. He was taken suddenly worse at Rose City last Saturday and went to his home. He was 32 years old and leaves a wife.

William F. Wendt, of this city, captured a trout while fishing in Cold creek last Friday that beats anything ever caught in this locality. The fish measured 28 1/2 inches in length and weighed six pounds and three ounces. It was of the Lochleven variety and is supposed to be one of the several thousand planted in that stream by Mayor Harting about seven years ago. The fish was sent to President Hawks, of the D. & M. Ry., and has been mounted. It was certainly a beautiful specimen, and Will is to be congratulated on his luck in landing it with a common line, as it was only his second experience in angling for these sporty fellows. Please note that Tawas City holds the "bunting" for the champion trout, and we predict that it will be some time before it is beaten. The fish was on exhibition at C. H. Prescott & Sons, and was viewed by hundreds.

Otsego Lake village has a "blind pig." Poor thing! Can't it see? Yes, it can see first rate on a dark night when good people are a-bed, for then it sees its unhappy victims vainly endeavoring to drown their sorrows and troubles in the flowing bowl, that does not lessen their woes, but adds to them. Why don't the officers of the law shut up the "blind pig?" Why don't Tip Aplin get out and shout for Bliss or Stearns or Horton? Because he might injure his political prospects. Well, what are the good people going to do about it? Have they got to have this den of iniquity under their noses, that pays no license and is unlawful and a crying evil? Yes, or until public sentiment is sufficiently aroused to rise up in its righteous wrath and smite it. The law is a schoolmaster to bring men to task when they do wrong. If it be found that men are willfully transgressing the law at the Lake, apply the remedy.—Gaylord Herald. Otsego is not the only county afflicted with this disease.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Artistic Schemes of Lighting the Principal Rooms of the House.

Some of the most beautiful designs of old Sevres candelabra, fitted with representations of wax tapers, on the top of which the electric light appears, have been recommended for drawing room use.

Both covetable and charming are the copies of handsome silver sticks for one light or with branches that are available for the dinner table. These require shades to provide the subdued light desirable, and never have they been so varied or so suggestive of effective "color schemes" in the decorative setting.

Wall Paper Novelties.

Speaking of panels, they are greatly in favor and may be made with anything from narrow bordering to a hand molded plaster composition, tinted to harmonize with the hand pressed panels, which it so delicately frames.

For a den we have this splendid new "hand printed crown hanging" to use a trade term. It transforms a bare room into a thing of Turkish coziness and without the expense once necessary.

Fashionable Table Crystal.

The smart hostess who would be the exponent of all that is new has to look to her table crystal, for if she would be up to date this must be touched with delicate tinging, and each of her guests must drink the sweetest nectar from the heart of a flower, as flowers are the newest water and wine glasses fashionable.

The stand and the fine long stem are of the purest white crystal, and it is only just where the blossom that forms the bowl spreads its petals at the mouth that the color begins which soon merges into the deepest blue, violet, orange or green.

Rack For Plates and Cups.

An effective rack for use in the summer cottage and designed principally as a background for delft plates and cups is made of a fine piece of ash treated chemically until it takes a soft gray tone.

To Clean Flannel Blankets.

Flannel blankets may be successfully cleaned by using borax and soft soap. Put two tablespoonfuls of borax and a pint of soft soap into cold water enough to cover the blankets.

Cook Cornstarch Enough.

Cornstarch is a valuable food, but it rarely gets cooking enough to take away the raw taste and flavor that are natural to it in the uncooked state.

Something Unique.

A new model for small dressing bureaus has both ends raised box fashion, one of them ending at the front in a novel post effect, bearing a lamp of classic design.

Two Curious Duels.

Two peasants quarreled at a game of cards in Budapest a few days ago, and one promptly challenged the other. A duel was arranged, and when the combatants met on the field their eyes were bandaged, pistols were put in their hands and they were ordered to fire.

On the same day and near the same place two servant girls fought a duel with knives, their object being to determine which of them should become the wife of a handsome soldier.

A Little Nonsense.

Just a Few Springtime Smiles at the Passing Show.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Scientists tell us that fish feel little pain.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Then it does not make any difference how much we lie about them.

Bacon—It is always a sign of life in a horse when he rears.

Egbert—Yes, certainly. "And yet he looks as if he were on his last legs."

Stella—The landlady says she will not have meat while it's so high.

Bella—What does she give you, then?

"Hash."

Willie was telling about his cat and young kittens, and said he, "The mother cat sleeps all the time."

"And don't the kittens sleep, too?" he was asked.

"Oh, no; the kittens can't go to sleep yet; they haven't got their eyes opened."—Yonkers Statesman.

A False Lover.

"Darling," pleaded Algernon—"darling, be mine! I will shield and protect you from all dangers all your life. It will be my pride and privilege."

"I face unflinchingly and unflatteringly every foe that shall stand in our path or dare to attack my own sweet girl!"

But when Algernon saw this thing starting up before him he thought it must be another March hare gone mad and thought he'd better go, too.

The New Regime.

Proud American Father—I want you to meet my family, sir. This is Ella Wheeler, aged six, who writes the poems of passion for The Rubadub Magazine. This is Kipling, aged nine, who now has four plays running simultaneously in New York, and this is Hortense, aged fourteen, whose recent historical novel, "The Cheesepeppers," is in its four hundred and eighty-nine thousandth."

Guest—And this little fellow? "Oh, he's only eleven months old. He's learning to use the typewriter."—Detroit Free Press.

A Lonely Greenback.

The treasury department reports $88,000,000 outstanding in gold certificates of the denomination of $10,000 and one ten thousand dollar "greenback." That solitary note ought to be of interest to collectors. In fact, it would not make such a bad collection all by itself.

A Definition.

The boy looked up from his book, puzzled. "What's a dyspeptic, father?" he asked.

"A dyspeptic, my boy," was the reply, "is a man with a hypercritical stomach."—Chicago Post.

JOHN ALLEN'S NEW STORY.

"There is an old fellow in East St. Louis named Zollenbaum who is quite a character," says "Private" John Allen. "He saw a little service in the Union army, but regards himself as a hero. One night at a Grand Army campfire he was reciting his valorous exploits, which by much repetition had grown considerably both in number and character. He told how in one battle he had killed four rebels in hand to hand combat and in another battle had slain six. His recital, accompanied by a profuse gesture and a deep, rich German accent, elicited much enthusiastic applause.

"But at the close of his remarks a modest little man in the rear of the hall, wearing a medal of honor, arose and called attention to the fact that the two battles the gentleman mentioned had occurred on the same day, 1,500 miles apart.

"This blow bade fair for a moment to stagger the doughty Zollenbaum, but he was equal to the occasion.

"My vrends," he shouted, "comrades of de Grand Army, we have a tam rebel in our midst! Rouse mit him!" And in the confusion Zollenbaum marched proudly from the hall."—Washington Star.

The Maimed Machinists.

It would appear that one of the most dangerous of peaceful occupations is the seemingly innocuous one of attendant of a joiner's planing machine. At a hearing in a prosecution under the factory act at Halifax recently a factory inspector told the court that when he took office he made it a point to try to discover an attendant of such a machine who had all his fingers. It was five years before he came across such a man.

All the attendants of joiners' planing machines whom he had seen in the meantime had one or more fingers missing, which they had lost in the performance of their work—and that notwithstanding the fact that the men engaged in such work are aware of the danger and are careful.

Miles and Brooke.

Should the forced retirement of General Nelson A. Miles from the command of the army, as has been talked about, be made a certainty, his successor would naturally be Major General Brooke, new stationer at Governors island and the senior officer of his rank. The situation recalls that of 1879, when both officers named then ranked as colonels, Brooke receiving his colonel's commission in that year.

A friend of the then Colonel Brooke, complimenting him on his promotion, added, "I can see the star of a general very close to you." "Not so very close," responded Brooke, "for I can see Miles between me and that star."—New York Times.

Deserves a Pension.

The Italians are discussing the advisability of pensioning Mrs. Maddalena Granatta, a woman of fifty-seven, who lives near Nocera, twelve miles from Naples. Her husband has been dead ten years, but during the nineteen years they lived together as man and wife they had sixty-two children born to them, fifty-nine of the lot being males. Eleven different times in nine years triplets were born, and on three different occasions four boys were announced, and once there were four boys and a girl.

The Work of Old Boys.

Lord Kelvin is seventy-eight years of age. Under a rule recently adopted by a western railway company he couldn't get a job in its service because he is over thirty-five. Yet he can outwork today three-quarters of the youngsters, to say nothing of his value as a thinker. The greatest work of our time is being done by men over sixty and much of it by men more than three-score years and ten.—Rochester Democrat.

Betting Under Difficulties.

Sir Herbert Maxwell at a recent public dinner told a story illustrative of the instinctive propensity of British nature to have a little gamble on something. Three officers in the Transvaal were down with fever, and just before the doctor went his rounds in the morning each patient put a half crown in a basin, and the one whose temperature was highest took the pool.—Chicago News.

Tipping the Guest.

Waiter—Beg pardon, sir, but haven't you forgotten something? Guest—Forgotten something? Ah, yes; a toothpick. Thanks.—Chicago News.

Soft.

Chilly Blaine—Wot's the softest snap yer ever struck? Frozen Foot—A toothless bulldog.—Leslie's Weekly.

A Whistler Story.

An artist recently returned from abroad is responsible for this Whistler story: "The sometimes amiable J. MacNeill had been invited to inspect a canvas by one of the younger impressionists. The characteristic Whistlerian judgment was being passed, when the culprit—for such he had been made to feel—broke in with: 'Oh, it's only a potboiler. Simply intended to keep the wolf from the door.' 'Ah, I see,' said Whistler. 'I suppose you hang it outside the door.'"

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. Its the hardest kind to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire year. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Groveton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly."

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure Ginnets what you eat.

Dangerous if Neglected.

Burns, cuts and wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yankee-town, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, a few boxes cured the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits.

Wants Others to Know.

"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are allright. I am glad to indorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it," writes Alfred Heinze, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills.
