

FASHION HINTS.

Foulard General Utility Gown—Beige and Ecu Laces.

Some smart Paris gowns are made of silk linen ornamented with huge chenille spots or woven linen spots. Scarlet or green with spots in white is most effective.

Foulards in dark shades spotted with white make charming shirt waist costumes with unlined waists and skirts. They are trim and most useful for ordinary occasions. The only trimming, consists in a few clusters of tucks.

Beige and ecru laces are now so much the fashion that white laces hardly have any sale at all except for underwear. Beige net ornamented with big spots is considered ultra smart this year.

The new voiles are of very fine make and artistic coloring. They closely resemble silk canvas and are much nicer than the wavy fabrics of old.

The carriage wrap shown is of pale gray peau de sole lined with gray silk. The wide sleeves have frilled undersleeves of net, and the wide collar is trimmed with bands of black velvet. There is a soft jabot with long ends of ecru lace.

WASH DRESSES.

Irish Crochet Collars Are Seen on Many of the Prettiest Models.

With cotton, zephyr and pique suits the chief feature is the collar. This must be of the coarsest lace. Do not imagine, however, that this means a common lace, but one of the thick new makes in vogue at the present hour and resembling as near as possible Irish crochet. Some of the applique lace collars look charming with edgings of black velvet or colored silk worn on an all white dress.

Linen suits this year will mostly boast of short coats instead of the blouse bodices of which we wore so many last year, added to which instead of the black gray and neutral shades of last season there will be a perfect craze for the reddest of scarlets and brightest of pinks. In fact, brightness of color is the key to the summer modes.

One of the favorite combinations and one which looks very well in wash materials is pale blue and pale yellow.

low. The cut shows a boating costume made of drill or canvas. The color is cream white, trimmed with bands of red taffeta. The loose Eton jacket has revers and is bordered with the taffeta. The crush belt is of the material. The scarf around the neck and the undersleeves are of white mull. The hat is of white straw trimmed with rosettes of red silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONABLE MATERIALS.

Voile and Eolienne Are Popular For Dressy Wear.

Serge cloth and the lighter makes of frieze are popular for summer tailor made, and as the warmer days arrive more and more gowns of veiling and eolienne will be worn. Voile will be one of if not the most fashionable materials for the summer season, and those who only know it as the coarse woolen type have no idea of its charm in a combination of silk and wool while all silk voile is really exquisite.

Fashionable modistes are making a good many skirts without lining to wear over slips of taffeta and satin. The bands are made separately, too, in order that more than one skirt may be worn over the same slip. This is a most convenient fashion and one commendable on the score of economy. There are many smart ways of trimming these overskirts, as they are called. The newest have inlets of lace in medallion form alternated with velvet or silk. Others quite as effective, but less elaborate, have bands or pointed trimmings of lace insertion, and the voile is cut away from the back of the lace so that a colored or white slip shows prettily through the openings.

The picture hat shown is of black satin straw, trimmed with pale pink roses and black velvet ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THIN GOWNS.

Medallion Trimmings—Red Wash Dresses.

A series of medallions of graduated size running upward, tunic fashion, is smart and uncommon, and these are linked together by means of strappings of silk or velvet, which wander side by side and then part to outline the medallion and so to make a graceful border.

A particular shade of scarlet, better known as brick red, is forming many wash waists and skirts which are of ten toned down by a tie and deep belt of black and an all black hat. Whatever vagaries fashion takes, it always demands that we should possess at least one all black hat. It is certainly far smarter to have a toning down touch of black on a bright colored frock than to have a touch of color on an all black costume.

All black and all white costumes are to be all the rage this summer.

This pretty evening gown can be worn either with or without a transparent yoke. It is made of tinted net over white taffeta, and it is trimmed with perpendicular bands of heavy ecru lace. Starting a little below the knees to the bottom of the skirt there are several rows of ruffles cut so as to simulate petals and edged with the tiniest white satin ribbon. The sleeves are particularly stylish, being full and transparent. They are gathered into a cuff of the lace.

An Imperfect One.

Stinger—Oh, well, I suppose you regard me as a perfect fool?

Beck—My dear fellow, I have long ago given up looking for perfection in this imperfect world.—Boston Transcript.

UP TO DATE HATS.

Fashionable Tricorne Shapes—Hats Made of Follage.

Hats are crazier in outline this season than ever before. The tricorne undoubtedly leads for everyday wear; next follow the walking shapes turned up at both sides and trimmed with ruches of ribbon or flowers. All white ribbon trimmings on black hats are considered extremely smart.

Chiffon hats are not so stylish as last season. Fine straw shapes are taking their place. The wide brims of these straw hats are inset with lace figures, from underneath which the straw is cut out so as to give a transparent effect.

Hats made of rose or violet leaves are trimmed with huge bows of pale colored ribbon. The favorite ribbons for trimming hats are moire and soft louisine.

Transparent striped straws are in great demand for picture hats. They are trimmed with rosettes of tulle and narrow velvet ribbons. Many trimmings are applied flat on the hat.

The illustration shows a hat of tuscan straw lined with tucked pale blue chiffon. Under the brim are a single pale pink rose and two narrow velvet straps held down with jeweled buttons. The upper part of the hat is very simply trimmed with a softly draped scarf of black and white net.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A SEASON OF COLOR.

But the All Black Gown Still Holds Its Own.

Although this will be a season of color, yet the smart black dress is indispensable to every woman's wardrobe. It is a sort of general utility gown and fills up many gaps. It can be made more or less smart or bright according to the accessories and finishing touches. Crepe de chine is an ideal fabric for a dressy gown, as it tucks, plaits or gathers equally well and can be worn over silk, satin or moire silk.

Taffeta will be used for complete gowns, and a taffeta skirt is useful with a black blouse and a silk or cloth coat. It forms either a day or evening toilet if judiciously selected. Taffeta is very smart when inset with insertions left transparent. It can then be worn over a white or colored slip or again over black, with the accessories following the same line of color as the slip or arranged to contrast. Several quite distinct effects may be produced in this way.

A pretty pale blue batiste gown is shown in the illustration. The bolero and upper part of the skirt as well as the upper part of the sleeves are enriched with buttonhole embroidery. The ruffles also carry out this style of ornamentation. The vest of the gown is of the plain material trimmed with tiny tucks and white insertion.

The hat is of black straw and chiffon.

The Fly That Attacks Peas.

The growing of peas for canning purposes has greatly increased since the invention of the viner, a machine for hulling peas. Now grown in many places by hundreds of acres, peas are cut with a mowing machine, raked up in windrows, loaded on wagons and run through the viner like wheat through a thrashing machine. One grower in Wisconsin last year had 2,400 acres. Before the advent of the machine it would have been impossible to have handled the product of so large an acreage for canning purposes. Individual growers having from 100 to 600 acres throughout the southern and central states are not uncommon. The appearance of the green fly, the insect which completely ruined 1,100 acres for one person two years ago, has been a serious factor recently. Various methods have been suggested for its control.

The brush and pan method is quite extensively used in some places for catching and destroying the insects. Such an outfit was used on the farm of Saulsbury Bros. of Maryland two years ago.

Safe Answer.

Visitor—Is business good or bad?
Spiritualist—Oh, just medium.—Chicago News.

Heavy Footed Brokers.

When the New York Stock Exchange gave up its old quarters less than a year ago in order that a new structure might go up on the site, it took temporary quarters in the building of the Produce Exchange. There is a short flight of stone steps leading to the exchange floor. When the stock brokers went in, these steps were practically unworn. In less than six months masons had to be called in to remove these stones and reset them the other side up. Deep furrows had been worn into the surface by the thousands of brokers, clerks and messenger boys rushing up and down the flight. They will have to be replaced altogether before the end of the year.

SUMMER NOVELTIES.

Coats and Skirts of Lace—The New Sleeve—A Fashionable Veil.

Sack coats and skirts made of heavy white lace are among the summer novelties.

Many of the new sleeves are immensely big between the elbow and wrist. This pouch is nearly always of some thin material—mousseline over mousseline of another color, lace, etc. The upper part of the sleeve is in the form of a close fitting cap.

Smart negligees are made of three accordion plaited founces of white nun's veiling. The hems are cut into deep points and edged with narrow chiffon embroidery.

The fashionable veil of the present has a white mesh lightly plaided with black and is decorated with velvet dots which are white on one side and black on the other, so that when turned the veil presents quite a different appearance.

A smart muslin evening gown is shown in the picture. The material is sheer white, and it is figured with a little black dot. The waist has a fichu of plain white organdie, which fastens in front with a big rosette. This fichu is edged with fine black lace, and black lace figures also appear applied on the blouse part of the waist. The sleeves are mere pretenses, consisting of latticework made of white ribbon. The belt is of narrow white ribbon. The skirt has a full founce of the plain white muslin banded with straps of white ribbon. The overskirt has irregular applications of black lace.

That new line of straw hats just received by James LaBerge, can't be beat anywhere, and you are advised not to buy until you have seen them. At his home on the Hemlock Road, in Grant township, early last Sunday morning, occurred the death of Henry A. Watts, aged 61 years, one month and 19 days. His death was caused by heart failure and was wholly unexpected. While he had not been in his usual good health for some time, he had attended to his work as usual. The deceased was born born in Ontario, April 29, 1841, and was united in marriage to Miss Charlotte Reed, July 14, 1861, at Scotland, Ont. Nine children, five daughters and four sons, were born to them. The sons, Robert, Joseph, John and Lorenzo, and three daughters, Mrs. Nicholas McKinnon, and Misses Augusta and Elsie, with the mother, survive him. He came to Iosco county in 1880 and settled on the farm where he resided at his death, where by patient, honest toil and economy, he had cleared from the wilderness one of the finest farms in the county, and built thereon a comfortable and pleasant home. His special delight was his home and nothing gave him so much pleasure as to walk over his well kept farm and look after his stock and other farm work. Mr. Watts was a man of kindly disposition, and always gave liberally of his means to all benevolent work, and no one in distress, or worthy poor ever appealed to him in vain. By his rugged honesty and kindly nature he had won a place of high esteem with all who knew him. Through his connections with the Saginaw Salt & Lumber Co., for a number of years, as resident agent for their lands, and as an extensive stock buyer, he had formed and extensive acquaintance in this and adjoining counties. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Waterbury, assisted by Revs. Pearson and Gregory, from the Hemlock Road Baptist church, Wednesday afternoon, and the remains laid at rest in the cemetery in this city. It was one of the most largely attended funerals ever held in this locality, and told more eloquently than words can ever tell, the love and respect which all had for the deceased. Nearly 100 teams following the remains to their last resting place. ELIZABETH DAVISON. At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Schneider, of Sherman township, Elizabeth, wife of Fred Davison, passed from this life, on Saturday, June 7, 1902. The deceased was born in Alabaster, October 12, 1874. She was united in marriage with Mr. Davison August 8, 1893. About a year ago she was attacked with that grim destroyer, consumption, and was a patient sufferer until death came to her relief. Besides her husband, she leaves three little children and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn her untimely death. The funeral services were held from St. Joseph's church, East Tawas, last Tuesday, Rev. Fr. Kinney officiating, and the remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery. ANDREW WEATHERWAX Died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alva Wood, in East Tawas, on Friday last, at the advanced age of 85 years. The deceased has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Wood since the death of his wife, which occurred about five years ago. Besides his daughter, Mrs. Wood, he leaves two sons and numerous other relatives. The funeral was conducted from the home Sunday, Rev. Sheldon officiating. SAMUEL PROPER Died at his home in Tawas township, Thursday, June 6, aged seventy-seven years. The funeral was held Sunday. Ready to Yield. They always yield to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits.

The Soldiers' Reunion. The committee who have in charge the arrangements for holding the annual reunion of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Association of Northern Michigan, are making extensive preparations for the occasion. The probability is that the reunion will be held the second week in September, and the encampment will be held on the fair grounds. It is expected that there will be several thousand people present during the three days of the meeting. The members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Womans Relief Corps, and of the Sons of Veterans, together with those who served in Cuba and the Phillipines, will comprise the guests of honor. This is the first opportunity that the people "on the shore" have had to entertain the Association, and the people of the Tawas and vicinity can display their patriotism by giving a royal welcome to the old boys in blue. The following have been named as the committee to solicit funds, etc., to entertain the reunion: East Tawas, J. G. Dimmick; Tawas City, J. M. Waterbury; Alabaster, J. H. White; Baldwin, F. H. Frasier; AuSable, R. A. Richards; Oscoda, James Quinn; Wilber, S. B. Thatcher; Tawas, M. McLeod and F. E. Hayes; Grant, John Searlett; Sherman, John Jordon and John Schneider; Reno, Chas. Thompson; Burleigh, Howard M. Belknap; Plainfield, David Love; Thompson, Thomas Tompson. We Celebrate. A number of our citizens met last Tuesday evening and decided to hold a celebration in this city July 4th. Sufficient funds have been subscribed and the necessary committees appointed to take charge of the arrangements. The program will be arranged, consisting of yacht races in the forenoon, base ball games and other athletic sports in the afternoon, and a big display of fireworks in the evening. Full particulars as to program will be given next week. Cards of Thanks. We desire to extend to the kind friends and neighbors, who gave us kind assistance and sympathy in our hour of trouble and sorrow by the death of our husband and father, our most sincere and heartfelt thanks, and to assure them that their kindness will ever be remembered and appreciated by us. MRS. H. A. WATTS, AND FAMILY. To the many friends and neighbors who have shown us so many acts of kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our wife and daughter, we desire to extend our most sincere thanks and appreciation. FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

The Story of a Coin Told by a Company of Narrators.

A game which can be made very interesting as well as amusing by any number of players is the one in which some piece of money is used, as a five cent piece. The players are seated in a row, and the coin is passed from one to another. The object of the play is to tell some funny story with which the coin is connected.

Before the first person begins his story a little time is given him to think of some way he may have secured the five cent piece. Many different ways may suggest themselves to him. He might have found it in some strange place, or he might have received it for some service.

When the first player has finished his story, he passes the coin on to the next, and that one tells of some experience. When all have related their stories, the leader of the game takes the coin and announces that since all of the players have seen the five cent piece they should know what words it bears upon its sides.

A chance is given each player to name as many words as he can, and the one guessing the greater number deserves the prize.

A Brave Act.

During the bombardment of Bomarsund by the British fleet in A. D. 1854 the forts were pouring a heavy fire on the British ships, among them being the Hecla. Suddenly with a roar a great shell crashed on to the Hecla's deck.

IT WAS INSTANTLY SEIZED BY MIDSHIPMAN LUCAS AND HURLED INTO THE SEA.

With great courage and presence of mind it was instantly seized with both hands by a midshipman named Lucas and hurled into the sea, where it exploded with a terrific roar.

For this brave act the midshipman was recommended for the Victoria cross when it was instituted, A. D. 1856. He was the first to obtain that distinction. He rapidly rose till he became Rear Admiral Lucas.—Chatterbox.

A Very Bad Habit.

When a boy breaks through the reserve which nature has given him and begins to bellow his mouth with bad language, he enters on a course that leads easily to destruction. Association with other boys at night without supervision helps on this evil way. Let's all get together in this community and stop the profanity. To do this we need the enforcement of the curfew law and the co-operation not only of the three great p's—"pulpit, press and police"—but of that still greater p, parents, and of the schoolteachers.—Indianapolis News.

A Boy's Definition of Peace.

"Can you tell me the meaning of the word peace?" asked Miss Gray of a little boy who had just recited a patriotic poem in which the word occurred.

"Peace means when you ain't got no children," answered the child.

"How is that?" asked Miss Gray. "When my mother has washed and dressed her six children for school in the morning, she says, 'Now I'll have peace.'"—Chicago Tribune.

A Lonesome Little Girl.

My mother is the prettiest thing; She still looks but a girl, folks say. I wish she was a girl, for then Together we could play!

I'm six years old—or will be soon— And I'm all the child she's got. And sometimes when 'tis lonely, why, I wish there was a lot!

For mother has to work so hard, A-dancing nights and pouring tea Each afternoon, she has no time To play and romp with me!

I wish some nights she'd stay at home And, when it's time to go to bed, She'd hear my prayers instead of nurse. Then when it's dark I'd have no dread.

If she'd just let me hold her hand, Her pretty hand with all its rings, And I can go right off to sleep If mother only sings!

But mother has no time, she says, To humor little girls, 'cos she Gets tired out with balls and things That keeps her up till three.

I hark each night for mother's step, And then I call out loud and clear, "Hope you'll have a lovely time," And "Good night, mother, dear!"

But when she's gone and down below I hear the carriage door slam to I feel so lonely I could cry, And sometimes, p'r'aps, I do. —D. Z. Doty.

CONDENSED STORIES.

How the Poets Differed in Judging Their Own Art.

Among the late Aubrey de Vere's reminiscences of the poets whom he had known there is one passage so characteristic of the different tastes of great writers that it is worth recalling: "Tennyson was enthusiastic for Burns. 'Read the exquisite songs of Burns,' he exclaimed. 'In shape each of them has the perfection of the berry, in light the radiance of the dewdrop. You forget for its sake those stupid things, his serious pieces!' The same day I met Wordsworth and named Burns to him. Wordsworth praised him even more vehemently than Tennyson had done, as the great genius who had brought poetry back to nature, but ended, 'Of course I refer to his serious efforts, such as 'The Cotter's Saturday Night.' Those foolish little amatory songs of his one has to forget.' I told the tale to Henry Taylor one evening, and his answer was, 'Burns' exquisite songs and Burns' serious efforts are to me alike tedious and disagreeable reading.' So much for the infallibility of poets in their own art."

Fools' Prosperity Disgusted Him.

Secretary Shaw is the story teller of the administration. He illustrates most of his propositions by anecdotes. A visitor was complaining of a man out west who had made a lot of money by accident and at the expense of worthier men. "It seems a shame that such an ass should get so rich," said the visitor.

"That reminds me," said the secretary, "of a man I heard of out in Iowa. He was playing seven up one night with some friends, and, although he was a good seven up player, he could not win a game. He sat for two hours and stewed and fumed and lost steadily. Finally he threw down his cards in disgust and said, 'The most alarming tendency of the signs of the times is the enormous prosperity of dog-gone fools,' and walked out of the room."—Washington Post.

His Lordship Was Smuggled.

Sir Barrington Beaumont's memoirs, recently published, tell the following: "I recollect a discussion between a Scotch lord and Lady Clermont as to the merits of the other side of the border. 'How is it,' said she, 'that the Scots who leave Scotland are usually men of more ability than those who remain at home?' 'Ah, madam,' he responded, with an effort at persiflage, 'the reason is obvious. At every outlet there are persons stationed to examine all who pass, that, for the honor of the country, no one be permitted to leave it who is not a man of understanding.' 'I suppose, then,' murmured George Selwyn to me, 'his lordship must have been smuggled.'"

Ashes and Salt For Swine.

I have been in the hog business for the past thirty-three years, and it has always been my practice to try to keep salt and ashes where my hogs could help themselves, says L. L. Frost. I think one part salt to nine parts ashes about the right mixture. I have sometimes burned old rails, corncocks, etc., until thoroughly charred, then salt it slightly and throw water on it and let the hogs eat the charcoal. I practice this only when feeding hogs for the market. I have never seen any bad results from feeding ashes to hogs, but think the best way is to keep them where the hogs can help themselves at all times.

Don't Lose Your Head.

In the matter of crop area, the tendency this season is to go beyond conservative limits, particularly in the specialties, such as field beans and onions in the east and flaxseed in the northwest. High prices sometimes cause the generally conservative farmer to lose his head. Don't expect to make a fortune out of a field of onions unless you follow up to date methods in cultivating and handling this crop. Little danger, however, of growing too much field corn.

Seed Corn Tests.

The Illinois Agricultural college is testing seed corn free for the farmers of the state. Every institution of the kind in the corn belt, including Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, ought to do this. It gives the student some practical work to do and will result in better crops. Enterprise in college work is always commendable.

For Rainy Days.

Every farm should have a woodshop that may be profitably occupied on rainy days. It is better also to have a blacksmith's outfit. Then, if the farmer or any one of his boys has enough mechanical talent to make a hoe handle, he can soon learn to do all the plain repairing required on a farm.

Drought Predicted.

The St. Louis Journal of Agriculture advises farmers of the middle west to prepare for another drought and says that the weather up to date has been unfavorable to crops throughout that section. It is always wise to be prepared for drought or floods or any possible contingency.

SHIRT WAISTS AND BLOUSES

They Are Studied In Themselves and Must Be Fitted With Care.

How the separate waist has altered during the past few years! Nowadays the cult of the shirt waist and the blouse presents a study in itself, and the dressmaker who can make a perfect blouse can fit the most intricate bodice. The ideal blouse this summer must be cut by a master hand. The shirt waist does not require so much work. It can be charming of wash silk, flannel mixtures, lawn and batiste, pliques and zephyrs and in the fantastic muslins which are beloved by French manufacturers. The shirt waist can be simple, and the deficiencies may be hidden by a large fichu or muslin collar, which can be bought ready made for almost nothing in extremely pretty designs.

The blouse and the shirt waist are very distinctive details of fashion, and therefore it is worth every woman's while to carefully consider the same and not take upon herself lightly the task of making a blouse. First she must get a strictly good pattern and invest a fair sum in the purchasing of one pretty model.

The smart collar illustrated is of cream chiffon edged with narrow black velvet and trimmed with black lace applique figures.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE ECONOMICAL GIRL.

With a System of Separate Slips She Can Have Many Gowns.

An economical way for a woman to dress is to choose one or two colors and adhere to them. For instance, she may choose black and white, with faint touches of the pastel tints.

First, she will provide herself with a separate black silk and a separate white silk slip, cut, boned and fitted correctly with a well hanging train. Over the white slip she can wear a cream spotted net gown with a puffed blouse and a wide collar. Then she can have a couple of muslins, one green and white, the other pink and white, made with shaped ruffles and smart girdles. Thirdly, she can have a black net covered with incrustations of white lace.

Over the black slip she can wear a black point d'esprit dress, a pale blue and black lace gown and a pompadour muslin black with pink and pale green roses. Separate slips are a great saving and enable a woman to have a great many more gowns than she would otherwise be able to afford.

The chic little blue jacket shown is made of pale blue satin ribbons and ecru lace. The lines of the ribbon and insertion are made to take the form of a bolero, low under the arms and high in the back and front.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant, of Merry Oaks, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail. One of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave me immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is 'good.' I cheerfully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid.
