Such a table is very inexpensive, very easily made, but very pretty, and when spread with all the bottles, brushes, boxes, pincushion, trays, etc., pleases the most fastidious woman fully as well as if she had spent four as well as if she had spent four times its cost on a black walnut importation or a snowy enamel one in the latest design.

The cheapness of it will not detract from, but, on the contrary, with any sensible woman will enhance, the appreciation of this toilet adjunct to the up to date dressing room.

Magazine Holder.

A common wire toaster is sometimes used for a magazine holder. It is first painted with the diamond gold paint; then ribbon is woven through the spaces across the front and to the middle of the back, where the ends of each piece are neatly joined. Blue and white ribbons alternating till the spaces are filled make a pretty contrast with the gold wires. The shorter handle of the toaster is bent down inside the case, and the long one is used to hang it by. As the ribbons are wholesome respect. > A Dainty Article. A carnation penwiper, which is easily made, is a dainty article. It consists of a flower and bud of pink cloth and two green cloth leaves attached to a stem, the leaves being larger than the natural foliage of the carnation. The carnation itself is made like the paper ones, a strip of pink cloth being notched and rolled up and a cloth calyx put on. The bud consists of a bit of notched pink cloth rolled up and a calvx attached to that also. A thick green silk wire forms the stems of bud and flower, double green leaves to serve as a penwiper being attached to the wire stem.

Blackstock -- McDougald.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season occured at the Baptist church, in Rene, on Wednesday evening, July 30th, when James S. Blackstock, of Montana, was united in marriage to Miss Sarah McDougald. of Reno. Rev. Waterbury, of this city officiating, while Mrs. A. Dodder presided at the organ. Neil and Jeanet McDougald, brother and sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and and groomsman, and the flower girls were former pupils of the bride.

After the ceremony the company were served with light refreshments.

The presents were many and serviceable and were a slight token of the high esteem in which the happy couple were held by their many friends. They left Thursday morning for a short honeymoon through Canada. They will return to Reno before leaving for Montana.

The Supervisors.

A special session of the board of Supervisors convened at the court house Monday forenoon at 10 o'clock and adjourned Tuesday afternoon. The most important matter considered was bills for smallpox and other contagious diseases. There were bills to the amount of nearly $1,300 for the care of smallpox patients. Of this amount Sherman township had nearly $1,100, Burleigh about $175 East Tawas about $125, and Tawas City $25. The general belief of the board and with the public at large is, that these bills are nnjust, yet under the law and the decisions of the supreme court there is almost no chance to avoid their payment, when certified to by the board of health of the city or township wherein the contageon existed. The board cut bills wherever they believed them excessive, and also took steps necessary to recover the amount from the parties afflicted if there is any take Parely vegetable. They never the Spanish ship Antonio Lopez, off possible manner to do so.

The remarkable feature of the matter is the fact that there are people who are able to pay their own bills yet have so little respect as to allow them to be paid by the county, practically proclaming themselves paupers. The board believes that there is redress against such people and instructed the prosecuting attorney to begin suits to recover the amounts from all who are responsible.

Under the present conditions it becomes absolutely necessary for not only this, but other counties, to make next Sunday, the pastor preaching at some effort to stop the raids on the county treasury to meet bills for contageous diseases, and if the efforts of this county prove successful in secur- day she boasts of her 2,500. They ing restribution for these bills there can be no little doubt as to the beneficial results.

Full proceedings of the board will appear in the next issue of the HERALD, and should be carefully read by all.

NEW SHOPLIFTING TRICK.

A detective in one of the large Paris shops was recently struck by the singular actions of a young woman who carried a baby in her arms. The infant's head was covered by a shawl, one corner of which fell over the face and completely concealed it. The young woman pushed through the dense crowd and now and then, when she thought she was not observed, picked up some small object and slipped it under the shawl.

The detective stepped up to her and with truly Parisian politeness

"Madame, is it not very imprudent to bring so young an infant into such a crowd?"

As he spoke he threw back the shawl that covered the child's face. Then he experienced a shock. The baby was made of sheet zinc and formed a very convenient receptacle for stolen goods.

The Harp of the Mosquito.

The members of the Royal Society of Edinburgh were interested at a recent meeting in the announcement of Messrs. A. E. Shipley and Edwin Wilson of the discovery of an apparatus heretofore overlooked or neglected at the base of the mosquito's wings whereby the characteristic humming of that insect may be produced. The species examined was the Anopheles maculipennis, and the apparatus consists of a slightly movable bar provided with a series of well marked teeth which as the wings are raised and lowered rasp across a series of ridges. The structure of the apparatus is described as very complex, but the music produced, as everybody knows, is extremely effective.

[Special Correspondence.]

The presidential parrot objects to he remodeling of the White House. When the workmen assaulted the roof of the conservatory and began removing the glass, the bird became wrathy and abused the mechanics. She has a fluent vocabulary of vituperation, but her choicest epithets were learned in Cuba and are expressed in elegant Castilian, so that the finer feelings of the workmen were not too much shacked. Still at every unpleasant noise Polly vociferated, "Shut up!"

Finally the bird took to careering through the conservatory and frequently-in its rage biting off the smaller branches of the plants. She was captured and tethered by a short string to a remote perch. Polly seemed to be humiliated, as heretofore she has had the free range of the conservatory. After she became a chained prisoner her vivacity deserted her.

When strangers approached, no violent language was used. Polly hid her head under her wing or drooped it between her feet and simply muttered her wrath. This parrot is a native Cuban and was sent to President Rooseyelt about six months ago.

A Tumble.

Everybody knows the story in "The Texas Steer" of the applicant for office who began by living at the finest.hotels and smoking twenty-five cent cigars and finally landed in the cheapest joint that he could find. The story is very nearly duplicated by the case of a witness before one of the senate committees who came here from California. He traveled in style and upon arriving in Washington secured the most expensive quarters at a fashionable hotel. He drew $170 for mileage and expenses and proceeded to have a good time while he waited for the committee to examine him. Presently, however, his money was all gone. He appealed to the senate officials in vain for another advance and then discovered that his daily expenses were about three times as much as the government would allow him. The rapidity with which that witness gave up his expensive quarters and sought a small back room in a cheap lodging house was a caution.

Solid Old Floors.

"The tearing up of the floors of the east room of the White House preparatory to the improvements in the building has uncovered many indications of the age of the building," said an attache of the executive mansion. "For instance, the planks of the floor of the east room must have been put down many years ago, and I don't suppose that new flooring has ever been put in. The flooring was held to the big girders by means of iron cleats, which somewhat resemble a formidable modern nail. The head is like that of a railroad spike, but the body is rather slender. There is no doubt that they were put in to stay and to hold the flooring. In other parts of the east room have been found handmade nails. The present generation does not know how a handmade nail looks. There is a great demand for souvenirs from the work in the east room, but the foreman will not allow anything to be taken away."

The President Off Duty.

The president will not go away from Oyster Bay for any considerable length of time until the last of August, when he will visit Maine and New England states. In September he will be on railroad trains a good deal and also in October. His vacation, with the exception of a few weeks early in September, will practically come to an end the last of August.

Mayor William C. Maybury of Detroit, accompanied by Senator McMillan, saw the president the other day and completed arrangements for the visit of the latter to Detroit upon the occasion of the convention of the Spanish war veterans in that city in September. The president will arrive in Detroit Sunday morning, Sept. 21, going there direct from Cincinnati, which city he will visit Sept. 20. The president will remain in Detroit until Monday afternoon, the 22d. He will review the parade of the Spanish war veterans and has promised to address the convention.

The Missing Word.

Mr. Loudenslager of New Jersey wanted to put some lettering on the door of his committee room on pensions. The house carpenter had just hung two fine swinging mahogany screen doors, such as all the other chairmen of committees are having, and the house painter was then called in. The doors were not broad enough name. On the left door the painter inscribed, "Com. on" and then went away to lunch.

Scores of people stared at the peculiar words. They thought it might be "come on" and were wondering whether a green goods man had been established inside or whether it was some sort of a hospitable invitation to

Later the painter returned from his lunch, and on the other door he wrote another word, which gave the sentence a different turn. It then read, "Com. on Pensions."

Congressional Changes.

New faces will be numerous in the next house delegation from New York. Three veterans, all good business men -Mr. Stewart, a member of the District committee; Mr. Emerson and Mr. Littauer-were thrown into one congressional district by the Empire State legislature.

Emerson, who is the wit of the New York contingent, and Stewart have yielded. They will return to their large manufacturing enterprises. Mr. Littauer, the head of the great establishwill have the nomination.
