It is given out from Washington that the trusts have withdrawn their objections to President Roosevelt's determination to have congress pass some law regulating their existence, and will consent to some mild legislation. Peat promises to become a standard fuel in the near future. After undergoing certain treatment it becomes equal to coal as a fuel, and can be manufactured to be sold as cheaply or cheaper than coal. In this connection it would be a wise plan for someone to secure the large acreage of peat lands in Iosco county and engage in what promises to be a most profitable business in the near future.

A Blow at Divorce.

The United States supreme court again passed upon the validity of the divorces granted in South Dakota to non-residents. The case was that of Annie Andrews vs. Kate H. Andrews and the question at issue as to which is entitled to administer the estate of Chas. Andrews whom both ladies claimed as husband.

The records showed that Mrs. Kate Andrews was the first wife and that her husband secured a divorce in South Dakota after remaining there six months, the time required by the statute of that state. The Massachusetts courts held that the decree had been fraudulently secured and refusing to recognize it, recognized the first wife as the legal widow of the deceased Mr. Andrews.

That was the holding of the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts and the opinion, which was delivered by Justice White, affirmed that holding. He said that Andrews's residence in the state of South Dakota did not constitute legal domicile.

The case arose out of the fact that Mr. Andrews's father, Chas. H. Andrews bequeathed certain property to "the wife of my son, Chas. S. Andrews." Justices Brewer, Shiras and Peckham dissented.

On Worthless Land.

A Lansing dispatch says John Carter, formerly of Chicago, who recently purchased several townships in Roscommon county, and is after more, says that he will place 10,000 head of cattle, sheep and Angora goats on that land within a short time. He brought with him three sugar beets raised on so-called worthless Roscommon county pine barren last year. These weighed an aggregate of 16 pounds and showed 18 per cent of sugar.

Railroad Casualties.

The interstate commerce commission has prepared a statement which shows that during the three months ending Sept. 30, 1902, there were 263 persons killed and 2,613 injured in train accidents. Other kinds of accidents, including those sustained by employes while at work and by passengers in getting on or off the cars, etc., bring the total number of casualties up to 12,007, the killed numbering 845 and the injured 11,162.

The total number of collisions and derailments was 2,448, of which 1,444 were collisions and 1,014 derailments affected passenger trains. The damage to cars, engines and roadway by the accidents amounted to $2,198,500.

Coal Mine in His Cellar.

Dr. R. J. Smith is peculiarly and happily situated as to securing a supply of anthracite coal. In making investigations lately as to his fuel supply the doctor found it almost exhausted, and incidentally in looking around his cellar noticed coal cropping out of the sand bottom. A screen was procured and the sand sifted, soon netting him a scuttle of coal, and although he does not imagine that he has struck a vein of coal, it is still yielding the doctor a scuttle of coal at a time by patient sifting.—Port Austin News.

Road Commissioner.

At the coming spring election there will be a member of the county road commissioners to be elected in place of James Quinn, whose term expires. We understand that Mr. Quinn will not be a candidate for re-election.

The selection of a man to fill the position should be carefully considered, by both parties before they meet in convention, and men nominated, not because they are entitled to recognition at the hands of their party, but because of their business ability and good judgment. After the nominations are made the voters should not vote for either because they are the nominee of any political party, but because of their ability to fill the position for which they are candidates.

Men should be chosen who are interested in the building up of our county, and not because the salary of the office will be a help to their financial condition. A commission of successful business men, who have heavy business interests in the county, would make practical men for the position.

The time is at hand where the question of better roads is of vital importance to Ioseco county. The farmers should realize that good roads mean more to them than anyone else. Good roads not only save horseflesh and vehicles, but increases the amount of produce which the farmer can take to market, and increase his profits accordingly.

The sugar beet raising is destined to become the leading farm industry of our county, and the question of getting the product to the factory or shipping points means much to the farmer. Be his haul short or long, the larger the load he is able to deliver, the less time consumed, the larger his profit.

The question of road improvement does not rest at the present time nearly so much with the county road commission as with our townships. The selection of township highway commissioners and path-masters should receive careful attention from the voters next April, and none but careful, competent men should be chosen.

Every dollar spent on the highways should be honestly spent, and all work done in a practical way. Money spent, as the larger portion of the highway funds of this and many other counties, has been spent in years gone by, has not been honestly spent, and has been worse than thrown away. It is time to quit such useless expenditure and make an effort to accomplish something in the way of building permanent roads in a practical manner.

Local Notices.

There is a class who think that advertising is inserted more to fill up space, and they consider that the publisher of a local paper should be grateful for the church notices they contribute.

It seems singular that many persons entertain the idea that newspapers are printed entirely for philanthropic motives and that their columns should be devoted to their especial benefit.

They enter a newspaper office and place their notices of church fairs, festivals and other entertainments on the editor's table with as much grace as though they were tendering a twenty dollar bill.

We know of no profession where there is so much liberality shown as in the newspaper business and so little appreciated by those who receive gratuitous favors at the editor's hands.—Cambridge (Mass.) Times.

The publisher sells the space in his paper just as a merchant would dispose of his wares, and reading notices are received at a higher rate than displayed advertising, there being no bargain days in a newspaper office.

But it is not the news which supports the newspaper, and the actual returns from sales are but poor remuneration for the time and patience devoted to it; therefore the revenue received which sustains the plant is derived through its advertising patronage.

In nine cases out of ten these notices which benign brothers and sisters read are really nothing more or less than advertising matter, for which they ask publication without cost, while they at the same time derive a revenue by this method of reaching people.

The up-to-date local paper employ a staff of men to collect news which will be of interest to all classes. These men are hustlers, know their business thoroughly and present the news in the most concise and condensed form possible.

Instead of the publisher being dependent on personal or communicated matter to fill his columns, he is frequently at his wits' end as to how he shall contrive to find space for legitimate local news. He is obliged to cull material furnished by his newsgathers and present to the public what will be of greatest interest to all.—Ec

A United Church.

As the result of an amicable agreement between the Congregational and Presbyterian societies of this place, who have been conducting their church services and Sunday school as one congregation during the past two years, an old fashioned tea-meeting and friendly gathering was had at the church on Wednesday evening of this week, and after an informal supper and good time generally, the method of conducting the work of the two societies for the future was discussed.

The meeting was pretty fully attended by members from both congregations, and the plans for the future, both financial and otherwise, carefully and candidly talked over.

Several things were very evident and plain to all, viz: that neither congregation could go it alone, and neither when working in union with the other could ask or receive from the Missionary boards of their respective bodies any financial help when necessary, and the Congregational society did not feel like undertaking the responsibility of providing the pastor's salary and the expenses of the work on their side, even though the Presbyterians offered their joint and individual help and support as in the past, and offered to become members of the church, whatever it might be called or termed; yet the Congregational society owned the church. This being the situation the Presbyterian society then asked that, if they take over the work, the church should be conducted as a Presbyterian church, and under the parentage of that body, and the Congregationalists join with them and unite in the work.

After a full discussion, a motion embodying this arrangement was made by W. F. Whittemore, speaking for the Congregational side of the meeting, and was carried without a dissenting vote. It was decided that the church building be rented to the Presbyterians, and the rent be devoted to repairs and improvement of the property.

It was generally believed by those present that the work could, and would, be better carried on by one society as a single church, instead of by two with a union service, and as the Presbyterians were willing and ready to take the responsibility and shoulder the work, that the other society and members could best aid in the work by becoming members of that church and the two finally becoming one united society, entitled to and receiving the recognition, support and help of the Presbyterian mission board when needed, and a part of that body.

After the meeting an informal friendly conference was held among the members and over $50 subscribed for a new carpet for the church. The outlook for church and Sunday school work was never brighter than at the present time.

The wireless telephone invented by Ruhmer, of Berlin, has recently been successfully operated over a distance of 10 miles. The Japanese and Their Fans.

To the Japanese the fan is not merely a means to the end of cooling the atmosphere. It is a thing of meaning, of art. It tells a story, and there is even a suggestiveness in the manner of using or wearing it. The whole history of Japan could be read from fans if enough of them were put together, and every political event of importance is pictured on these airy trifles. There are different fans for every conceivable occasion. Even dolls have their own fans, and children have theirs. The geisha girls have a particular kind of fan, and jugglers, too, use one with appropriate decorations. There is a fan used only at the solemn tea feast, and a war fan of iron, covered with lacquer. Generals have silk fans, with iron sticks, and there is a dangerous dagger fan. The bamboo water fan is dipped in water frequently while being used to make the air cooler. The ancient court fans of Japan were folding fans of wood, decorated with silk artificial flowers, and each noble family had its own flower, that no one else dared use. Color, shape and decoration of the Japanese fan all have their meaning, the flowers and birds their symbolism. Thus to give a fan with a flight of white storks upon it is to wish long life, while a cobweb design is for mourning.

The Way People Sit.

It is one thing to have a chair and another to know how to sit on it. The ideal of a graceful sitting posture has varied in the different ages of the world. The Egyptians sat bolt upright, the knees and feet closely pressed together. It was the ceremonial attitude. The Greeks and Romans, when their seats had no backs and they were at liberty to forget their dignity, sat stooping, with one or both elbows supported by the arms. The Chinese ideal was the knees and feet wide apart. They have maintained that attitude in sitting for 4,000 years. The Saxons and early Norman kings are represented in old manuscripts and on coins in the same position. Down to a date comparatively recent kings and queens received sitting stiffly on their thrones, any marked change of posture being thought to derogate from the royal dignity. They now receive standing.

Illustrating the Solar System.

The solar system is well illustrated by the following statements: Let the sun be represented by a globe two feet in diameter. A grain of mustard seed at the circumference of a circle 164 feet in diameter will adequately represent the size and distance of Mercury. The earth will be represented by a pea on the circumference of a circle 284 feet across, and Venus by another pea on the outside of a 430 foot circle. Mars will be adequately represented by a pinhead at 654 feet, and the asteroids by grains of sand 1,000 to 1,200 feet away. An orange at the distance of half a mile will stand for Jupiter, a very small apple at four-fifths of a mile will stand for Saturn and a cherry on the circumference of a circle 1 1/2 miles across will represent Uranus.

It Didn't Work.

In his lecture "Love, Courtship and Marriage," delivered in the Lebanon Valley College chapel several years ago, Rev. John De Witt Miller of Philadelphia said that men should kiss their wives as they did when they were a year or two married. When the lecture was over an old man went home, put his arm around his wife's neck and kissed her. Meeting the lecturer some time after, he said, "It's no go." "What isn't?" said the lecturer. "Vel," said the man, "ven I kissed my wife she said, 'Vat's gone wrong mit you, you outt fool, you?'"

Deadly Prussic Acid.

Prussic acid is composed of such things as animal refuse and blood solids, with large quantities of oil of vitriol. Even the smell of the acid produces pain in the throat and in the region of the heart, and there are few poisons for which there is such little opportunity for an antidote. If there is time—and there seldom is, for the poison is almost instantaneous in its action—ammonia inhaled very freely may give relief and reduce the absolute certainty of death to a grave probability.

A useful compendium of sporting statistics is the "Police Gazette Sporting Annual" for 1903. It contains the records of all the prominent pugilists, athletic, bicycle and rowing records, including all the principal features in the trotting and racing world and history of the yacht races for the America's cup. It is a veritable encyclopedia of sporting information, profusely illustrated and sells for ten cents.

The suits instituted by order of the board of supervisors, to recover the amount paid by the county for the maintenance of parties under quarantine with smallpox, in Sherman township, last spring, came up before Justice Kelly last Tuesday. There were ten cases, three of which were adjourned, and judgements rendered in the other seven, in favor of the county. There is some talk of an appeal to the circuit court being taken on the part of the defendants. This would be a good move as it would undoubtedly settle the question as to the ability of counties to recover in such cases. There are a number of suits yet to be commenced, and if a test case is now made the question fully settled it will be a saving to both the county and the parties interested.

We always like to see a farmer or a horseman drive up to a hitching-post these winter days, jump out of the rig, unfold a big warm blanket and carefully cover his faithful horse. There is a big heart in that man. He is thinking of something else besides himself, and he takes as much pleasure in caring for his horse's comfort as for himself. On the other hand, it makes us sad to see a great big man, warmly clad from head to foot, drive a steaming horse up to the rack, hastily tie him fast, leave him shivering, and make for the nearest hot stove. There is something wrong about this fellow. He may be a nice man, belong to the church, may not swear, smoke nor have any bad habits, but he has no feelings for a dumb animal.—La Moure County Chronicle.
