The SPORTING WORLD PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Fournier's New Racing Auto.

In his new 120 horsepower Mors racing car, constructed in the shape of a boat, with one seat on the rear axle, Henry Fournier, the most daring perhaps of the world's chauffeurs, expects to travel a single mile in thirty seconds and to go for an hour or a day at the same rate.

Fournier will fly over the road at the rate of 106 miles in an hour. He will go from Paris to Bordeaux in only a little over three hours. Crouched low upon his machine, well hidden from the wind, this daredevil of the road will fly like a streak of light from start to finish. In 1901 the international cup race was run to Bordeaux, and the course was covered by Fournier, who won the contest, in 6h. 11m. 44s., an average speed of about fifty-three miles an hour. It is believed that that terrific gait will be doubled this year.

Fournier recently gave the first reliable information which has been received in this country regarding the course for the international race. He said:

"The Paris-Madrid course has been decided upon for the contest as far as Bordeaux, 327 1/4 miles in all. I have been nominated to represent France and will probably have as mates the Farman brothers, Rene de Knyff, who was in the race last year, and Charron, who won it the first year, will not take part this season.

"I will use my 120 horsepower boat shaped vehicle, weighing less than the one ton limit, and will continue on to Madrid in the main race. I will ride a mile in forty seconds in this race."

Hockey For Athletic Girls.

Two generations ago the solemn daily walk, in double file, represented the whole of the outdoor exercise permitted to the pupils of the fashionable "seminary for young ladies." The very utmost to which a girl could aspire then, when she came "out," was archery.

But all that has been changed. Lawn tennis, golf, bicycling and hockey have successively insinuated themselves into the young woman's curriculum, with effects which are strikingly apparent in the stature, complexion and nervous stability of the rising generation of girls.

The last game to be admitted within the pale has been hockey. This is in many ways a great advance upon any previous concession, especially from the point of view of influence upon character. Tennis, golf and cycling are purely individual amusements, in which the girl primarily has to consider her own interests. In hockey she is no longer an individual with individual interests, but a member of a side to which all individualism must be subordinated and sacrificed.

Big Summer Meeting.

The Columbus (O.) Driving association, which was given the week of Sept. 21 in the grand circuit, has decided to give a summer meeting July 13 to 17, inclusive, the week preceding the opening of the grand circuit at Detroit.

About $30,000 will be hung up in stakes and purses. There will be six early closing stakes of $100 each, three for trotters and three for pacers. There will also be ten purses for pacers and nine for trotters of $100 each.

Quaker Ball Tossers.

The University of Pennsylvania has adopted its baseball schedule, but it will not be given out until approved by the athletic association. It is almost certain, however, that there will be two games with Yale, two with Harvard and one with Princeton. No successor to Roy Thomas to coach the candidates has been selected.

Mysterious Circumstance.

One was pale and sallow and the other fresh and rosy. Whence the difference? She who is blushing with health uses Dr. King's New Life Pills to maintain it. By gently arousing the lazy organs they compel good digestion and head off constipation. Try them. Only 25c, at J. E. Dillon and Dr. Darling, Druggists.

A Veteran Who Will Retire.

Galusha A. Grow entered congress in 1851, retired in 1863, re-entered it in 1894, and at the rare age of eighty, still young in heart and possessed of remarkable mental and physical vigor, he will retire from congress on the 4th day of next March, having entered public life fifty-two years ago. He was twenty-seven years of age when he entered congress in 1851. The days were pregnant with peril. The most "starting drama of all national life" was just beginning. The fight over the repeal of the Missouri compromise was near at hand. When President Lincoln called the Thirty-seventh congress together in special session in 1861, Galusha Grow was chosen speaker. An appropriation of $500,000, passed in less than fifteen minutes, was the unparalleled record made by that congress.

The enactment of the homestead law was due to Galusha Grow's intelligent and ceaseless efforts and is the proudest achievement of his useful life. There can be no question as to the paternity of "Homestead Bill." Galusha A. Grow, although a bachelor, is the happy father of that wholesome child. He conceived the bill. He introduced it into congress. He fought its battles for ten years on the floor of the house. He signed the bill as speaker of the Thirty-seventh congress, and by the signature of Abraham Lincoln it became a law. Nearly 90,000,000 acres of public domain have been permanently occupied under the homestead law, making about 670,000 entries, and the beneficiaries number over 7,000,000.

Maude Gonno to Wed.

Maude Gonno, the "Irish Joan of Arc," and John McBride, the organizer and leader of the Irish brigade in the Boer war, are soon to be married at Paris.

The match is an ideal one when the characters and the history of Major McBride and Miss Gonno are considered. Marriages of this kind do not take place more than once in a century, and hence the engagement of the two Irish enthusiasts—the one a brave soldier, the other a beautiful heiress—is an announcement of unusual interest.

Miss Gonno inherited the wealth of her father, who was a rich colonel of dragons in the British army. She was born in Dublin castle, and before her conversion to the cause of Ireland she was the pet of the viceregal set in Dublin society. One day she saw an eviction, and the sight so vividly impressed her that thenceforth she swore to live only for the uplifting of the Irish people and the righting of their wrongs.

Major McBride lives in Paris. He was one of the conspicuous figures of the Boer war. He organized the redoubtable Irish brigade and fought with Joubert before Ladysmith.

Marshall Field, the Chicago merchant and capitalist, will give $10,000,000 for a museum to be erected on the lake front in that city.

Militia reports from various states, show an aggregate of 118,259 commissioned officers and enlisted men organized, and 10,853,396 men on whom the country can call in an emergency, not in any organization.

Ninety-five per cent of mortgages, as shown by the census, are made in order to increase the original holding of property or to raise money for business operations, and but five per cent are because of threatened disaster.

Representative Goldfogle, of New York has introduced a bill to prohibit the use or keeping of explosive matches, commonly called parlor matches, in any government building. A fine of $250 or six month's imprisonment is provided.

Senator Hanna's pet measure, the ship subsidy bill, was killed Monday, when the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries refused to report the same to house. There will be few mourners aside from the steamboat companies.

During the past year on all railroads of the United States 167 persons were killed in railroad accidents and 3,586 passengers were injured. During the same period on British roads not a single passenger was killed and only 476 were injured in railroad accidents.

Third Assistant Postmaster-General Madden Saturday announced that the two-cent postage stamp of the new series is generally unsatisfactory in appearance both to the postoffice department and the bureau of engraving and printing and a new design for this stamp has been ordered. The issuance of the present stamp will be continued until the new design is out.

Eight hundred sixty-seven students have been enrolled in the law department of the University of Michigan this semester. In addition of those there are twenty-five "six-year students" who are taking the combined literary-law course. This brings the total almost to the nine hundred mark, and makes it the highest in the history of the law department, and the highest enrollment of any law school in the country.

The legislature has begun tinkering the liquor law, with the object in view to strengthen the bonds given by saloon keepers. Representative Holmes of Gratiot has introduced a bill requiring all sureties on liquor bonds to file a statement with the common councils of city and trustees of villages showing that they own property worth $3,000 over and above all claims for debts. It also provides that whenever a bondsman dies or becomes insolvent or moves from the town in which the saloon is located the saloonkeeper shall furnish new bonds. The present law does not provide for compelling a saloonist to furnish a new bond under the conditions mentioned. A similar bill was introduced in the senate by Senator Glasgow of Hastings.

It seems incredible that so many victims should have been found throughout the country for the latest form of the "get-rich-quick" swindle. Despite the wide publicity given to the Franklin syndicate graft and other similar schemes, there were thousands ready to bite on the turf investment hook, baited with seductive promises of 2 per cent a week in dividends. Such earnings are absolutely impossible by honest methods, and the average running race pool room is not run on honest methods. It may safely be assumed that any other "investment" promising 2 per cent per week is not honestly conducted, and that the sharpers who make such promises intend to gull those foolish enough to entrust their savings to them.

From Our Travelers.

MALVERN, ARK., Feb. 21, 1903.

Mr. Editor:—Some of your readers may be interested to know of the welfare of two very weary persons who left Tawas City last Wednesday evening. Our ride to Bay City and stay at the station were cheered by the presence and converse of a very dear friend—Hon. G. A. Prescott, whose breadth of sympathy and largeness of heart are well known to so many. The ride to Flint was without incident to be named, but the five hours wait there, with lights extinguished, was more dreary than cheerful, and not eminently promotive of rest. Our vision from Flint to Detroit was limited to the inside of the car, chiefly by the heavy frost curtain which hung persistently over each pane, with but the dimmest relief to a few eyes in favored positions.

By the lateness of the Wabash train—which was reported "in the river" soon after our arrival, and after waiting some three-quarters of an hour in the cold west wind, after the crier had announced the train ready for passengers—we left Detroit for St. Louis, Mo., an hour or more late. Inside the car our comfort soon returned. A coating of frost on the north windows both dimmed and limited the view in that direction, but the southerly view was not obscured. The day was mostly clear and bright.

Our loss of an hour was not retrieved so we entered St. Louis thus late, but in time to board the train for Malvern. Once here greetings began. Brother C. W. Story was first in view with a helping hand and a horse and buggy in the rear. Other brethren were close by, but a dozen or so of the sisters were held back by the reported lateness of the train, and did not arrive at the train, though some of them greeted us on the way to our brother's home. Thus our journey was ended and our rest begun.

Rains were abundant here while snow was falling in the north, causing the low ground to be flooded, and the streams to be higher than for ten years previous. Streaks and patches of snow were visible, but are fast disappearing. The mercury has been one, two or three degrees above zero at the lowest. This morning is clear and bright, the ground slightly frozen, but in an hour the sun will remove all the efforts of the night's chill. The day is delightful with mercury at 61° at noon. Gardening is usually begun here earlier than this.

Many who knew of Mrs. Story's prolonged illness in early winter, will be pleased to know of her continued improvement, though her strength is not regained in full.

One thing wherein we taking new lessons, is that the Christian heart is large enough to take in with warm and true affection, new spiritual acquaintances, without the least displacement of the ties long established and fully proven by gracious testimonies.

Thus we have finally come in touch with our work in these new surroundings when we have great need of the Divine guidance and blessing, if we are not to labor in vain, and such help is given in answer to the earnest prayers of the spiritually minded. The intercession of those we request.

Very Truly,
A. WATERBURY.

One has but to step into a country store and nose around a little to discover that there is a lot of very poor butter marketed by farmers. Poor brings less than good butter but still there is far less variation in price than in butter; perhaps less than there should be.

It isn't generally understood in Michigan that a farmer living on a rural delivery route can write a letter to a neighbor living upon the same route, stamp it and place it in his box and the carrier will deliver it without first taking it to the post-office. The carrier has the legal right to cancel stamps.

A Boston paper says a reviewer in a recent notice of a new dictionary wrote: "Even a hasty perusal will reveal the impossibility of finding words adequate to describe this work."

Somebody has said that there are only 27 original jokes. After this however, we think it will be admitted by all fair-minded people that there are at least 28.

The residence of Mrs. Cornelius O'Brien, of Alpena was discovered to be on fire last Monday night, and her youngest daughters, Esther and Kate, had a very narrow escape from death, the bed which they were sleeping being on fire when they were awakened. They escaped with only slight burns. The house was saved with only light damages.

Dr. C. A. Wakeman was called to Black River Tuesday, where he, assisted by Dr. Forbes, performed an operation on the 7-year-old daughter of Joseph Liberty, who was accidentally shot in the leg a few weeks ago. It was found necessary to make a resection of the shin bone, to avoid amputation, and the prospects of a successful operation are most flattering.

Spring elections are drawing near, but as yet little interest is shown in this city. Careful selection for city officials should be made this year, as we are now where the future of our city needs men of judgement, and men who have the best interests of our city at heart, and who will devote the time necessary to attend to the affairs of the municipality.

A mass convention of the democrats of Ioseo county has been called for Saturday, March 7, at the court house in this city, to nominate a candidate for road commissioner, a school commissioner, and to elect four delegates to the state convention. Every elector of the county, who subscribes to the democratic platform is invited to be present and take part in the proceedings.

P. A. Myers, representing the Consolidated Pub. Co., of Minneapolis, has been in the city this week, canvassing the matter of the publication of a county atlas. The work is one of the finest in this line that we have ever examined and would prove of great value if published. The question of its publication rest entirely on the question as to whether sufficient subscriptions can be secured to insure the expenses. The enterprise should receive every encouragement.

C. V. Hicks, Pianos and Organs.

The republican county convention will convene next Monday for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for county road commissioner. Who this will be appears to be an open question, as there are no active candidates. It is hoped that the convention will exercise judgement in their choice, and not simply nominate a man because he is entitled to something, and they have not got anything else to throw his way.

Wm. Hurstrom, better known by his acquaintances as "Silver," who was taken to Marquette last week suffering from a gall stone ailment, underwent surgical operation on Friday of last week, and died Thursday at the hospital where he was being cared for. Deceased was a young man and had made his home in Grand Marais for the past several years. He leaves a mother, brother and sister at Tawas, Mich., to mourn his loss. We could not learn whether enternment was made at Marquette or the remains shipped to Tawas.—Grand Marais Herald.

The many friends of Mr. Jos. R. Staas, formerly of this city, will be grieved to learn that our fellow townsman is again suffering with his foot, which was so seriously injured at the Marais Lumber Co's. planning mill two years ago, but which up to the time he left Grand Marais for Hoquiam, Wash., had fully healed. It is now given out that complications have set in and that amputation above the knee will follow soon. We trust that the future operation will be a successful one and bring relief to Mr. Staas.—Grand Marais Herald.

The Hahn-Parke Quintette, which will furnish the third number of the High School entertainment course on March 12, is one of the finest musical companies on the road, and our citizens are to be congratulated on having the opportunity of hearing them. The Boston Record says: The Ladies' String Quartette, under the leadership of Mary Davis-Hahn, gave a delightful program. Their numbers were each and every one popular, as well as classic, and there was not one person among the vast audience who did not thoroughly enjoy every note of their playing. They proved it by the ovation accorded them after each number.

Scholtz Not Guilty.

The Sholtz murder case was finished in the circuit court last Saturday afternoon and given to the jury at about 4:30 o'clock. After a deliberation of nearly five hours the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was discharged. Thus ends the second trial of Ernest Scholtz, who has been confined in the county jail since Sept. 27, last, on the charge of having cut the throat of his wife. There is little doubt but what the verdict is in accordance with the belief of fully one-half of the people who knew all parties, and who generally believe the woman committed suicide, and this notwithstanding that she insisted that Scholtz had committed the deed up to the time of her death, 48 hours after the deed was committed.

Verdicts of not guilty were rendered in the case of John Cloud, charged with rape, also that of Henry Bronson, on same charge.

The case of Nelson Johnson vs. D. & M. Ry. to recover damages for cattle killed was begun yesterday afternoon.

Formally Organized.

The stock holders of the Tawas Sugar Co., met at the Holland last Monday and formally organized by the election of the following directors: W. L. Churchill, Bay City, C. B. Warren, Detroit, H. D. Churchill, Alpena, Eugene Fiefield, Bay City, G. A. Prescott, Tawas City, E. F. Loud, AuSable, Chas. Bewick, Detroit, C. W. Luce, East Tawas, and J. H. Walsh, Detroit. These directors will meet next week and elect the officers of the company.

W. L. Churchill, in whose hands the matter of letting contracts for the erection of the plant has been, reported that the contract had been let to W. J. Spear & Co., of Toledo, for the erection of the plant at a cost of $596,000, the same to be ready to run next fall in time to care for beets.

Work on the plant is moving on satisfactory and as the weather becomes more favorable will be pushed to the limit.

BETTER HIGHWAYS.

HOW THEY WOULD BENEFIT THE AMERICAN FARMERS.

Professor Latta on the Financial and Many Other Advantages of Good Roads—Increased Value of Land From Highway Improvement.

In an address before a good roads convention recently Professor Latta of Purdue University, Indiana, spoke of the advantages of good roads as follows:

That good roads have a money value to farmers will be granted by all. That the money value of improved highways is alone sufficient to justify the cost of their construction will be confidently claimed or readily admitted by many farmers, questioned by others and denied by not a few.

In view of the financial and many other advantages of good roads a majority of the farmers would favor their construction as rapidly as practicable under some efficient, economical and equitable system of highway improvement. But there is a considerable proportion of the farmers, doubtless one-fifth and possibly one-fourth, who have little knowledge or appreciation of the benefits of good roads and who therefore object on account of the great cost of highway improvement. The farmers of this class know that they will have to bear their full share of the burden of such improvement. They discredit, not wholly without reason, the statements and conclusions of many public writers as to the losses and gains to farmers from poor and good roads respectively; hence they view with apprehension the general agitation in favor of improved highways.

Ignoring or undervaluing the educational and social advantages as well as the comfort and enjoyment of good roads, or feeling unable to pay the price of such benefits, these farmers regard with distrust and disfavor measures for highway improvement, and they are likely to oppose efforts for the betterment of our roads unless they can first be convinced that good roads will prove a paying financial investment. Speaking, therefore, in behalf of those who for any reason are not influenced by the higher considerations in favor of improved highways, I raise the question, Will it pay the farmers in dollars and cents to improve their public roads?

Before attempting to answer this question let us consider in what ways permanently good roads will prove financially beneficial to farmers. All will agree, I think, that a good road will—

First.—Economize time and force in transportation between farm and market.

Second.—Enable the farmer to take advantage of market fluctuations in buying and selling.

Third.—Permit the transportation of farm products and purchased commodities during times of comparative leisure.

Fourth.—Reduce the wear and tear on horses, harness and vehicles.

Fifth.—Enhance the market value of real estate.

But there is another side to this question—viz, the increased value of land from highway improvement. Just here the objection may be raised that the improved roads would not increase the productive capacity of the land, while the enhanced commercial value would increase the taxes. Let us, for the sake of argument, grant this plausible but fallacious objection and then find what it amounts to. Let us suppose the increase in appraisal for taxation to be $4 an acre and the tax rate 1 1/4 per cent. This would mean an annual increase in taxes of 5 cents an acre, or $5 a hundred acres. Would not our objector after enjoying the benefit of good roads be very willing to give therefore the extra $5 if necessary? Would he keep the money and go back to the thraldom of mud roads? If so, he has the option of selling his farm at an advance, according to the average estimates of his brother farmers, that will more than doubly reimburse him for his expenditure on highway improvements, and he can then remove to some native wild whose quiet waters have not been "troubled" by the spirit of progress.

In view of the general recognition among farmers of the necessity and benefits of good roads I am encouraged to believe that a large proportion of the farming classes will heartily join with the people of the cities and towns in an effort to devise, adopt and put into execution some efficient, economical and equitable system of highway improvement. That there are some who would realize little substantial gain from highway improvement must be admitted, but to base an argument against good roads on this fact would be to do gross injustice to the great majority of industrious, thrifty, enterprising farmers who are doing so much to make Indiana one of the foremost agricultural states of the Union.

TABLE AND TOILET WARE.

Fashionable Metals—New Wrinkles in the Dinner Service.

One of the marked features of the present is the use in table and toilet wares of metals other than the white.

Right royal has been the road of burnished copper to favor. Its rich hue strikes the eye strongly; its soft luster strengthens the first pleasing impression. In its splendid color there is a depth and yet a delicacy that arrests and holds the fancy.

Burnished copper with silver ornament appears in vases, desk and smoking sets, tankards and range, umbrella handles and numberless small things, but the new combination is handsomest on the toilet table. Imagine a Watteau plaque in gray silver enlivened and warmed with a decorative frame of shining copper, the whole forming the back of a hand mirror. Silver deposit work in copper is most effective.

Silver gilt is also now much used and is not at all confined to purely decorative objects, but enriches all sorts of table silver from spoons to complete tea sets.

The small and odd wares of the table offer much novelty. Here for elegant service are the ramequins of decorated French porcelain set into a pierced silver frame, with the one long side handle characteristic of the cruder prototype, and there are silver entree dishes with ears and a cover resting upon a small plate.

Bouillon cups of decorated china in silver frames with loving cup handles form a charming array.

Peculiarly attractive are slender chocolate cups of French porcelain decorated in pink and provided with frames whose base of pierced silver is a square instead of the usual circle.

Quite a pleasing wrinkle for the hostess abreast of the times are the dainty little individual almond dishes that form a set with the regulation almond dish.

The oyster cocktail glass has become a thing of importance in the past year. One example of it in porcelain on a silver standard takes the form of the ordinary champagne glass and indeed might serve either purpose.

Highball glasses are tall, tempting affairs of crystal set in a circular frame with handle.

Russian tea glasses to accompany the samovar rest upon a small silver plate, with a fixed circular cup in the center for the reception of the glass.

A fashion of the day among many good diners is the serving of mineral water directly after coffee, and a tumbler of approved size, placed in a rather heavy gray silver base, is the silver-smith's provision for this custom.

Decidedly unique is the plan of a silver cracker bowl where the center of the wide, shallow bowl is arranged for the reception of worcestershire sauce, horseradish and catchup bottles.

An asparagus holder like an abbreviated pair of tongs serves for the deft lifting of a few stalks from one of the new asparagus trays that are provided with a pierced silver bottom or draining board.—Elsie Bee in Jewelers' Circular.

A Good Small Stand.

A simple bit of woodwork illustrated in the Household is the making of a little stand that, when finished, with a pretty cover, is not only attractive, but quite safe, which some light stands are not. Two squares are cut from seven-eighths inch boards, one of pine and the other of some handsome, heavy wood for the lower shelf.

Let these squares be seventeen inches each way. A couple of worn-out bamboo fishing poles will furnish four legs. Cut them twenty-seven inches in length and fit wooden plugs into the hollow ends. Round the edges of both squares and rub down very smoothly the shelf below, for that is to show its surface. Bore holes the size of the legs in each corner of the two squares, beneath the top and in the upper surface of the shelf, boring but half way through the wood.

When the legs are driven in tightly, the ends having first been coated with glue, put screws down through the top into each leg and up through the shelf from the lower side in the same way. Round wooden balls can be had at any cabinet maker's and can be screwed on beneath the shelf with very long screws, a hole having been bored up through them previously with a gimlet.

The Delightful Pancake.

A batter for pancakes should be free from lumps, beaten very thoroughly and thin enough to run freely when turned on to the griddle. A pitcher is a convenient vessel to use for it, as the batter can be poured from it. Try a little of the batter first to be sure it is light and the griddle is at the required heat.

A griddle should stand on the stove a little time before it is needed to become thoroughly and evenly heated. An inch square piece of fat salt pork on the end of a fork is the best thing to use for greasing. The griddle should be hot enough to hiss when the batter is turned on it.

If the griddle or waffle iron has not been used for some time, wash it well with a brush and hot suds, rinse and wipe it dry. Then rub it with salt, brush it off, and let the iron stand on the back of the range to heat through.

By many a soapstone griddle is preferred to an iron one, as it requires no greasing and holds the heat well. Others contend that cakes are not so tender when cooked on soapstone.

QUAINT FANCY WORK.

Tent Stitch on Canvas in a Gay Little Flowered Reticule.

From the depths of old treasure chests stored with needlework into which the deft fingers of a bygone generation embroidered many a quaint or pretty fancy are unearthed dainty objects, not without suggestiveness for the worker of today. The original of the illustration is an admirable example of the dainty tent stitch in which our grandmothers and great-grandmothers delighted, mounted as one of the pretty little reticules, which are a fashion of the present almost as much as of the past. On either side of the bag is worked a garland of old world flowers, the "polyanthus bright and wondrous gay" of our childhood's poem, snowdrops, double pink daisies, convolvulus, hawthorn, wild strawberries with their blossoms, arbutus, lilac and jonquill, shaded with the delicacy almost of brush work. The fine canvas is left, unworked, as background, over a white silk lining, except that (on what is presumably the outward side of the reticule) it is powdered with minute blue flowers.

RETICULE WORKED IN TENT STITCH.

Excellent Layer Cake Recipe.

One and a half teacupfuls of sugar and two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter thoroughly creamed. Add two tablespoonfuls of milk, three well beaten eggs, one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and one heaping teacupful of sifted flour. This amount of dough will be enough to generously cover the bottom of four layer cake pans of ordinary size. The rule is an excellent one, and by using different fillings an almost endless variety of layer cakes may be obtained.

Peanut Cookies.

Two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of butter, two eggs, one-half pound of ground peanuts and flour to roll thin. Bake in a quick oven.
