EAST TAWAS, MICH.

An Enjoyable Affair.

Monday evening the gentlemen of St. Joseph's Catholic church gave a banquet at the K. of St. J. hall, East Tawas, in honor of the 25th anniversary of the election of Pope Leo XIII. The attendance was confined almost entirely to the members of the parish and covers were laid for 160. The luncheon, which consisted of seven courses, was in charge of Charles Campbell, which is sufficient guarantee that it was of the best, and served in the proper manner. After the inner man had been sufficiently supplied, the "feast of the intellectual" was taken up with James LaBerge as toast-master, and a fine musical program interspersed with toasts was rendered.

After a few apt and well chosen remarks by the toast-master, and the choir of St. Joseph's church had rendered the opening chorus in amost pleasing manner, a telegram was read from J. H. Walsh, who was unable to return from Detroit in time to respond to "The Day We Celebrate." Mrs. E. W. Connors executed a most pleasing piano solo, which was followed by "The Early Life of Leo," by Roul LaBerge. Mrs. John McInerney then rendered a vocal solo, and John McRae responded to "Rome the Eternal City." A piano duet—"Leo March," was rendered by Misses Shaver and Kinney. John McInerney responded to "Leo Our Pope," after which Joseph Blust, addressed the German portion of the audience on "Leo, our Pontiff." After a piano solo by Miss Lizzie Grise, Rev. Fr. A. LaMontagne, of AuSable, was introduced and responded to "Leo our Pope," for the French portion of the audience, which was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. B. Sauve. "The Catholic Church in America," was the theme assigned to Attorney James O'Brien. Miss Theresa Shaver rendered a piano solo, and E. W. Connors responded to "Catholic Loyalty to our Flag." After an instrumental trio by Misses Provost, Shaver and Kinney. M. Kehoe responded to "Our President," and the program closed by the singing of "Holy God," by the audience. Each response was cordially received, and the musical selections were awarded a most liberal applause. The AuSable orchestra furnished excellent music during the evening and were the recipients of many compliments.

It was the "wee small hours" when the affair closed, but each and every guest felt that the time had been well spent. The committee in charge are entitled to much credit for the successful and pleasing manner in which the affair was arranged and carried out.

Building Good Roads.

New York state is paying especial attention to the building of good roads, and a member of the senate of that state proposes an amendment to its constitution, authorizing the sale of bonds to the extent of $50,000,000 for the construction of highways. It is proposed that the state pay 50 per cent of the cost of these roads, the county 35 per cent and the town 15 per cent.

The plan is for the state to spend $5,000,000 a year for ten years. As the counties and towns must spend an equal amount, it means, should the proposed amendment be adopted, that $10,000,000 will be spent each year for ten years in road building. The legislation provides for an equal distribution of this money among the several counties.

The expenditure of this large sum of money would go far toward improving all the main thoroughfares of the Empire state. It is a matter of history that money spent on good roads is never regretted, and it is likely that the people of New York would consider the money well spent.

Michigan is paying great attention just now to plans for improving its highways, and while it could not go about it on any such lavish scale as this, it is nevertheless interesting to its people to take account of what other states are doing.—Lansing Republican.

On to Cheboygan.

The Detroit Sunday News-Tribune says: The Detroit & Mackinaw railroad is contemplating an extension of its line to Cheboygan. The road ends at present at Tower, in Cheboygan county, and President Hawks of the road said Saturday that the line would be extended this summer to Mullet Lake, nine miles farther north.

It is only a short distance from there to Cheboygan.

"And I'll leave it to any one if we would be likely to stop short of that city," said President Hawks, with significant emphasis. "I understand that there is an opportunity of maintaining a ferry across the straits from Cheboygan all the year round. We are making some investigations as to that point. Another thing the Detroit & Mackinac railroad has decided to do is to build a branch line from Onaway to Black Lake. It is five and a half miles from Onaway to Black Lake. We are after the summer resort business, also logs and cedar. The branch will also open up a good farming country."

Republican Convention.

The republican convention was held at the court house last Monday forenoon, was fairly well attended. Judge Connine presided and Will McGillivray acted as secretary.

But one name was presented for school commissioner, that of the present incumbent, Prof. J. A. Campbell, of Whittemore, who was unanimously nominated.

Several candidates were presented for the position of county road commissioner, and four ballots were necessary for a choice, when John M. Waterbury, of this city, was nominated.

The following were elected as delegates to the state convention, which meets at Detroit today: Temple Emery, East Tawas; G. A. Prescott, Tawas City; M. J. Connine, Oscoda, and H. N. Loud, of AuSable.

The Debate.

The public debate at the school house last Friday evening by the members of the senior class was fairly well attended, considering the inclemency of the weather. The question discussed was the government ownership of railroads. Misses Grace Redhead, Agnes Galbraith and Floral Ramage, taking the affirmative, while Misses, Ethel Hartingh, Nina Crandall, and May King argued against the proposition. The young ladies presented the arguments for their respective sides in a clear and concise manner and showed that they had given the question careful study.

The judges stood two in favor of the affirmative and one in favor of the negative.

After the debate a box social was held and a most enjoyable evening had. The proceeds will assist the class in defraying the expenses of the commencement exercises.

No damage done. Last Saturday evening about fifteen of the many friends of W. S. Hall gathered at his pleasant home in the suburbs of this village, to assist him in celebrating his 64th birthday. Notwithstanding that Mr. Hall was just recovering from an attack of the la grippe, he was able to participate in the festivities of the evening somewhat, and a most enjoyable evening was had. The affair was planned by Mrs. Hall and their daughter Mrs. Amy Hurford, who served elegant refreshments. The guests took their departure just in time to avoid the breaking of the Sabbath.

Senator Barns has introduced a bill in the state senate to have the constitution amended so as to do away with the taking of a state census every 10 years. While such action would result in a saving in the neighborhood of $200,000 for which the people receive practically no benefit there is no probability of such action being taken, as it would take away a lot of political "pap" which politicians can not afford to get along without.

There has been much rivalry between a number of our sportsmen this winter as to who was the champion rabbit hunter of the city, James Hamilton, Rev. E. King, John Mark and Ed Crandall, have been the leaders in the race for a few weeks, but the last two are now practically "out of the run," and its only a question as to whether our worthy pastor or prominent merchant is the poorest shot. The rest of the boys kill one occasionally.

Senator Doherty, of this district says he is favorable to any primary election measure that the republican party endorses. We supposed that Senator Doherty was elected to represent the people regardless of the party, but evidently he is not broad enough to do so. The people of this district, like those of the state, want a primary election law, regardless of what the republican party wants. It must be the real thing and not a make-shift, either.

Reuben W. Platt, died at his home in East Tawas, on Sunday last, aged 69 years. The deceased was an old resident of that city, and was highly respected. He was an old soldier, having served in the 1st Mich., and the 9th Ind. Inf. regiments, being a lieutenant in the latter. He leaves a wife and a daughter besides a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his death. The funeral was held Tuesday from the M. E. church, Rev. Sheldon officiating, and was under the auspices of the G. A. R., of which he was a member.

The Bay City District Bible Conference.

There is no religious institution in America of evangelical faith so aggressive and of such proportions as Methodism. One of the reasons is the zeal and evangelism of that body. Biblical truth and scriptural methods of work are employed. In keeping with this thought and for instructions in the word of God, pure and simple, the Bay City district Methodist pastors are in session in a bible conference for a full four days session at East Tawas.

On Monday evening a service of welcome was held in the East Tawas M. E. church during which Revs. Kay and Thompson and Attorney Rawdin gave fitting addresses of a hearty greeting. To these Rev. W. B. Pope, of Bay City, responded with unusual aptness.

A carefully prepared program has been carried out since Tuesday evening, comprising a study of the four gospels, bible biography, old testament typology and symbolism, doctrine and practical methods. During the evenings a series of sermons, with an altar service, has been conducted. It is evident that no small amount of profit will come from this conference to the ministers and likewise to the people who have so generously entertained their guests.

NEW IDEAS IN GOWNS AND MILLINERY FOR THE COMING SEASON.

Hats For the South and Early Spring. The Full Back Coat—Afternoon and Evening Gowns Illustrated—Some of the Popular Spring Colors.

New ideas for the coming season are fast asserting themselves. The three-quarter coat, fitted the figure slightly, very full in the bodice and worn with handsome waistcoats, will be the mantau de luxe when furs are abandoned. The first hats prepared in Parisian ateliers for the demiseason and spring sojourn on the Riviera supply a pretty correct forecast of styles that will prevail later. In fact, it is from these that foreign buyers get their models. From the displays already made by the milliners it appears that there is a tendency to decrease the size of the hat, while the broad flat effect is relieved by a sharp upward turn of the brim or mounted up floral garniture. The curves and shaping to the broad brims of the new hats indicate a desire toward individuality and the suiting of chic chapeaux to various types of face.

The smart Monte Carlo hat always shows a liberal display of floral decoration. Parma violets and roses, not to speak of primroses and mimosa, all have their turn on the spring models. The foundation of many of the hats is in tulle, coarse net or silk, with an applique of wonderful designs and motifs depicted in soft silken straw entirely covering the crown and broad brims. Embroidery in straw seems to compose some very dainty toques. Straws are mingled and appear as if woven in two colors, and flowers were never more realistic.

The first cut shows "at home" gowns—one a robe gown in pale mauve satin de chine, the other a silver gray panne with handsome guipure and showing some new points as to the skirt. In the second cut appears an accordion plaited chiffon evening gown with trelis of black ribbon and chenille embroidery.

For spring costumes gray is, as always, extremely chic, though trying to a poor complexion. But smart dressers like it and manage to look extremely well in it even if it does not quite suit their color.

A season of bright colors seems to be the prospect, though the best dressed women retain a wonderful chic in all black or all white frocks. Very pale tan or deep ivory with a touch of black will also be smart wear.

Pale pastel tones have their following, too—the very palest greens, pinks, mauves and blues, which look so well when warmed by the richness of chin-chilla and sable.

Fashion's Echoes.

Grapes form some of the most beautiful designs in lace.

A bowknot arrangement high on the head represents a new fad in coiffures. Buttons continue to grow in importance. Huge ones of most beautiful workmanship are seen.

Roses and other flowers exquisitely fashioned in ribbon are all the rage not only in millinery, but as gown trimmings.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

"All Flesh Is Grass."

The people of this country must be fed and well fed. As a matter of fact the American people are the best fed people in the world, and as a result of good feeding they are the best people in the world. With all their faults we have more good men, good women and good children than any other nation, and at the next census we will have several millions more of the same sort. To a large extent men are made of the food they eat. It is the same with animals as men—good feeding makes good cattle, horses, sheep, hogs and fowls. Good feeding cannot be pursued for many generations without improving the blood. Hence the importance of growing an abundance of forage crops. Without forage but little live stock can be kept, and that little will be poorly fed. Without live stock profitably fed the people will not prosper and cannot feed themselves properly and will cease to improve and ultimately deteriorate. Forage is food for live stock; live stock is food for man. Hence indirectly but truly forage and feed crops are beef, milk, pork, mutton, fowls and eggs—the foods for man—and in the case of horses these feeds become power with which to make more feed. Don't neglect the feed crops. None other are of as much importance.—Farm and Ranch.

Pigs and Poultry.

Here is a good combination, always ready to turn the waste into money. Three or four well bred brood sows ought to turn considerable profit during the year with their litters. Pure bred stock is always worth the money either for sale, breeding or fattening purposes. As I see it the summer problem with pigs is easy of solution. The skim milk, house slops and other wastes supplemented with rape and pumpkins will bring them through to fattening winter with very little cash outlay. The winter season with the brood sows represents more outlay, but a good summer will silver plate that. A half acre of rape on rich moist soil will keep several sows busy a good portion of the summer. The poultry business has to be learned, and the way to learn it is to do it. As to the egg or meat production, your knowledge of the markets there would be the safest guide. In either case a small beginning is most sure of later success, and experience will dictate as to expansion. Corn, oats and potatoes sandwiched with clover and cowpeas are easy of rotation, and, barring potatoes, every pound produced would return to the farm or pocket-book.—J. E. Morse in Rural New Yorker.

Propagating Dewberries.

Dr. D. K. Briggs, Blackville, S. C., writes to Practical Farmer: "Is there any other way for propagating the dewberry than burying the tips? I have Austin's dewberry and wish to increase my stock rapidly, and rooting the tips is rather slow."

If you layer the entire cane we think you will get plants from nearly every joint. Or you can take up large plants carefully and cut the roots into pieces about three inches long and plant these thickly in rows and cover about three inches. Either method, we think, will give you new plants rapidly. Most of the dewberries come fairly true from the seeds, and in this latter way you might get an improvement.

A Competent Farmer Lacking.

Things that should not be as numerous—a physician with an invalid family, a lawyer going to jail for contempt, a shoemaker's wife going bare-footed, a tailor wearing patched trousers and a farmer going to town to buy bacon and canned goods for Christmas. In these cases the physician was a quack, the lawyer an ignoramus, the shoemaker a worthless cobbler, the tailor a goose and the farmer as bad as the worst of them. Any farm that fails to supply itself with plenty of substantial food for man and beast and some to spare lacks a competent farmer to manage it.

For Better Seeds In Canada.

The seed division of the Canadian department of agriculture has commenced an active campaign against the sale of adulterated and impure seeds. Numerous bulletins dealing with the matter are being distributed. The farmers' institute speakers are delivering addresses on the subject in the various provinces. It is proposed to establish a series of seed fairs. At these fairs prizes will be offered to the farmers exhibiting the best seed of different varieties. The successful exhibitors will afterward be asked to sell as much of their good seed as they can spare.

Where to Put the Pigen.

Place where most convenient for feeding and caring for the animals, other things being equal. It should be on a slope, so that the water will not accumulate, but will run off readily. Where the ground is level, as it is in many prairie sections, special effort should be made to drain the pig lot. Otherwise it will be very muddy during the spring and during a wet period. If a tile can be run under or alongside the pig lot, the lower layers of soil will be comparatively dry; then if the water from the surface is properly taken care of a fairly good bog lot will result.

Don't Feed "Deadheads."

Keep no animal that there is not a probable profit in feeding. It is bad policy to let an animal "eat his head off" but it is worse to keep one that eats the heads off several others besides its own.

Tomatoes For Forcing.

At the Iowa experiment station the Frogmore Selected and Sutton Best of All gave the largest cash returns per plant under forcing house conditions.

HIGHWAY BUILDING.

WORK OF THE GOOD ROADS TRAIN IN THE WEST.

Some Points on the Construction of Macadam and Dirt Highways—Plans of the National Association For Better Roads.

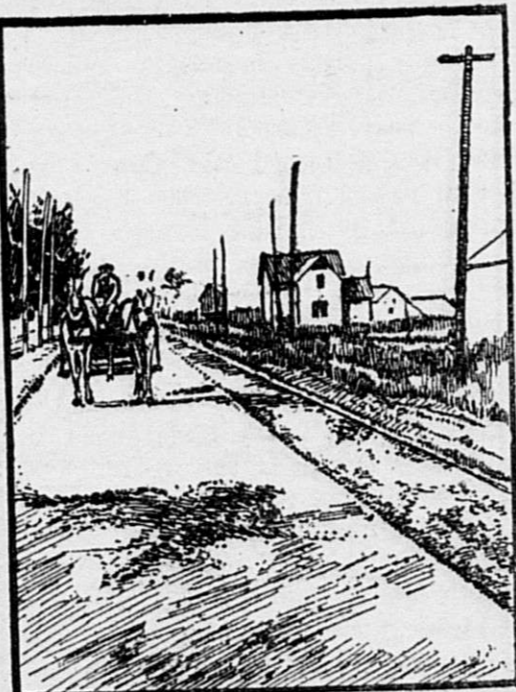

It is many years since the United States government has bothered with the making of roads. Years ago, when Henry Clay lived, he was a great friend of good roads. Through his intervention the government built the national road from Cumberland, Md., almost to St. Louis.

Since then the building of railroads has caused wagon roads to receive less attention. Their day, however, is coming, thanks to the automobile and the rural mail delivery system. The trouble is that while many communities desire good roads few know how to build them.

That was why a good roads train traveled from Chicago to San Francisco, giving lessons in roadbuilding, says a writer in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Stops of a week were made at many points and conventions held, which were attended by local and state officials. At the conventions the building of good roads was emphasized, and associations for the building of good roads were formed. Much time was devoted to building roads and explaining the manner of building. A section of road was taken and drained. Part of it was built with one material and part with another in order that those interested might see the way of working with each. This plan was continued throughout the trip.

In speaking of good roads recently United States Highway Commissioner Richardson said he considered macadam roads the best and told how they should be built, as follows:

"First you must have your road rolled and graded so that it is dry and firm. On the foundation you must put a layer of crushed stone about two and one-half inches in diameter. This layer must be five inches deep. After it has been spread over the ground it must be rolled. If the rock used contains no adhesive properties, clay or some other substance must be thrown over it before it is rolled so that its particles may hold together. When the rolling process is over, rock about two inches in diameter must be spread on top to the depth of four inches. This must be rolled also. Then comes the finishing touch—a layer of hard, durable material which will cement and bind as does the icing on a layer cake. "Sixteen feet is wide enough for such a road, and in some places they are made only nine feet wide. The road mostly used, however, is the dirt road. The road mostly condemned is the corduroy road.

"Building dirt roads sounds like an easy job. It isn't often done successfully, however. Too many times the dirt road is a drainage canal. Dirt roads must be well drained and well crowned. Crowding is fixing up the center of the road so that it slopes gradually to each side."

The National Road association has several objects in view at the present time. One is to make the paying of road tax not only the particular duty of the farmer. All property interests are dependent upon good roads, and all should bear the burden, is the argument of the association.

Another is to abolish the system of working out road tax. In some states men who do not desire to pay road tax are permitted to contribute the labor of themselves and their teams instead. The National Good Roads association favors the building of roads under the direction of practical engineers and men trained in the science of road-building.

The association contends that the appropriation for the building of roads should be as great as that for the development of rivers and harbors. Many of our citizens obtain no advantage from the rivers and harbors, while they are compelled to use roads all the time—roads, too, the association states, that are mud in winter and dust in summer. The association favors the building of a national thoroughfare across the country at the expense of the government, with the understanding that the lateral roadways be built at the expense of the state.

The township high school, the rural mail delivery system and the automobile are looked upon by the association as the most potent factors in the gaining of good roads. Children must have good roads or they cannot go to school; good roads must be built for the mail carriers or Uncle Sam won't let them deliver the mail; automobile owners must have good roads or they will get after the legislators. If the legislators get after, then good roads are sure to come.
