We don't know much about wireless telegraphy as yet, but we should think it would puzzle Marconi himself to explain how a bad story, false or partly false, can travel so rapidly around a neighborhood. It's actually surprising, and it ought to make people careful about what they say.

Many and loud are the protests heard from the "people" over the doing and misdoing of the present legislature. Did it ever occur to the people that they are the ones to bear the blame? When the time for nominations is at hand the "people" go to the politicians and ask, "Who are we going to nominate for the legislature?" and the politicians trot out some tool for the place. When it comes to election the "people" ask who is "our party", nominee for the legislature, or perhaps vote "our party" ticket without even knowing for whom they vote. Yet when a lot of men are thus chosen we hear the "people" holler. When members of the legislature are chosen on their merits, as men, and not as politicians, then laws will be enacted in the interests of the people and not of political parties.

Driven to Desperation

Lying at an out of the way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident, resulting in burns, cuts, wounds, ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best on earth, 25c at G. S. Darling's and J. E. Dillon's drug stores.

Impressive Services.

Fully five hundred of our citizens gathered at the city cemetery last Saturday forenoon to observe Decoration Day and unite with the Grand Army of the Republic in paying tribute to the Nation's dead. Besides the decorating of the soldier dead by the G. A. R., the F. & A. M. and K. O. T. M. M., attended and decorated the graves of their departed brothers. The exercises were of an informal nature and at the close of the G. A. R. ritualistic services a program was rendered by the schools and a few appropriate remarks made by Rev. Sutherland.

The pleasing feature of the affair was the interest manifested by the citizens in general, and the opinion has been freely expressed that on future occasions the services should be in charge of a citizens committee working in unison with the Grand Army committee, thereby assuring a good program and complete arrangements properly carried out. Let our citizens bear this in mind and when next Memorial day arrives all will be ready to join in a proper observance of the occasion.

The Neglected Field.

The poor field is always the most neglected because it will not produce as much as one that is more fertile, the farmer preferring to place his manure on land from which he can secure more direct and remunerative results, the consequence being that one portion of the farm becomes capable of producing all kinds of crops while the other portion in time is abandoned as unprofitable. If such a condition of affairs compelled the farmer to concentrate his efforts on a small area he would be profited by the change, but the cultivation of less land is intended to improve the whole instead of only a portion. No piece of land on a farm should be allowed to deteriorate in fertility, no matter what the system of cultivation may be, for the concentration of the labor and fertilizers on one portion does not prevent the other portion from being improved.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Disappointed Dog

A dog saw a rabbit sitting in the middle of a field munching away upon a carrot top.

"I'll just catch that rabbit," said the dog, and away he went after it at full speed.

But he was not quick enough, for Mr. Rabbit saw him, dropped his carrot top and scampered. Oh, it was a

"I WANT THIS RABBIT FOR MY DINNER. great race! The dog went so fast that he gradually gained on the fleeing hare.

"I'll have you in a minute," said the dog.

"No, you won't," answered the rabbit.

"Why?" called the dog.

"Because there is another somebody that wants me more than you do," answered the rabbit.

And, sure enough, at that very moment a great big hawk swooped down from the skies and dug his talons into the back of the rabbit. Then the hawk spread his wings again and mounted to the skies.

"I want this rabbit for my dinner," said the hawk as he winked at the dog.

And the dog felt just about as cheap as anybody ever did, to see his prey get away from him in that way.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., June 5, 1903.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

For the week ending Monday, June 1, 1903. The mean daily temperature for the week was 57.6 degrees, or 2.0 degrees below the normal; the average total precipitation was 1.16 inches, or 0.33 of an inch above the normal; the sunshine averaged 45 per cent of the possible amount.

Ample showers have occurred during the week in all counties of the state, and the droughty conditions of May practically ended; the early part of the week was warm; the latter part cool and windy. Local storms of some severity did some damage to property; heavy thunder showers washed some hilly land.

On the whole, the week has been beneficial to growth and germination, although slightly retarding field work. Wheat, rye, meadows and pastures show a decided improvement in all counties; oats, barley and peas have made good growth and are generally in good condition.

Corn planting is nearly completed, and the seed germinated nicely; early corn is making a good stand, although its growth is being slightly checked by the cool temperature. Sugar beets have germinated finely; many fields have been thinned and are being cultivated. Early potatoes have come up nicely and are making good growth. The soil has been greatly improved, especially in the central and southern counties, for plowing and seeding. Farmers are preparing for bean planting and cultivating early corn and early potatoes.

On Friday a heavy frost occurred in the Upper Peninsula, but the damage was generally light; on the same day light frosts occurred in some localities of the Lower Peninsula, but no damage is reported.

Some curl-leaf is reported in peaches and generally the peach crop is below the average. Apples are setting well and promise a full crop. Early strawberries are in blossom in the Upper Peninsula and are ripening in the southern and central counties.

Was a Busy Month.

The report of State Game and Fish Warden Chapman for May shows that the total amount of fines and costs collected for the month is nearly twice as great as the amount for any other month in the history of the department. The number of seizures was not great for the month. The wild ducks seized and confiscated were sent to the Little Sisters of the Poor, of Detroit. The fish seized and confiscated were sent to the Traverse City Asylum for the Insane.

All of the fines and costs imposed for the month have been paid, except in one instance, and on this case the violator, who is the owner of considerable real estate, and who also owns a trading schooner on the great lakes, was fined $21.90 or thirty days in jail, and defendant is serving his jail sentence.

There were 139 arrests made and 121 convictions secured, and the total amount of fines and costs was $1,933.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentorville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Guaranteed by G. S. Darling, Tawas City, and J. E. Dillon, East Tawas, Druggists. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c, and $1.00.

This office is in receipt of the Michigan Manual for 1903, from the secretary of state. The Manual is the most complete book of the kind ever issued by the state, and is replete with information pertaining to state affairs and our many public institutions. Its most valuable features are the tables of information bearing on everything of a public nature, populations, votes in the state, and the names and addresses of every state officer.

Wednesday, was the 25th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. James LaBerge, of East Tawas, and they celebrated the occasion by entertaining about sixty of their friends. It was an evening of genuine enjoyment for all present, and one long to be remembered, as the genial host and hostess left nothing undone to add to the pleasure of their guests. The company dispersed, as the wee small hours began to pass, wishing Mr. and Mrs. LaBerge not less than 25 years more of happy wedded life, and leaving many handsome and useful pieces of silverware as reminders of their visit.

Yesterday noon fire was discovered in a lumber pile on C. H. Prescott & Sons' docks, and only prompt work by the mill crew and citizens succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before it spread. The fire apparatus was got on the grounds and two streams kept the fire from spreading and only a few courses of lumber on the bottom of the pile was burned. Fortunately, the lumber was green maple and did not burn rapidly, or the result might have been disastrous to a large amount of property. The fire is supposed to have started from a spark from a steam spile driver which was working on the dock.

Myers Bros. who have been canvassing this county with a view of compiling an atlas, have been called away to attend to business for their company at Alpena. They will return to this county in a few weeks to resume work. They have not yet a sufficient number of orders to warrant the publishing of atlas, as was mentioned last week, but think there is yet a chance as there are a good many people they have not seen. We hope the people of Iosco county will show their appreciation of the company's efforts in trying to make the atlas a success, as it is much needed. The maps already drawn are enough to convince any citizen that they can make a map that can be relied upon.

A Miraculous Escape.

Last Sunday morning, near Alabaster Junction, on the D. & M. Ry., occurred an accident, which none can understand why, failed to result in the death of one or more persons. George Sass, Joseph Ullman and wife, Fred Ullman, wife and two children, of Emery Junction, were coming to this city on a handcar, and when near Alabaster Junction were overtaken by the Alpena excursion train, which was running at a high rate of speed and came around a sharp curve onto them before the danger was seen. The occupants of the car all jumped but the children before the engine struck the car. One child about four years of age was thrown fully 30 feet, while the seven months old baby, which was in a box, was thrown onto the pilot of the engine, and strange as it may seem, neither were injured. The engine struck Mrs. Ullman as she was attempting to rescue the children but she sustained no injury. The train was within two car lengths of the handcar when first seen and there was no time to rescue the children.

Street Costume of Blue Voile.

A charming street costume is developed in the fashionable royal blue voile. It shows handsome front facings of Anglaise broderie, giving it a rich and elegant finish. The long-shoulder effect, now so rapidly gaining in popularity, is admirably carried out, and fringes, which are likewise coming to the front, help to carry out this effect. Fringes are also seen on the skirt, which has a slight sweep on which a front panel is introduced. Corticelli spool silk is used throughout on this very jaunty street gown.

For fashionable material there are voile, etamines, hopsack, canvas cloth, veiling, crepes galore, and rough, natty, heavily tufted Kinnockburn suitings. This latter material is considered very smart for the trim walking suit in the Norfolk or "corset" coat style, and the main decoration lies in stitchings, and motifs of plain fabrics, introduced to match one of the flecks in the materials. Equally delightful are the looser makes of hopsacks and coarser voiles, which adapt themselves so well to the gauged style, both in yoke and hip piece, and it must be here remembered that close fabrics and strappings are giving way to loose gaugings and textures.

Tree Planting on Western Sand Hills.

With the spring of 1903, the government began a forest-making movement that is in many ways the most important ever undertaken. It is the carrying out of plans that have been under consideration for years, and which have had the careful study of the forestry bureau in every detail. It is proposed to solve the serious problem of forest destruction by growing new supplies under government care and in parts of the nation where as yet there is nothing but open plain, as well as on the cut-over lands of the once timbered region.

The most interesting feature of this vast undertaking is in the sand hills of western Nebraska, where it is proposed to have wide, undulating reaches of drifted sand succeeded by the waving green of a pine forest—a seeming impossibility.

The basis of the theory upon which the government experiment is proceeding is that once that region was the bottom of a sea: that, as it is the lowest point for a large area, and the soil is especially adapted to certain kinds of trees, it has, in catching the drainage of the surrounding plateaus the conditions needed for the development of a forest. Western sand lands may be dry on top, and the surface may drift in clouds, but beneath is a damp subsoil that retains the moisture of spring through the long sunshine-flooded summer. It has been found that certain kinds of pine have roots which, going far below the surface, tap the moisture stored in this substratum and are sustained thriftily. Prof. E. A. Braniff, of the Yale School of Forestry, one of the nation's foremost authorities, says: "The minimum rainfall under which trees will grow is reckoned at twenty inches, and under such conditions they are usually dwarfed, scrubby, and unfit for timber. But in the sand hills the bull pine has shown a rapid and even growth and promises to develop into a fine tree." Growths of from fifteen to eighteen feet have been secured under these seemingly poor conditions in ten years.

The sand-hill section, comprising about one-fourth of the state, is almost surrounded by a rich farming country, and is used for grazing. Poor as is the pasture, the cattlemen cling to it, and the government is making arrangements for their cooperation to prevent the burning off the experimental forests. The two reserves created in this section comprise 211,000 acres—one between the Dismal and the Loop rivers of 86,000 acres, and one between the Niobrara and the Snake rivers of 125,000 acres. During the past year, the Forestry Bureau has had its representatives studying these reserves and finding the best places for the experimental groves. A nursery was established at Halsey, in the valley of the Middle Loop River, with a half-acre seed-bed protected by laths. Nearly six hundred pounds of seed, principally western yellow pine and red cedar and jack pine, was here prepared for the spring sowing. Various scattered areas are being sown, later these, by extending the amounts, are to be united into one great forest. It will indeed, be a marvelous undertaking, and, if successful, will change the face of the plains.—From "Forest-Making on Barren Lands," by Charles Moreau Harger, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June.

Sugar Beet Facts.

To no section of the country is the sugar beet question more important than to this region and experiments of practical value in sugar beet culture made anywhere apply with special force to our farmers. The latest reports from our state and national government experimentalists are worthy of note.

In this state selected seed was last year distributed among reliable farmers in thirteen counties. Samples of the beets thus grown were analyzed from 153 plots of ground. Those from Luce and Houghton counties showed the highest percentage of sugar 17.11 and 17.4. Those from Bay, four samples averaged a little over 15 per cent. The experiments have proved that the growing of beets rich in sugar is entirely practicable in all parts of Michigan from Houghton to Monroe and from Alpena to Benton Harbor. In fact, the average richness of Michigan beets is higher than that of beets grown in Ohio and Indiana, though lower than in Colorado and some other western states.

A further study brings out some facts tending to confirm the general statement that beets grow richer in sugar the farther north they are grown. With irregularity and with conspicuous exceptions, there is a general increase in the sugar content of the beets as we work northward. Two feet appears to be too far apart for greatest yield of beets per acre, although there seems no decrease in the per cent of sugar. There is evidently no relation between the width of rows and the richness of the beets.

In this region the fertility of soil, facilities for transportation, and climatic conditions have proved favorable to this industry. There are no good reasons why it should not prove as permanent as in Germany and other countries. The fact that the sugar trust has interest in beet sugar factories does not necessarily mean their abandonment. That trust simply wants to handle sugar profitably, and to it a dollar made from beets is just as good as if made from cane. It has unlimited capital, and can run the beet sugar factories if it will to better advantage than separate interests of more limited means. Claus Spreckles was at the head of the Hawaiian and Pacific coast sugar trust. He acquired beet sugar factories, built more, and keeps them running in connection with his cane sugar interests. Of course a trust has the power to shut down completely, and that is the danger point to the people but trusts rarely stop manufacturing plants if fairly profitable and beet sugar making gives fair returns.

To this region the industry has been a boon and should be encouraged. It has given farmers one new source of profit and distributed much money in the community. It produces a staple article that is always and ever will be in demand. It should be permanently profitable and permanently maintained. This favored region wants all new sources of income available and does not want to lose any of the older ones.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonsville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Guaranteed by G. S. Darling, Tawas City, and J. E. Dillon, East Tawas, Druggists. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c, and $1.00.

Former Telegraphy.

When we consider what an important adjunct the telegraph has become to the railroad, says the Electrical World and Engineer, it is hard to get one's self back to the time of the Baltimore & Ohio experiments of 1844, and to take seriously Prof. Morse's suggestion that if a break were found in the telegraph wire, the train should stop long enough to repair it. But this is what he said: "Very little interruption would take place if the train that discovered a break would stop not more than five minutes, and, being furnished with pieces of wire already prepared for the purpose, any one could simply unwrap and scrape the broken ends and unite them by twisting the ends of the pieces of wire to them."
