TAWAS CITY, MICH., JULY 22, 1904.

President Roosevelt will receive official notice of his nomination at Sagamore Hill on the 27th inst.

Hon. Joseph W. Folk, the famous district attorney of St. Louis, has been nominated by the democrats of Missouri for governor.

Certain politicians in the state are attempting to secure the democratic nomination for governor for J. S. Stearns, late candidate for that place on the republican ticket. If the democratic party can find no man who is a democrat to fill the position, they had better leave it blank.

The indications are that there will be no contests at the republican county convention for the nomination of candidates for county officers, next Wednesday. The present officers will all be re-nominated except Sheriff Johnson, who has had two terms. For this position it now looks as if Charles Curry, of East Tawas, would land without opposition.

The foreign commerce of the United States in the fiscal year 1904 is the largest in its history, and the exports of domestic products exceed those of any other country, according to reports just made at Washington. The total exports during the year ending June 30, 1904, were $1,460,829,539, against $1,420,141,679 in the fiscal year 1903, an increase of $40,587,860.

The name of Charles Hennigar, of Oscoda, is being favorably mentioned in connection with the democratic nomination for county clerk this fall. Mr. Hennigar is one of the best known and most highly respected young men of the north end, and is in every way qualified for the position. He has held several local offices and always proven a capable and accomodating official.

The name of Congressman Alfred Lucking, of Detroit, has been brought forward as a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket, by friends. With such a man at the head of their ticket that party could go into the campaign with a fair chance of winning, even in Michigan. This state has had many able governors, but Alfred Lucking, if elected, would stand the peer of any.

With the many men in every way qualified, it is really surprising that there are men in the democratic ranks who will advocate the nomination of J. S. Stearns for governor on the democratic ticket. It looks very much as though there were a lot of hungry politicians among the democrats who think they see an opportunity of getting a man at the head of their ticket who will supply the "long green," no matter what party he represents.

Why should a girl dread housework? Every worthy woman in the world understands house work, which is important and the mark of a capable and useful woman. Every man who succeeds in the world understands his trade. Every woman should understand hers. If there is any work in the world that is dignified and respectable it is housework. A good housekeeper is nearly always a successful, useful woman, and a woman who is respected.

There are a lot of democrats who would probably bolt the Parker nomination, if there was anywhere to bolt to. The trouble is they are democrats for the best interests of the government, and to bolt into the republican ranks is bolting into what they know is not in the interests of good government, and to go to socialists or populists is to incur a lot of vagaries in order to get a small dose of principle. It is either Parker or nothing with them.

A Toledo grocery firm is canvassing certain counties in this section of the state selling groceries to the farmers in large quantities. They catch their victims with a bait of 22 pounds of granulated sugar for a dollar and then skin them by selling 20 cent tea for 40 or 50 cents, and other goods in proportion. In addition to this they probably take a note which will cause the farmer as much trouble as those given a Chicago firm by certain farmers of this county a few years ago. Buy of your home merchants and you have a chance to have errors made right.

Oom Paul.

Oom Paul, or Stephanus Johannes Paul Kruger, died at his temporary home in Switzerland Thursday of last week quite suddenly of senile pneumonia. This wonderful old man was born at Colesberg, Cape Colony, October 10, 1825. Early in life he showed himself of exceptional mental faculties and soon became a recognized statesman of the South African republic. He was chosen a member of the executive committee of the Transvaal in 1872, and was for four terms elected president, his last term extending until 1900. When Great Britain vanquished the Boers and began the disruption of the republic, Oom Paul managed to escape on a friendly ship and made his way to Switzerland, where he has since lived in retirement. Frequently reports would issue about his failing health, but a denial of their accuracy would immediately follow until at last the world became disinterested in them. The seriousness of his last illness was kept concealed from all but his relatives, and his death, announced so unexpectedly seems incredible. Oom Paul was wrapped up in the South African republic and when it was dismantled by Great Britain, his heart was broken, and doubtless this had something to do with hastening his taking off. His remains will be taken to his native country for burial.

Concerning Northern Michigan.

Times have changed very materially, truly says the Grand Traverse Herald, since the famous advice, "Young man go west and grow up with the country," was first given. The west has grown up of its own accord and the conditions at the time when this advice was valuable have almost all disappeared. True there are still opportunities in the west, but the opportunities that exist right here in Michigan are fully equal if they do not actually exceed those to be found in the west or southwest.

Land is not high in northern Michigan. The values are comparatively low but a gratifying feature is that they are constantly increasing. Northern Michigan is admirably suited for many things. For manufacturing there is an abundance of water power; for stock raising, grazing lands are plentiful; for fruit growing the climate is well adapted and for general farming it has no equal.

Acres of carnations and roses as big as soup plates cannot be raised here, but man or beast cannot subsist on carnations and roses. Oranges will not grow in this climate but oranges are an unreliable crop and freight rates are apt to consume all the profit. Olives do not prosper in this section, but potatoes are a hundred times more valuable. In addition, there are peaches and pears, sugar beets and apples and many other fruits and vegetables which thrive in abundance.

Northern Michigan has the advantage of the west in many respects. It is right in touch with the market, freight rates are not excessive and shipments may be made either by rail or water. No haul of thousands of miles is necessary and the farm and factory products can be marketed with surprising cheapness.

Thousands of homeseekers can be accommodated in this state and if the manifold advantages were only understood there would be fewer disappointments along the Pacific coast. Another important fact is that the mere price of car fare, approximately $50, to the west coast states, will purchase an unimproved farm which by labor and intelligent work can be made very productive right here in Michigan. If it will not buy a home we know it will at least suffice for the first payment and work and energy will accomplish the rest.

Young man, don't go west, come to Michigan, and Northern Michigan in preference to anywhere else, for this is the coming country.

B. E. Cleveland, of Harrison, was a welcome caller upon the Courier yester-day. Mr. Cleveland as one of the railway mail clerks will shortly go to East Tawas, where he has been assign-ed a permanent position between that point and Rose City, a distance of forty-four miles.—Clare Courier.

Your neighbors will always be found to have some peculiarities—will look at things and do things differently from you. It will do much to pro-mote good neighborly feeling between you and him if you look with kindness and charity upon his peculiarities and give him credit for good intentions and honest purposes until compelled to think otherwise.

The difficulty between the D. & M. and the M. C. railways was settled by agreement between the officials of the two roads, the M. C. agreeing to re-frain from further interference with the D. & M. and the latter read agree-ing to run their track through the property purchased from W. N. Cross and F. N. Klingensmith and leave School Street open to the M. C. depot and freight house. Under this agree-ment all injunction suits were discon-tinued and no case was heard before the court as many expected.

A man in the neighborhood has for some time been troubled with pimples on his nose, and concluded it was time to "do something for it." So he looked around in the pantry and found a bottle of liniment which he applied twice a day for several weeks. In the meantime his nose got no better very rapidly but instead began to assume gigantic proportions. At last he con-sulted his wife about the matter and asked her advice. She asked him what he had been doing for it and he told her he had been using that lin-iment in the pantry. "What lin-iment?" she asked. So he got the bot-tle and showed it to her. "Well, of all the old fools, you beat them all!" screamed his wife. "That ain't lin-iment; that's a bottle of 'bust devel-oper' that Mary Ann sent to St. Louis for."

A Big Race Meeting.

Secretary Cutting has again been given charge of the Saginaw races and announces dates from August 9th to 13th. The very late seasons in Michigan the past few years has put back horses in their speed work, with everything else, and it is felt that the August dates will result in a greater entry-list, although Saginaw has al-ways enjoyed big fields and most ex-cellent races. A program that will appeal to horsemen has been offered as follows:

Whittemore.

W. A. Sperl was a Tawas visitor on Tuesday. S. Mitts spent several days in town this week. Mrs. Joseph Dutton was quite ill a few days last week. Thos. Froekins and wife were at Tawas City last Saturday. John W. Curtis was at Tawas City on business last Saturday. Miss Annie Abbott is visiting relatives and friends at Rose City. Dr. Mooney is entertaining his mother and sister, of Austintown, Ohio. Leon Pharis, of Rose City, was in town on business one day last week. Mrs. M. E. Randall, of Bay City, was the guest of Mrs. C. H. Dillenbeck last week. Paul Crego has been seriously ill for several days but is reported as being somewhat better. E. A. Williams is having the foundation laid for a large barn to be built in the near future. Mrs. Clarence Stockhouse, of Albany, N. Y., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. A. Campbell, went to Harrisville Wednesday to visit friends. Mrs. Campbell accompanied her as far as Tawas City. Last Friday the home of Joseph Dutton was discovered to be on fire. A strong wind was blowing, and for a while it looked as if the building was doomed. Fortunately it was about the hour of noon and the men folks were at home, and by prompt action the fire was soon put out with but a slight loss.

Laidlawville.

Charles Bamberger, of Grant, was a caller in our town Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Will Fasheldt spent Sunday with Mrs. F.'s parents in Wilber. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sylvester and family, of East Tawas, spent a few days at the home of Amos Lake last week. Miss Edna McLeod entertained Miss Alice Ash, of East Tawas, and Mr. Fred Maxwell, of Laurel, Miss., last Friday. Mrs. Henry Anschuetz and daughter Edna, who have been visiting in Port Hope during the past month, returned home Saturday. Henry Anschutz accompanied by his son and daughter, went to Saginaw Tuesday evening to attend the funeral of Mr. A.'s grandmother.

Townline.

Between huckleberries and haying our people are busy. A son was born to Samuel Proper and wife last Sunday. Eph Webb has sold his fine team to Bay City parties, receiving $275. The appearance of the M. E. church and grounds have been greatly improved. The heavy windstorm last Sunday afternoon did considerable damage along the road. Paul Cupp's new house, which was under construction, was blown down, and a number of fruit trees on various farms were blown over.

Wilber Wind.

Don't forget Sunday school next Sunday, as usual. The Gleaner entertainment was a success, financially. H. B. Goodale has struck a fine flow of water on his place. Everybody in Wilber is very busy these days, getting in a fine crop of hay or catching huckleberries. The colt Henson Smith purchased some time ago of H. B. Goodale, was killed by lightning, last Sunday. Mrs. Fred Roberts, who was called here by the serious illness of her brother, Wm. H. Green, has returned to her home near Cheboygan. Mr. Green is slowly recovering.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Title or Open Ditches? A Clay county (Kan.) correspondent writes us that he has a swamp of about an acre on to which flows the water from five acres. He wishes to know whether he should use a tile or open drain, and if the how much fall will be needed, what size of tile should be used and how he should fix the head end of the tile, having to go but 150 feet to find an outlet. This correspondent has always lived on rolling land and does not like the idea of a mudhole in his field. We would by all means tile. An open ditch is a nuisance and should be avoided wherever possible. As to fall, we would get all we could—a foot per 100 feet if possible—but would not give up the project if we had only an inch. The size of the tile depends on the amount of water that drains into the pond and also upon the amount of fall. A three inch tile would probably do provided there was a fall of six inches per 100 feet. We would, however, not take any chances, as it is probable that the water from a good deal more than the five acres gets into that mudhole. We would fix the end of the tile by making a catch basin in the center of the pond about a foot or two deeper than the tile, would brick this up and cover it over, run the main tile into it, and if we were obliged to use any laterals we would also run them through the brick, taking care that as little sediment as possible gets in. If we did not have brick, we would use a barrel, boring holes into it to admit the tile, leaving the head so we could take it out when necessary to clean out the sediment which will settle in below the tile.—Wallace's Farmer.

Country and City Wages. Wages of $3.25 per working day would look pretty big to a good many young men in the country. Yet a Chicago bank has just issued an order to the effect that no employee who gets less than $1,000 per annum shall marry without permission of his employers. A great deal of sport has been made of this rule, but the fact is that it is good business sense. The bank takes the position that a married man with an income of less than $1,000 a year in a great city can too easily live beyond his means, in which case he may succumb to temptation, as many have done. All this illustrates the truth that the cost of living in cities is, as we have often said, getting to a point where good salaries are necessary to comfort. The limit may vary, we do not say that it should be fixed at $1,000, but the fact remains that wages which look big in the country are barely sufficient for a living in the city. This is a matter that should be better understood by people who are tempted by city wages to leave comfortable homes in the country or in villages. "Things are not what they seem" to the man who is ignorant of the cost of living in town.—Stockman and Farmer.

Saw Them Off. If I had a peach orchard two years old, of large, healthy trees, recently frozen, I would saw them off, provided, of course, they were not frozen below where they were budded in the nursery. I see no reason why they should not put forth healthy sprouts, which in time would make good trees. A few years ago a corner of one of my orchards was badly damaged by cattle. The trees were yearlings. The next spring we sawed the trees off a few inches above the bud. With the exception of one or two trees, which sprouted below the bud, they put forth shoots which made profitable trees. From my experience with these trees I would be willing to treat frozen trees in the same manner.—A. E. Rutherford in Rural New Yorker.

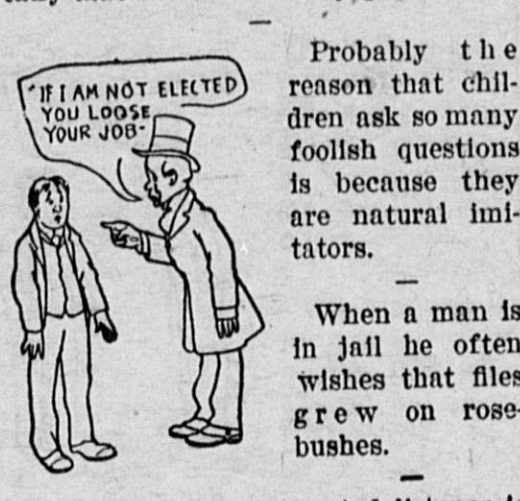

Principles and Practice. The question of soil fertility is the most important one before the agricultural producer today. Fertile soil is the foundation of his business. When fertility fails production falls, and a nonproductive farm is about the poorest property there is. But the maintenance or the restoration of soil fertility is governed by certain principles which are not yet sufficiently understood or applied by farmers. If they were we should have no fertility problem. Methods may differ; some may be better than others. These each individual must determine for himself; no one else can do it for him. But if he keeps the principles always in view he will work out the problem.

The Parcels Post. The postal service was more than a hundred years old before the rural delivery idea prevailed and became an established fact. There were some to obstruct, but the public service was finally put ahead of private interests. The parcels post will soon be a reality. This will permit the farmer to receive at his door parcels as though shipped by express. The rates will be less than the rates now paid on such parcels between towns. Only the express companies now organized and the supporting railroad corporations stand between the people and the parcels post system.—Farm and Ranch.

A Kitchen Garden. It is about hopeless to urge that farmers pay more attention to a kitchen garden if the garden must be cultivated with a hoe. But this is not necessary. Most garden crops can be planted in rows and a horse implement used for stirring the soil and keeping down the weeds. Strange as it may seem, many farms do not have a good variety of small fruits or even vegetables. These can be had without much trouble if the planning is done before the busy season opens.—American Agriculturist.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH Copyright, 1904, by Duncan M. Smith. PERT PARAGRAPHS. On the stage of life the leading lady does some real leading. In the matrimonial firm circumstances force the husband to be the silent partner. It is impossible to feed a girl so much taffy that she will have dyspepsia. Probably the reason that children ask so many foolish questions is because they are natural imitators. When a man is in jail he often wishes that flies grew on rose-bushes. Sometimes a disinterested listener is forced to believe that the man who wants office is prejudiced in favor of his party. Never lend a man your ear unless he gives you his hand as security. After carrying a ton of coal up two flights of stairs you are convinced that it weighs all of 2,000 pounds. No one needs to be lonesome since a fool is born every minute. A bride is led to the altar, but if she understands her job she leads the man away. No furnace ever has to be doctored on account of loss of appetite. There is nothing new under the sun. Pleasure has been equipped with a flying machine for years. Art is long, but artists are long only on hair. A run of luck will convince any man that he has ability. Many a man gets credit for ability because his typewriter understands grammar. When extremes meet, the man with money seldom asks the one without what he will have to drink. Does the counterpart of the Dutch comedian play horse with the English language on the German stage?

All is fair in love except the girl's father; he is the villain of the piece. Fable of the Man Who Found a Better Thing. A poor but industrious Burglar, finding competition in his line so Active and the Police so Strong, began Looking About him for a Business in which the Percentage of Risks in Proportion to the Returns would not be so Much like Those Received by a Boer Republic when investing in a First Class War. While the supply of Hot Air, he reasoned, appeared to be Unlimited, yet the Demand continued Good, and he had no Doubt that if he could find Some Way to put it on the Market in Attractive Packages it would secure a Ready Sale. Casting about for Something that he could sell, he spied the Drug Business, but as his Capital consisted wholly of Native Wit he was obliged to Cut that Out of the List of Possibilities. He further Observed that the Neighbors had their Safes full of Mining Stock and decided that the Competition in that Line was as Fierce as in the Burglary Business. As he was about to give up in Despair and Return to his Regular Calling an Idea struck him three inches under the Crown of the Hat. "Ha!" he cried. "I have it! I will be a Beauty Doctor!" After Washing his Whiskers with Perfumed Soap and donning a Raff-bow Tinted Vest which he had stolen from a Dude, he rented a Large Room in a Tall Building, hung out a Sign and Advertised that he was There to make Homely people Beautiful or the Money Refunded. He selected a Few Big Words out of a Book without stopping to Look up their Meaning and was ready for Business. After putting some Corn Salve and Horse Liniment on the Faces of the Ladies who Flocked to his Rooms he told them They were already Better Looking and that it would be an Even Five Dollar Bill. Moral.—Never Waste Horse Liniment on a Thirty-seven Cent Plug.

Nothing to Change. The wise man oft will change his mind As o'er a subject he may range. As for the fool, alas, you find He has no mind to change! What Else? "What would you do if you had a million dollars?" "Spend it." Knew of One. "Do you believe in lucky days?" "Sure—pay day."
