It conquers all coughs, colds and throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed by G. S. Darling, and J. E. Dillon, drug store Price 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

TEACHERS.

The examinations in reading for the year beginning July 1, 1904 will be based on the following selections: August, 1904, "Act III Julius Caesar"—Shakespeare.

October, 1904, "Thanatopsis"—Bryant.

March, 1905, "Elegy in a Country Churchyard"—Gray.

June 1905, "Ode to a Skylark"—Shelley.

August, 1904, "Prisoner of Chillon"—Byron.

October, 1905, "Oration at the Laying of the Corner Stone of Bunker Hill Monument"—Webster.

EIGHTH GRADE.

May 1905, "Barefoot Boy"—Whittier.

Very respectfully,
J. A. CAMPBELL.

A deaf and dumb man may become eloquent with his hands, but not nearly so much so as a prize fighter.

When a girl has several brothers who insist on talking politics at the table she frequently marries a member of the other party just to get even with them.

The average man can't see why his wife won't forget how he used to act when he was courting her.

A little nonsense now and then will often fool a lot of men, especially if a good looking girl is handing it out.

When a fisherman tells the exact truth it is time to send for the doctor.

A romantic girl discovers soon after her wedding that truth is stranger than fiction.

Make Life Worth Living.

Our precious, hard earned wealth we spend

For empty show and tinsel bright; Good money with a puff we send In smoke, cavorting out of sight, And e'er next pay day is in view We haven't in our jeans a sou.

The luxuries somehow we need, Necessities won't do instead; We couldn't slacken down our speed For such a vulgar thing as bread, Why should we miss the rosy views Because the baby may need shoes?

And so we worry, pinch and plan, Grow old and gray before our prime, Work overtime whenever we can— For bread? No, for a high old time; All for a little gaudy show And for a ten or two to blow.

Perhaps when all is done and said That is the better way to do. For work and sleep and clothes and bread Would life be worth the passing through? For good authorities have said We'll be a mighty long time dead.

Scorned Their Help.

"Poor Jenks! His rich uncle left him a fortune, and he does not know how to spend money."

"Yes, and the worst of it is that he will not let experts like ourselves show him."

In His Line.

A dude who was dressed very well On a small bit of orange peel fell. Like a person insane He hollered with pain— Oh, he was a howling swell!

Equipped For His Calling.

"There goes Knox, the celebrated critic."

"I knew it," replied Sherlock Holmes. "He has ears built to hold a hammer as other men hold a pencil."

What's the Answer?

Though in his second childhood Much substance he possessed. She was in second mourning— Of course you know the rest.

Supplied.

"Let me sell you an educated monkey."

"No, thanks; I already have three sons-in-law."

A Hard Think.

Think once or twice before you speak— That is true wisdom, so they claim. You have to think about a week Before you speak a Russian name.

From Afar Off.

"Miss Johnson, may I see you home?" "Certainly if you will do so through a telescope."

TAWAS CITY, MICH., AUG. 26, 1904.

The democratic senatorial convention for the 28th district has been called to meet at Standish, Sept. 6.

Bishop Potter and his sub-way tavern are receiving a lot of free advertising, and should be a success financially, even if it does not reduce the amount of drunkenness in Greater New York.

The revolutionists of Russia now claim that the new heir to the throne is not of royal blood, but is the son of a Russian peasant woman, and was born the day previous to the birth of a fifth daughter, born to the royal family.

The Des Moines Register is moved to exclaim: "Think of a baby born to rule 130,000,000 people, of whom 129,999,999 are ready to assassinate him!" The new heir to the Russian throne certainly has promise of a lively future.

Candidate Ferris is getting endorsements from hundreds of the leading republicans throughout the state who are honestly in favor of direct nominations. He is gaining strength steadily and the "machine" already shows signs of fear.

Of 199 young men who passed the mental examinations for Annapolis 114 were rejected for physical disability. A larger per cent of applicants for enlistment in the army are rejected because of physical defects. The per cent of young men who are physically deficient seems to be growing.

Openly Violated in Tawas.

When a person sees children from eight to seventeen years of age smoking cigarettes and chewing tobacco, they wonder why laws were ever enacted. Here is the law governing the sale of tobacco to children:

"It shall not be lawful for any person by himself, his clerk or agent, to sell, give or furnish any cigar, cigarette, cheroot, chewing or smoking tobacco in any form whatsoever, to any minor under seventeen years of age, unless upon a written order of the parent or guardian of said minor.

"Any person who shall wilfully violate any or the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not less than ten days, nor more than 30 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court."

Help Your Newspaper.

Every merchant has daily opportunities to help the local paper without costing him a cent. The editor must depend largely upon his fellow-townsmen for news, and even to a considerable extent, for ideas. The brightest man on earth would soon run dry were it not for ideas conceived from outside sources.

About the most valuable quality in a newspaper man is that of recognizing a good thing when he hears it, and crystalizing it then and there. The profound mind is all right in its place, but a keen and appreciative scent for the pertinent paragraph, and the ability to express it clearly and tersely, is at the bottom of the success of many, if not most of the widely read and greatest newspapers of the day.

Good ideas occur to you; make a note of them. Little items of news may now and then come to your ears just then down, and when the editor or reporter comes along with his eternal "anything new," hand them to him. He will not be slow to appreciate your efforts, even if he can't use your stuff, and you'll get many a complimentary notice, or perhaps a better position for your ad in payment.

Besides, this habit is a distinct help to you. It makes you more observant, causes you to pay more attention to expressions and will be of no little assistance to you in getting up your ads. Try it for a month. You'll keep it up.

Also, when your ad. brings excellent results, tell your publisher of the fact; don't try to hide the good news for fear he will raise your rates; no fear of that; he wants you to succeed. Besides, it furnishes him with a most convincing argument to induce some backward fellow to advertise.—The Ad-Writer.

Rules Whereby Wheat is Graded.

The Michigan State Millers' association has made an announcement as to grading of wheat which will be of interest to all farmers and citizens who have wheat to sell. It is as follows:

"We grade wheat as follows: Full price red wheat must weigh fifty-nine pounds. Full price white wheat must weigh fifty-eight pounds by the tester after being cleaned. If wheat tests one pound light we deduct two cents in the price or one pound of flour in exchange. If wheat tests two pounds light we deduct four cents in price, or two pounds of flour in exchange. If wheat tests four pounds light we deduct twelve cents in price, or five pounds of flour in exchange. If wheat tests five pounds light we pay three-fourths of the full price.

"All wheat testing lower than the foregoing is worth about the price of corn for feeding purposes. If wheat is mixed with rye to the extent of 1 per cent to 3 per cent, we deduct five cents per bushel in addition to all other deductions. Wheat mixed with more than 3 per cent of rye will be bought only on special prices."

The Scratches.

Cure the scratches on your horses now, before the mud of the fall comes back. Scratches, or cracked heels, is an inflammation of the skin around the hollow of the heels, causing a chapped condition of the skin, and a dry scurvy appearance, with heat, redness and itching, and most frequently occurs from wet and cold, mostly confined to the cold months of the year. No medicine on earth will cure a horse of this disease if he is allowed to stand in the wet and mud. Keep the bowels open and see to it that the stable is kept perfectly dry. After cleaning well try the following:

- Chloride of Zinc, 1 1/2 drachms.
- Water 10 ounces.
- Glycerine 8 ounces.

Mix well and rub in.

The Loud company of AuSable, is cutting a lot of timber for government crib work in making harbor improvements, the government taking all of that kind of timber the company can turn out. Evidently Col. Loud was able to do some business while at Washington last winter.

The production of salt in Michigan in the calendar year 1903 was 4,297,542 barrels, or 22.6 per cent of the total production in the United States. The leading state in the output of that commodity is New York, which produced 8,170,648 barrels, or 43.1 per cent of the total. Ohio produced about 2,500,000 barrels, and Kansas 1,500,000 barrels.

William West, the democratic candidate for sheriff, is one of Iosco county's most successful and substantial farmers, and is a man whom his neighbors are all glad to honor. He served three years as supervisor of Grant township and gave universal satisfaction. He has also filled other township offices, the duties of which were always discharged in a honorable and satisfactory manner.

Material for the Iosco county exhibit at the state fair is coming in fairly well, but not as rapidly as the committee desire. It is hoped to have a large and well assorted exhibit of both fruit, grain and other products, and to this end every farmer is urged to contribute something. Do your part and we will land Iosco county in the first place. Exhibits left at the Herald office will be taken care of and prepared for shipment.

Albert W. Black, who has accepted the nomination for prosecuting attorney on the democratic ticket, is a graduate of the state law class, of Lansing, in which city he studied in the office of Hon. C. A. Black, one of the best known lawyers of the state. Mr. Black was admitted to the bar last April, after passing the examination before the state examining board. He at once made arrangements to begin the practice of law in our county, and opened an office at East Tawas. He is well qualified for the duties of prosecutor, and if elected the result will be entirely satisfactory to the electors of this county.

SATISFACTION ASSURED

A LITTLE NONSENSE.
How Admiral Dewey Got the Better of a Well Known Millionaire.
 Back in the seventies, when Dewey had command of a ship of the old Hartford type, he was lying in the harbor off Genoa. Visitors were allowed on board at all times except Sunday morning, at which time inspection took place. One Sunday a well known American millionaire steamed out with a party of friends in his private yacht and succeeded in getting on deck, where he was met by Captain Dewey, who asked him to leave. Mr. Money remonstrated, and finally, exasperated by the cool firmness of the officer, he burst out:
 "No, sir, I won't leave. I am an American citizen and have a perfect right on this vessel. I pay taxes in America. I am on my own property; part of this ship belongs to me!"
 Calmly Dewey opened his pen-knife, stooped down and split off a piece of the deck flooring. Handing it to the incensed American citizen, he replied:
 "There's about what you own, and there's the ladder. Now git!"
 And he got.—Lippincott's Magazine.

He Admits It.

 "Why, see here, you've raised the price of your bananas again!"
 "Yes, yes, me raisa price. Too mucha war."
 "What's the war got to do with it?"
 "War raisa price. Raisa price of bread. Raisa price of meat. Raisa price of banan."
 "Nonsense! Why should war raise the price of bananas?"
 "War raisa price. Russia man, Japa man, buy aplenty banan. Eata banan, throw skin down so! Long come greata general, step on banan skin—whoof! He fall and breaka his head. All ze generals fall. Taka much banan. War raisa price."
 —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Facts and Fancies.
 "What made you so late this morning?" asked the floorwalker.
 "Got to telling a fellow on the car what I would do if I had a million," answered the clerk.
 "What of it?"
 "Well, I got so excited that I rode fifteen blocks past my usual getting off place, and, as I didn't have a nickel, I had to walk back."—Indianapolis Sun.

Neutrality.
 "How are your sympathies in this eastern fuss?" they asked him.
 "Oh, I don't care which whips," returned the veteran war correspondent, with a bored look. "I've traveled in jirrikisha and I've traveled in a drosky, and one tires me about as much as the other."—Wheeling (W. Va.) Telegraph.

A Rich Find.

TURNER, Aug. 24.—S. Rosenthal, a farmer near here, has struck a bonanza. While drilling a well on his place, workmen struck 14 feet of fine clay, of the kind used in the manufacture of fire proof brick. Below this they came upon a bed of gypsum rock, or alabaster, 20 feet in thickness. Still further down they struck a vein of coal six feet thick.

Those who have examined the land are of the opinion that these deposits extend for some distance on all sides.
Expert chemists pronounce the samples of excellent quality, and Mr.
Rosenthal is in receipt of handsome offers for his property, but he has not yet made up his mind whether to work the property himself or sell out.
Under the vein of coal lies 23 feet of shale, gypsum and selenite.

CONDENSED STORIES.

A Good One by the President of the Joke Makers' Union.

Assessor Darnelle is president of the district branch of the Joke Makers' union and is quick to take advantage of any opportunity to create a laugh, says the Washington Times. As chairman of the excise board, which held a prolonged session the other day, he is accused of the following:

The proprietor and barkeeper of a saloon were before the board to show cause why the license of the saloon should not be revoked. The charge was permitting disorderly conduct.

The proprietor was placed on the stand, but in reply to every question answered in a low whisper. He said he was unable to talk louder. Consequently the barkeeper was called,
but he, too, was suffering from loss of voice. He could not articulate above a whisper.

Assessor Darnelle stopped the proceedings and, turning to the policeman who was there as a witness, said, "Officer, what is the charge against these persons?"

"Permitting disorderly conduct,
sir," was the reply.

"I think you have made a grave mistake," retorted the assessor.
"The charge should have been operating a speak easy."

It is understood that one of the members of the excise board is laughing yet.

Nothing to Prevent It.

Representative Clayton of Alabama and Representative Griggs of Georgia, whose districts adjoin, went hunting on a day last fall.
They stayed out later than they ex-

"NOBODY'S HENDERIN' YOU."

pected to and at sunset found themselves miles from home and without food or drink.

They trudged along until they came to a cabin at the end of a lane they had been following.

Clayton rapped on the door. An old man stuck his head out of a window and asked gruffly:

"What do you all want?"

"We want to stay here all night," said Clayton.

"Well," growled the man as he banged the window shut, "stay there;
nobody's henderin' you."—Kansas City Journal.

Force of Habit.

Wallace Morris, theatrical manager, tells of an experience he had in a country boarding house not many miles from the borough of Manhattan. It appears that one of the lodgers was rather a mystery, and nobody seemed to know much about him. One day the landlady said to Mr. Munro:

"I don't believe that new boarder is a bachelor. I'm sure he must be either a married man or a widower."

"Why, how on earth can you tell?" asked Mr. Munro.

"Easily enough," replied the veteran boarding house keeper. "Because whenever he pays his board he always turns his back to me when he takes out his money."

A Remarkable Feat.

Exploration is a subject which has a special interest for J. M. Barrie, as the writer's recent gift of $250 to the Scottish antarctic expedition would indicate, and he always has taken particular delight in the society of seekers after the undiscovered. In Barrie's early days Joseph Thomson, the African explorer, was one of his chief friends and greatest heroes, and the novelist made the traveler one of his famous "Edinburgh Eleven." "Perhaps," wrote Barrie of Thomson, "his most remarkable feat consisted in taking a bottle of brandy into the heart of Africa and bringing it back intact."
