Willard Robinson has the distinction of having landed the largest mud-hen(?) so far since the duck season opened. Its actual weight was 247 pounds. It became necessary to lash two boats together and required considerable time to get it into the boat. Sheriff Johnson says it will take more than that to make him quit hunting ducks.

Fifty of the friends of Rev. and Mrs. E. King perpetrated a pleasant surprise on them at the M. E. parsonage last Friday evening when they took full possession of the place, and at the close of a pleasant evening presented the pastor and his wife with a well-filled purse expressive of the good wishes of the congregation and their pleasure at their return for a fourth year. The purse was presented by James Hamilton on behalf of the donors. Rev. King replied indicating his gratitude and appreciation.

The marriage of two of our popular young people was solemnized at St. Joseph church last Monday morning, when Rev. Fr. Kinney said the words that made Wilfred Grise, of this city, and Miss Minnie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Youngs, of Tawas township, man and wife. An elaborate wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Odellon Grise. The happy couple left on the 9:15 train for a short wedding trip. The Herald joins their many friends in extending congratulations.

College Fellows

are more particular about their clothing than any other class of men.

They are at just the age when care in personal appearance is developed to its fullest extent, and their surroundings and associations are such that they are constantly under the necessity of appearing at their best.

Nine out of every ten College men wear Clothcraft Clothes because they fill their requirements exactly.

A glance at the "Newport" and "Rugby" models shown in the illustration will tell you how and why.

The clothes are faultlessly fashioned and fit to perfection.

And because that fit is TAILORED, not PRESSED into the garments they retain it throughout life.

The broad shoulders don't sag, the coat fronts don't droop, the trousers don't get baggy.

Every bit of style a Clothcraft suit possesses when it is made it has with it when you wear it the last time.

What is a Machine?

Our old and respected friend, the Adrian Daily Times, shows some evidence of that campaign madness which often as election approaches begins to warp the judgment of the party organ that at other times is remarked for its levelness and sanity.
The Adrian Times protests against the use of the term "machine" in a way to attach to it opprobrious meaning, and it names The Tribune as an offender in so using it in the present campaign. The Times asks, "What is a machine?" The question is well worth answering.

By the use of the word "machine" in this campaign it is the distinct purpose of The Tribune to "attach opprobrious meaning to it." We do not for a moment desire to confuse the machine with the republican state organization as a whole. We are certain that there are many good men in that organization. But by the machine we mean that inner clique which, working in the dark and by nefarious methods, controls the organization and dictates its acts both in convention and legislative hall.

By the machine we mean that insidious ring which for vote-getting purposes only can cause two great republican state conventions to promise primary reform to the people of Michigan with never the shadow of an intention of allowing the legislature to redeem the promise. A ring which, when it found that great popular leader Theodore Roosevelt at the head of the national ticket, believing he would pull it through under any circumstances, did not hesitate to pack a state convention and cause it to repudiate the promises of the two previous state conventions. A ring the members of which were so firmly intrenched as to be able to say, as Tom Navin said in this county, that no man would this year be allowed to go to the republican state convention who was not pledged to vote against primary reform.

By the machine we mean that same ring which was able by a few pre-emptory orders to turn the convention of 1900 from such a man as James O'Donnell, of Jackson, and deliver the republican nomination for governor to such a man as Aaron T. Bliss, of Saginaw, who when elected could be called out of bed by Tom Navin and caused to sign in his night shirt a bill hastily rushed through the legislature tearing up the city government of Detroit and turning its chief official emoluments over to friends of Navin and his associates.

By the machine we mean that same saturnine influence which could cause the committees of the state legislature to be so arranged as to coolly prevent the people of the state from voting on a proposition to allow the city of Detroit to decide by popular vote whether they desired to buy and own the Detroit street railways. And this in face of the fact that the city of Detroit was writhing helplessly in the grip of a corporation which is taking so much money from the people of Detroit as to be able to pay on an actual investment of about $10,- 000,000 dividends on a total watered capitalization of over $35,000,000.

By the machine we mean the influence responsible for the retention of such men as Freeman and Sayre on the state tax commission: Freeman and Sayre, who stood plainly forth as traitors to the state when they signed affidavits favorable to the railroads; Freeman and Sayre who said they signed those affidavits on the advice of Atwood, although their natural adviser as officers of the state was the attorney-general, whom they consulted not at all; Freeman and Sayre, who were denounced for their act by the attorney-general, who demanded that they be summarily removed from office for cause, but who were not removed because the machine protected them; Freeman and Sayre, who protested that the affidavits they made were no more than the whole tax commission had sworn to, but who could not make good this claim when they faced the attorney-general in open court; Freeman and Sayre, against whom others present at the meetings of the state tax commission made the charge in court under oath that the aforesaid Freeman and Sayre, while the tax commission was in session and engaged in fixing assessments, showed constant anxiety to protect the railroads.

By the machine we mean those now in control of state affairs, who do not hesitate to say they believe it would be dangerous to allow the people to make the state nominations by direct vote. Dangerous for whom? Guess.

combination of underground operators who prepared and carried out the conspiracy whereby the appointment of all state census enumerators for 1904 was placed in the hands of the man previously selected as the machine candidate for governor, viz: Fred M. Warner, who proclaims his fitness to be classed as a typical machine servant by now claiming on the stump, at least in certain localities of the state, that he believes in primary reform, although it is known of all men that when the state association of farmers' clubs met in Lansing in December, 1903, no man worked harder or more frantically to keep that association from endorsing primary reform than did Fred M. Warner and certain of his subordinates in the office of the secretary of state.

private control of state affairs which has been able to maintain itself in power and dictate the state conventions of the republican party by running up the expenses of the state government from $3,935,605.68 in 1895 to $8,151,639.10 in 1904, an increase of 109 per cent, although the state increased in population during the same nine years by only 13 per cent, a ratio of increase in expenses that all taxpayers must shudder to look forward to if the machine is to remain in control for nine years more.

By the machine we mean those men who control the affairs of the people, yet who are not responsible to the people and cannot be reached by the people as long as present methods prevail, men who would not give us primary reform if every person in the state signed a petition praying for it. By the use of the term machine The Tribune means to indicate that it stands today where it has always stood, the foe of the usurper of power, the enemy of those who by stealth rob the people of their just rights.

By the machine The Tribune means exactly what it meant 50 years ago, when it gave its undivided support and aid to those grand men who under the oaks at Jackson denounced the national machine which was then trying by stealth and subterfuge and underhandedness to ruin our common country, a criminal enterprise which only an appeal to the people prevented, first at the ballot box and later on the battlefield. You remember what that great, spontaneous convention at Jackson called the national machine on that memorable 6th of July, 1854, do you not? "An aristocracy the most revolting with which the earth was ever cursed or man de-based."

A machine is always an aristocrat in the sense that it has nothing in common with the people. The machine that lived on black slaves in 1854 was that way, and the machine that would make white slaves of us in 1904 is the same.—Detroit Tribune.

The report of the state game warden for the month of September shows the number of cases investigated to have been 147; number of cases begun, 61; number of convictions, 50; number acquitted 3; number dismissed, 0; cases pending 8; amount of fines and costs, $802.02; arrests for violation of fish laws, 20; seizures, 13. The false reports regarding the opening of the duck season on Sept. 1 gave the wardens much trouble and in some cases was the cause of prosecutions.

"The Steepest Railway in the World" is the subject of an interesting illustrated article contributed to the October number of the Review of Reviews, by Dr. Hugo Erichsen. This article describes the electric railway that is now in the course of construction up the sides of the Jungfrau. The assertion in the title seems to be well justified by the facts, for the grade of this railway is within 2 per cent. of 45 degrees. When completed, this triumph of Swiss engineering skill will undoubtedly rank as the greatest scenic railway in the world.

In this day of progress in the business world, the advertisement is the business man's guide board to success. It is the hand that guides steadily on to the goal of financial prosperity. Without advertising the merchant cannot expect to reach the goal. An ad well displayed and setting forth in clear lines the few things desired to be carried into public view shows your progressiveness and cannot help but result in benefit to you. It is a wise investment and the money so invested is not wasted. Advertise and advertise constantly is the right way. Try an ad. in the Herald and see for yourself.

Tawas City Library.

The attention of the boys and girls and book readers is especially called this week to the nice lot of new books just received from the State Library. There are 100 in all and comprise principally fiction, indian stories, hunting adventures, travel, history etc. besides a few books on natural history and ethics, for the heavier class of readers. The list is picked out especially to suit the young people, and is the "pick" of the state library of 60,000 volumes of a like class; and there is not a boy or girl in the city who will not be able to find something good and nice among the lot.

Mayor Hartingh however, says that it is only right the borrowers of books should understand that the library board, who secured the loan from the state, had to give their personal pledge that the books would be well taken care of, and not dirtied up, marred or torn and must be returned in good condition so they may be passed on to some other town. It is therefore kindly requested that each borrower of a book see that it is nicely treated and carefully read and kept, and returned in due time.

Each book has a card on the inside of the back cover, where the borrower is requested to write the name of each person in the house who reads it and the card slipped again into the cover and returned with the book. The object of this is so the state library board may know which books are read the most and liked the best, and they will be glad to send us the same class of books. So if we treat the books right and read them well, we will always be able to get just the best books we want, and they are all dandies.

It is requested also that the older boys and girls and the parents visit the library for books, as it is difficult for the Librarian to deal with children. The reference volumes and standard sets of literature and histories now in the library are the best in the county, and with those as a foundation to work on, the books which are found to be the most in demand and most read will be added right along, until there will be at least 2000 volumes.

Any person or family having volumes of fiction, history or travel which they have read and do not need, and think the library would be benefited by them are hereby requested to present them to the library, if they so desire; because that is the place where they will do the most good and the library board is and will be glad at all times to have help of this kind in building up the supply of books where it will induce the folks, and especially the young folks to come and use them. Everybody is invited to help the library and reading room along, and if it is well thought of and used as it should be, it will be enlarged when it is moved to the new location, and a larger reading room, and other attractions added so that we will all be proud of it.
