A LANDSLIDE.

The Republican Administration in Nation and State Endorsed.

Roosevelt will Have 343 Electoral Votes to 131 for Parker.

The People of Michigan have Unanimously Endorsed "Machine Rule."

By their ballots cast last Tuesday the people of this Nation gave the administration of President Roosevelt the greatest endorsement that was ever given any American president. This was made possible by two things, first his administration, and second by the desire of an army of democrats throughout the United States who desired to administer a rebuke to the "Cleveland-Belmont" gang who forced their views on the democratic national convention at St. Louis.

Roosevelt has carried every doubtful state in the north and broke into the "solid south" by carrying Missouri. His wonderful run has carried to victory many state and county tickets which would otherwise have went down to defeat.

Parker has not carried a state that was not carried by Bryan four years ago, and has lost some that Bryan carried, while his vote in almost every state is less than that of Bryan's.

One of the remarkable features of the election was the heavy socialist vote in Chicago, where Debs received nearly 50,000 votes.

Roosevelt carried Massachusetts by nearly 90,000, and W. L. Douglas, the democratic candidate for governor, was elected by about 40,000. Johnson, democrat, was elected governor of Minnesota.

Alva Adams the democratic nominee for governor of Colorado was elected over Gov. Peabody by at least 5000 majority.

The republicans have made a large gain in congressmen.

MICHIGAN.

With practically complete returns this state will give Roosevelt 190,000, the largest majority ever given a candidate, and this unheard of majority is the only thing that saved Warner from defeat for governor, as, while he will have about 50,000 majority, he will be nearly 140,000 behind the republican majority in the state.

Woodbridge N. Ferris made a remarkable run for governor and was defeated only by the great majority for Roosevelt. He carried nine counties in the state by good majorities, Barry by 200, Ingham 400, Ionia 350, Jackson 100, Kent 1800, Livingston 850, St. Joseph 300, Washtenaw 700 and Wayne 6000, not only this but he cut Warner's majority in almost every other county to more than 60 per cent below the rest of the republican ticket.

The indications are that the state legislature is solidly republican, no democrat being elected in either the house or the senate.

Roosevelt carried every county in the state. In Wayne county his majority will be above 5000, while the county gives Ferris, democrat for governor, 5,461 over Warner. But one democrat was elected in that county, he being City Treasurer Thompson. Donby defeated Lucking for congress by 7,000, and Codd defeated Maybury for mayor of Detroit by about 3,000.

The republicans elect the entire 12 congressmen in the state, Hon. Geo. A. Loud being re-elected from the 10th district by an increased majority which will reach nearly 10,000.

Bay county elected the entire republican county ticket by large majorities.

The republicans carried Alpena county by majorities from 300 to 1500. Arenac county gave republican majorities for all the candidates except Rollie White, democrat, who was elected county clerk.

Isaac Bearinger Dead.

Isaac Bearinger, of Saginaw, died at Inlay City, last Saturday, while on his way to visit his parents near that place. Mr. Bearinger was well known in this locality. Below is a sketch of the deceased from the Saginaw correspondent of the Evening News:

There was no more unique or interesting character in Michigan than Isaac Bearinger, whose sudden passing has shocked and grieved the citizens of Saginaw more than any event in a long time. He was essentially a man of action, one who possessed the power of concentrated thought, and the necessary determination to carry to successful completion the plans he conceived. Coming here a poor youth with nothing but his own exertions to depend upon, he showed the ability that was in him, and steadily but surely acquired immense means, considering the field.

His fixity of purpose was a marked characteristic. He determined to acquire large property in one part of the city and to establish there a park and race track which should equal for show and circuit purposes any in the state, or elsewhere for that matter. He did it, and union park, Saginaw, is known far and wide among horsemen of the United States.

He early began to acquire real estate, and once acquired, the property became valuable, even though of no account before. He bought a property, for instance, at the corners of Franklin and Tuscola streets, and when he got it his friends simply laughed at his declaration that he would make it a center of business activity. He improved its surrounding, erected upon it a six-story fireproof business and office building, and he lived to see what he had predicted accomplished, and the locality a recognized center of the business and office life of the city.

It was Isaac Bearinger who built the Interurban railway connecting Saginaw and Bay City, and people today do not quite understand how the two cities ever managed to get along without this necessary connecting link.

Personally, Mr. Bearinger was one of the most approachable of men. He was liberal in his benevolences, and nothing delighted him more than on holiday seasons visiting the various stores and making purchases in large quantities for charitable institutions and for children. In all, Isaac Bearinger was a man whom Saginaw could ill afford to lose, and his example of accomplishment is one full of lessons for the young man of the present generation.

Clothcraft Belted Overcoats

Many people have the idea that a belted overcoat is the same as any other, the only difference being that it has a belt.

That may be true of the majority of belted overcoats, but it's NOT true of the Clothcraft kind.

They are cut on special patterns which allow the belt to draw without wrinkling the goods in the wrong place, tightening the coat or destroying its fit and shape in the least.

The style illustrated is the "Eton."

It's one of the snappiest coats ever produced.

Materials are the popular mixed goods, Chevots, Tweeds, Freizes and Meltons. Come in and ask us to show you these coats.

Take the one you like at $10 to $35.

IOSCO COUNTY.

This county cast about 1950 votes, which was less than four years ago, and considerably below our entire vote. The republican majority in the county was increased from about 550 to 1028, which is the figures on the Roosevelt electors. William West, democrat, made a most excellent run for sheriff and in ordinary years would have been elected by a safe majority, as would Albert W. Black, the democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney. Considering all things Mr. Black made an extraordinary run, as he was comparatively unknown, yet he ran ahead in every township and city except Sherman. The run made by these two candidates is most remarkable when it is considered that the principal fight in the county was made on them. Warner for governor ran far behind his ticket. G. A. Prescott lead the ticket with a majority of 978. Below is the vote:

President—	Roosevelt, rep.	1486—1028
	Parker, dem.	458

The election passed off very quietly in this city. The new registration was considerable below the old, as many voters failed to register. Of those on the register nearly all voted, the total vote in the city being 247. The city gave an increased republican majority over two and four years ago. William West, democratic nominee for sheriff carried every ward, his majority in the city being 48. Below is the vote of the city.

Not a Sick Day Since. "I was taken several sick with kidney trouble: I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One of Sheridan's Dodges. It is related of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the dramatist and statesman, that, always in debt, he had among his creditors the brothers Challe, who were the partners in a wine firm in 1775. One day when he was giving a dinner party to some distinguished people Sheridan sent for one of the brothers, told him he was now able to settle his account and invited him to the dinner party, asking him to come before the hour for some private conversation. Challe arrived early, and he was no sooner in the house than Sheridan sent off a servant with a note to the clerk desiring him, as Mr. Challe was favoring him with his company, to send as soon as possible three dozen of burgundy, two dozen of claret and two dozen of port, with a dozen of old hock. The unsuspecting clerk sent the wine, with which the guests were so pleased that they asked where it came from. Sheridan, turning toward Challe, said, "I am indebted to my friend here for all the wine you have tasted and am always proud to recommend him." It was not until the following morning that Challe realized the double meaning in Sheridan's words. The debt was canceled.

The Lonely Library. At the English universities the libraries are so little used that they have become famous as places of unbroken solitude. One yarn told to illustrate this is to the effect that an elderly fellow of Catus college, Cambridge, got tired of life and determined to put himself quietly and unostentatiously out of the way, so that the world in general and Catus college in particular should know him no more. Being a man with a great love for his university and a greater love still for his college, he made up his mind that no scandal should be caused by his sudden departure, so he debated in his mind the ways and means. His decision was an inspiration. He bought a decent length of rope and hanged himself in the college library. But his hopes were doomed to disappointment. He was discovered a year and a half later.

Long Cooking. Of fresh foods the elephant's foot needs cooking the longest time, as it does not acquire its proper tenderness and succulence till it has been baked for about thirty-six hours. Next comes tripe, which requires from ten to fifteen hours of boiling before it becomes thoroughly digestible. Next come hams of good size, which require from six to seven hours. Of roast meats, a haunch of venison takes longer than any other joint—about three and a half hours. Of puddings, the Christmas pudding comes easily first, as it is boiled over and over again. Sometimes it is kept for months or years and undergoes several boilings. The average time is from six to eight hours. The vegetable which takes the longest time to cook is the onion.—London Mail.

Huxley on Darwin's Degree. Huxley did not love degrees, but he had to have one. Anticipating the donning of the red gown he informed his friends that after the ceremony he would have to be treated as a person of respectability. "I have done my best to avoid that misfortune," said he, "but it's of no use." It was Oxford that paid him the compliment, as it had done to Darwin two years earlier. When Darwin was given the degree Huxley let him have no false idea as to the honor bestowed. "Canon Pusey," he declared, "has been making inquiry as to who are the blackest heretics on the list proposed. He was glad to assent in your case in order to keep out seven devils worse."

Near Side and Off Side. When horses were first hitched to vehicles the driver never thought of riding himself, but walked by the side of the road as he held the lines. So as to have his right hand always ready he walked on the left side, and consequently the horse on the left side came to be known as the "near" horse, and the one on the right side was called the "off" horse. In that manner the terms "near horse" and "off horse" became general and still pertain to horses hitched as a team.

Reluctant to Give Up. "Lend me $10, old man. I'm a little short." "That won't help you any. You'll be just as short after getting the money." "Nonsense, old chap! How do you make that out?" "Why, after giving you the $10 I don't expect to see you any longer."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He Probably Took the Hint. Young Tutter—Miss Clara, suppose that tomorrow evening I should call again and, having nerved myself up to it, suddenly, while we were conversing, I should without a word throw my arms around your neck and deliberately kiss you, what would you do? Miss Pinkley—Oh, Mr. Tutter, don't ask me to look so far ahead.

A Maddening Position. The hardest thing a girl does is to refrain from asking a man a question that she knows will make him mad when she is just boiling with curiosity to know the answer.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Easy Remedy. He—Here is your dressmaker's bill. She is becoming impatient for her money. She—Indeed. Then I must call tomorrow and order a new dress.

The Brute. She—You married me for my money. He—Well, it's no use grieving over it now; it's all gone.—New Yorker.

Men attending the pans in salt works are never known to have cholera, smallpox, scarlet fever or influenza.

The Dainty Ant. Ants have no set time for brushing up, but certain conditions plainly incite thereto, as when they feel particularly comfortable, as after eating or after awakening from or before going to sleep. The keen sense of discomfort aroused by the presence of dirt incites to cleansing. Often one may see an ant suddenly pause in the midst of the duties of field or fornicary and begin to comb herself. Here is a mountain mound maker driven by the passion of nest building to the utmost fervor of activity. Suddenly she drops out of the gang of yellow workers and, mounting a nearby clod, poses upon her hind legs and piles teeth, tongue and comb. For a few moments the aim of being is centered upon that act. Around her coign of vantage sweeps to and fro the bustling host of builders with all their energies bent upon reconstructing their ruined city. She combs on unconcernedly. From top of head to tip of hind legs she goes, smoothing out ruffled hairs and removing atoms of soil invisible to human eyes. Her toilet is ended at last.—H. C. McCook in Harper's Magazine.

Ocean Cannibals. Such fierce carnivorous fishes as exist in the depths of the ocean are unknown at the surface. There is a "black swallower" which devours other finny creatures ten times as big as itself, literally climbing over its victim, first with one jaw and then with the other. Another species is nearly all mouth, and having no power of locomotion it lies buried in the soft ooze at the bottom, its head alone protruding, ready to engulf any prey that may wander into its cavernous jaws. There is a ferocious kind of shark, resembling a huge eel. All of these monsters are black as ink. Some of them are perfectly blind, while others have enormous, goggling eyes. No ray of sunlight ever pierces the dark, unfathomed caves in which they dwell. Each species is gobbled by the species next bigger, for there is no vegetable life to feed on.—Spare Moments.

The Forests of the Amazon. According to some astronomers the greenish patches on the planet Mars indicate woodland regions, and a scientist predicts that centuries after the rest of this earth has become as barren as the mountains of the moon Martian astronomers will still distinguish here bright green spots of considerable extent near the east coast of South America. The forests of the Amazon valley, he thinks, are practically extermination proof. An average of 1,000 rank trees, shrubs and creepers cover every acre of ground and a year's neglect is enough to obliterate all traces of the most thorough clearing. A film of spontaneous vegetation soon covers the deserted field, trees shoot up and the sylvan deities resume their ancient sway.

Hypnotic Influence. An extraordinary story of the imposition of one will upon another was told before the psychological section of the British Medical association at Oxford. Dr. Eldridge-Green said that he was talking with a patient on the subject of hypnotism. The patient, a lady of more than average force of character, said she defied any man to send her to sleep and make her do as he wished. "I told her it was not necessary to send her to sleep," said the doctor, "and added, 'You will wake at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning and will send me a post card despite your own wishes to say no.' I got that post card. It was somewhat to this effect: 'I have been trying not to write to you, but I did wake at 5.'"

Good Bread For Dyspeptics. Pulled bread is served at several of the best restaurants, and it is not only palatable, but much better for people inclined to be fat or dyspeptic than ordinary bread. When kneading the bread for baking do it in such a way that the grain will be lengthwise of the loaf. When baked and before it is cold remove the crust, pull the loaf into halves and again into quarters lengthwise of the loaf. Keep dividing it until the bread is of the desired shape; it is usually in long pieces about two inches in circumference. Place the pieces on a rack, put in a pan and dry out the moisture in a slow oven and color a light brown.
