William B. Comstock, the well-known capitalist of Alpena, died at Detroit Monday, of heart disease. Mr. Comstock was injured in a railroad wreck about a year ago, and while his health has been very poor since that time his death was unexpected.

Few people know that other days of the week than the first are being observed as Sunday by some nation or other. The Greeks observe Monday; the Persians, Tuesday; the Assyrians, Wednesday; the Egyptians, Thursday; the Turks, Friday; the Jews Saturday, and the Christians, Sunday. Thus a perpetual Sabbath is being celebrated on earth.—Success.

One may not yet get an understanding of the situation in Russia as clear as could be desired, but it is becoming evident that the uprising of the people was more serious than the government would have us believe, and that the results are likely to be beneficial rather than otherwise. Out of the chaos and strife is sure to come some advancement. The Russian autocracy can be moved only by the bludgeon.

This week we publish the questions for the first five articles by Prof. C. D. Smith, of the Agricultural College, which have been running in the Herald. We hope these articles have received the attention which they are worthy of and that Prof. Smith will receive a liberal number of answers. The second series of articles also begin in this issue, and if you have not given the first series your attention do not neglect the second.

The changes which have been going on to make the condition and position of the farmer of the middle West quite transformed, was never better shown than at the automobile show which opened in Chicago last Saturday. The purchases of autos by farmers were brisk. The mobile will in a measure displace the surrey and carriages, as the surreys and carriages have in recent years done away with the farm wagons which once were the farmers' family carryalls. Ranchmen in the southwest are buying high-speed cars.

President Hawks, of the Detroit & Mackinac, last week closed a contract with the Barney & Flynn Co., of Dayton, O., for 400 new freight cars and 14 combination parlor and cafe cars, with the observation feature. These will be strictly up-to-date, handsomely furnished, and will be exactly similar to some now building at the shops for the Pere Marquette. The reason for this is that the Detroit & Mackinac in connection with the Pere Marquette will next summer run through vestibuled limited trains from Detroit to Chebygan.

There is no public office in the gift of the people of the county where brains and sound business qualifications are more needed than in the office of supervisor. The occupant of this especial office bears the burdens of all his fellow public officials. He is held up responsible for any extravagant expenditures that are made by any of them in a whole. He is accused with showing partially to a few and "throwing the hooks" into others. It makes no difference how accurate his work has been done, there are a large number he has not pleased. For his work the law allows him $2 a day, and for this amount he is supposed to couple physical labor business ability, clerical ability, be a judge of actual values of property; then when his work is completed have his bill turned down.—Manistique Record.

Shot His Sister.

Last Monday afternoon the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Burt, of Grant township was the scene of one of those distressing fatal accidents which cast a gloom over every neighbor. Alfred, the 13-year-old son was handling a rifle when it was discharged, the ball striking his sister, Violet, in the back, passing through her body, and lodging in the right hand of Stanley VanSycle aged eight years, and son of Wellington VanSycle, a neighbor of the Burts. Drs. Darling and Conant, of this city, were at once summoned, but death had claimed little Violet before they reached her.

On examination of the wound in the hand of young VanSycle it was found that the ball had struck him in the third finger of the right hand, shattering that member so badly that amputation was necessary. The ball was removed from the wrist and the doctors hope to save the rest of the hand.

Violet was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burt, and was nine years nine months and 26 days of age. The funeral was held from the Hemlock Road Baptist church Wednesday, Rev. Severance officiating, the remains were interred in the Tawas City cemetery. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

Fraud Exposed.

A few counterfeiters have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, and other medicines, thereby defrauding the public. This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit, through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing disease, for over 35 years. A sure protection to you is our name on the wrapper. Look for it, on all Dr. King's, or Bucklen's remedies, as all others are mere imitations. H. E. ## A VISIT TO A NEAR BY KINGDOM.

Prof. C. D. SMITH, of the M. A. C.

Questions on the First Five Chapters.

The answers from pupils of the school should be sent by the teacher, sending three cents for each set of answers to pay for postage and the critical review of the answer. Answers submitted by persons other than pupils should be sent directly to C. D. Smith, Agricultural College, Michigan, with two two cent stamps for return postage and comments.

Answer questions by number without rewriting the question.

1. What is the difference between clay and sandy soils in the matter of both the size of the particles and the amount of vacant space?

2. Do the soil particles in clay act separately or in groups? Explain the importance of this building up of particles into kernels in the movement of air and water.

3. How is water held in the fertile soil? Explain the relation of the size of the soil particles to the amount of water thus held.

4. Why will water take more plant food from soils with fine particles than from those with coarse particles?

5. Describe the movements of water in the soil. How can the evaporation from the bare surface of a field be checked?

CHAPTER VI.

It often happens in an open winter that the frequent hard rains pack the surface soil and break down the soil kernels into smaller collections of particles if not carrying the process far enough to grind them into the ultimate particles themselves. A succession of dry windy days follows. The water films are continuous from the lower depths to the very surface and the movement of water upwards is rapid indeed. As soon as the land is dry enough the plow is started. A good team of two horses will plow two acres per day. If the amount of land to be plowed is large the land soon dries out so far that the plowing is hard and the ground breaks up into large lumps.

In such cases, it is well to stop the plow as soon as the ground begins to show signs of drying out too far, and to go over the unplowed land with a disc harrow or even a straight tooth harrow, stirring up the surface and breaking the continuous water films. This stirring will reach the depth of a couple of inches and will there stop the upward flow of water because it will break the water films.

The amount of water that would be lost if this or some other method of stopping the upward flow of the water be not adopted depends of course partly upon the size of the soil kernels and particles. For instance where our friend, Professor King, placed three kinds of soil in cylinders supplied with water from below but with upper ends open and exposed to the air, it was found that, in 100 days the sandy loams lost 741.5 tons of water per acre while the clay loams lost, in the same time, 2,414 tons of water per acre. The average rainfall in Central Michigan for the growing months, May to October inclusive, is not far from 2,000 tons of water per acre and for the whole year, not far from 3,500 tons per acre. Part of the winter rain and snowfall never gets into the earth but runs over the surface into the creeks and rivers thus doing no good to the growing crop. It may not be safe to reckon on more than 2,000 tons per acre of water possibly available to crops. It is evident therefore that from the unplowed surface of a clay loam field an amount equal to the entire available supply might be evaporated by the sun and wind in 100 consecutive days in May, June and July.

When Professor King stirred up the surface to the depth of one inch only the loss of water was reduced to 373.2 tons per acre on the sandy loams and 1,260 tons per acre on the clay. Stirring to the depth of two inches still farther reduced the losses to 339.3 tons per acre on the sand loam soils and 979.7 tons on the clay loams, a saving of more than half. The experience of many farmers supports the wisdom of the practice of thus going over such bare fields as corn stubbles with these stirring tools where the plowing must be delayed. It does not take long since these harrows are wide and cover much land in an hour. When the plowing is done, later, it will be found that where the land has thus been harrowed, it is still moist and plows easier besides breaking up into finer lumps, much more easily reduced to the proper fineness for a perfect seed bed.

This same practice of preventing the escape of moisture by breaking the water films, at some distance below the surface, must be continued with the hoed crops such as potatoes, corn or the garden vegetables. In the spring when the crops are small with roots not filling all the upper foot of soil, the cultivation should be deepest and most frequent. Then too, weeds are most easily killed. Early in the season the depth of cultivation may safely be three inches as this depth is more effective in stopping the loss of water than shallower treatment. Later, when the roots of the crops are filling the surface foot of the ground, the cultivation may well be shallower.

Sometimes a farmer will have cultivated his field leaving the surface three inches mellow, with soil kernels so far apart as to break all connection between them as far as water films are concerned. Then there will come a heavy thunder storm. The pounding of the falling rain drops and the soaking of the top soil will force the kernels together and renew the connection of the water films. As soon as the rain stops the soil begins to dry. After a day or possibly two days, the very surface inch of soil will be simply a crust, with all particles almost glued together. From such a crust the loss of water is very rapid indeed.

Not only will all the water that has soaked into the soil from the shower be brought again to the surface and thrown into the air, but the fact that the water films are again connected will make it possible for the water that was in the ground before the shower came to escape and thus a summer shower may actually dry out the soil rather than add to the water supply, if the farmer be not wise enough to prevent such a disaster, by cultivating the field again as soon as the ground is dry enough after the shower. It does seem foolish to cultivate a field again inside of a week, week, perhaps that was well cultivated just before the rain and on which there is not a single weed showing itself, but it is the best thing to do. Otherwise there is a certainty that the water needed by the crop will be dried out into the air.

Even the oat and barley fields may become crusted over after the grain is sown. In such cases it is often wise to run a harrow over them to break the connection of the water films at some point far enough below the surface to prevent the loss of water. The harrow may destroy some of the growing grain, it is true, but the benefits coming from the saving of the water will usually be found to far outweigh the losses of growing plants. When the surface soil is very dry a roller may be used in place of the harrow to advantage, for such treatment of fields of these small grains.

Grave Trouble Foreseen.

It needs but little foresight, to tell, that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young, of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters, I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee by G. S. Darling and J. E. Dillon druggists at 50c a bottle.

Teachers' Examination.

The next regular teachers' examination will be held in the court house, Tawas City, Thursday, Friday and possibly Saturday, March 9, 10, 11, examinations will begin at 8 o'clock local time, closing forenoon sessions at 12 o'clock. Remember that reading will be based on George Eliot's "Silas Marner". J. A. CAMPBELL, Com.

Gentlemen—The teachers of Iosco county in association assembled, decided to send to 1905 state fair an exhibit of the actual work being done in our county schools.
