The home of George W. Gates, on the Meadow Road, in Tawas township was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon, together with nearly all the contents. The loss is a severe one to Mr. Gates.
How many people in Iosco county would vote to increase their taxes one-seventh without increasing their benefits. That is just what they are doing by allowing the sugar company to remove their plant.

What will be the next move if we let the sugar factory go? Shall we try to get something else? Who would be foolish enough to invest capital in a community where the people cannot appreciate its benefits?
At the democratic state judicial convention was held at Battle Creek Tuesday Judge Vernon H. Smith, of Ionia, was nominated as the candidate for justice of the supreme court. Hanley, of Jackson, was named as the candidate for the member of the state board of education.
At the republican judicial convention for the 23d circuit, held at Oscoda last Tuesday, Judge Main J. Connine was re-nominated by acclamation. To Rent.—Improved farm, with excellent buildings, orchard and fences near school and church, in section 18, Wilbur township; can give possession April 1, 1905. Drop me a postal card and I will write full particulars.
CHARLES R. HENRY, Alpena, Mich.
Should the sugar factory be retained in six years at the outside, we will see land enough colonized in this immediate vicinity to insure a full supply of beets every year, which means 60,000 tons; which at the average price paid for beets in the last two years would amount to $330,000.00 each year.
Last Saturday Miss Edna Gates entertained fifteen of her little friends in honor of her 12th birthday. Games and music were the amusement, and after partaking of a dainty lunch all enjoyed a fine sleighride. Miss Edna was the recipient of many little tokens of esteem and all united in wishing her many happy returns of the day.
Mrs. F. E. Dease will assume management of the Home Restaurant, at East Tawas, next Monday. Mrs. Dease is too well known as a caterer to need any introduction to Iosco county people. Those wanting first class service and elegant meals will do well in remembering this popular place.
The case of Mrs. Alce Benson, administratrix vs. the United States Gypsum Co., which was on trial in the circuit court when we went to press last week, was taken from the jury by Judge Connine after two witnesses had been examined, and a verdict of no cause of action rendered. Court adjourned Saturday afternoon until March 21.
Sheriff Curry took Smith and Shultz who have been in the county jail awaiting examination on the charge of robbing Graham's saloon, to AuSable Wednesday. The examination was not completed in time to get back on the evening train, so the prisoners were lodged in the AuSable jail for the night. Yesterday morning it was discovered that by the assistance of friends they had made their escape. Sheriff Curry and his deputies immediately commenced search and they were found in hiding during the afternoon and safely lodged in the county jail last evening.
Valenciennes lace, 2 and 3 cents a yard, at the Racket Store, East Tawas.
After the judicial convention at Oscoda last Tuesday, Judge Connine banqueted the delegates and a number of friends at the Elliot House, which is reported as one of the most enjoyable affairs of its kind ever held in the county. The occasion was mother of a thought which was at once put into execution—the organization of a non-partisan association with the object of holding an annual banquet, including the attorneys of the counties of the 23d judicial circuit. The organization was completed by the election of S. G. Taylor, of East Tawas, president, the prosecuting attorneys of the three counties, as vice presidents, and N. C. Hartingh, of this city as secretary.
C. V. Hicks, Pianos and Organs.

Harry Brooks Stabbed.
Harry Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brooks, of Wilber, was seriously injured at Rosecommon last Friday night by being stabbed. From information at hand it appears that Brooks and a companion named Frank Halstead had trouble with three Belgians, who attacked Baooks. Halstead gave the alarm and Sheriff Richardson went to Brooks' aid, and in the melee that followed the sheriff received a severe stab in the breast and Harry was stabbed in both lungs. One of the Belgians received a broken arm and all three were finally landed in jail.
Brooks' condition was serious and his parents were notified and, accompanied by his brothers, Fred and Joe, they went to Rosecommon. The last word received from there was that the young man was resting easy and hopes of his recovery were entertained.

Democratic County Convention.
A fairly well attended convention of the democrats of Iosco county was held in this city last Saturday, for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for the office of county road commissioner and electing delegates to the state judicial convention. The delegates to the state convention were Len J. Patterson, Henry Hanson, Sylvester Vaughn and Henry Fournier.
There were no candidates for the nomination of county road commissioner, but after a careful consideration of the conditions the convention made the excellent nomination of Thomas F. Robinson, of Alabaster, who was urged to accept the same. Mr. Robinson is well equipped to make a good practical member of the commission, and his election would be a credit to the county.

Colonel John M. Fuller, of Honey Grove, Texas, nearly met his Waterloo, from liver and kidney trouble. In a recent letter, he says: "I was nearly dead, of these complaints, and although I tried my family doctor, he did me no good; so I got a 50c bottle of your great electric biters, which cured me. I consider them the best medicine on earth, and thank God who gave you the knowledge to make them." Sold, and guaranteed to cure dyspepsia, biliousness and kidney disease, by G. S. Darling and J. E. A Question to be Answered.

If reliable parties would guarantee that they would expend from six hundred thousand to seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars in erecting a manufacturing plant in this locality, and guarantee farther that they would purchase of the farmers along the line of the railroad two hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of produce from their farms every year, and in addition to this pay one seventh of all the state and county taxes each year, a community that would not make strenuous efforts to secure the location of such a plant would be considered as lacking in good business foresight, and not at all progressive and public spirited. This being the case, what would be thought of a community that had such a plant already located in their midst, and one that had demonstrated that it could be successfully operated, that would allow it to be removed, and themselves robbed of all the great advantages guaranteed to them, without making the slightest effort to retain it? We would like to have that question answered, and answered truthfully although we do not think that it would place us in a very enviable light throughout the state.

Through the apathy of the farmers, the potato flour factory was removed to Hart. The farmers in that locality have welcomed it in a most substantial manner, have furnished it with a supply of potatoes equal to their demand and consider that it has opened up to them a market superior to anything that they before had. The farmers of Ioseo county did not want the potato flour factory removed, nor did they believe it would be, but removed it was. They do not want the sugar factory removed, nor do they think it will be, but go it will unless the attitude of the farmers is radically changed, and that at once.

There is a tradition that when Noah warned the people of the coming flood and advised them to come in out of the wet, they answered that they thought it wasn't going to be much of a shower. Then came the deluge—the only thing that will hit us is oblivion, and we seem to be inviting it.

Good Roads.

It is somewhat remarkable that the people in large cities are willing to make greater sacrifices for good country roads than are the farmers, themselves, says the Jackson Press.

Of course good roads improve the whole state and every citizen is more or less benefited. But the farmer is directly benefited and receives a cash benefit every time he goes outside his own gates and is enabled by good roads to avail himself of easy transportation to good markets and to haul his crops at times when the land is too wet to work or in winter when there is leisure.

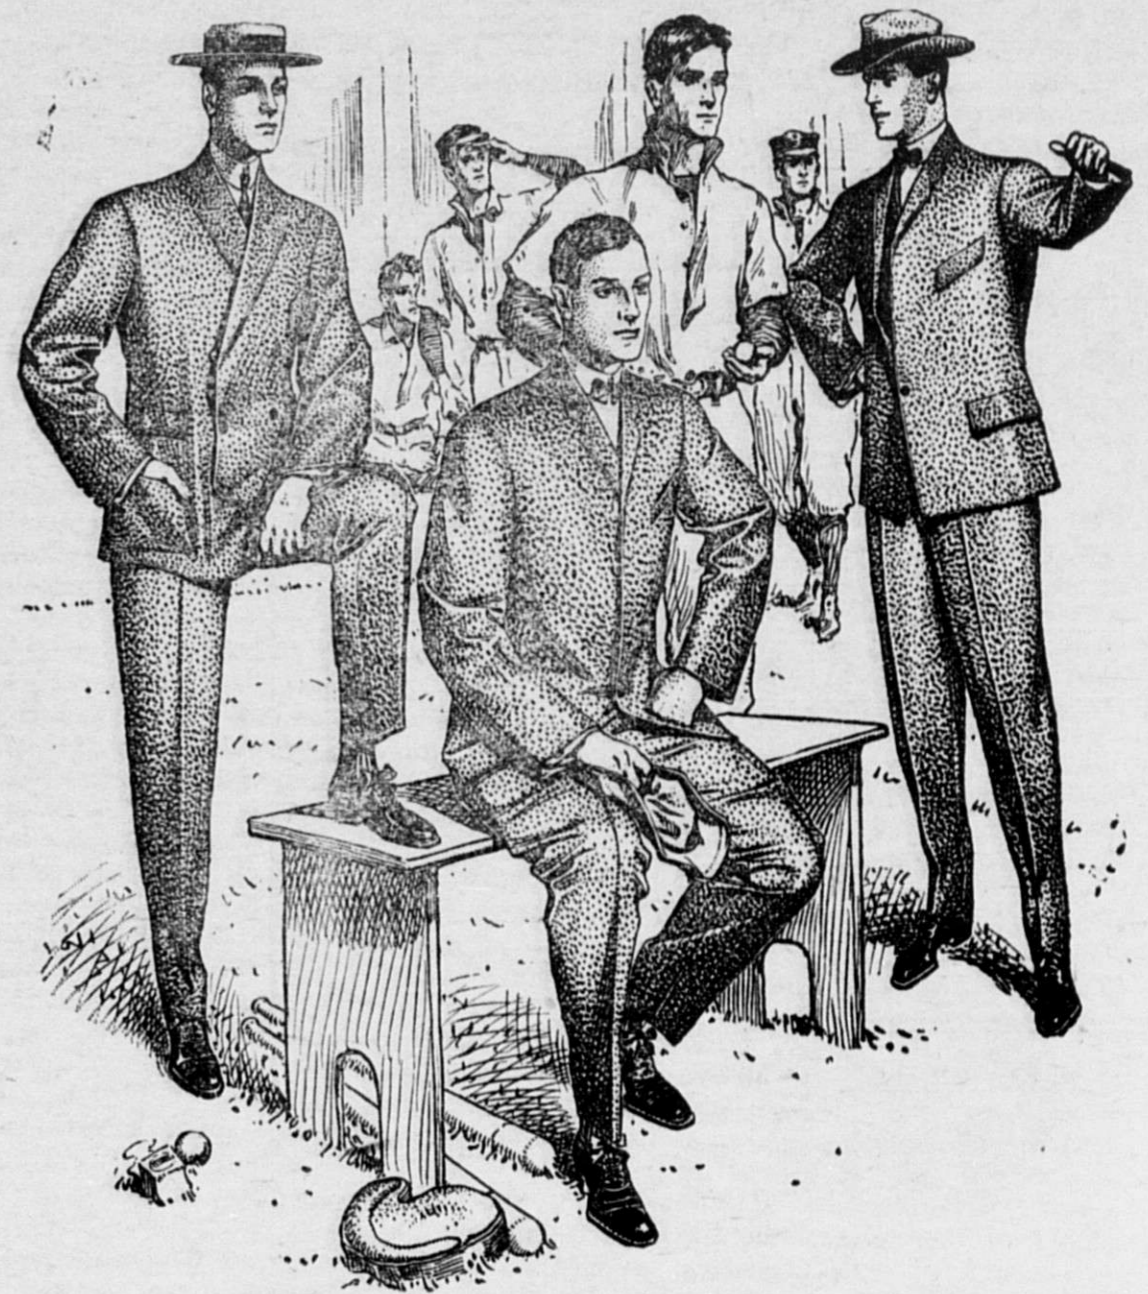

But the farmers themselves seem to be not particularly alive to their own interests in this matter.

The New York chamber of Commerce by a unanimous vote, has adopted a committee report urging the improvement of the country roads as indispensable to the economical conduct of the international commerce of the state.

The chamber of commerce in adopting this resolution approved the proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of New York, which provides that a debt of the state may be authorized by law for the improvement of highways, the aggregate of the debts so authorized not to exceed $50,000,000 at one time. It is recommended that the legislature pass an enabling act to submit this amendment to the people at the election next fall.

The opposition is expected to come almost entirely from the farmers.

It is estimated that the farm products raised for market in the state of New York annually weigh 12,000,000 tons. All of this vast tonnage has to be hauled over the public roads to the railroad station or to the nearest market town. The average distance is not less, probably, than three miles and the cost of hauling that tonnage over a bad road is not less than 25 to 50 cents a ton a mile, or an aggregate of $9,000,000 a year and up. A good road saves nearly half this cost, and hence the cost of bad roads is one of the heaviest burdens the farmer must bear.

It would seem that the farmers would be enthusiastic and only too eager to join hands with the men of the cities in promoting such movement. It might seem that such a movement would have its origin in the country and its opposition in the cities.

But there are some inexplicable things in human nature.
