Auction sale at the Racket Store, Friday and Saturday, March 16 and 17, at 2 and 7 o'clock p. m. From 30 to 40 cars of ice are being shipped daily from East Tawas to Chicago and other outside points. Besides these three large ice houses are being filled for future shipment.

The post office department announced yesterday the advancement of the Tawas City postoffice from a fourth-class to a presidential office, with a salary of $1,000. This will also entitle the postmaster to clerk hire and office rent. Postmaster Kelly is receiving congratulations, and our city is also to be congratulated as nothing is a more certain indication of growth and prosperity of a town than increasing postal business.

We are glad to notice that Bro. Len Patterson of the Tawas Herald has the good sense to advance the subscription price of his paper, April 1st, to $1.50 per year, in advance. He is right, when he says: "The advance is caused by the increased cost of paper and other material. After careful estimate we find that printing a county newspaper at $1.00 a year is a losing proposition". The Herald is a six column quarto, and not so large as the Avalanche, and he has a better advertising patronage, and gets out one of the best exchanges that comes to our table, and deserves the success which we hope he will meet. The advance in cost has eaten up the little profit we expected last year, and we expect to be obliged with him and scores of other publishers in the state to advance our price as well.—Grayling Avalanche.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., MAR. 16, 1906

Graft and extravagance and violation of law, says the Lansing Journal, have so aroused the people of Shiawassee county that they are willing to cast aside partisanship and vote only for the best man, which accounts for a farmers' meeting at Veron a few days ago unanimously adopting this resolution: "Resolved that the time has come when party ties should no longer be our rule and principle, but in our local affairs we should elect the best man, regardless of party."

The Ann Arbor Times, republican, referring editorially to Michigan machine pluggers, says: "Every locality has its men who have helped to fasten the chain about the public neck, and it is for every individual locality to determine how long it will submit to these influences. Clean out the agencies which have contributed to robbing the people of their rights, and better conditions will prevail. Michigan must be rid of its Atwoods, its Dohertys, its Monroes, its Galbraiths, its Glaziers, and all other men of the immortal 19 class if it would share in the good time coming for which Roosevelt and his kind are contending."

Suppose a newspaper man every time he hears a man criticize him or his newspaper in public should retaliate by holding up to public gaze the faults and short-comings of said faultfinder, what would be the result? The editor may not know it all, but he does not live in a community long without knowing a deuced more than he publishes. A newspaper man has the legal right to publish whatever an individual has legal right to circulate orally. In other words, an individual has no more right to make criticisms and accusations on the streets than a newspaper has through its columns. But the average man does not seem to think so, for they will froth at the mouth and criticize and denounce the editor up one side of the street and down the other and then have a yearning desire to clean out the printing office if the paper he has been denouncing publishes a two line notice about him declaring he is but one degree removed from a saint.—Ee.

Voting and Good Citizenship.

Much has been written and more said about the importance of the ballot and the duty of every good citizen to go to the polls and there help "save his country." The talk is all very good, and it surely is a duty which cannot be too religiously observed but is the performance of that duty alone, even granting that it be done intelligently and conscientiously, all that is required.

It sometimes happens that the only persons between whom a choice is to be made, either in a primary election or a final one, are unfitted for the position to which they aspire. Being the only candidates or nominees, however, the good citizen feels constrained to choose the lesser of two evils and so casts his ballot for a man he knows to be incompetent because the candidate is a little less so than the other fellow.

Good citizenship should never wait until election time to put in its work. It should be as alert and as early in the field as the private and corporate interests, which always gain by having weak and inexperienced men in office. It should insist that at least one strong, clean man be nominated for each office, or at least be a candidate for nomination, and should seek to make personal character an issue in every campaign.

Wherever the party primaries fail to produce acceptable candidates the citizens should get together and place independent nominees in the field.—Civic News.

Register For Your Own Defence.

The attention of Democratic voters is called to the new primary election law for the purpose of aiding them in protecting themselves and their rights thereunder. That the law was a willful attempt to disgust everybody with the principles of primary reform is placing it mildly. Any person who will take the time and trouble to hunt up the session laws of 1905, and read Act No. 181, will require no argument as to its object, and what it was intended for. It has every appearance of silly boy's play, and is an insult to intelligent people.

The question now is, what shall we do with it? By its provisions there will be a party enrollment on April 2. This is supposed to take the place of what we have known as a general registration of voters. After this party enrollment, each party will then determine for itself whether it will act under the supervision of said law or conduct its business by the caucuses and convention system which we have used for years. It is the judgment of the state democratic committee that every democrat and independent voter should be enrolled on April 2nd, for the purpose of being in a condition to act later either to put the law in force for the party or not, as the party may determine. This will be the only general enrollment for two years, and no voter not enrolled on said date can sign petitions for candidates or participate in primary elections in any way, so the necessity for party enrollment is apparent. This enrollment or party registration as it might more properly be called, will take place at the regular spring election, so the voters of the various townships will not be required to make an extra trip for that purpose, but can be enrolled on election day.

A careful explanation of the law is almost an impossibility, as most lawyers who have read it, claim it is beyond their comprehension, and that an enforcement thereof, will be almost an impossibility. Every township or election board should get advised upon those portions which they fail to comprehend, so they will be able to explain its provisions to the voters.

Every voter should enroll with the party to which he belongs, to enable him to have a voice in the management of his party, and in the selection of its candidate for office.

Let every voter enroll on April 2nd in party district as a means of protecting himself.—Mt. Pleasant Courier.

Torture By Savages.

"Speaking of the torture to which some of the savage tribes in the Philippines subject their captives, reminds me of the intense suffering I endured for three months from inflammation of the kidneys," says W. M. Sherman, of Cushing Me., "Nothing helped me until I tried Electric Bitters, three bottles of which completely cured me." Cures liver complaint, dyspepsia, blood disorders and malaria and restores the weak and nervous to robust health. Guaranteed by G. S. Darling and J. M. Wuggazer & Co. druggists. Price 50c.

Michigan Crop Report.

March crop report issued by the secretary of state says:

Conditions during February were very unfavorable for wheat. In the southern and central counties there was comparatively no snow on the ground and wheat has suffered considerably from thawing and freezing. In the northern counties crop correspondents are about equally divided as to the damage to wheat. Judging from remarks of crop correspondents throughout the state, the outlook for wheat crop is not very flattering.

Correspondents report hog cholera in Cass, Ingham, Kalamazoo, Lenawee and Van Buren counties.

The average condition of horses and sheep in the state is 97, of cattle and swine 96.

TAWAS CITY,

Clover on the Plains.

The question of what to do with the plainsland of northern Michigan seems to have been most satisfactorily settled. The answer is, "Grow Clover Seed." Throughout the counties of Rosecommon, Crawford, Oscoda and others, the success of this industry has been proven during the past two or three years, and the coming season will see more acres seeded to clover than has ever been known before. It is only a matter of a few years when northern Michigan will furnish the major portion of the clover seed for the country. It has been practically demonstrated that it is a money making crop and at the same time increases the fertility of the land each year, until it is only a few years until the poorest plains becomes fitted for all kinds of farm crops.

The following is an extract of an article by Fred L. DeLamater, of Rosecommon, in the Detroit Journal, which is worthy of careful reading:

"We have very recently discovered that the clover we can grow in such abundance on the pine barrens, if left to ripen, will yield from 5 to 12 bushels of seed to the acre, worth at present $8 a bushel in car-lots, and not likely to be cheaper soon. Corn in Kansas, wheat in Dakota, cotton, tobacco and sugar cane in the South are all right, but the men who raise them find that after a while they must put back into their land a large share of the profits in the shape of fertilizers, or quit; but every crop of clover the pine-barrens farmer raises only increases the fertility of his soil and enables him to raise a bigger crop next year; and clover never fails on the pine barrens; at least there has never been a failure since I have been here, 13 years, and the clover man on the pine barrens can go fishing or visiting 11 months in the year, and his crop will take care of itself.

"Now, to illustrate, let us suppose—begging his pardon for the liberty—that Mr. Michigan Farmer has a 100-acre farm here on the pine barrens, and is engaged in the business of raising clover seed. He would have 50 acres of clover that would be cut the second time this year, and so would have to be re-seeded for another crop as soon as his clover seed on that 50 acres was ripe enough to cut for seed, which would be about the first of August. He would cut it, and as soon as it was off the land he would start his plows and follow them right up with the disc harrow and the grain drill, and by Sept. 1st, if he worked as diligently at that as he does at publishing libelous statements concerning this part of the country, he would have his 50 acres sown to rye and seeded back to clover. Next year he would set his binder high so as not to cut the tops off the young clover and cut his crop of rye. Later, about the middle of September, he would cut the first crop of clover seed. Thus he would in two years get two crops of clover seed and a magnificent crop of rye, and his land would, by reason of its increased fertility, be worth $5 an acre more than before he had produced the three crops; and let us see what the three crops are worth and what it has cost to produce them per acre:

Plowing, one acre	$ 1.50
Discing twice	1.50
Planting	.50
Seed, rye and clover	1.50
Harvesting rye	2.00
Threshing rye	1.25
Harvesting clover seed, 1st year	2.00
Threshing clover seed, 1st year 8 bushels	4.00
Total for three crops	$20.25
Against which we have:
Rye, 20 bushels at 50c	$10.00
Rye straw, 2 tons at $5	10.00
Clover seed, 1st year, 8 bu., at $8	64.00
Clover seed, 2d year, 8 bu., at $8	64.00
Clover straw, 2 years	10.00
Fall pasture, 1 year	1.00
Increased fertility of land	5.00
Total for two years	$164.00
Or a profit on one acre of $143.75, less interest on capital invested."

But I hear some one say, "This won't last; after a while your land will become 'clover sick' and then what will you do with your thin pine barrens land?" Now Mr. Objector, you go way back and set down. We have had specimens of our soil analyzed, and the analysis proves that there are in our soils enough of the elements that produce clover to last for eight hundred years; in other words, the supply is so great as to practically insure its future.

Doctors Are Puzzled.

The remarkable recovery of Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro Me., is the subject of much interest to the medical fraternity and a wide circle of friends. He says of his case: "Owing to severe inflammation of the throat and congestion of the lungs, three doctors gave me up to die, when as a last resort I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery and I am happy to say it saved my life." Cures the worst coughs and colds, bronchitis, tonsillitis, weak lungs, hoarseness and lagrippe. Guaranteed at G. S. Darling's and J. M. Waggazer & Co. drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

The Women's Home Companion for April offers an interesting list of stories, including "My Friend Jack," by Clara Morris; "The Strength of Wisdom," by Emery Pottle; and "The Ambition of Viejo Chavez," by Lanier Bartlett. Mrs. Anna S. Richardson sensibly discusses the advantages and dangers of "Beauty Culture as a Profession." Besides Miss Gould's four fashion pages, there are articles on "Lingerie Waists" and "Crocheted Norfolk Jackets;" Fannie Merritt Farmer gives a variety of "Easter Novelties for the table;" while a hunt for a First of April party helps to make the magazine both entertaining and useful. Published by The Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

How To Save Your Strength Time and Team in Plowing
GOOD plowing means lifting a good weight of soil, turning it clear over and doing it easily and fast. You can lift anything if you get the right "purchase" on it. And an Oliver Plow cuts clean and deep, lifts easily, turns the soil at a proper angle, and throws it off so that it falls clear over of its own weight. This is because an Oliver Plow is shaped and balanced in keeping with practical working principles. It conforms to natural laws of leverage, friction and gravitation. And this results in true "Lightness of Draft."
The Oliver Plow shown below is always sharp, because so shaped that it sharpens in going through the soil. Its mold board scours easily, being extra smooth, bright and impervious to rust.
These are some of the reasons why an Oliver plow will help you save time, strength and your team.
But there are others.
Take this "State of Michigan Plow," made in two sizes and called the—
Nos. 98 and 99
Observe the parts we have described. Also the heavily braced steel beam which no jar can loosen.
Notice how every part is centered toward the pull. Not an ounce of power is lost.
It is adapted to the heaviest work—will plow any kind of soil and plow it thoroughly.
The wings and slips are reversible.
