The meeting of the board of directors of the Agricultural Society called for last Saturday failed for want of a quorum. Sibley G. Taylor Dead. Sibley G. Taylor passed peacefully from this life at his home in East Tawas last Tuesday afternoon, after an illness of several weeks of a complication of diseases, at the age of 66 years.

The deceased was born at LeRoy N. Y. July 3, 1840, and was the son of Rev. and Mrs. George Taylor. He graduated from the law department of the U. of M. with the class of 1863 and practiced law at Ann Arbor until 1875, when he removed to Tawas City and continued the practice of his profession for about twelve years. During this time he held many offices of public trust, including that of register of deeds.

During the great revival which swept the Huron shore in 1886, Mr. Taylor became converted and united with the Methodist church. He gave up the practice of law and became a minister of the gospel, being ordained in 1888. He supplied the churches at Wilber, Townline and this city. Afterward he held appointments at Grayling, Cheboygan and Perry. About two years ago he resigned his pastorate and returned to East Tawas to resume the practice of law.

Mr. Taylor was twice married, his first wife being Sophronia L. Lyons, of Owosso, of which union three sons and one daughter were born. Mrs. Taylor died at Grayling about 12 years ago. Mr. Taylor later married Miss Henrietta Eichoff, who with two daughters and one son survive him. The other surviving children being Bert, of Owosso, Mrs. A. S. Larabee, of Bay City, Lee of Cleveland, Ohio, and George.

The funeral was held from the M. E. church at East Tawas yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. H. G. Pearce, assisted by Rev. Tromley, of AuSable, Rev. Griffith and Rev. Hastings, of this city, officiating. The remains were taken to Owosso for interment.

Alabaster Dust.

For many years the Presbyterian church of this place has been very feeble. But a month ago the pastor, Rev. C. Wendling Hastings, and Rev. E. B. Griffith, pastor of the Tawas City Baptist church, began a series of evangelistic services here, and from the very first the meetings proved a great success. Scores of decisions were made for Christ and there will be many additions to the Presbyterian church, besides a goodly number who will adhere to other faiths. A quickened interest in things religious is seen in the daily lives of the people; also in the various departments of the church. The Sabbath school has trebled, mid-week preaching service has been established which is attended in unprecedented numbers. And last but not least in importance, has come the organization of a Christian Endeavor society. This is the work of some Tawas City Endeavorers, who are giving the movement their personal attention until it becomes well established, and Alabaster is taking a great interest in this venture. All things considered, it is the most significant undertaking in Alabaster at the present time. High praise is due Mr. Griffith for his clear, consistent and forceful evangelistic preaching. He certainly has the evangelistic gift. The public will please take notice of the change in the time of services: Sabbath School, 10:30. Sunday mknring; Christian Endeavor, 6:30 Sunday evening; preaching service, 8:30 Tuesday evening.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Pringle, on Tuesday last, at four o'clock p. m., standard time, was solemnized the marriage of their niece, Miss Julia Adell Stocks, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mr. John W. Whaler, of Bay City, Mich., Elder J. A. Groat of the L. D. S. officiating. The bride was becomingly attired in a traveling gown of Alice blue and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Edna Stocks, while the groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. F. G. Whaler, of Detroit. The decorations consisted of ferns, white peonies and pink roses artistically arranged. Immediately following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served by Mrs. G. C. Walker, of AuSable, at the conclusion of which carriages conveyed the wedding party to Mr. Pringle's summer camp at Sand lake, where they will spend a few days before departing for New York, from which place they will sail on June 28 for Panama, where Mr. Whaler has a government position. The out of town guests were Mrs. G. R. Whaler and the Visses Whaler, mother and sisters of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dawson, Miss Vanemstey and Miss Edna Stocks, all of Bay City, and Mr. F. G. Excursion to Saginaw Via D. & M. Ry., Sunday, June 24. Excursion train leaves Tawas City at 9:11 a. m., round trip rate $1.25; proportionate rates from other stations; children between 5 and 12 half fare. Tickets good only on excursion train. See hand bills and D. & M. agents, $1.00 to Bay City.

New Train on the D. & M. Ry.

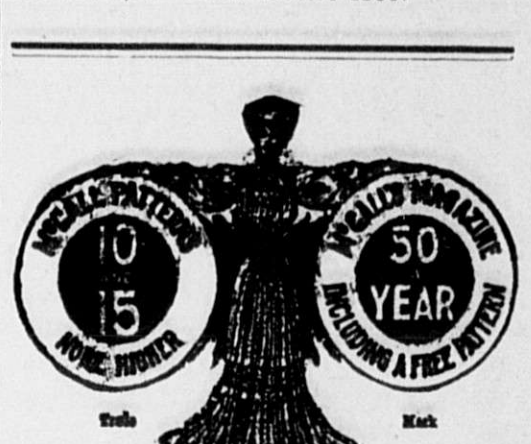

The Detroit & Mackinac Ry. will put their summer train schedule into effect on June 25th. The usual summer trains will be run between Bay City and AuGres (Point Lookout); also between Bay City and Linwood Park and Tawas Beach; the other trains will run about on the same schedule as at present, except that the schedule on train seven will be greatly shortened up so as to make it the fastest north bound night train from southern Michigan to the northern resorts, including Mackinac Island, Point Aux Pins (Bois Blanc Island), Les Cheneaux Islands, St. Ignace, Mackinaw City, "the Soo" and Georgian Bay; this train will leave Detroit at 9 p. m. arriving at Cheboygan boat docks at 6:30 a. m. and will carry, as at present, a through sleeper, from Detroit to Cheboygan. This train will connect at Detroit with solid train from Cincinnati, which in turn receives connections at Toledo and other places from many roads in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Illinois, as well as from St. Louis and other points.

The Detroit & Mackinac Ry. and Pere Marquette Lines are making an aggressive campaign for northern resort travel and they expect to receive a large share of the business. One thing that will be in their favor is that their trains arrive at and depart from Cheboygan boat docks within twenty five feet of where all the steamers make their landings. The D. & M. people claim they are in better shape to make fast time than any of the north and south roads in Michigan in view of the fact that their road is 94 per cent a straight line with practically no grades; their rails weighing 80, 85 and 90 pounds to the yard. The new passenger locomotives weigh 92 tons and have six 73 inch drivers, and are therefore able to rise to and emergency in the way of speed that they may be called upon to perform.

TAWAS CITY MICH., JUNE 22, 1906

At the republican county conventions held throughout the state last Monday the machine men won out and no action on the U. S. senatorship will be taken by the state convention.

Six states have already decided in favor of William Jennings Bryan as the democratic nominee for the presidency in 1908. That he will receive the nomination is practically assured, as is also the fact that he will have the united support of the united democracy.

Good roads will lead to the general improvement of the countryside. The farmer who drives to and from town over a spacious, smooth, well-cared for road will unconsciously come to effect corresponding improvements in the management and operation of the farm.

Another star was added to the union Saturday when President Roosevelt signed the bill admitting Oklahoma and the Indian Territory as one state. The measure also provides that Arizona and New Mexico may be admitted to statehood as the state of Arizona, provided the people of the territories vote in favor of admission on the terms submitted to them by congress.

The government has been "busting the trusts" for three or four years past, but the trusts are not yet

"busted." In the meantime, the prices of trust made goods are raising higher and higher, and the consumer pays the bills, while wages and salaries, and the subscription prices of newspapers are "standing pat." These high-sounding reform agitators are all wind, and vote-catching politics.—Alpena Argus.

It's a really serious republican family row in Iowa, according to the story Secretary Shaw has taken back to President Roosevelt from that state. Moreover, it threatens to take on national proportions. The worst part of it all, as Secretary Shaw, Senator Allison and others see it, is that the whole fight is over revision of the tariff. The Cummins faction, which has apparently won out for control of the state convention, is heart and soul for tariff revision and proposes to adopt a platform this year that does not contain the two facts that made the famous "Iowa idea" memorable.

There is no reasonable excuse for any man to live in a town if he doesn't like it. If you have no word of commendation to say for your town, its institutions or people, emigrate. You won't stop the town clock by going away. The church bells will have the same musical ring the little dogs will play just as well and the pure air, bright sunshine and sparkling water will have the same health-giving properties. Speak a good word for your neighbor, if you can; if you cannot, don't everlastingly enlarge on their faults. If you have become thoroughly disgruntled move away; go some where where things will suit you.

There are but few editors in our state who have not made a vigorous and continuous fight against the city mail order house. This has been done in the interest of the home merchant and without money and without price. If the editors of the land had received regular advertising rates for all they have said against these enemies of the country merchant they could now be wearing diamonds. Now the department store man appreciates advertising space and is willing to take all the average country editor has for sale, and at a good price. What other class of business or professional men would refuse business to help their friends, especially as many of said friends never seem in the least disposed to return the compliment or even appreciate it.

Republican County Convention.

The republican county convention to elect delegates to the state convention which meets at Detroit, July 31, was held at the court house last Monday. About 30 of the 40 delegates being present. Dr. F. C. Thompson, of East Tawas was elected chairman, and F. P. Taylor, of this city, secretary. The delegates elected are:

Dr. F. C. Thompson, East Tawas.

John McFarlane, AuSable.

Charles Curry, Tawas City.

Spelling Reform.

It isn't as if the English system of orthography had been let down out of the heavens on tables of stone, so that to tamper with it were sacrilege. At best it's a makeshift. Every age has tinkered it, for better, for worse—mostly for worse; and nobody who has given it serious consideration has had a good word for it. Shakespeare made mock of it, altho in his day it had at least the merit of elasticity, so that the Bard of Avon found thirty distinct ways to spell his name. In his day spelling-reform was already afoot.

Indeed, if you have a passion for exactness, you must go back to the Thirteenth century to find the roots of spelling reform. The monk who wrote the Ormulum—an independent old fellow—began it by revolting against affected Frenchified spelling and writing as he spoke. He doesn't seem to have made much impression, for four hundred years later, John Hart, of Chester, was complaining of the "Unreasonable writing of our English tongue." A few years later the cudgels were taken up by an author with strangely modern views. His "Orthographie" instructed men "howe to paint th image of mannes voice most like to life or nature; to use as many letters in our writing as we do voices or breathes in our speaking, and never to abuse one for another, and to write as we speak." There was the whole thing in a nutshell. Phonetic spelling, a letter for every sound in our speech, or in other words, an enlarged alphabet, and to write as we speak. The whole difficulty might have been cleared up before ever the Pilgrims left Delft-haven.—Mary Bronson Hart in the Woman's Home Companion for July.

John Spargo's powerful article, "Child Slaves of the Slums," in the Woman's Home Companion for July, is a further evidence of the earnestness with which that periodical has entered into the campaign against the evils of child labor. It is supplemented by an outline of the plans of the publishers for the organization of a national league for the abolition of child slavery. But this serious purpose has not lessened the usual amount of reading matter of general interest in the magazine. "The Hat and the Man," by Henry Irving Dedge; "My Pirate," a delightful girlhood reminiscence, by Clara Morris; "From the Van Cleeve Jewel Box," by Anne O'Hagan; "A Nice Little Thing in Blue," by Miriam Michelson, and "The Adopted Doll" are among other stories that appeal to a variety of tastes. Timely questions are discussed by authoritative writers—"Shall We Reform Our Spelling?" by Mary Bronson Hart; "Has the Club-Woman Supplanted the Church-Woman?" by Charlotte Perkins Gilman, and "Finances and the Girl on the Farm," by Anna Steese Richardson. Characteristic articles on summer cookery, fashions, etc., increase the value of the magazine as a household publication.

We are always thankful for items of news sent to us by mail or otherwise. We must know who is responsible for every item; otherwise we will not publish it.

Biggle Berry Book is an excellent little manual worthy of a place in every farmer's library. The book is condensed and practical, as valuable for the villager, with his 10x12 berry patch, as it is for the commercial berry grower, with his twenty-acre field. The price is 50 cents, free by mail; address the publishers, Wilmer Atkinson Co., Philadelphia.

There are just a few who have permitted their subscription to lag behind. Don't do it. You will die one of these fine days and your family will want a column obituary published free, and then your daughter is soon to be married and you will expect your home paper to give her an Alice Roosevelt write-up, and all free. It always pays to be prompt in paying your subscription to the local paper.

We still have one or two men in this community who stand around on the street corners and from morning until night complain about the town, their neighbors, their taxes and the weather. Such men are mighty common clay and it is fortunate we have so few of them. Such men are of no use to the town, their families or their God. They seem to live but no one can tell how. Like mosquitoes and flies, they are not fatal but disagreeable to have about. It is not necessary to publish the names of the two or three who infest this community for you all know them.

Building National Foundations.

The following is a synopsis of the address of George H. Maxwell, (Executive Chairman of the National Irrigation Association and Dean of the Homecrofters Guild of the Talisman) at the commencement exercises of the Michigan Agricultural College, June 20th:

The keynote of the address of Mr. Maxwell was the idea that we should bring to the constructive work of our family, social and commercial life in time of peace, the same fervent patriotism and devotion to the public service that would inspire the whole nation if we were in the throes of a bloody conflict with the people of some other country. In illustration of this he referred to the preservation of our forest resources. The wasteful improvidence with which we have swept the forests out of existence was contrasted with the elaborate care with which we have built fortifications and navies and equipped our armies. And yet, said Mr. Maxwell, we have little to fear from any foreign foe. But we have much to fear from the wreck and ruin that will inevitably follow our destruction of our forests.

Destroy the forests and over immense areas flood and drought will destroy the farms.

Destroy the forests and you will at the same time destroy many of our most important industries by the exhaustion of our supply of wood or timber.

Destroy a city by bombardment or fire and it can be rebuilt in a few years more beautiful than ever.

Destroy a forest on the plains and it may take more than a generation to restore it.

Destroy a forest on the mountains where the soil is thin and poor, and it may take centuries to restore the forest if it can ever be done at all. The destruction of the forest cover leaves the mountain sides so exposed to erosion that the rocks are washed bare of soil and reforestation becomes impossible.

We are told by experts, and no one contradicts the statement, that at the present rate of consumption, our entire forest resources will be exhausted in less than forty years. I have recently seen it stated at thirty-five years. If we are to guard against this exhaustion, the timber and stone law must be repealed and all public timber lands must be included in permanent forest reserves, the title to the land forever retained by the national government, stumps of only matured timber sold, and young timber preserved for future cutting, so the forests will be perpetuated by right use; and the national government must, by the reservation or purchase of existing forest lands and the planting of new forests, create in every state national forest plantations from which, through all the years to come, a sufficient supply of wood and timber can be annually harvested to supply the needs of the people of each state from the forest plantations in that state.

Unless we take time by the forelock the next generation will see the United States practically a treeless nation without wood or timber for the uses of our people, and devastated year after year by ruinous floods. Already the scarcity of timber is being felt and every man who builds a home must pay the increased cost. In Michigan I understand that some of your most important industries are crippled by the shortage of timber.

And yet, in the face of this condition which is nothing more nor less than a crisis threatening the complete destruction of one of our greatest resources as a nation, congress busies itself with a multitude of matters of less importance and refuses to repeal the timber and stone act, under which the last remnants of our unreserved national forest lands are being fed into the insatiable maw of the timber speculators for less than one-tenth of their actual value.

We are told by the men in congress who make committees and shape legislation that the money cannot be spared to acquire and save from destruction the Calaveras big trees in California, or to create the White Mountain and Appalachian forest reserves and preserve their forest resources and save the water power used in the manufacturing industries of New England and the south; and the same men in the same moment refuse to stop the most shameless waste of a nation's resources that ever disgraced a national lawmaking body by refusing to repeal the timber and stone act.

Not only this, but in Arizona and New Mexico, where the forests are the very life of the country, the joint statehood bill proposed to give a floating grant of several million acres of land, which the land speculators who would control the legislature would use to get control of and destroy every acre of unreserved timber land in those territories. The country owes a debt of gratitude to Senator Burrows of your state for his aid in preventing that bill from passing the senate.

It seems incredible that these things should be done by congress, but there is a reason for it.

In the first place the people at large take no interest in the preservation of their own property.

"What is everybody's business is nobody's business."

In the second place we have not yet, as a people, risen far enough above the mere worship of mammon to realize that we are deliberately sacrificing to the golden calf the resources without which we cannot exist as a nation.

And worse than this, we are crowding our working people, both native and foreign born, into an environment where congestion of population is degenerating our workers and rotting their physical and moral fibre. Where will you find any citizenship in the slum and tenement district of our cities to whom you can effectively appeal for help to stop the waste of our forests? They know nothing about it and care less. The first need of any nation is an intelligent citizenship, and the slums and tenements of our cities are maelstroms into which our citizenship is being drawn to its destruction in a steadily increasing volume.

We are suffering just now from a spasm of national hysteria because of what everybody who took the trouble to go and look, knew long ago, the revolting conditions under which the great packers of Chicago have been operating their plants, and because diseased meat has been sold for food.

But you may draw the worst picture that your imagination can paint of the horrors of the slaughtering and packing of meat in those establishments and nothing you can imagine equals the horrors of blighting the lives of the thousands of children who are condemned to live and grow up in the foul physical, social and moral miasma that permeates the whole slum district of Packingtown. It is a national disgrace and is bound to prove a national curse.

There is only one remedy for these horrible conditions of life for the children and that is to get the working people and their children out of the slums and into the suburbs where they can have sunshine and fresh air and pure and nourishing food from the home garden.

Let us realize once for all that this problem of the children of our working people is our greatest national problem, and go at its solution with the same patriotic and self-sacrificing heroism that led the Homecrofters of Japan to go into battle with their lives in their hands, like hand grenades to throw at the enemy that sought to crush out their national life.

Let us catch the inspiration of the slogan of the Homecrofters' movement in this country and never cease our work until we have

"Every child in a garden—Every mother in a homecroft—and Individual, industrial independence for every worker in a home of his own on the land."

The creed and platform of the Homecrofter tells how it may be done and any one who wants a copy of it can get it without any charge by sending a postal card addressed to me at the Fisher building in Chicago.

The great cities are our greatest menace in this country. Our greatest danger lies in the centralization of population and trade and industry. The hope of the nation is in the farm and suburban home and in the country and suburban town and village.

Let us go seriously to work to create and upbuild them. Let every student who goes out from this splendid institution go with the spirit of a soldier to fight the great battles of peace for higher national ideals, for a purer public service, for the preservation of our national resources, for a better educational system, and above and beyond all for the multiplication of homes on the land where the children can grow to manhood and womanhood in the uplifting environment of a rural community, where the evil influences of the cities can be forever kept at bay. In such an environment children can be raised to citizenship next to nature from whence they can draw health and vigor, both moral and physical, for the discharge of all the duties of life.

It is not in the cities that this country now needs the service of the flower of its patriotic manhood. It is in the country where the great national problem of the improvement of the rural life is to be solved, where more beautiful towns and villages and better roads are to be built, better schools to be established, telephone and trolley lines constructed and all the influence put to work that will socialize the country and drive away the isolation and hardships that were formerly its drawbacks.

We must not only stop and reverse the great tide of population that has been drifting from the country to the cities. We must de-centralize industry and trade as well as population. The patriotism that is latent in every heart must find an outlet in every country town and village in the work of village improvement, of creating an environment for human life where the highest utility and beauty will surround the entire community, and where a local civic loyalty will prevail that will anchor the people to their own hearthstone and where they will live content under their own vine and fig tree.

The Primaries.

The board of county canvassers met Tuesday and canvassed the votes cast at the primary election last week. There was a total of 386 votes cast on the question of the adoption of the primary law. The republicans voted 211 for and 96 against; the democrats 51 for and 21, against; the socialists 3 for and 3 against, and the prohibitionist 1 for. On the congressional proposition the republicans voted 285 yeas and 14 no.

Fred M. Warner received 298 votes for the nomination of governor, and George B. Horton one. The democrats voted 70 votes for Woodbridge N. Ferris.

Out of a total vote in the county of 2900 less than 400 showed interest enough in the law to go to the polls and vote, yet the expense of this election to the taxpayers will reach nearly $700, or about $2.00 for every vote cast. A rather expensive experiment for the interest shown.

Building National Foundations.

This local pride and love of home and the home town is one of the strongest of human feelings when once it is deeply planted. It should be cultivated in every possible way.
Nothing should be left undone to stimulate or cement it. Every member of such a community should cultivate a spirit of comradeship and cooperate to advance the general welfare of all. The merchant, the small tradesman, the country editor, the church, should all work together to that end. Home industry should be encouraged in every possible way.
The whole community should co-operate to protect and stimulate the trade of the town.

The home paper should be liberally patronized. There is no one thing capable of more far reaching and enduring influence for good than the country press. One of the most unfortunate of modern influences has been the trend of commercial evolution that has borne so heavily on the country editor by the development of the metropolitan family and mail-order papers, filled with temptations for the rural people to stimulate the centralization of wealth and trade in the cities by supplying their ordinary needs through far distant and practically unknown sources. This trend toward the centralization of trade and industry in the great cities walks side by side with the centralization of wealth and population as a menace to our national future. The danger it threatens can only be obviated by awakening the people at large to a realization of it.

The great central and controlling thought that must rise above all others as the national ideal is the conviction that the real bulwarks of a nation are the homes of its citizens and that the first thought and highest ideal of every young man should be to establish a home on the land,
a self-sustaining home on the land,
where he can enjoy the real happiness of a well spent life and not make the mistake that brings disappointment and misery to so many, of setting up the accumulation of a fortune as the goal of his life's ambition. It is a lure which of necessity must wreck thousands that a few may succeed.
The man who earns enough to live comfortably without luxury, as every intelligent and industrious man can who has sufficient practical education and who does his duty to himself, his family, his friends, his country and to humanity, is the man who succeeds in life and who gets the greatest happiness and satisfaction out of it.

To create a human character of the highest type, with everything that implies, is the most admirable of all human achievements, and that every man and woman must and can do for themselves.
"A time like this demands strong men,
Great hearts, true faith and ready hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill,
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy,
Men who possess opinion and a will,
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking."
