Mrs. John O'Brien Dead.
Mrs. John O'Brien died at the family home in this city early last Sunday morning, after long months of patient suffering from that dread disease consumption.

Elizabeth Kinney was born in Beverly, Canada, July 4, 1852. She was united in marriage to John O'Brien, at Bay City, September 2, 1873, and came to Alabaster in 1874, and to this city in 1878, where they have since lived. She was the mother of twelve children, ten of whom survive her. They are Will, James, Dennis, Joseph, Edward and Cecla, all of whom were present except James and Edward, who are in the west and unable to reach here. Besides the bereaved husband and children, the four brothers and four sisters and a large circle of relatives are left to mourn her death.

O'Brien, Misses Bessie, Lillian and Mary O'Brien, of Alpena, Mrs. N. Brennan, of Lansing, Mrs. George Shaver, of Belding, Mrs. Con. O'Brien, of Saginaw, Miss Lizzie O'Brien and Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Chicago, and Miss Lizzie Winters, of Bay City.

About the Mail Orders.

About the funniest thing that has occurred in our 25 years experience in a newspaper office happened this week when a progressive(?) citizen of this city came into the office and paid up three years back subscription and ordered his paper discontinued, saying that we had insulted him talking too much about mail order houses. He wore a pair of shoddy pants six inches too short for him, bought in Chicago, a hat of the vintage of '76, bought in Chicago, he is the father of several children, all dressed in the same kind of clothing, bought in Chicago. His wife occasionally goes to church wearing a headgear, bought in Chicago for $2.98, that any milliner would be ashamed to admit came from her store and cost 98 cents. This same man painted his house last year, with paint bought in Chicago, and by the looks of it today, it will need another coat by the time the May showers are over.

And we insulted him by talking to much about mail order houses. Well, we are glad of it, for we got our three years back subscription, and know that that much won't go to a Chicago mail order house. However, there is one redeeming feature about this man, he came and paid up before discontinuing his subscription. If there are any more of our readers who are insulted(?) because the Herald stands for home trade, home industries and home advancement we want them to walk right up and stop their paper. We shall continue to stand for the advancement of Iosco county, regardless of the mail order houses or the short sighted people who patronize them.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to return our sincere thanks to the neighbors and friends, and especially to the members of the Alter Society of St. Joseph's church, for the kindness extended our beloved wife and mother during her last illness, and for the sympathy and assistance rendered us in our sad bereavement.

JOHN O'BRIEN and FAMILY.

Hon. Temple Emery Named.

On Wednesday Gov. Warner sent to the senate the name of Hon. Temple Emery, to succeed E. A. Wildey as state salt inspector, and the senate promptly confirmed the same.

This appointment will give much satisfaction to Mr. Emery's many friends in the Tawas, where he has been prominently identified for nearly thirty years. He is especially well qualified for the position having been engaged in the manufacturing of salt for many years. The salary is $1500 a year and an allowance of $300 a year office expenses.

Circuit Court.

The February term of circuit court convened Monday, Judge Connine presiding. The criminal docket was cleaned up Wednesday and an adjournment taken until March 11.

Wm. Elliott pleaded guilty to selling liquor on a legal holiday and was fined $10 and $9.20 costs. Rutherford & Koch pleaded guilty to selling liquor on Sunday and were fined $20 and $7.20. Eugene Bessey pleaded guilty to trespassing on state lands and paid a fine of $40 and $7.50 costs.

Tuesday morning the case of the people vs. Jay G. Ellis, charged with the careless killing of a human being, was commenced. This case was tried at the November term of court and the jury disagreed. Attorney Albert W. Black was the attorney for the defence, and handled the case in a very able manner. It was given to jury about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and after about an hour and a half deliberation they agreed on a verdict of not guilty.

In the assumption case of John Quosky vs. Frank Avendt, a judgment by default was entered in favor of the complainant.

Neighbors Got Fooled.

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become too weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Uneapher, of Grovertown, Stark Co., Ind. This kind of cough and cold cures, and healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed by G. S. Darling and J. M. Waggazer & Co. Druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Hunting for Trouble.

"I've lived in California 20 years, and am still hunting for trouble in the way of burns, sores, wounds, boils, cuts, sprains, or a case of piles that Bucklen's Arnica Salve won't cure," writes Charles Walters, of Alleghany, Sierra Co. No use hunting Mr. Walters; it cures every case. Guaranteed by G. S. Darling and J. M. Waggazer & Co. Druggists. 25c.

Rising From the Grave.

A prominent manufacturer, Wm. A. Fertwell, of Lucama, N. C., relates a most remarkable experience. He says: "After taking less than three bottles of Electric Bitters, I feel like one rising from the grave. My trouble is Bright's disease, in the diabetes stage. I fully believe Electric Bitters will cure me permanently, for it has already stopped the liver and bladder complications which have troubled me for years." Guaranteed by G. S. Darling and J. M. Waggazer & Co. Druggists. Price only 50c.

THE GRANGE

A MODEL HALL.

Metowee Grange of Granville, N. Y., Possesses It.

The members of the above named grange have great reason to congratulate themselves on their new grange home. It is a credit to the town in which located and a monument to the enterprise of the members of Metowee who have carried the project through so successfully. The total cost of the structure, which is of brick and stone, was over $10,000, but from rentals an income is secured of $1,000 a year.

The building is seventy feet long by forty feet wide and three stories high. The first floor contains a dining room and kitchen, together with pantry, storeroom, etc. The building is furnished with hot and cold water in the kitchen and toilet rooms. The grange has a new set of crockery and silverware throughout that adds materially to the attractiveness of the dining room.

The second floor is used for the grange hall, anterooms, paraphernalia room, toilet rooms and a ladies' parlor. The grange hall proper is 38 by 55 feet, and the ceilings are thirteen feet high. The ventilation, so often ignored in building grange halls, is almost perfect. The floors are of maple, laid over deading felt. The balance of the woodwork is North Carolina pine, finished in the natural color. The ceilings are of adamant and are frescoed in appropriate designs, similar to the interior of a church. The building is lighted throughout with electricity.

The third floor is divided into the same number of rooms and is of the same size as the second floor and is finished exactly in the same manner. It has been rented to the Masonic order for a term of years.

NEW HAMPSHIRE GRANGE.

Some Interesting Facts About the Work In That State.

State Master Hadley, who is also state senator, gave an admirable address at the opening of the state grange session and said that the older granges in New Hampshire were being strengthened by many new acquisitions, while new ones were being established. Much credit for the work which the grange is doing in the Granite State is due to the excellent deputy system which is in vogue there. The state is divided into thirty-three subordinate and two Pomona districts. Each one of the subordinate deputies is required to visit each grange in his district twice a year at least. He is thus enabled to keep in touch with the work, both literary and degree, and the results have been most satisfactory.

Three questions simultaneously discussed by the grange during the past year were nature wild, damage to crops by protected wild animals and the distribution of railroad taxes. The secretary reports a membership of 13,583 men and 14,416 women and the 15 Pomona granges have 3,639 men and 3,936 women. Forty granges in the state hold property, and fifty-five granges own their own halls.

A Good Scheme.

The quarterly report blank used by the lecturer of the Massachusetts state grange is a model. By its use the state lecturer can keep posted on the literary work of each subordinate grange and can better know where assistance is needed and of what kind it should be. The report calls for information on each meeting of the quarter as to number of musical selections rendered, number of readings given, debates, special speakers participating, papers read, with subject, and by how many discussed, dramatic features, with number participating, also other features, and the total number present at each meeting. It thus makes an interesting and informative feature when summarized and presented by the lecturer in his report to the state grange and not only shows what granges are doing the best literary work, but enables the lecturer to offer suggestions where suggestions and assistance are most needed.

Vermont's Membership.

At the last annual meeting of Vermont state grange Worthy Master C. J. Bell said that when he was elected master twelve years ago he was organization in the state numbered 2,200 members and that now there are 11,000. There are 126 subordinate granges and fifteen Pomona granges. The increase in membership the past year was 1,000. Mr. Bell refused re-election, and George W. Pierce was chosen as his successor. Resolutions were adopted in recognition of his long service and expressions of the esteem in which he was held by the grange.

It will certainly be a mighty relief to the readers of the metropolitan papers when an end has been reached in the Thaw murder case. Its sly details will do more to pollute the minds of the young than can be overcome by all the good influences of the county for months to come.

Make up your mind that whatever you may have done in the past you will in the future wear your clouds "inside out, and show the lining." We all have clouds, but that is no reason why we should draw the attention of the world to them. It is the brave, cheerful soldiers who inspire the others. So if you can't get what you like, determine to like what you have or at all events to make the best of it and go on your way bravely, without complaining.

Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock has withdrawn 665,000 acres of unalienated public lands in western Colorado from all forms of disposal, under the public land laws, for an addition to Uncompagre forest reserve. The lands include a part of the San Miguel valley. They extend from a point south of Montrose westward to the boundary of Utah. The present Uncompagre forest reserve comprises nearly 400,000 acres. The addition included in Secretary Hitchcock's order will almost double it.

A newspaper is in no sense a child of charity. It earns twice over every dollar it receives, and it is second to no enterprise in contributing to the upbuilding of a community. Its patrons reap far more benefits from its pages than its publishers, and in calling for the support of the community in which it is published, it asks for no more than in all fairness belongs to it, though generally it receives less. Patronize and help your paper as you would any other enterprise because it helps you, and not as an act of charity.

One of the important bills introduced at Lansing this week aims to do away with the statute labor system and substitutes cash road taxes therefor. It provides two taxes—a cash road repair tax, to be spread only on the property outside incorporated villages, upon which none can vote but those who live outside, and which must be expended for repairs on the roads benefiting the property taxed. The other is highway improvement tax which is spread on all of the property of the townships and can be used for repairing roads or bridges anywhere in the township.

We would be glad to see all children grow to useful manhood and womanhood. They should be trained along the lines of industry. In short the home ought to be a sort of school for manual training, that through this useful occupation the real bent of the child's mind might be readily perceived. Not all work, neither all play, but enough of both to make work and pleasure alike enjoyable and refreshing. Thus the child might be trained in useful ways and obtain physical vigor now almost impossible by the usual strain put on the child inclined to studious habits.

The Wall Street Journal says that E. H. Harriman is, perhaps, the most powerful individual in the United States not even excepting the president. The Journal explains: "His power is absolute over about 15,000 miles of railroad having a capitalization of about $1,100,000,000. His authority is very large over 13,000 additional miles of road having a capitalization of $1,200,000,000, while he has a potent voice in the management of 38,000 miles of road having a capitalization of $1,600,000,000. Thus directly and indirectly his power extends over one-third of the railroad-transportation interest of the United States, and of a very considerable part of this he is an autocrat, and by reason of his autocratic powers over the Union Pacific, and especially his unrestricted power over its finances, his influence over the remaining portion, as well as over the financial markets, is increased." This is altogether too much power for one man to possess in a republic.

In the Family.

The are lots of things in the world worse than talking.

The family that never talks things over is in danger, says the Grand Rapids Press. Some mental conditions are like certain ills of the flesh that might better come out on the surface that stay in the blood. Perplexities and doubts that are never aired are sure to become a menace to the spiritual health.

Talk things over and have done with them. Encourage the children to tell what they are afraid of and then kill their bugbears with a cleverly aimed word or two. The tortures children suffer over things they are ashamed to ask about are enough to make tragedies in the the best regulated families.

Talk over your plans, your blunders, your whims. Let the rest of the family poke fun at you, disagree with you, or anything they please. If your aspirations are of any value they can stand a little friendly ridicule; if not, they might better be "quenched" at the start.

Tell the stories you hear, the amusing incidents and anecdotes. It is good practice for your next dining out it gives the family something to say in reply, if it's only to exclaim: "I've heard that sixteen times before!"

The household board and circle around the fire are the best schools for conversation where we should learn the blessed give and take of talking. Here we should learn just how to listen and how to respond; just when it is unpardonable to interrupt and when it adds spirit to the conversation to do so; just when a pun is unpardonable and when it splashes a surprise of laughter into a dull subject; just when it is disagreeable to disagree and when it gives a zest to the discussion.

Learn to find out what you don't know in the family circle by talking it over. There is the place to make your blunders and get over them.

Talk it over.

The Argument for Uniform Divorce Laws.

The need of a more uniform law regulating divorce in this country is plainly shown by Professor Felix Adler in the Woman's Home Companion for March. Professor Adler shows how the notable conference assembled at Washington last February marks the turning of the tide in this country away from the exaggerated freedom, or license, of divorce which has so widely prevailed, and a return to stricter views and to insistence on more conservative practice.

"The Congress on Uniform Divorce Laws is socially significant, because it marks the turning of the tide in favor of stricter legislation on the subject of divorce. Uniformity is aimed at, not for the sake of uniformity itself, but for the sake of the greater protection of the family, which such uniformity will furnish. It has been one of the favorite arguments of the adversaries of popular government that democracy in the end must lead to social as well as political anarchy. The friends of popular government, on the other hand, have put their trust in what may be called the collective instinct of self-preservation of the masses.

The congress is important and interesting for another reason: It is an attempt to secure by moral suasion, by voluntary action on the part of the law making bodies of the different states, a certain minimum of uniformity in legislation, of which many have believed that it can only be obtained by a national law. The tendency to employ the short-cut method of national legislation in matters hitherto left to the several states is visibly gaining headway among our people. Undoubtedly, if the difficulty of amending the constitution had not stood in the way as an almost insurmountable obstacle, a national divorce law would long since have been enacted. And this difficulty, in one way or another, will surely be overcome, if the method of voluntary agreement which this congress has undertaken to apply shall prove illusory. There are advantages and disadvantages on the side both of national and of state authority in matters of social legislation. Many of us are strongly inclined to prefer the slower method of working toward a gradual approximation of standards among the laws of the several states. Nevertheless, certain social needs are imperative; and if the states fail to agree, the scruples dictated by regard for the independent spheres of the different commonwealths will have to give way, and a way found to cut the hopeless tangle by means of the sword of congressional action."

An Advertising Woman's Career.

No more interesting woman's story has been seen for some time than that of Miss Margaret R. Middleton, special advertising representative, which is told in The New Idea Woman's Magazine for March. This gently bred woman began her breadwinning career as a sort of "office girl" for a local daily, and worked her way steadily upward to a post requiring the highest business capacity and yielding adequate returns. The story itself should be an inspiration and encouragement to every woman who reads it, and a few of Miss Middleton's own deductions in regard to her arduous calling from her varied experiences are worth quoting. They are as follows:

Secure a "living" salary—one hundred a month at least—before attempting the business. If your firm does not trust you sufficiently to risk that much money on you, don't trust their business enough to take it up.

Secure a good "field." Unless your territory is hopeful, your difficulties will be doubled. It takes an "old hand" to get advertising out of a bad "field."

Believe in your proposition, in the value of what it is desired to advertise.

If you don't believe in it, you'll not prove a convincing talker.

School yourself to the sternest rebufs. It is foolish to be womanish in any business, it is fatal to be womanish if you are an advertising agent. Look upon rebuff as business, pure and simple. Remember that the person who rebuffs you is probably too busy to think what he does in the way of rudeness and that he counts on getting you out of his way as merely a part of the day's program. Be impersonal, if that paragon of a woman lives who can be impersonal. At any rate, if you are snubbed, forget it! And go on.

"Ministers' salaries should be raised $10,000," was a recent headline that sent a thrill down the clerical spine, only to be followed by the explanation that Uncle Sam's foreign ministers were referred to.—Ec.

Last July George Schoettle, son of a wealthy Cincinnati man, stopping at the Topinabee summer resort near Cheboygan, threw a large fire cracker under a horse driven by Mrs. Maud McCallum, of Cheboygan, causing a runaway which resulted in permanent injuries to the lady. She brought suit for damages and last week received a verdict for $5000.00.

In speaking of the rapid growth and prosperity of Flint, Postoffice Inspector Eugene Parsell sums the whole matter up in these few words: "One secret of our success is the loyalty of the people to the city. They stick together. There are no knockers there, but all are boosters. Every person is welcomed and when a manufacturer is looking for a location, the city turns in and helps him get it."

Here are a few interesting statistics on brick manufacturing in this state. Last year Wayne county made the most, 46,000,000, and 80 brickyards in 36 counties produced 292,390,000. An outlay of $1,742,231 is necessary to produce brickbats. The value of the annual output was $1,398,195. The average cost of fuel for each plant was $2,775. Some 2,185 men are employed, and earn an average of $1.87 per day.

Patrick J. Ryan, the veteran news agent, passed away at his home in Alpena last Saturday morning from pulmonary trouble, aged 57 years. He is survived by four children, Mrs. Michael Kennedy and Miss May Ryan of Alpena, and John and Frank Ryan, who are now in Tucson, Ariz., for their health. Mr. Ryan was News agent on the Detroit & Mackinac railroad for many years and as such was known and popular with the traveling public. Mr. Ryan started in life as a news boy and followed the business when he grew up. The funeral was held from St. Bernard's church Monday morning.

Those Fourth Class Cities.
The citizens of Whittemore have taken exceptions to the article which appeared in our issue of the 8th inst. relative to the incorporation of that place as a city of the fourth class. So far as wishing to do that place or the people there any injury it would be the last thing to enter our mind. The Herald has always gladly done all in its power to advance the best interests of Whittemore, as it does every part of Iosco county, and no newspaper has done more. So far as the article in question is concerned, a fair reading of it shows that there is nothing that can possibly injure that community and if the action therein advocated was carried out it would be of direct benefit to them.

It has been often expressed in these columns that the practice of incorporating small towns as cities was a bad one, and we believe that nowhere is this better demonstrated than in Iosco county. The last census gives the county a population of 10,540, and in 1904 the entire vote of the county was 1,977, yet we have a board of supervisors composed of 25 members. There are but few counties in the state that have larger boards, or even so large. There is no justice as to what these supervisors represent in valuation, as the man whose assessment district is equalized at $200,000 has no more power than the one who represents a district equalized at $5,000.

In the article in question we claimed that a bill to reduce the present board to one-half its present membership would be a real reform in the interest of the taxpayers, and we believe we were right. It is reasonable to believe that not only would half the expenses of the board be saved, but that the business of the county would be equally as well looked after, and possibly even better than now.

If Whittemore is to reap any strictly local advantages by incorporation there is no one who will be more pleased to see them than ourselves. We only hope that she may grow and prosper until she would be entitled to incorporation without a special act of the legislature, yet we are firmly of the opinion that no town should be allowed to incorporate that cannot do so under the general act which requires a population of not less than 3,000 inhabitants. Also that Iosco county would be benefited if all city incorporation, in so far as they affect the Board of supervisors at least, were reduced to not more than one member.

Pierce to be Game Warden.
Lansing, Feb. 18.—Charley Pierce can, it is understood, return to his old job as deputy secretary of state at $2,000 a year, when the legislature adjourns, and he finishes his present work of clerk of the house. But the further understanding is that he will take the much more onerous position of state game warden at the same salary. The explanation offered is that the governor wants Charley to be game warden so that he can combine the duties of chief boomer in the field for his excellency's plans to be United States senator in 1911. A traveling chief boomer without a state office would have to pay his own railroad fare and hotel bills. By having on the side a state job he can charge these bills to the state, and he would be but following an immemorial precedent in doing so.—Saginaw News.

Death Record is High.
Lansing, Feb. 19.—The total number of deaths reported to the department of state for January was 3,335, corresponding to the annual death rate of 15.1 per 1,000 estimated population. This number exceeds that for the month of December by 368, and also exceeds the number returned for January 1906, by 367. There were 3,767 birth certificates returned for January, corresponding to an annual birth rate of 17 per 1,000 estimated population.

Personal Recollections of a Dollar
I am a dollar. A little age worn, maybe, but still in circulation. I am proud of myself for being in circulation. I am no tomato can dollar—not I.
This town is only my adopted home, but I like it, and hope to remain permanently. When I came out of the mint I was adopted into a town like this in another state. But after a time I was sent off to a big city, many miles away. I turned up in a Mail Order house. For several years I stayed in that city. Millionaires bought cigars with me. I didn't like that, for I believe in the plain people.
Finally a traveling man brought me to this town and left me here. I was so glad to get back to a smaller town that I determined to make desperate efforts to stay.
One day a citizen of this town was about to send me back to that big city. I caught him looking over a Mail Order Catalogue. Suddenly I found my voice and said to him—he was a dentist, by the way:

"Now, look here, doc. If you'll only let me stay in this town I'll circulate around and do you lots of good. You buy a big beefsteak with me, and the butcher will buy groceries, and the grocer will buy dry goods, and the dry goods merchant will pay his doctor's bill with me, and the doctor will spend me with a farmer for oats to feed his buggy horse, and the farmer will buy some fresh beef from the butcher, and the butcher will come around to you and get his tooth mended. In the long run, as you see, I'll be more useful to you here at home than if you'd send me away forever."

Doc said it was a mighty stiff argument. He hadn't looked at it in that light before. So he went and bought the big beefsteak, and I began to circulate around home again.
Now, just suppose all the other dollars that are sent to Chicago or some other big city were kept circulating right here at home. You could see this town grow.

HONEST, NOW—AIN'T I RIGHT?
