Our merchants should now prepare to meet the spring campaign of the mail order houses. The most successful way to do this is by showing the people that you have the goods that are right and that you are selling them at prices that are right. And the best medium that you can use to reach the people of Iosco county is the Herald. No other paper is read by so many people of this county. We guarantee you the largest circulation and our subscription book is open for your inspection. We don't run our paper on the mail order plan, we are willing that you should inspect the goods before you buy.

Thursday evening of last week, at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Nisbet, was held the first annual banquet of the 20th Century Club, of this city. If this first social affair of the new organization is to be the standard by which future affairs are to be measured, it is a foregone conclusion that they will be looked forward to most eagerly. The evening was most enjoyably spent in a social way until luncheon was served. This was an elegant three course affair, and after it had received ample justice, the club president, Mrs. Chaffee, acting as toastmistress, proposed a number of toasts which were responded to in a most pleasant and agreeable manner. The ladies are to be congratulated on the success of their first banquet, and here's hoping that their club may grow and prosper.

Mr. Business Man, are you preparing to secure your share of the trade this spring? Or, are you asleep, while the mail order man is getting what rightfully belongs to you? Answers to the name of Ned. Will pay liberal reward for return or for information leading to his whereabouts. Reuben Wade, R. F. D. 1, Tawas City, Mich.

Mrs. Clarence Lynk, the wife of a well-to-do farmer living near Onaway, accidentally shot herself last Friday, death following in a few minutes. Seeing a squirrel running around the wood pile she said to her husband that she was going to shoot it and went into the house to get the rifle. A moment later her husband heard the shot and rushed into the house just in time to catch her as reeled and fell. She had grasped the gun by the barrel and as she drew it toward her the trigger caught and discharged the weapon.

THE GRANGE

Grange

A LECTURER'S VIEWS.

State Lecturer Thompson of Maine
Outlines Lecturer's Duties.

From the excellent report of State Secretary Thompson to the Maine state grange we make the following extract: The lecturer's duty in the grange is to direct the literary and educational work. Since the social and educational benefit is the chief end and aim of the work of our Order the lecturer's work is of permanent importance. While suggestions and systems and directions may be of aid to the lecturer, yet the success of the programme largely depends upon his personal interest and enthusiasm in having it carried out. We should never forget that the chief value of this work is not in the entertaining feature, but in the work done by the members. A paper written on some subject is much better than a reading or a discussion.

The two common methods employed by the lecturers in directing their work are:

First.—To prepare and read the programme at one meeting of the succeeding meeting. This has its advantages, and many lecturers get excellent results from this method and prefer it to any other.

Second.—To furnish printed programmes for the year, prepared either by the lecturer or, better, by a programme committee. This is by far the better method, especially when supplemented by work of the lecturer from meeting to meeting, by seeing that parts that cannot be taken are filled by others and that members are notified of their parts.

While individual lecturers may fail to prepare highly beneficial programmes and while individual granges may for the time being run to weeds by directing too large a proportion of their energy in money making schemes, games for amusement or light entertainment, yet this kind of work is the rare exception and not the rule in Maine.

MASTERS' CONFERENCE.

Some Questions Considered That Are Worth While.

A masters' conference was called for Feb. 1 under the auspices of the Amherst (Mass.) grange, of which Professor F. A. Waugh of the college is master. Among the questions discussed were the following:

QUESTIONS OF GRANGE ADMINISTRATION.

How can we secure better attendance at grange meetings?

How can we improve the ritualistic work in our subordinate granges?

Can we do something more than we have yet done to familiarize our members with good parliamentary practice?

Should the grange seek to add to its membership persons who are not interested in agriculture?

What special service should past masters render in subordinate granges?

QUESTIONS OF PUBLIC SERVICE.

What specific things can our subordinate granges do to improve the agriculture in our towns?

Can our granges undertake to promote any practical reforms in the various towns—such, for instance, as village improvement, enforcement of the liquor law, etc.

Is it practicable for the local granges in any way to co-operate with the churches toward the solution of any specific problems in civic betterment?

Can the subordinate granges co-operate with the benefits of district nursing for their own members or for others?

Can the grange co-operate with the school authorities toward the improvement of our schools? Shall we do anything toward the establishment of school gardens? Shall we favor other forms of agricultural teaching in our country schools? If so, what?

Can the grange help in the improvement of town libraries? Should we and can we secure more agricultural and rural books for our local libraries?

Can the subordinate granges organize reading courses for their members? If so, how can they be conducted?

These are all intensely practical questions for discussion in any conference, Pomona or subordinate grange meeting, and we commend their consideration to all lecturers who may read them here.

There is one grange in Oregon without an American in it. State Master Buxton says its members are intelligent and anxious to acquire information concerning our institutions.

A Sound Organization.

The Jefferson County (N. Y.) Patrons' Fire Relief association is now carrying about $13,000,000 insurance on grangers' property. The cost per thousand for losses by lightning in 1906 was $1.19 and for fires other than lightning 94 cents.

Every grange can do an interesting work for the community and its successors in the coming years by appointing a committee to locate the first cabin, schoolhouse, church and the scene of any pioneer event.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., MAR. 1, 1907

A republican county convention has been called to meet at the Hotel Holland, East Tawas, Friday, March 15, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of nominating two candidates for county road commissioners.

At the February meeting of the board of directors of the Modern Woodman of America, 371 death claims, amounting to $641,500 were allowed. During the month of January 9,668 new members, carrying $12,969,500 of insurance, were received into the order. Its total membership is more than 840,000, and the total insurance in force $1,325,000,000.

Our teachers are working hard and successfully, but they never know whether their work is appreciated or not unless they have some intimation to the effect from the patrons of the schools. Parents should make it a point to visit at least the rooms in which they have children. Kindly visits from parents have an inspiring influence both with the teacher and pupils and if the visits be accompanied by an occasional word of encouragement so much the better.

Be honest. Be above board and say not behind a man's back what you would not or could not say before his face. Be sure, if you must talk behind your neighbor's back, (some have to you know) that you do not color a trivial matter to suit your own ends. It's a fearful habit and in some places would be mighty dangerous to the welfare of your physical being. The advice given in the foregoing paragraphs is as old as the hills, but there's lots of us who need it every day.

A man or woman may lead a life of honesty and purity, battling bravely for all they hold dearest, so firm and sure of the rightness of their life that they never think for an instant of the diabolical ingenuity that makes evil and evil report where naught but good really exists. A few words lightly spoken by the tongue of slander, a significant expression of the eyes, a cruel shrug of the shoulders, with a pursing of the lips—and then friendly hands grow cold, the accustomed smile is displaced by a sneer and she stands alone and aloft with a dazed feeling of wonder at the vague, intangible something that has caused it all.

The work of constructing the Panama canal is to be done under contract. The government has decided on this method as the one most consistent with economy and dispatch. The government, however, will have supreme control in several departments, as those of engineering, sanitation and auditing, and will exercise a close supervision over all the work. William J. Oliver, of Knoxville, Tenn., is the contractor for the job. He is a man of less than forty-five years, and is doing an enormous business in connection with contracts in this country. If he successfully completes this work he will have earned a place in history, whether he gets it or not.

Are You a Shirker?

Not a pretty name, is it? Are you one? Do you daily refuse to give your best efforts? Do you pay your taxes—do you do anything day by day which will help your neighbors and fellow citizens? By even a smile or a kind word? Do you? If not, you are a shirker.

It means the man who can and will not pay his debts—the man who buys cocktails with the money needed to support his wife and family; the man who follows the races, and then tells his creditors to call again. It means the man who beats the butcher and the baker, and can still find enough to treat.

This definition is not broad enough for the name of shirker. He is found in any quantity of garbs, from the cloth down to the card sharp. He belongs to an ignoble fraternity. Are you a member?

If you are doing the best that you can—giving an honest day's work for an honest day's pay, an honest thought for the morrow, a helping hand for the needy, without fear and a clean conscience—if you do your best, you are not a shirker.—Ex.

John D. Rockefeller's Wealth.

John D. Rockefeller is not worth to exceed $300,000,000. His annual income is not more than $20,000,000. He is not in control of Standard Oil and never has been. These are samples of information concerning the oil recluses that have been dished out to the public during the past few days, apparently to disillusion it of false beliefs. Mr. Rockefeller has been for several years reputed a multi-billionaire. Whether he is actually worth that sum or less, as his representative now claims, is not a matter of much importance. Whatever his wealth, if it be $300,000,000 or an addition of three more ciphers, he is still inordinately rich, beyond all the possible necessities or legitimate uses of a human being. His is one of the great American fortunes pronounced "swollen beyond safety" and the public, we think, has concurred in this opinion regardless of what its exact proportions may be.

The same may be said of his income in even stronger terms. What possible excuse or defense can be urged for one person receiving $20,000,000 annually out of the world's earnings? It is more than all the kings, emperors and presidents of the earth receive combined. It is equal to the income of 20,000 men, who would support a city of 100,000 population, each being paid $1,000 a year. It is four hundred times the salary of the president of the United States. It is more than would be the total expense of running six state governments like Michigan a full twelve months. It is more than the human mind can grasp. Mr. Rockefeller himself has no comprehension of what it means, either as an absolute quantity of money or as wealth in the world of related values. He could not spend a hundredth part of it for his family's needs or their rashest vanities. There are hundreds and thousands of men morally, mentally, spiritually and in every other way as well equipped as Mr. Rockefeller, possessing greater sympathy, kindness and conception of man's obligations to his fellowmen who, if blessed with a distribution of this enormous income would use it to far better advantage in promoting the common well being of humanity.

An income and a fortune such as are charged to John D. Rockefeller are accusations of the most serious character, to which there is no ethical defense. Building great colleges or erecting other monuments in a vain-glorious attempt to perpetuate his name will not exonerate him. When millions of people have starved and suffered from lack of food and clothing while he has been hoarding this purposeless and worse than useless pile of gold, the offense becomes an unpardonable sin in the eyes of the people.

As for his connection with Standard Oil, the facts contrary to a claim that he is not responsible for and has not controlled its policy and corporate enterprises are to well known to waste time in discussion. The sins of this money aggregation cannot be wiped from his head by mere unfounded assertion, either.—Saginaw News.

HOW CAN I FORGET?

I remember, I remember.
When I was but a lad,
Down on the old plantation,
What jolly joys I had!

I used to milk the seven cows,
And swirl the sixteen motherly sows,
And give the eighteen horses oats,
And shuck the corn for thirty shoats,
And fork the hay for fifty head
Of cattle black and brown and red,
And fodder seven hundred sheep
Each night before I went to sleep.

Ah, those were happy seasons
When I was but a lad!
I had so many reasons
For being gay and glad!

I used to rise at three o'clock
And feed the seven sorts of stock
And chop eleven cords of wood
Before my appetite was good,
And after breakfast dig a ditch
Till all my muscles got the twitch,
And hoe the cotton afternoons
Along with six or seven coons.

Oh, what a sweet existence,
How jammed with daily joy,
Away off in the distance,
When I was but a boy!

For even after supper time
Up in the loft I used to climb
And fork down forty tons of hay
To feed the animals next day,
And after that—ah, chiefest joy
For any happy hearted boy!
I turned the grindstone (such repose)
To sharpen forty-seven hoes.

I remember, I remember,
Those boyhood pleasures yet,
Down on the old plantation!
Ah, how can I forget?
—Robertus Love, in Judge.

His Absent Ducal Mind.

The Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar, who is the next heir of Queen Wilhelmina, is a wealthy young prince, twenty-eight years of age, unmarried and has in Germany a reputation for perpetrating "bills." Once while visiting a public school he noticed two boys of striking similarity in appearance.

"Why, what a remarkable likeness!" he exclaimed. "These lads must surely be twins!"

"Yes, your royal highness," remarked the principal, and he beckoned the two frightened youngsters to him.

"Ah," said the prince, placing his hand on the head of one of them, "what is your name?"

"Heinrich."

"And how old are you?"

"Six," answered the boy.

"And you?" he said, turning to the other lad.—Harper's Weekly.

Saved Her Son's Life.
The happiest mother in the little town of Ava, Mo. is Mrs. S. Ruppe. She writes: "One year ago my son was down with such serious lung trouble that our physician was unable to help him, when, by our druggist's advice I began giving him Dr. King's New Discovery, and I soon noticed improvement. I kept this treatment up for a few weeks when he was perfectly well. He has worked steadily since at carpenter work. Dr. King's New Discovery saved his life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure by G. S. Darling and J. M. Wuggazer, druggists—50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

No Sunday Classes.
The authorities of the University have been much disturbed over a story which recently went the rounds that the medical department has been holding classes on Sunday.
President Angell has denied the truth of the report. "I have on inquiry learned that it is not true," he states, "and that the only foundation for the report is that one of the younger instructors told some of the juniors that if they wished to accompany him on his usual morning call on the patients in the hospital on Sunday mornings, he would allow them to do so."
President Angell fears that the report is doing harm to the University and requests that this misstatement be corrected.

Appropriations Passed.
Washington, Feb. 26—The senate Monday passed the agricultural appropriation bill, carrying nearly $10,000,000; the postoffice appropriation bill carrying $210,000,000; the pension appropriation carrying $145,000,000 and the bill authorizing the establishment of an agricultural bank in the Philippine islands.
The senate also passed a bill granting a service pension to army nurses. Those who are disqualified to earn a livelihood and have reached the age of 62 years are to receive $12 a month; at 70 years $15, and at 75 years $20.
Notice.
To whom it may concern:
Some time ago I was led to believe that a shortage in the weight of some coal purchased from Mr. Schriber, our city dealer, had been intentionally dealt to me by Mr. S.; and in an unkind spirit I so stated to two or three parties. The charge I am now convinced was untrue, and did Mr. Schriber an injustice, and I wish to retract the statement made.
East Tawas, Feb. 22, 1907.

Found at Last.
J. A. Harmon, of Lazerome, West Va., says: "At last I have found the perfect pill that never disappoints me; and for the benefit of others afflicted with torpid liver and chronic constipation, will say, take Dr. King's New Life Pills." THE GRANGE

THE POSTAL DEFICIT.
If All Executive Departments Paid Postage, There Would Be None.
The national grange took strong ground against the increase of second class mail rates in order to make up the deficit in postal revenue. It also opposed the further continuance of the franking privilege. In this the grange is surely on the right track.
Here are some figures recently sent out from Washington showing how great is the expense of carrying the mails of the different executive departments and of congress.
The secretary of the treasury shows that during the last fiscal year 1,237,973 pieces, with a total weight of 960,753 pounds, were carried free, all as first class matter under the penalty privilege, and that if the postoffice department had been paid for carrying the postage would have amounted to $311,950. Secretary Wilson says in his report on the subject that it would have cost his department $143,077 for carrying his department's second, third and fourth class matter. The secretary of war estimates the cost of carrying his share of this sort of mail, had it been paid for, at $37,785.98. The highest computation is that of the postmaster general, who shows that if the postoffice department had been given credit for carrying its own second, third and fourth class matter it would have received $1,185,734.
Representative Overstreet, chairman of the house postoffice and post roads committee and a member of the postal commission, said that if the postoffice department was credited with the amount it would otherwise receive for carrying free the mail of the government, including the mail sent out by members of congress under both the penalty and franking privileges, the deficit would be made up two or three times over and the department would show a balance on the credit side of the ledger.
This is strong evidence in support of the national grange contention to abolish the franking privilege and let each department and all congressmen pay their own postage bills.

ABOUT FREE ALCOHOL.
Is It Going to Be the Boon Anticipated?
Time Needed For Test.
So slowly have applications come to the agricultural department at Washington for the right to erect distilleries for free alcohol that many have been led to think that the grange was "bunkoed" into giving its support to the denatured alcohol bill. Not so. The law is all right, and it will work out in time, and the farmer will realize the benefits it will confer, but not suddenly, not immediately.
Already various movements are in progress to amend the regulations, says a western grange journal, and Senator Hansbrough has introduced a bill to amend the law and make farm distilleries possible. New inventions are sure to come, and it won't be many years before free alcohol will be pointed to as the grange's greatest achievement. Meanwhile we must be vigilant and see that the farmer has a square deal and not get impatient, for it will take time to get the capitalist to invest in a new thing, but in a few years the alcohol distillery will be as much in evidence as the creamery or cider mill in rural communities.
Even this year the increased demand for corn by the big distilleries to manufacture alcohol will steady the price of last year's bumper crop.

The Grange and the Flag.
At the annual meeting of the New Jersey state grange this resolution was unanimously adopted:
Whereas, The grange is composed of a class of people who from the earliest days of our republic have ever been noted for their fidelity to our free institutions and our country's flag; and whereas, the grange is pledged to all that our flag represents in freedom, equality and fraternity, and it is very appropriately in general use as a decoration for our grange halls and public gatherings; therefore, resolutions and public committee is hereby instructed to purchase an American flag at least ten feet long to be displayed at all meetings of the state grange and kept by the worthy steward with the other paraphernalia of the grange.

Three In Eight.
Out of every eight persons over fourteen years of age residing in Atkinson, N. H., three are members of the grange. In response to the query why they do not get the other five and make it unanimous Secretary Drake says they wouldn't have them if they could. Wise discrimination that!

The Largest Class.
What is the largest class ever initiated into a subordinate grange? We cannot answer definitely, but not in recent years has there been one to exceed that taken into Pembroke grange in New Hampshire in 1886, which numbered 133.
Ogden grange, Monroe county, N. Y., has arranged to have a farmers' institute meeting once a month this winter, with well known speakers on agricultural subjects present to address the members.
Strong subordinate granges should send their lecturers or some other interested workers to the state grange sessions and pay their expenses. It will be a good investment for the grange.

How Much Could You Get For Your Farm?
You are a farmer. You live near this town. You own land. Let us say that you own more than you need and would like to sell a hundred acres.
How much could you get per acre?
Land values have risen lately. But has the value of your land risen as you think it should?
Your land is good land. You think it is worth considerably more than anybody has offered you. Well, let us see.
A man buying farm land naturally prefers to locate near a thriving, up to date town. He wants good home markets for his crops. He wants good schools.
Let us say your land is three miles from town. A farm that looks very much like yours is three miles from a town twice as big and twice as prosperous as this town.
If you were going to buy a farm for your own occupancy, wouldn't you pay a whole lot more for land near the town that is twice as large and twice as lively?
Of course you would. It would be good business.
Now, what makes a town big and bustling? Money. Money in circulation. Not in circulation in Chicago, for instance, but right in the town that wants to grow.
How much money have you sent to the big Mail Order houses in the city the past ten years? How much have your neighbors sent? How much have all of you together put out of circulation here at home?
It is probably beyond calculation. If all that money had been spent in your own home town, isn't it reasonable to assume that the town would have grown more than it has grown?

Wouldn't this town be a bigger and better town?
Wouldn't it have more stores to buy your produce?
Wouldn't it have more public improvements to make it more attractive to outsiders who might come here to live, to go into business, or buy your surplus land at a good figure?

TO TRADE AT HOME MEANS TO HELP THE TOWN AND THE NEIGHBORHOOD. TO HELP THE TOWN AND THE NEIGHBORHOOD MEANS TO HELP YOURSELF.

Two years professor of Detroit Homoeopathic College and twenty-two years in Detroit. Had charge of Alma Sanitarium eighteen months. Ypsilanti one year, and for the past seven years has owned a sanitarium at Reed City. On December 13, 1902, his sanitarium was burned, less fifteen thousand dollars, but in forty-eight hours he had bought another and is in good shape for business again. He will rebuild in the spring.
There is a firm in Detroit calling themselves Spinney & Co., but the founder of the same has been dead for over two years, and they have no right to the name of Spinney.
We are coming to your town on date and at place mentioned and are willing to give you our time and the benefit of our forty-four years' experience, free.
