THE TAWAS HERALD

LEN J. PATTERSON, Proprietor

Published every Friday and entered at the Tawas City, Michigan, postoffice as second class mail matter.

One year $1.50
Six months .75
Three months .40

TAWAS CITY, MICH., APR. 5, 1907

Patents at the University hospitals have only to pay for their board, for unusual appliances, for special nursing, or medicines. The services of the clinical teachers on the faculty are absolutely free to those operated on in the clinics.

The legislature has been in session now over three months, and as yet the only thing done by the members is to draw their pay. It looks as if this year legislature would accomplish less than that of two years ago, and that one failed to pass one law of benefit to the state at large.

The Washington Herald says the president's "no" when asked about the third term, only seems fainter because of the clamor and noise his friends are making. Still, he might speak a little louder if he were very anxious to be heard in an emphatic way at all. The president has a magnificent lung capacity whenever he is determined to be heard.

In the past year it has come to be a common thing for citizens in various parts of the country to write to President Roosevelt direct when they have complaint to make regarding the conduct of federal affairs in their districts. Sometimes as many as half a score such letters are received at the White House in a single day. Some of these epistles evidently are written by persons of education, but all indicate belief that the president attends to everything himself.

Panics Made to Order.

Twelve or thirteen years ago it was demonstrated conclusively that the great corporation of this country had it in their power to produce a panic whenever it is regarded as necessary in order to protect them in the enjoyment of their special privileges. Crying that the industries of the country were about to be ruined by free trade, the tariff monopolists produced a panic in 1893 and 1894, which caused untold deprivation and suffering, in order that the monopoly creating tariff might not be disturbed, except to be strengthened. Today in like manner, the railroad corporations are promising a panic unless congress and the legislatures shall defeat reform legislation demanded by the people. Such tactics are always the resource of the monopolist. He threatens to throw labor out of employment, close his factory, stop his railroad trains, or do something else and the result is always to grant further privileges to monopoly. At the present time nine-tenths of the nation is begging the other tenth for permission to work for it and is scared to death at the prospect of a possible refusal.—Lansing Journal.

Some Old Truths.

Be good and you will be happy? Not necessarily.
Be honest and you will succeed in business. Not necessarily.
On the stage virtue is always triumphant over wrong, but it is not always so in actual life. In actual life vice does not always come to grief as does the villain in the book.
But—

There is a large truth in these old ethical formulas. Because it remains a fact that, other things being equal, the good man has a better chance for happiness than the evil man. It remains a fact that, other things being equal, the honest man is more likely to be successful than the dishonest man.

Character will always be a factor in the success equation. Goodness yoked to ability and energy will produce a strong character. While ability and energy yoked to a vicious personality runs the chance of weakness.

Sometimes you see the wicked flourish like a green bay tree and you conclude that rightness does not pay. There could be no greater mistake.

Ignoble success, after all, is only successful failure.

Uprightness and honesty do not of themselves ensure success.

Much less do dishonesty and unrighteousness ensure success. Honesty pays.

And dishonesty and viciousness do not pay.

What you learned at your mother's knee will never be barred by the statute of limitations.—Ec.

Learn Independence.

We hear a great deal about the modern girl developing mannishness, independence, and losing her femininity. A great many people are much alarmed because girls are not trained, as formerly, in womanly gentleness.

It is a beautiful figure of speech to describe the feminine character as the ivy which clings to the masculine oak for support, and in return covers and beautifies its hideous knots and scars.

But if the oak falls, what becomes of the ivy?

There is too much of this ivy clinging and beautifying idea in training girls. They should be taught that it is just as necessary to be independent, to be self supporting, as to be able to cling and beautify. In other words, they ought to be able to stand alone if the tree falls, and not go down with it.—"Success."

Percentage Greater.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters recently issued a report showing the amount per capita of the losses in the United States in comparison with other countries. The rate for our country for each man, woman and child is $2, while the average of Austria, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy and Switzerland is 33 cents, the highest of the six being Germany, 49 cents. A comparison by cities shows an average of $3.10 in 252 American cities, against 61 cents in 43 European cities.

This condition is said to be largely due not so much to the efficiency of the fire departments of the various cities as to the character of the material of which buildings are constructed in these modern days, together with wiring, heating, etc., and the storing and handling substances of an inflammable character.

If our people would give heed to such matters, now that they are brought so conclusively to their notice, we would not only lessen the amount of property loss, but would save a remarkable sum in a few years through the cheaper insurance rates that would surely prevail.

Backward Children and Crime.

One of the most interesting phases of this work is its effect upon the education, and therefore, upon the future welfare of the backward child, the mentally deficient child, and the truant.

It has been shown that 95 per cent. of "backward children" and of mentally deficient children have physical defects which can be remedied, thus improving their mentality as well as their physical health. According to the city superintendent of schools, 40 per cent. of the children of the schools of New York are below the grades in which they should be, according to their ages. The department of health has found that 2 per cent. of all the children thus far examined were mentally deficient, and in nearly all these cases adenoid growths, defects of vision, or other remediable disabilities existed. In the special classes for defectives in public school, 110,95 per cent. had adenoid growths in the throat.

When the backward child and the mentally deficient child shall receive the special attention which they require at the hands of physicians and teachers, especially when such children shall be taught in special classes or schools by specially trained educators, then only can we say that we have done all that is in our power for these unfortunates. The physical examination of backward or mentally deficient children, therefore, is but one step in the right direction.—John J. Cronin, M. D., in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for April.

"Pneumonia's Deadly Work had so seriously affected my right lung," writes Mrs. Fannie Connor, of Rural Route 1, Georgetown, Tenn., "that I coughed continuously night and day and the neighbors' prediction—consumption—seem inevitable until my husband brought home a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, which in my case proved to be the only real cough cure and restorer of weak, sore lungs." When all other remedies utterly fail, you may still win in the battle against lung and throat trouble with New Discovery the real cure. Guaranteed by G. S. Darling and J. M. Wuggazer & Co. druggists. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Qualification of Teachers.

The following resolution was adopted unanimously by the school board at a meeting held Friday, March 29, 1907:

That no County Normal graduate application be considered until they have complied with the law in regard to teaching in city schools. The law reads as follows:

All applicants for admission must be at least seventeen years of age at the time of entrance.

They must subscribe to the following declaration: I hereby declare that my object in asking admission to the training class is to prepare myself for teaching, and it is my purpose to engage in teaching in the rural schools, or in schools of not more than two departments at the completion of such preparation, and I pledge myself to serve the state faithfully in such schools during the life of my certificate. I pledge myself to remain in the class during the year unless prevented by sickness or excused by the county normal board.

Bitten by a Spider.

Harness Talk

I have recently purchased a wax thread, lock stitch harness machine. This machine uses hard wax and does work far superior to hand work, as it uses a smaller awl, a larger and stronger thread, pulls the stitches tighter and makes more stitches to the inch than hand work. I absolutely guarantee that harness sewed on my machine will wear longer than the best hand work.

I will continue to use the very best number one oak tanned leather and will not raise the price of harness, because the machine will do the work much better and quicker than five men and therefore greatly reduce the cost of making harness.

A farmer who cradles his wheat cannot afford to sell grain as cheaply as the farmer who uses a self binder. This is a machinery age and the same rule applies to the harness business.

Of course there is a vast difference between factory-made harness and harness made in my shop, because the factory uses poor material as well as cheap labor, whereas I use the best of leather and thread and construct the work myself.

All orders promptly filled. Come and get my prices.

THE GRANGE

VENTILATING GRANGE HALLS.

A Practical and Successful Method Described by Mr. Cook.

Now that grange halls are becoming almost as numerous as village school-houses or churches in some of the states it becomes an important consideration to have them properly ventilated, and especially when grange buildings are being erected the matter of proper ventilation should have chief consideration.

An excellent method of ventilation was recently described in the American Agriculturist by H. E. Cook, and we give it in substance herewith. In the hall which he describes the windows are up a considerable distance from the floor, which is helpful. The upper sash is so arranged that it swings in from the bottom. When open to the fullest, they make a space of about a foot. The side walls of the building are ten inches thick, so we have a little air space on the sides of the sash near the top. The windows are fitted with springs, so the space can be small or large, depending upon the outside temperature. The air enters the room, as it does in the King system, near the ceiling and cannot produce a draft or current on one's head.

The next problem was to get air currents to work outward and to do away with the intense heat of the lamps. Three flues eighteen inches in diameter were fitted into the ceiling, as here shown, passing up through the ridge of the roof. They extend above the roof five feet and are capped. A damper is placed in each one to prevent air escape in the coldest weather.

A lamp was then hung directly under the center of each flue over a pulley with a balance weight attached. The cord attached to the lamp passes through the center of the flue and also through the center of the damper and out through the sides of the flue over another pulley and down to the weight.

The first night the building was used after the installation of the system gave it a crucial test. The room was crowded with 300 people and the night a quiet but hot one. The room was warm, but could not be cooler than the outside air. The circulation was so free and rapid that every one thought they were outside. There is no patent on this device and plan. I am sure sufferers under similar conditions will apply the scheme to their comfort and profit.
