Store news is what your advertising is, and it is of interest to the public if you make it news. It will increase your sales, and your profits correspondingly, if you use the Herald, and make your advertising bright with something people want and at right prices.

George Hall, of Grant township, returned Tuesday from Toronto, Ont., bringing with him a handsome Clyde stallion. The horse is a standard bred Clyde four years old and weighing 1850 pounds. He is certainly one of the most handsome horses in this section and Mr. Hall is justly proud of him.

We are pleased to see many of our citizens taking active interest in improving their homes and grounds. A little effort on the part of each citizen would give our town a prominent position upon the map. Nature has done much for us in picturesque scenery, now let us do much for ourselves along the improvement line.

The Virginia Enterprise muses: "A man will play billiards half the night and pay 25 cents a game and drinks 15 cent whiskey without expecting any part in the management of the saloon. But if he pays $1.50 per year for a newspaper—or even if he gets it on the deadhead list—he thinks he ought to have something to say as to its policy."

The mothers of this town who are responsible for the girls who gad the streets should stop and think what they are doing. These girls are no longer children. They are at the impressionable age. Where will you have their impression come from—from the raff of the street or from home? It is for the mothers of this town to settle the question.

The meeting of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid Society at the home of Mrs. Bradley was enjoyed by all present. Mrs. Nicholls gave a very interesting talk on the revival work in Detroit, and Miss Evo sang two beautiful solos. Light refreshments were served by a committee.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. R. Babcock, on Thursday afternoon, April 25, and will be of a social nature.

A meeting of those back of the Tawas City entertainment course was held Wednesday evening and a report of Secretary Chaffee was received. The course for the past year paid for itself and left a balance of $4.50. An effort will be made to secure the necessary pledges for a course for the coming year and every person in the city should give it their support to the extent of buying at least one ticket. A canvass will be made within a few days and the encouragement received will decide the matter as to the future of these most desirable entertainments.

Frank F. Taylor was elected president, and C. B. Chaffee secretary and treasurer of the association for the coming year.

Vine Grange No. 744, of Tawas township, is making very rapid gains in membership these days. Funeral of John Murphy.

The funeral of Engineer John Murphy, who lost his life in the collision near Metz last Friday night, was held from the East Tawas Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, under the auspices of Baldwin Lodge F. & A. M., of which the deceased was a member. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Fraser, of the First Presbyterian church of Alpena. The deceased was one of the oldest employes of the road having commenced as fireman when the road was being built. Until about a year ago he resided in the Tawas at which time he removed to Cheboygan taking a passenger run on the north end. At the time of the accident Mr. Murphy was making his last trip on that run, having arranged to lay off Saturday and ship his household goods to East Tawas. He was a man universally beloved by all who knew him for his jovial manner and happy disposition. The bereaved wife and two young sons have the sympathy of all in their sad loss of a loving husband and kind father. The deceased was 41 years, four months and 14 days of age.

School Gardens.

"The backbone of a nation's prosperity is the man who makes something grow. In our country the science of nature study is only in its infancy. The school garden that was once pooh-poohed as a foolish fad is now accepted by the United States Commissioner of Education and by the leading universities of the land as vital to our public-school system as manual training of any sort," writes Herbert D. Ward in the May Woman's Home Companion.

The first school garden in United States was started sixteen years ago by Henry L. Clapp in the George Putnam Grammar School in Boston. Over eight years ago Austria and Sweden began the movement. At present no rural school in Sweden is without one. Russia is far ahead of us. There are over twenty thousand in Austria and thirty thousand in France. The reason why school gardens are fostered by foreign governments is that wherever they exist there is a decrease of misery and poverty and an increase in the birth rate and in the appreciation of Nature.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., APR. 19, 1907

Four hundred and sixty-two new national banks were created in 1906. For the last seven years the average has been within a fraction of 50 a month. In the United States there are now 6,345 national banks, with $877,099,275 capital and $586,343,022 circulation. Seven years ago the banks numbered 3,617, with $616,308,095 capital and $254,462,720 circulation.

The National Hardwood Lumber Association, recently in session in Memphis, Tenn., accepted the committee report that, from the best estimates to be had, "there now stood in the United States approximately 1,475,000,000,000 feet of lumber, but that 45,000,000,000 feet were being cut every year." At this rate the forests would last nearly thirty-three years, at which time the production of commercial lumber must cease altogether. But there are several other contingencies. The annual fires in forests destroy an incredible quantity of standing timber. Including the consumption of wood for pulp and paper, lumber cut for export and domestic use, telegraph poles, crossties, piling and fuel, of which much is still used in many locations, the timber used in mining operations and that destroyed by forest fires, there are 75,000,000,000 feet of lumber consumed each year, with an increased quantity yearly. It is evident, therefore, that there is not enough timber standing to continue commercially for more than twenty years in all the United States including the Pacific coast forests.

Arbor Day.

The lesson of Arbor Day is the use and value of the tree in the life of the nation, says a Forest Service bulletin. The sentiments and emotions aroused on Arbor Day pass only too quickly; the important thing is that permanent results be left—lasting impressions in the minds of the children, and, flourishing in the earth, an object lesson in a tree plantation of use or beauty, or both combined.

The tree that is significant in the life of the nation is, of course, the forest tree. Isolated trees along the roadside, in the city streets, or in the school yard, please the eye and cool the air with their refreshing shade. But the forest of trees, where wood is growing to supply material for homes, for fuel, for a hundred industries; where the forest litter is storing the waters for stream to quench men's thirst, to irrigate their lands, to drive their mills, to fill their rivers deep for the vast traffic of inland navigation; in a word, the forest as producer and custodian of the necessities of life and happiness, is the true message of Arbor Day. Forestry is based on this idea of the forest, and all its teachings aim to put this idea into actual practice.

We can reforest Michigan again if we will.

Some Day.

There is a big field for endeavor in the problem of how to use the waste of the world.

The western farmer wastes almost as much land as he cultivates. The price of his acres requires that he must cultivate less acres with less waste.

There is a great waste in human effort because "the round man gets in the square hole" and vice versa. A better system of education must find where men belong.

In a thousand ways we spoil almost as much as we make.

What a chance for the inventor's brain!

Some day the mighty force of the tides, now useless, will be harnessed and the power that is in them set to doing the work of men.

Some day the currents of air that wander idly over the earth's surface, doing no task save that of the turning of a few windmills, will be tamed into submission and used.

Some day the heat of the sun, so prodigally distributed will be made to warm the houses of men.

Some day the resident forces of electricity that lie latent will lift many a burden from the shoulders of men and women and little children.

Some day all these great forces will be stored up ready to be released at the touch of a button.

These powers of nature overflow in wealth. By their surplus energy they give hint of their ability and their desire to help us in our tasks. And we will never be content until we get all that is coming to us from them.

And—best of all—the solution of how to use their waste holds the key to better living.—Ex.

The Price of Health.

"The price of health in a malarious district is just 25 cents; the cost of a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes Ella Slayton, of Noland, Ark. New Life Pills cleanse gently and impart new life and vigor to the system. 25c. Satisfaction guaranteed by G. S. Darling and J. M. Wuggazer & Co. druggists.

Some Notes on Oats.

At the Michigan Agricultural College equal areas of different varieties were sown April 21, 1906. The varieties tested were the American Banner, Garton Tartan's King, an imported variety, and the Swedish Select. The soil was not absolutely uniform but varied from one square rod to another as all the land on the college farm does. The area sown to each variety was slightly over one-half acre. The yields were as follows: American Banner, 58 bu. 4 lbs. per acre; the Garton Tartan's King, 44 bu. 12 lbs., and the Swedish Select, 41 bu. to the acre.

The soil was a very light sandy loam, not well adapted to oats but resembling a great many acres of farm land in Michigan.

The treatment of oats for smut proved very effective. The formalin treatment was the one adopted. One pound formalin was mixed with 40 gal. of water and the oats, placed in a gunny-sack, were dipped in the solution, thoroughly shaken in the sack while in the solution to see that all sides of every kernel were thoroughly wet. The wet oats were then spread out on a clean floor to dry and were sown the next day or allowed to thoroughly dry before sowing. Another method found elsewhere equally effective and tried at the station in previous years, is to mix 1 lb. of formalin in 40 gal. of water as before. The oats are spread out four or five inches thick on the granary floor and a sprinkling can or spraying pump distributes the liquid on the oats which are shoveled over well while the solution is being applied to insure each kernel a thorough wetting. In this case the oats are piled up and covered with sacks to prevent the too rapid escape of the formalin and are left covered overnight. The oats are then dried off quickly by shoveling over or by raking.

Naturally the formalin should not be mixed with the water long before using as it is volatile, and, naturally too, the drill is set to sow a larger quantity of oats per acre than would be required for dry oats, since the treating of the seed causes the oats to swell.

No More Improvements.

Bay City, April 15.—An official of the Detroit & Mackinac railway says that because of the passage of the two-cent fare bill they will not expend any money for improvements for some time and says that the Michigan Central and other roads will also adopt the same policy. The D. & M. is not affected directly by the two-cent fare bill but, this official says, because the Michigan Central will have to carry passengers from Bay City to Cheboygan the D. & M. will have to meet the price and as it has longer mileage between the two points it will have to carry passengers for 1 1/2 cents per mile.

"We are now paying about 8 per cent of our earnings to the state in taxes," says the official, "and, in addition, are assessed for taxes on about $365,000 elevator property. As a matter of fact, we haven't an elevator along the line. It is this policy that puts a stop to improvements along our road.

Harness Talk

I have recently purchased a wax thread, lock stitch harness machine. This machine uses hard wax and does work far superior to hand work, as it uses a smaller awl, a larger and stronger thread, pulls the stitches tighter and makes more stitches to the inch than hand work. I absolutely guarantee that harness sewed on my machine will wear longer than the best hand work.

I will continue to use the very best number one oak tanned leather and will not raise the price of harness, because the machine will do the work much better and quicker than five men and therefore greatly reduce the cost of making harness.

A farmer who cradles his wheat cannot afford to sell grain as cheaply as the farmer who uses a self binder. This is a machinery age and the same rule applies to the harness business.

Of course there is a vast difference between factory-made harness and harness made in my shop, because the factory uses poor material as well as cheap labor, whereas I use the best of leather and thread and construct the work myself.

All orders promptly filled. Come and get my prices.

To "Soak" the D. & M.

Washington, April 16.—Reparation in the sum of $12,500 is claimed from the Detroit & Mackinac Railroad Co. and the Michigan Central Railroad Co. in a complaint filed today with the interstate commerce commission by Wagner, Zagelmeyer & Co., of Bay City, Mich., shippers of ice in carload lots. The petitioners assert that the amount asked represents the value of ice which they held in storage and which they were unable to ship because of unjust discrimination in the matter of car distribution as against certain of their competitors. The ice melted away, it is alleged, and in addition complainants state they were compelled to keep under pay a number of unemployed men, all of which caused them to suffer pecuniary loss.

Pupils' 8th Grade Examination.

Pupils' 8th grade examination will be held at the following places May 9-10, 1907: Tawas City, court house, Whittemore, Hale Lake. Reading based upon Irving's "Rip Van Winkle."

J. A. CAMPBELL, Com. of Schools.

Bitten by a Spider.

Through blood poisoning caused by a spider bite, John Washington of Bosqueville, Tex., would have lost his leg, which became a mass of running sores, had he not been persuaded to try Bucklen's Arnea Salve. He writes: "The first application relieved, and four boxes healed all the sores." Heals every sore. 25c. at G. S. Darling and J. M. Wuggazer & Co. druggists.

NOTICE.

Whereas, my wife, Susan McLennan, left my bed and board two years ago last February, and refuses to return. I therefore forbid anyone to harbor or shelter her on my account as I will pay no bills contracted by her. Dated, April 10, 1907. JOHN MCLENNAN.

A FATAL COLLISION.

Engineer John Murphy Killed in a Head-on Collision Last Friday Evening.

About 6:30 last Friday evening a head-on collision occurred on the D. & M. Ry., near Metz, 20 miles north of Alpena, between the north bound passenger train and a light engine, which resulted in the death of Engineer John Murphy, and the injury of five other trainmen.

The passenger train, known as No. 3, was going north about on time, when it was met on a curve, between Posen and Metz, by a light engine in charge of engineer Fred Markey. At the point where the two trains came together it was impossible to see but a short distance. As near as we have been able to learn the responsibility for the accident rests with Engineer Markey, who had orders to run from Cheboygan to Alpena Junction, and to look out only for regular trains. At the time of the accident he was running on the schedule time of No. 3. It is claimed that Markey's watch had stopped, and that he thought he had 22 minutes in which to make Nowicke siding, which was plenty of time.

Michael Hogan, baggageman, and Barney Hennessey, fireman on the passenger train, were both seriously injured, while Ernest Stoval, express messenger, S. K. Clark, mail clerk, on No. 3, and Fireman Larry, of the light engine were quite badly injured. Both engines, No. 22, and No. 3, and the baggage car were badly wrecked.

A special train was sent out from Alpena and returned with the injured. Engineer Murphy died from the effects of being scalded by steam at 3 o'clock Saturday morning. At last reports the injured men were all improving and will recover. Engineer Markey escaped with but slight injuries, by jumping from his engine.

"Pneumonia's Deadly Work"

had so seriously affected my right lung," writes rs. Fannie Connor, of Rural Route 1, Georgetown, Tenn., "that I coughed continuously night and day and the neighbors' prediction—consumption—seem inevitable until my husband brought home a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, which in my case proved to be the only real cough cure and restorer of weak, sore lungs." When all other remedies utterly fail, you may still win in the battle against lung and throat trouble with New Discovery the real cure. Guaranteed by G. S. Darling and J. M. Wuggazer & Co. druggists. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Farm For Sale.

DER GERMAN COBBLER

Turns to Palmistry as a Means of Increasing His Business.

[Copyright, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.]
Dot leetle German tailor comes into my shop der odder day when I don't haf much to do and looks around and says to me:

"Hans, gif her oop."

"What vhas it?" I says.

"Gif oop der cobbler peensness and go back to Germany. You don't understand der American peoples and can neffer get along here."

"But can I make a man come to my shop if he don't want to?"

"Of course you can. Dot vhas der secret of soocess. Dot vhas der way I make all my money and vhas now a big man in my ward. I begin peensness by cleaning one pair of pants for a customers. When some other don't come in I make 'em come. I hold out inducements. I learn der tricks of der trade. No, Hans, you vhas too old. You don't haf der brains in your head. I vhas sorry for you, but you had better go back to der old country and say dot you vhas a failure."

"YOU ARE ALREADY IN LOVE"

Dot tailor he swells out his chest and puts his hat on his ear and goes away, and I do some thinking. Maybe I vhas a failure, and maybe I haf a trick oop my sleeve. Dot evenings before I go to bed I make a sign and hang her oop in der window. She reads:

Free to All Customers.
"Palmistry! Palmistry! Palmistry! She Vhas Free to All Customers! Come In!"

Vhell, I get oop early and shust haf my breakfast eaten when in comes a mans mit a pair of shoes in his hand. He lifts two blocks avhay. He laughs a leetle and says:

"Cobbler, dose shoes need fixing oop, and I brings 'em to you. Vhat foolishness vhas dis about palmistry?"

"It vhas no foolishness at all," I says.

"Do you mean dot you can tell me somet'ings by my palm?"

"Certainly! Let me haf your hand. Ah! Your wife vhas dead and you vhas thinking of marrying again."

"Come, now," he says as he gets red in der face. "Some one around here tells you dot my wife dies two years ago."

"Not at all. I see it in your hand. You shall marry again before six months. She vhas an awful nice woman. She makes you very happy. Dot vhas all."

"It vhas foolishness, of course," he says mit a laugh. But when he goes out he says dot he vill patronize my shop right along der dis."

I don't believe he vhas around der corner vhen a womans mit two pairs of shoes comes in. She runs so fast dot she can hardly speak.

"Oh, cobbler, but you don't mean it?" she says.

"For sure! If you vhas a customers, gif me your hand to look at."

"But I neffer haf my fortune told before, and maybe you tell me dot I vhas going to die."

"I don't believe so. Let me see. No. You shall live to be ninety-three years old. You don't haf some family. You vhas vhat dey calls a grass widow. Your husband runs avhay. Vhell, in two months from now you shall hear dot he is dead. Dot leaves you free to marry again."

"How wonderful! How wonderful!" she says.

"You are already in love mit another mans. You shall marry him and be one of der happiest women in der land. It looks to me in your hand here dot you shall have a carriage und diamonds."

"Cobbler, if all dot comes true, do you know vhat I shall do for you?" she says ash she blushes und laughs.

"No."

Calls Him a Nice Man.
"Vhell, I bring you one hoondered pairs of shoes to ment eavery year und make all my friends trade mit you. I don't know when I haf seen as nice a man as you before."

It vhas all easy enough. She vhas no customer of mine before, but I see her on der street many times und ask about her. She vhas gone five minutes vhen a mans who lives three blocks avhay und lends money vchalks in und looks around und says:

"Cobbler, here vhas a pair of patent leather shoes dot need fixing oop. I vhas going to take 'em to a dago, but he cheats me der last time. You may take 'em. Dis vhas fine weather, eh?"

"Werry fine."

"Und peensness vhas good?"

"I can't make some complaints."

"Oh, by der vhay, vhat about dis palmistry? It's a fake, of course—something to catch silly women."

"Let me took your hand und see. Your wife vhas not a well womans. You go out nights a great deal. You haf children, but you vhas not happy. Sometimes you think dot if you vhas married again?"

"You can stop right dere," he says.

"Vhell, it vhas in your hand; also dot a tall womans mit blue eyes und light hair"

He pulls his hand avhay und walks around der shop und whistles und den says to me:

"Cobbler, you shall tell nopody vhat you saw in my hand."

"Of course not. It vhas strictly confidential."

Warned to Be Careful.
"If you tell somedopy I break your neck. If you tell nopody I bring all my shoes here to be repaired."

Den it vhas a womans again. I know dot her husbands keeps a grocery, and I know dot she flirts mit other men. I see her do it on der street car one time myself. She comes tripping in und says:

"Cobbler, I haf some shoes to be mended, und hearing dot you vhas a good workman und a Christian man, I bring 'em to you. I never patronize robbers und murderers if I know it."

"Thanks, ma'am."

"I don't come in about dot palmistry, of course, but now dot I am here I may ask vhat about it?"

"She vhas all right, ma'am."

"Where you learn it?"

"In der Black forest, in Germany."

"Oh! I never see dot kind before. Here vhas my hand. Tell me how she vhas."

"Madam," I says after looking at her hand about a minute, "you vhas admired by many men."

"How foolish! Ha, ha, ha!" she laughs.

"Your husband vhas a good mans, but he too slow. He don't half appreciate you."

"Tush! Tush!"

"You should haf been der wife of a gentleman und a rich mans. You should haf diamonds und a big house und go to Europe. You should be out in society, where all can see und admire. I believe dot more ash one hoondered men in dis city admire you."

"You must not talk such things," she says, mit a laugh und a blush. "Vhell, I shall bring in more shoes. I see it vhas true dot you vhas a good mans und a Christian."

She goes-out mit a goodbye, but in a minute she comes back und says:

"By der vhay, don't speak to somebody about me."

"Of course not."

Calls Palmistry a Fake.
"Palmistry is all a fake, of course, but if you should tell others vhat you haf told me it would get to my husband, und he wouldn't like it a leetle bit. I may tell you dot he is jealous of me, though I never gave him the slightest cause. I shall depend on you."

How many folks do you believe come in dot day? Over thirty, und all haf shoes to mend und hear some palmistry. Vhen night had come dot leetle tailor shows oop to see if I vhas in der poorhouse. Vhen he sees all dem shoes und hears my story he looks at me a long time und den says:

"Vhell, it seems dot even a fool can get along in America!" M. QUAD.
