Mrs. William Hamilton died at her home in East Tawas early Wednesday morning from heart disease. While she had been in poor health for a long time her death came as a shock to her many friends, as she had been much improved for some time, until taken suddenly worse Monday evening and the end came at 5:30 Wednesday morning. The funeral will be held from the home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"Potato sprouting" is the nightmare of many a boy each spring. E. L. King has discovered a way of doing the work in a highly satisfactory manner in a very short time. He says that by taking a piece of burlap about 6x9 feet and shoveling in about a bushel and a half of potatoes and a good boy on each end to give it a few revolutions will take off all the sprouts and bring the potatoes out in fine shape. The only thing that Mr. King regrets is that his ingenuity did not bring the idea to him in his boyhood days as it would have given him many more hours in which to fish.

Murder at Oscoda

EUGENE MUNDAY IS IN JAIL CHARGED WITH THE CRIME

Mrs. Joseph LaPlant and Joseph Turcott Shot While Walking Together

Oscoda was the scene of what appears to have been one of the most cold blooded murders in the history of the county, at about nine o'clock Wednesday evening. The facts as we are able to learn them, are to the effect that Mrs. Joseph LaPlant and Joseph Turcott were walking along the beach near Turcott's home when someone opened fire upon them with a shotgun. One charge hit the LaPlant woman in the stomach and she died within a few moments. The other charge took effect in Turcott's shoulder and breast and he is in a critical condition.

Sheriff Curry was notified and went to the scene of the shooting on the night train. It seems that the woman in the case was not living at first taken into custody, but was able to give a clear account of his whereabouts at the time of the shooting and was allowed to go. Further investigation showed that the woman had been intimate with one Eugene Munday, who had become very jealous of Turcott, and it is reported had threatened to shoot her if she did not cease going with Turcott.

Munday was arrested by Sheriff Curry and is now in the county jail in this city awaiting the verdict of the coroner's jury.

Turcott, the injured man, was taken to the hospital at Bay City and reports are that there is but slight chances of his recovery. An effort will be made to secure a statement of what he knows in regard to the shooting.

Word comes from Vermillion Point that Capt. and Mrs. Jas. Carpenter are the parents of a fine new girl who came to their home last Tuesday.

Dr. W. N. Yeager, the dentist, will be at his office, in this city, as usual next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Do not neglect those teeth any longer, but call and have them attended to.

Ernest Brown, who has been superintendent of the county farm for the past five years, has been forced to resign on account of his failing health, and John Johnson has been engaged for the position. The new superintendent took charge of the farm this week.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., MAY 10, 1907

According to statistics just published by the department of state at Lansing there were 29 divorce cases pending in Iosco county during the year 1906. Of these 12 decrees were granted and one withdrawn. The number of marriages recorded was 77.

It takes a sharp knock to break an egg from the outside, while a weak little chick with its soft bill can break out from the inside. It's the same way with a town. The knocks from outside have little effect; it is the blows at home that hurt a town.—Holden (Mo.) Progress.

The government has decided to proceed with the Huntley project of opening 30,000 acres of government land for settlement near Billings, Mont., by lottery or the drawing system. The exact date has not been fixed but it will be about June 30. This will be the first government land ever thrown open for settlement on which water for irrigation is available immediately.

Anyone who does not want to receive a publication will have no trouble in discontinuing it, if you notify the publisher that you don't want the paper any longer—provided you owe nothing. Don't confine taking the paper until you are pressed for payment and then "swell up" and say you "never subscribed for it." No publisher wants to force anyone to take his paper, if he does not want it—at the same time he expects those who take his paper to pay for it just the same as they pay any other debt.

Judson Harmon, whom conservative eastern democrats are said to favor for presidential candidate, is a distinguished resident of Cincinnati, and was attorney-general of the United States from June, 1895, until March, 1897. He was born in Hamilton county in 1846, received his education in Denison university, and was graduated from a local law school in 1869. Seven years later he was elected judge of the common pleas court, and subsequently ascended the bench of the superior court of Cincinnati, resigning in 1887. In 1897-8 he was president of the Ohio Bar association. He is in the faculty of the law department of the University of Cincinnati.

It is little use for the local editor to waste his lungs and sprain his spine in trying to boom a town when the citizens all stand around with their hands in their pockets and indifferently wait for something to turn up. If the capitalists or business men do not put their shoulders to the wheel and do a little boosting it is useless for the editor to try and boom things. He can write "boom" articles till he gets bald headed, but if the citizens themselves do not take hold and push, the town will forever stick in the mud. Of what use is it for the local paper to suggest improvements and new enterprises if the suggestions are never acted upon?

One man cannot boom a town. It requires the concerted action of the citizens. When one man shoulders a town and attempts to carry it there are always a lot of cranky kickers ready to jump on top of the load. Unity of action is what counts.

No Such Record of Talk.

Completed records made by clerks of the senate and house show that the last congress—the fifty-ninth—did more talking than any other in the history of the country. Their researches go back fourteen years, or to the fifty-second congress. The latter congress filled 2,620 pages of the Congressional Record with its talk, as against 4,810 for the fifty-ninth.

In the fifty-second congress 10,323 bills were introduced, but the fifty-ninth set a new figure with 25,897. The fifty-second congress was in session 340 legislative days and passed 398 public and 324 private bills. The fifty-ninth was in session 227 legislative days and passed 692 public and 6,248 private acts. Most of the measures known as private acts are for the correction of military records or the grant of pensions.

No congress ever passed the number of bills that were made into law as the fifty-ninth. It appears that such a thing as a dishonorable discharge from the army or navy, uncorrected by legislative act, will soon be a positive curiosity. Congress is not only generous to the nation's fighting men in the matter of pensions but it is also charitable in the matter of expunging from the records anything set down against their conduct.

Lobbyists at Washington.

The number and the strength of the lobbies which are seeking to influence legislation at Washington are emphasized by Gibson Gardner in an article in "Success Magazine," in which he refers to the large crops of lobbyists as in effect constituting a "third house" of congress.

There are the prohibition and the liquor lobbies, he says, butting heads at every session; there is the free art lobby, the lobby of the Pilots' Trust of Chesapeake Bay, and Dr. Theron C. Stearns lobbying for adulterated foods. There is a free seed lobby and a lobby against free seeds; there are lobbies maintained by government departments, and lobbies against the governmental lobbies.

There is reason for all this growth and power of the special interest, and its corresponding growth and power in the third house. For forty years the United States has been in a period of industrial development. In 1864 the country was young; a great war had depleted its wealth, and the chief business of the government was to encourage business. This, for forty years, the government has done. The voice of "the interest" has been paramount.

But that period has ended. The fostered child has become a giant. The special interest no longer asks; it demands. The power of government has been attacked and throttled by the allied special interests. And the people—they who are the source of all power and the end of all government—have been scorned and disregarded.

But the people are not drowned. They have the power and they know the government belongs of right to them. They know that favors they have granted to the special interests have not developed into vested rights. They know that individual freedom is the end of government; and they propose that individual freedom, peace, and profit be considered for a change. Of government by and for the special interests there has been enough. The new era is an era of the people.

The sign is good, the prospect full of hope. Protest and agitation show an awakening of the public conscience—and this is but another name for patriotism. Things are better for exposure. Light is sanitary. Muck well raked and subjected to the sunshine grows fine crops.

No Truer Words.

The Christian Republic, under the heading, "A Religion That Helps," offers the following, which certainly comes very nearly representing a new and encouraging thought in religious matters:

Wanted—a religion that can swim, skate, play ball, tennis, row a boat, sing, laugh, enjoy life in every bright, wholesome way. We have made religion oppressive, depressive, repressive, and rarely expressive of any feeling except painful seriousness. Our religion lacks rich, red blood, tense, vigorous muscle, a strong, regular pulse. Why not tell the young people of our churches and Sunday schools that religion brightens the eye, lightens the heart and brings to life its richest enjoyments? What we need is not a religion to fit us for the cemetery, but for the office, the store, the shop, the school, the farm, the home. Tombstone piety is impressive in the moonlight, but sunlight means health, heartiness, cheer, success.

A Story With a Moral.

The following, where a moral is clearly shown, is taken from an exchange: Recently a church congregation in a little Kansas town built a new church. To pay for it they were obliged to call on the merchants of the community for donations. The merchants responded liberally and $300 was raised from this source. The last man asked to subscribe was John Smith, a jeweler. "I will give you $20 if you will let me add something to the subscription list," he said. The permission was accorded him, and he wrote at the foot of the list:

John Smith, jeweler, $20.00
Sears Roebuck & Co., 00.00
Montgomery Ward & Co., 00.00

The church people saw the point when the minister read from the pulpit the list of donors to the building fund, and since the dedication of the church, there have been no mail orders sent out from that Kansas town.—St. Louis Furniture News.

For The Children.

The children's department in the June number of the New Idea Woman's Magazine contains an unusual number of good things. The third of the Wonder Tales of Northern Lands appears in this issue: it tells how Sif, the wife of Thor, the thunder god, lost her beautiful hair, and the revenge taken on Loki, who committed the theft. This is a splendid opportunity to let your children become familiar, early in life, with the picturesque Norse mythology. "How Miggles Shed His Skin" contains instructive information about a pet snake who was kept in a terrarium. The third in a series of comic drawings by John R. Bray, picturing the life of a missionary's little boy and his friends in the jungle, shows the adventure Horace had with a cannibal, and how Jocko and the giraffe helped him out. There are also some verses and drawings which will please the younger reader.

Wonderful Eczema Cure.

"Our little boy had eczema for five years," writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Electric Bitters, bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy, was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tones. Guaranteed at G. S. Darling and J. M. Waggazer & Co's. drug store 50c.

A Narrow Escape

G. W. Cloyd, a merchant of Plank, Mo., had a narrow escape four years ago, when he ran a jimson bur into his thumb. He says: "The doctor wanted to amputate it but I would not consent. I bought a box of Backlen's Arnea Salve and that cured the dangerous wound." 25c, at G. S. Darling and J. M. Waggazer & Co's. druggists

Granger Hill, Dead.

The death of Granger Hill, who had been a resident of Oscoda since 1873, occurred at Harper hospital, Detroit, Wednesday night, May 1.

Mr. Hill had been at the hospital just a week, going there to be treated for gangrene. Dr. McLean, of Detroit, was to have operated upon him, but it was found that the patient's condition would not warrant an operation when he got to the hospital, and his strength continued to fail until the end came, without an operation for the disease having been attempted.

Granger Hill was born in Sullivan county, New York. At the time of his death he was 64 years of age.

He served in the civil war with the 143rd Regiment, New York Infantry, from August 1862 until the close of the war.

After coming to Oscoda he owned and operated a pile driver on the lake here for four years, and for four years he was in the employ of Loud, Gay & Co., as engineer.

In 1881 he went into the insurance business, and about the same time was admitted to the Iosco county bar, but never followed the practice of law extensively.

While engaged in the insurance business he was for a number of years quite successful.

July 30, 1873 he married Miss Hattie Osborn, whom he survived less than two months. Mrs. Hill dying March 3rd, this year.

For the past five years Mr. Hill had been totally blind, in consequence of which affliction he was confined to a large extent to his home. His wife was his constant attendant and he got every care and consideration possible. When Mrs. Hill died his sister, Miss Calanthe Hill, came here from Birmingham, N. Y., to keep house for him and the solicitous attention which had been previously accorded him was in no way relaxed, so that the last years of his life were spent in comfort.—Oscoda Press.
