"Nothing so adds to the happiness of a household as a good healthy difference of opinion between a man and his wife," says W. T. Stead. You'd hardly expect talk like that from a delegate to a peace conference, would you? The state supreme court rendered a decision last Saturday in the case of the Kalamazoo Gazette vs. E. W. Vosburg, county clerk, in which it held that marriage licenses are public records and cannot be suppressed by a county clerk. East Tawas is busy laying out and cleaning up a city park on the city property back of the D. & M. offices, on the bay shore. When the work is completed it will make a big improvement in the appearance of things in that part of the city. Miss Effie Jacobs, who has held the position of clerk in the postoffice in this city for the past eighteen months, has resigned and returned to her home in Alabaster. Her resignation is much regretted by the patrons of the office as she was a most efficient and accommodating official. Register of Deeds Crandall received last Monday 556 deeds for registration. They were from the Auditor General to the state of Michigan for homestead state tax lands. These are abandoned lands of the county which have reverted to the auditor general's department by reason of the non-payment of taxes and are now decided to the state and will be sold. The Sage Land and Improvement Co., of Bay City, thro their attorneys Jahraus & Rawden, were on Monday last granted an injunction by Judge Connine, restraining W. M. McClenan, R. C. Casmier and Julius Freud from removing any of the piles or lumber from the Emery dock, at East Tawas, until settlement was made of a mortgage held by the complainants. The defendants had commenced the work of removing the dock and the operations are now suspended until the matter is settled. The passenger steamer Naomi, of the Crosby Line, running between Grand Haven and Milwaukee, on Lake Michigan, was burned in mid lake early Tuesday morning. One passenger and four members of the crew lost their lives. The boat had a passenger list of 50 and carried a crew of 25. The other passengers and the crew was rescued by her sister ship, the Kansas, and the steam barge Kerr and the steamer Saxonia. L. B. Smith showed us something of a relic this week in the shape of an invitation to a "grand promenade festival" given by AuSable Lodge No. 243, F. & A. M., at O'Toole's hall, in that city, Tuesday evening, July 3, 1877. The invitation is elaborately printed in red and blue on white paper, and among the names which appear on the committees are those of S. Vaughn, H. N. Loud, W. V. Penoyer, Geo. Orth, J. C. Gram, and other well-known pioneers of that city. No town will become a good business center so long as its business men rely on one or more to make the whole effort to bring trade to our town. Too often the men in a few lines are the only ones that reach out after the trade. Other merchants wait until these men induce the people to come to town to do their trading and content themselves with what trade drifts to their place. A public spirited man should ask himself the question: Am I doing my part towards bringing trade to our town? The seventh annual Lake Orion Bible Conference will be held at Lake Orion, July 18th to 28th, inclusive. The program this year is an exceptionally strong one, and it is expected that the attendance of last year will be largely exceeded. The list of speakers for this year includes many of the best known and able men of the country, and every bible student and church worker who arranges to attend will be well repaid for the time spent. The music for the conference will be under the direction of Clifton D. Powers, of New York. For further information address Lake Orion Bible Conference, 203 Chamber of Commerce, Detroit

Opens The Book.

A great many people do not understand why it is that when a man becomes a candidate for public position that practically every act of his life becomes public property. Ex-Congressman Green of Pennsylvania prosecuted Editor Wm. McCormick of the Herald of Reading, Pa., for an article reflecting upon the former's honesty. In summing up the case the court instructed the jury as follows:

A person who asks for a public office throws open his whole life. Every act that he has done may be given to the public. This is for the purpose of informing the public. The law says a matter of that kind is privileged. The publisher, if he believe the matter to be true, is privileged. The question here is whether the defendant had probable cause for the publication of these articles.

In other words, a newspaper has more privilege to go into the history and character of a man, who is a candidate for public office, than it has in the case of a private citizen. In fact, it is the duty of the public newspaper to inform the public in regard to the character of the men who are candidates for public favor. The public can then judge from the record they have already made what to expect from them in the future. The public is looking for information. It is entitled to it and there is no place to which to turn except to the newspapers to get that information. So long as the newspaper is not malicious it is privileged to publish the truth about candidates.—Ex.

One View Of It.

Every time the closet of neighbor is opened do you stretch your neck to peek, and then afterward strain your tongue in talking about it? Do you ever stop to think that some day a tragedy may take up its abode in your home? Can't you get into your head that some day the tongue of slander may cut you like a sharp sword and the whispers of your neighbors will be as vinegar in your wounds? Misfortune may have overtaken your neighbor but it does not become you to get on the housetops and shout about it to the world. You will not be called on to pay for or answer for the sins of your neighbor. You have all you can attend to to pay for your own indiscretions. Some day one near and dear to you may fall—the prison doors may open to a son or the scarlet letter of eternity blight a daughter. When the home is in mourning over a tragedy the best thing to do is to keep your mouth shut, unless you can say something that will come in as a rift in the dark and lowering clouds that are sweeping over them. Then again you may be no better than your neighbor. The only difference is, that your neighbor was caught, and you, up to date, have kept the searchlight away. Be charitable for you know not the day nor the hour when the blight may appear in your own sacred circles.—Ex.

Shams And Their Species.

"Uncle," said a southern man to an old negro who was selling apples, "why is it that the top of your basket is mostly big apples, and the bottom is mostly little apples?" "Well, suh," replied the old man, scratching his head, "I spec' hit's fur de same reason dat de front of yo house is mostly marble, an' de back is mostly ash-cans."

The top of the basket was a sham, and the front of the house was a sham.

There are all sorts of shams. There are the sham people—sham doctors, sham lawyers, sham teachers, sham lovers and all the rest, including sham wives and sham husbands.

There are sham virtues—sham modesty, sham charity, sham principles, sham gratitude, sham friendship.

There are sham vices, too, because there is many a man who pretends to be worse than he is or dares to be.

There is the whole catalogue of sham appearances—sham position in society, sham conversation wherein you try to impress others with your sham knowledge, sham dinners off of sham silver, sham signs of prosperity

when every mail says, "Please remit."

There is sham politics, seen through the thin veil of sham patriotism.

There is any quantity of sham religion, sitting in sham churches and listening to sham sermons by sham preachers.

What kind of a sham are you? One of the rarest things in this world of ours is genuineness. One of the highest compliments you can pay a man is to be able to say of him, "He is genuine; he is sincere in all he is and all he says and all he does."

But the world keeps on improving. We've got to believe that, you know, if we believe anything is worth while.

Think what a wonderful world it is going to be when there is no more pretense in it; when we are not ashamed when we are poor, not envious when we are unsuccessful; not clamoring for social recognition, because we are content to be what we are; not blushing when our coat is out at the elbows, because it is no reproach to wear the old coat so long as we can wear it honestly and bravely, any more than it is a reproach to love our wife, faded as she is, and our little home, humble as it may be.

It will be a good world to live in then, when other people have stopped shamming, and we have stopped shamming, too.—Exchange.

Will She Stop?

This is the age of woman. And the future also is hers.

It is less than fifty years since American girls were refused admission to the colleges their brothers attended. Now there are more women in the colleges than men.

Almost every agency of modern times caters to women. Merchants vie for her custom. The pulpit wants her strong support. The press seeks her favor and patronage. Woman is no longer behind the throne. She is the throne.

All this change of a few years seems a radical departure. But cast your eyes over Europe.

The women of Britain are pounding at the doors of parliament seeking suffrage.

In Germany the gates of the ancient universities have been lifted from their hinges to let women in.

In Italy the parliament has appointed a commission to arrange, if possible, for equal suffrage.

The French women have gone ahead of men in the field of scientific discovery. And in England of the twelve best selling books every one was written by a woman.

Even in darkest Russia women physicians are teaching the doctors of the world advance methods in hospital work.

But most striking of all, in Finland—think of it—in Finland!—nineteen women now occupy seats as law makers in the legislature of that duchy!

In point of fact, in its appreciation and advance of women—great as that advance has been—America is in some respects far behind women.

This is the women's age. In this new equation of modern life is man to be the X—the unknown quantity?—Exchange.

What Are You Doing to Abolish Child Labor?

Everywhere the subject of child labor is being discussed. The national child labor committee has started the fires that have illuminated the disgraceful conditions found in every nook and corner of this land of prosperity, until now hundreds and thousands of committees, clubs, churches and individuals are eagerly studying this question. The Woman's Home Companion, month after month, has informed its great army of readers about these things. The discussion is not all one-sided. Men in high places, leaders in philanthropy and charity, pillars of the church and high priests in commerce and finance are beginning to discuss the evils of child labor. What are you—the reader of this paragraph—doing to support the cause of the children, whose voices will not be heard in high places unless the people speak? In a score of state legislatures, now in session, bills are pending to give the children in different states some additional protection. Who keeps a lobby, day in and day out, watching these bills? Who appears at hearings, trying to have them defeated or amended in any such a way that they fail to regulate any evil or protect anybody? The attorneys of cott on manufacturers, of glass manufacturers, the paid representatives of the oppressors are there, but who represents you and me in our earnest desire to see justice done to the children? Why do you not join the national child labor committee or one of the local child labor committees, and give the support of your name and money to bring to an end these things? It can be done. Instead of 2,000 members the national committee ought to have 50,000, and then half the people who feel about these things as you and I feel would not be represented in its membership. It must have 10,000 members before the end of this year. Will you be one of them? We are counting on your help. Begin work to-day by signing a letter of application for associate membership and sending two dollars, or whatever larger amount you may be able to spare for this work. Send this to the secretary of the national child labor committee, 105 East 22d street, New York City. Tell them where you have read this paragraph and that you stand ready to enlist your friends in this movement. Let us stand by President Roosevelt and the national child labor committee in this fight against selfishness in one of its worst forms.

Won't Fire Emery.

Lansing, May 20.—Several of the state's big salt makers are trying to have the office of salt inspector abolished, but they show a woeful lack of harmony in their efforts and it is hardly likely that Temple Emery will see his new job yanked out from under him at this session.

Just why they should want the inspection abolished is not clear, but there is a rumor that Mr. Emery has been stirring up some of his deputies with the result that several real inspections have been made.

The salt inspection proposition is a peculiar one. The expense of the department is paid by a charge of three mills on the barrel inspected. A barrel is the unit in the salt business. The money not used is refunded to the salt makers.

"Most of the inspectors never go much nearer a salt block than the office of the company," said a member from one of salt districts.

"By looking over the books they were able to tell the number of barrels made during the month and on this figure they assessed the company. The salt—well it was marked inspected."

Emery is an old salt maker himself and it is said has started out to make some innovations in his department.

That they were not appreciated is guessed by the fact that several of the big salt makers want the office put out of business.

Still, many of those who want the bureau knocked out wish to have their salt inspected, although they think the state should pay the freight. Some of them want it done by the pure food department.

Frank Moore, of St. Clair, who was a member of the house in 1899, has been here with a bill knocking out the salt inspector, but found no one to put it in for him. He asked Senator Kinnane and Rep. Agens and Rep. Thompson, but Kinnane had no salt wells in his district and Agens and Thompson, both of whom are from salt districts, knew too well that the argument of their people was split. In consequence the bill is still in Mr. Moore's pocket.

Into a River.

The Oscoda Press gives the particulars of a close call from death experienced by Herb Hardy and Robert Hennigar, engineer and fireman on the AuSable & Northwestern railroad last Thursday. They were running a log train. When nearing the AuSable river bridge the engineer saw smoke coming out from under it, and at once reversed his lever. He then turned and stuck his feet out of the window ready to jump. Hennigar had just finished putting in a fire and was stepping up to take the seat opposite Hardy. Although the latter had the lever reversed and sand on the track the train did not respond readily as it was raining at the time and the track was wet and slippery. The fire was near the bank on the north side, and there the engine dropped through. As she struck the water Hardy jumped from the window. Hennigar had more difficulty in getting out as he had to take a step down and then get out of the door. As the engine sank down in the water the tender doubled up on top like a jack-knife. The coal came up around Hennigar as he was getting out and he sustained several bad bruises. One arm was also scalded by the escaping steam, and one tooth was knocked out. Both boys swam down stream about thirty yards and came out on the bank near the little creek which runs into the river below the bridge. The tender landed upside down on top of the engine and one rascal car jumped over the engine and tender. About thirty feet of the bridge is demolished.

WHAT IS YOUR PRICE?

Do you wisely limit your expenditure for clothing to a certain price? Anyway, you ought to be a critical buyer—eager to secure the best that the price permits.

The makers of Clothcraft aim at two points—high quality and low price. The higher they make the quality and the lower the price the better pleased they are.

All Clothcraft garments are all wool—but the all woolen materials are shrunk by the special Clothcraft process. Every bit of work—the designing, the cutting and the tailoring—are each in turn looked after by skilled workers—the highest paid journeymen who are as exacting in making the button holes, and in shaping the collar as they are in perfecting every other detail.

That's why Clothcraft Clothes prove the best to critical wearers. The Clothcraft Spring Style Book will be given you if you'll call.

The names of "Pingree," "Rindge, Kalmbach, Logie & Co.," and others which will be found on our shelves, stand for perfection as to style and wearing qualities in the shoe business.

As to prices, our reputation for low prices is well established and we shall ever endeavor to maintain it as the "Leader of Low Prices." You will save money by buying your clothing, shoes, dry goods, etc., of us.

The school will take part as usual in the decoration services next Thursday. We will meet at nine o'clock local time at the school building and at nine thirty be ready to fall in line and march to the cemetery to assist the veterans of '61 in their services of the soldier dead.

Last Tuesday morning Rev. Todd of Alma college addressed the high school on the subject of school athletics. It was one of the best addresses on that subject to which we have ever listened. A sound body for the mind, a plea for earnestness, fairness, honesty and a "square deal" in all of our games in both school and life.

WARD SCHOOL.

Clarence Budd entered the third grade Tuesday.

Tony Kovige and Frank Halleck have the measles.

Fred and Ethel Colburn, Dolphus Armstrong, Edith Wells, Luanna and Helen Kulaszewski, Hazel and Orville McDonald, Jennie Bay, Isadore Friedman, and Vivian Hatch were absent last week.

NORMAL DIST.

And now we are writing music. Miss O'Brien was in Alpena the first of the week.

Misses Hottis, Larmer and Lintz spent Sunday and Monday at their respective homes.

Rev. Fr. Kinney, of East Tawas, will deliver our baccalaureate address at the court house, June 12, 1907.

Miss Edyth Bradley, class of '05, who is receiving treatment in the hospital at Ann Arbor, is reported better at this writing.

Nearly all the old normal girls will close a successful year's work next Friday, and have been invited to return to their old schools in September. We are proud of this record and hope to equal it another year.

Alma Beats the U. of M.

Alma, May 18.—The victorious University of Michigan team met a surprise to day when they blew into town for a little walk away game with Alma College. They left town later on with some of their tail feathers subtracted. The score was 4 to 1 and Alma had the biggest end of it.

Six hundred, the largest base ball crowd ever seen at Alma, collected to see them gather in the sheaves. The Alma fellows were a trifle shaky in the first inning, letting Taft to first on an error and then a hit by Sullivan brought him in, but that was their last. In the second, Alma brought on her bunting game which the Wolverines couldn't handle, and scored three runs. The next feature was a long clean hit off left field by Helmer who made a home run, his second this season. After that both teams settled down and neither scored the rest of the game.

Sandy Duncanson, well known to many Iosco county fans, outclassed altogether, Whipple, the Michigan pitcher, who was supposed to be the best college pitcher in the west. He pulled successfully out of several tight places. The way the Michigan fellows would file up and strike or fly out one after the other was a great sight. It made them pretty hot. Eight hits were scored off Whipple and but five off Duncanson.

Crosson-Pinkerton.

Saturday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Crosson, 613 North Franklin street, there was fittingly celebrated the wedding of Miss Emma A. Crosson to Charles A. Pinkerton, of East Tawas, in the presence of a company of about twenty-four friends and relatives. For the occasion the home was beautifully decorated with trailing arbutus and American Beauty roses, a wealth of foliage and flowers being used, so as to completely transform the interior. Rev. J. Ambrose Dunkel, pastor of Warren avenue Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, the bride, who was charmingly attired having for her bridesmaid her sister, Miss Marion M. Crosson. John A. Pinkerton, brother of the groom, of this city, was best man. Following the ceremony an elaborate wedding repast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton took the 6 o'clock train for Detroit and eastern points. Upon their return they will reside at East Tawas, where the groom holds the responsible position of car accountant for the D. & M. R. R. Both young people are well known and have many friends in Saginaw, where the bride has recently been connected with the Saginaw City Gas company, and where the groom was born and brought up. They received a very large number of beautiful and valuable wedding gifts. Those present from outside the city were Mrs. Charles Williamson, of Detroit, and Miss Grace Dobsen, of Detroit.—Saginaw Evening News.

Turcott is Dead.

Joseph Turcott, jr., the second victim of the shooting scrape at Oscoda on the night of May 8, died at Mercy hospital, Bay City, at 7:30 Wednesday morning, and Eugene Munday will now have to answer to the charge of a double murder.

When taken to the hospital no hope were entertained for Turcott's recovery, as it was found that the charge of buckshot had entered his right side, crushing the bone of the right arm above the elbow, and two shot passing thro the liver and one thro the bowels. Contrary to expectations Turcott continued to improve and the attending physicians said that the crisis would come at the end of twelve days. Last Tuesday the injured man began to fail and after a very bad night died Wednesday morning. The remains were taken to Oscoda Wednesday afternoon for interment.

Memorial Day Exercises.

Next Thursday, May 30, is Memorial Day, the day which all good citizens love to observe in honor of the brave soldiers who fought for the maintenance of the union in the dark days of 1861 to 1865.

Arrangements for the proper observance of the day in the Tawas are being completed, and all are urged to take part in carrying out the program. In Tawas City the exercises will be held at the cemetery in the forenoon. The pupils of the city schools will meet at the central building at 9 o'clock local time. The pupils of the Lutheran schools and the district schools in this vicinity are cordially invited to join them.

The line of the march consisting of the veterans of the G. A. R., the members of the W. R. C., the pupils of the schools, and citizens, will march to the cemetery where short addresses will be given by Rev. Dickiey, Rev. Griffes, and Supt. Chaffee, and the usual memorial services observed.

The origin of Memorial Day is one of the things that should be kept fresh in the minds of the growing generation and no better can this be done than by the reading of the following "general orders" published May 5, 1868, by Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of G. A. R., and we hope that it will be carefully read by all readers of this paper:

"The 30th day of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet in the land. In this observance no form of ceremony is prescribed, but Posts and comrades will in their own way arrange such fitting services and testimonials of respect as circumstances may permit. We are organized, comrades, as our regulations tell us, for the purpose, among other things, 'of preserving and strengthening those kind and fraternal feelings which have bound together the soldiers, sailors and marines who united to suppress the late rebellion. What can aid more to assure this result than by cherishing tenderly the memory of our heroic dead, who made their breasts a barricade between our country and its foes? Their soldiers lives were the reveille of freedom to a race in chains, and their deaths the tattoo of rebellious tyranny in arms. We should guard their graves with sacred vigilance. All that the consecrated wealth and taste of the nation can add to their adornment and security is but a fitting tribute to the memory of her slain defenders. Let no wanton foot tread rudely on such hallowed grounds. Let pleasant paths invite the coming and going of reverent visitors and fond mourners. Let no vandalism of avarice or neglect, no ravages of time testify to the present or to the coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of a free and undivided republic.

If other eyes grow dull and other hands slack, and other hearts cold in the solemn trust, ours shall keep it well as long as the light and warmth of life remain to us.

Let us then, at the time appointed, gather around their sacred remains and garland the passionless mounds above them with the choicest flowers of springtime; let us raise above them the dear old flag they saved from dishonor; let us in this solemn presence renew our pledges to aid and assist those whom they have left among us, a sacred charge upon a nation's gratitude—the soldier's and sailor's widow and orphan.

"It is the purpose of the Commander-in-Chief to inaugurate this observance with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades. He earnestly desires the public press to call attention to this order, and lend its friendly aid in bringing it to the notice of comrades in all parts of the country in time for simultaneous compliance therewith.

Wonderful Eczema Cure.

"Our little boy had eczema for five years," writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Electric Bitters, bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy, was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tones. Guaranteed at G. S. Darling and J. M. Wuggazer & Co's. drug store 50c.

Say! Do you believe for a second that any merchant loves you so that he is going to give you something for nothing? If you do you will find in the end that he is just fishing and you are the fish, and that you have got to be caught or he has got to quit or fail, and that is not what he went into business for. I imagine that you had better deal with a man who does not give premiums or compel you to buy five or ten dollar lots and work in goods on you with a big margin for him and which you could get along without. Watch your weights and don't spend your wool money for things you can get along without.
