Our Supply of Gold

Washington, Aug. 1.—There is $135,000,000 less gold in the United States than is generally supposed, according to a statement made public by George E. Roberts, the retiring director of the mint, who has been for several years making an investi-gation of the subject.

The disappearance of such a large amount of the precious metal from America has been occasioned by the slowly accumulating errors of the ex-perts who have been estimating from year to year, the total amount of the yellow metal here.

The error started in 1873, when Dr. Linderman, of the treasury, figured $135,000,000 in gold in America, when there was only $104,000,000. Custom house duplications have amounted to $30,000,000. The drift to Canada totals $25,000,000, instead of $15,000,000. Other discrepancies bring the total up to $135,000,000.

The "revised" estimate of the total stock of gold and bullion in the United States on June 1, 1907, is $1,484,845,280, of which $1,109,458,330 is held by the treasury and National banks.

Governor Johnson of Minnesota.

So many new candidates are being mentioned for the nomination by the democracy for president, who are comparatively unknown by the great majority of the voters, that it would seem appropriate to give brief biographies of the most prominent ones. As William Jennings Bryan has been twice the candidate of the democratic party and has thus been more in the public eye than almost any other American, it would be superfluous to give his biography, for his public life is an open book to his countrymen.

Among those most frequently mentioned besides Mr. Bryan are Gov. John A. Johnson, of Minnesota; Gov. Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Senator John W. Daniel, of Virginia; Senator Charles A. Culberson, of Texas; Gov. Folk, of Missouri; President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University; John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi; Gov. Beckham, of Kentucky; former Senator Carmack, of Tennessee, and Judson Harmon, of Ohio.

Gov. Johnson will first be considered. He was born at St. Peter, Minnesota, July 28, 1861, of Swedish parents. His father was a blacksmith, who died leaving his family unprovided for. In 1873 therefore, John was obliged to quit school and work for the support of the family. He was employed in a printing office at $10 a month, and gave all his earnings to his mother. Afterwards he became a clerk in a drug store, and in 1877 he was getting $75 a month though but sixteen years old.

He joined the National Guards in which he served seven years, reaching the rank of captain. Returning to the printing business, he became a member of the firm of Essler and Johnson, publishers of the St. Peter Herald, of which he was until recently the editor. He has always been a democrat, and was elected as such, to the state senate in which he served one term before he was nominated for governor by his party, in 1904. As a candidate for governor in that year he received a majority of 6362; in a total vote of 297,592, although Roosevelt carried the state by a majority of 161,000. As the first democratic governor of Minnesota since the war he gave the state a wise, decent, economical administration. He opposed extravagance and every kind of fraud and successfully planned and advocated legislation taxing mortgages, and the steel trust iron ore monopoly, sleeping car companies, etc. He also procured the establishment of a permanent tax commission to adjust the burden of state taxes upon the different counties. He obtained a reduction of freight rates in Minnesota; also a two cent passenger fare, and the abolition of the corrupt free pass system; and secured the passage of statutes regulating the management of life insurance, which have proved entirely efficient.

In consequence of these reforms, he was re-nominated for governor by the democrats in 1906, and carried the state by a majority of 76,633 votes, showing greatly increased popularity.

Gov. Johnson's position on the important issues of the day can be best told in his own words. For instance, he has recently said: "I believe the states must be absolute in their authority to regulate and control railway rates on business wholly within the states. I believe that the government should do no business which can be done as well, or better, by private individuals. The time has not arrived when there should be even a suggestion of government ownership of railroads."

The Limit of Life.

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; carelessness then being fatal to longevity. Nature's best helper after 50 is Electric Bitters, the scientific tonic medicine that revitalizes every organ of the body. Guaranteed at J. M. Wuggazer & Co's and G. S. Darhug's druggists. Price 50c.

Standard's Profits Large.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The report of the commissioner of corporations, Herbert K. Smith, on prices and profits of the petroleum industry of the United States submitted to the president, was made public last night.

Commissioner Smith's investigation of the claims made by the Standard Oil Co. that its methods of business have tendered to lower prices and that its profits are only commensurate with a business conducted along lines of strict business principles are clearly refuted by facts and figures.

The commissioner in his report says in part:

For the past 25 years the Standard Oil Co. has dominated the prices of petroleum and its products, and during the past ten years its control has been absolute.

The Standard has repeatedly claimed that it has reduced the price of oil; that it has been a benefit to the consumer, and that only a great combination like the Standard could have furnished oil at the prices that have prevailed.

Each one of these claims is disproved by investigation by the department of commerce and labor.

Having obtained control of the oil industry, an increase of profits to the Standard followed. The entire net earnings of the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were at least $70,000,000, and possibly much more.

These enormous profits have been based on an investment worth at the time of its original acquisition not more than $75,000,000.

Furthermore the rate of profit on the capitalization has increased greatly. From 1882 to 1894 the net earnings averaged about 15 per cent on the capital stock or trust certificates outstanding, while the average earnings for that period from 1903 to 1905 were about 68 per cent yearly.

The rates of profit and their great increase are strikingly confirmed by the known profits of one important Standard concern, the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. The lowest rate of profit on its investment was in 1896—23.3 per cent. It increased nearly every year thereafter until in the first six months of the year 1904 the profits were at the rate of 47.2 per cent per year. Moreover, the rate of profit of the company has increased not only in proportion to its investment, but also per unit of products sold. The average profits of illuminating oil for the years 1895 to 1899 was 83 cents per barrel, while from 1900 to June, 1904, the average profit was $1.32 per barrel, with similar increase of profits on the important by-products.

A further verification of the profits of the Standard was afforded by computation of the profits of certain of its individual refineries. In 1904 the rate of profit on investment in these refineries and in the marketing concerns distributing their products was as follows: Refinery at Lima, Ohio, 37 per cent; Whiting, Ind., 45 per cent; Sugar Creek, Mo., 35 per cent; Neodosha, Kan., 35 per cent; Florence, Colo., 62 per cent; of a weighted average of 42 per cent, about 2.3 cents per gallon of crude handled. This excludes the profits on pipe line business.

Coal Output Increases.

Lansing, Aug. 5.—A marked increase in the coal output of Michigan is reported by Labor Commissioner McLeod, who has issued a bulletin on the subject.

During the 12 months ending last November, there was mined in Michigan 1,372,857 tons of coal at an average cost of $1.50 per ton for mining. In the seven months succeeding the period named 1,096,298 tons of coal have been mined and if the average production continues for the remainder of the year the total will be 1,870,368 tons. The cost of mining coal has increased from $1.50 to $2.63 per ton and wages have increased from $2.40 to $3.23.

In the last seven months Saginaw county has produced 559,565 tons of coal; Bay county, 521,051 tons; Huron, 212 tons; Shiawassee, 4,479 tons; Jackson county, 7,034 tons; and Eaton county, 3,557 tons. The cost of mining 1,096,298 tons of coal was $1,783,041. Nearly three thousand men are employed in the industry.

Commissioner McLeod says it is confidently expected that this encouraging condition of the coal industry will continue and that the close of the current year will record the largest output of coal Michigan has ever produced. There are indications that new mines may be opened and that mines that have been idle for the past two months will resume operations.

The right kind of a wife never harps upon her husband's misdeeds, still less does she remind him of his misfortunes. No woman should marry a man unless her love for him be of the fiber which hopeth all things, believeth all things, and is not easily provoked," says Home Chat. "The right kind of a wife helps a man when he falls and encourages him to try again, instead of railing at him for the stumble after he has risen to his feet.

A nervous looking man went into a store the other day and sat down for half an hour or so, when a clerk asked him if there was anything she could do for him. He said "no" he didn't want anything." She went away and he sat an hour or so longer when the proprietor went up to him and asked if he didn't want to be shown anything. "No," said the nervous little man. "I just wanted to sit around." My physician has recommended quiet for me, and says above all things I should avoid being in a crowd. Noticing that you do not advertise in the home paper, I thought this would be as quiet a place as I could find, so I just dropped in for a few hours of isolation."

Omer was Easy.

The Tawas City ball team went to Omer last Saturday for a game with the team of that city and were given a hearty reception. Manager Blohm who is also landlord of the Omer house, met the boys at the train and escorted them to the hotel where they were given every attention.

Owing to several light showers it was nearly 4 o'clock before the game was started. Omer presented Russel and Fitzgerald as their battery, while the old reliable Nordstrom and Wuggazer appeared for Tawas. The things that Nordstrom did to the Omer batters were plenty, but four safe hits being made. Russel touched up in spots at a lively rate.

In the first inning both sides went out in order, but in the second, six scores were made by our boys, while Omer was shut out. In the third Omer made one and Tawas two. Omer scored one each in the sixth, eighth and ninth innings, and Tawas piled up four in the eighth and six in the ninth. The final score was 18 to 4 in favor of Tawas City.

The rain made the grounds very slippery and the ball difficult to handle, which easily accounts for half the scores made in the game. Below is the line up with the score.

Something Wrong in the Dairy.

The census bureau has been looking into the conditions regarding butter, cheese and condensed milk as they appear from the official reports of 1905, and it is not pleased with its discoveries. With our vast extent of agricultural lands, it would seem that we ought readily to produce all the cheese necessary for home consumption and leave a very large surplus for export. Comparing the figures for 1905 with those of 1900, it is found that while the production of butter increased 26.5 per cent during the five years, it was almost wholly consumed at home. The domestic supply must have met the domestic demand, for the total value of butter imported in 1904 was only $34,764. It is a great thing to supply wholly our own market, but it would be still better if we could produce a surplus to sell in foreign markets. The increase in the demand for many of our products has outstripped the increase in population, a result of the unexampled prosperity the country has enjoyed for the past ten years, and with this increased demand has come an increased production, but increased facilities have not brought such an increase in production as to permit us to reach out for foreign markets on some of our products. This is a matter of moment for our dairymen, who will readily see the importance of extending their markets if their business is to grow. We should not be content with simply supplying the demands of our own people, but should be ambitious to ship our dairy products to all parts of the world. Little Denmark obtains a rich revenue by supplying London with butter, milk and cheese and the fame of her dairies has gone all over the world. Holland, too, another small country, is conspicuous as a leader in this industry. Surely the great United States, with its boundless wealth and resources, should not stand back for any country, but contest for supremacy in every market that loves good butter.

Taking cheese as an example, it will be seen that our dairies have not been doing their best. The increase in the quantity of cheese manufactured in 1904 over that of 1900 amounted to 36,172,540 pounds, but in the same time the importations of cheese grew from 13,185,990 pounds in 1900 to 22,707,103 pounds in 1904. The increased production amounted to 12.5 per cent, while the increase in importations was 60 per cent. This is a discouraging, even a discreditable showing. Our exports of this product should steadily increase and the imports, except of kinds not made here, should steadily decrease until they cease altogether. The United States ought to be the butter and cheese producing country of the world. We have the cattle, the feed, the capital and the skill, as no other country has, and why should we be playing second fiddle to any nation on earth? At least we ought to manufacture enough cheese for our own consumption and not endure the humiliation of seeing our stores and markets filled with foreign cheese. We are rich in cattle and in land; dairy products demand a good price, and the industry is, or ought to be, a profitable one. According to the bureau of commerce and labor, having this subject in charge, the five states of New York, Wisconsin, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania produced 90.8 per cent of all the cheese manufactured in this country. Such great states as Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota and Kansas hardly appear in the census on the production of cheese. Manifestly, the field for dairy products is still an open one with vast possibilities. Our dairymen should discuss the subject in their meetings and annual associations, with a view to devising a remedy and taking steps to put this great industry of the United States in the forefront of nations.—American Farmer.

Our Fleet for the Pacific.

To sum up, then, we have no grievance of any kind against Japan, and the regrettable incidents in California are the only ground of grievance that Japan could have against us. But no sensible person could for a moment find in those incidents any difference upon which two great nations should go to war, sacrifice many thousands of lives, and waste thousands of millions of dollars worth of property. To mention such a thing is ridiculous, and to suggest it as likely would seem to indicate either a malevolent mind or a feeble understanding. But some readers may say it is now admitted that we are to send a great fleet of battleships to the Pacific Ocean, and this must mean that the government seriously apprehends difficulties. Such an inference is not correct. It is quite true, as announced by Mr. Metcalf, secretary of the navy, that the government expects in the early future to send a fleet of about sixteen battleships around the coasts of South America to our own Pacific seaboard. There are those who have said that we ought not to send these ships because such an action might be construed as a menace of war against Japan. If we were to wait for a more perfect accord to exist between the two governments, we should have to wait a long time. It is not likely that the ships will sail until some time next winter. The Pacific Coast is just as much a part of our country as is the Atlantic. There is no possible reason why we should not give our navy the experience of this long voyage. Our officers will learn a great deal about coaling at sea, and the merits and defects of our ships will be better understood by the experts after the test of so extended a cruise. The ships must be somewhere, and if a war against us should ever break out in the Pacific we should have to transfer numerous vessels, just as we brought the Oregon around Cape Horn nine years ago. No sensible people anywhere should regard the experiment of moving our own ships from one seaboard to another as a matter of international concern. We have no militant designs in the Pacific Ocean nor in any other quarter of the globe.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for August.

Fond of Crab.
A jolly old fellow from the Midlands entered into one of the hotels at the seaside and, seeing on the slab on the right a crab dressed on the shell with legs, claws and parsley ranged round, said to the landlord:
"What d'ye call that?"
"Crab," was the answer.
"Looks good. I'll have un, and give us a pint of ale."
Bread and butter was added and the diner left to his dinner. In about an hour the genial landlord entered the dining saloon to see if his guest was getting on all right. He found him chawing up the last claw, the chawer red in the face, but beaming.
"Like the crab, sir?"
"Yes. He was capital. I never tasted one afore, but I think you baked un a little too long. The crust was hard. Let's have another pint."
He had eaten the lot—shell, claws and all complete.—London Tit-Bits.

An Epitaph of Pope's.
The following epitaph written by Pope was highly commended by Johnson. It was written to keep alive the memory of Elizabeth Corbett, who sleeps now in St. Margaret's, Westminster:
Here rests a woman, good without pretense,
Blest with plain reason and with sober sense;
No conquest she but o'er herself desired;
No arts essayed, but not to be admired.
Passion and pride were to her soul unknown,
Convinced that virtue only is our own;
So unaffected, so composed a mind,
So firm, yet soft; so strong, yet so refined,
Heaven, as its purest gold, by tortures tried,
The saint sustained it, but the woman died.

Von.
In Germany "von" implies nobility, and all persons who belong to the nobility prefix "von" to their names without any exception. Persons who do not belong to the nobility cannot have the right to put "von" before their names. A man who is knighted for some reason, however, has the same right to put "von" before his family name as a person of ancient nobility. For instance, when Alexander Humboldt was knighted he became Alexander von Humboldt. All his descendants, male and female, take the prefix.

RITUALISTIC WORK.

Time Devoted to Its Proper Rendering is Time Well Spent.

To one who has studied the ritual of our Order it almost seems a sacrilege to have the beautiful lessons of life and farm work murdered—as they are at times, says a writer in the Michigan Farmer. No expression whatever is put into the rendering of the lectures. Notwithstanding one of our main teachings is, "Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well."

Officers should not only commit their parts to memory, but should study the expression so they may render them in a manner that will bring out in an impressive way the lessons they are designed to teach. Let our initiates enter the grange for the first time to find everything in perfect order, officers and members performing their parts in an earnest, faithful manner, as good laborers on our grange farm, and we are assured of members who will take hold of the work in the same spirit. If, on the other hand, the new member enters to find the hall in confusion, whispered conversations going on here and there, officers mumbling over something which he, they or nobody else understands, in the same way will his grange career be carried on.

And another thing, the chief lesson we all have to learn in life is that of discipline. Slight the work or the laws which govern our Order and this lesson is thrown away. Impress upon our younger members that there is a right and a wrong way to do things and you are making better men and better women, for they will be at all times ready to work together as one whole for the good of all.

THE REPORT SYSTEM.

Enables State Lecturer to Locate Weak Spots and Render Aid.

New Hampshire, Massachusetts and this year New York are conducting a system of quarterly reports from subordinate grange lecturers to the state lecturer relative to the work of the lecture hour. The total is little less than amazing. Take the New Hampshire report, for instance, which is for nine months only, ending Oct. 1, 1906. During the nine months there were given in various granges of the state the following:

Selections of vocal music, 4,292; selections of instrumental music, 3,154; readings and recitations, 7,203; essays, 1,035; addresses, 810; dramas, 74; farces, 254; tableaux, 454; discussions, 1,789; number of speakers on discussions, 10,335; attendances during programmes, 134,784.

Three questions were assigned for simultaneous discussion. In February 217 granges considered the teaching of nature studies in our common schools and 863 persons spoke upon this subject before 5,421 people. In May the question, whether the state should pay for the damage done by game animals protected by law was raised. Nine hundred and two speakers addressed 4,929 people on this matter.

Co-operation in New Jersey.

We shall have to look to New Jersey to find grange co-operation in purchasing farm supplies most generally practiced. Here are a few figures showing the value of such purchases for twelve months in several granges: Vineland, $48,000; Friesburg, $3,200; Somerset, $5,000; Medford, $7,000 or $8,000; Hope, $2,700; Morristown, $43,000; Riverside, $14,335; Columbus, $4,500; Mullica Hill, $7,000; Pioneer, $3,500; Mercer, $6,000. While financial benefits accruing from grange membership are perfectly legitimate, yet it is not grange practice to emphasize these benefits or hold them out as inducements to prospective members.

Co-operative Insurance.

W. H. Vary of Watertown, N. Y., president of the Central Organization of Co-operative Fire Insurance in that state and which is largely composed of grange fire insurance associations, reports for the year 1906 123 companies carrying 251,217 policies and risks of $367,274,418. Losses last year amounted to $799,690; expenses, $182,468. The average cost of insuring $1,000 of risk was $2.67 for this year.

A Hint to Grange Speakers.

Robert J. Burdette, now pastor of a Baptist church in Los Angeles, Cal., and always a humorist, is opposed to the length of the form of service for the presentation of children and says that, as a rule, he thinks that the service should not be longer than the baby. Likewise grange speeches should not be longer than the speaker can make them interesting.

The Question Box.

What is the specific advantage to a grange in becoming an incorporated organization?

The advantage of grange incorporation is that it gives the grange a business standing, allowing it to buy, sell, contract—in fact, do business as an individual. The acts of its purchasing agent are binding, or the grange treasury and not on the members. If a purchasing agent of a grange makes a bargain, it may be repudiated by an incorporated grange and he held responsible, but if given authority by an incorporated grange the grange is responsible as if it were its treasury goods and no further—that is, there is no individual liability.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to year you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store. We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you. If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.
