Another Pioneer Gone

Dr. T. O. Gates, who has been in failing health for the past two years, died at his home in East Tawas, early last Monday morning.

Dr. Gates was nearly 60 years of age, and has been one of the active physicians and business men of this county for the past thirty years. Coming from Canada to East Tawas when a young physician he built up a large practice in his profession and for many years was one of the leading physicians of this section. Of late years, while never entirely giving up the practice of medicine, he has devoted a large portion of his time to his large stock and fruit farm in Baldwin township, one of the finest in northern Michigan.

Nearly two years ago Dr. Gates suffered a severe illness from which he never fully recovered. He is survived by one son, Elgin, of Saginaw, and two sisters, Mrs. F. E. Hayes, of East Tawas, and Mrs. L. L. Johnson, of this city.

The funeral was held from the home of his sister, Mrs. F. E. Hayes yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. J. Brainard Brown, of the East Tawas Baptist church, officiated.

Soldier Balks Death Plot.

It seemed to J. A. Stone, a civil war veteran, of Kemp, Tex., that a plot existed between a desperate lung trouble and the grave to cause his death. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed cough that stuck to me, in spite of all remedies, for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds." Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which restored my health completely. I now weigh 175 pounds. For severe colds, obstinate coughs, Hemorrhages, asthma, and to prevent pneumonia it's unrivaled. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by G. S. Darling and Jas. E. Dillon.

Indigestion. Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nervous sickness—nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Without that original and highly restorative principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, floating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

RANDOM SHOTS

SOME ARE ORIGINAL, SOME ARE NOT

Many men capable of successfully managing a great business are wholly incapable of managing a small woman.

Unfortunately indeed is the grafter who gets caught. All his partners at once turn against him and escape for their sins.

You cannot dodge old age, but by keeping in the running you will remain ahead of it longer than the man who lingers by the way.

The people shouldn't expect much of young ladies these days. Look at what they have to do two and three times a day to their hair.

While that city has been waiting for some one to "Do it for Jackson" Armstrong and Alderman Dowsett has done it and Jackson, and did it good.

Competent engineers estimate that there is 2,000,000 horsepower which could be easily developed from water-power in this country. This would save annually 225,000,000 tons of coal.

The state tax lands have been withdrawn from market. It is another case of locking the door after the horse is stolen. State officials and land sharks have picked up practically all the desirable lands.

The Detroit Journal, which has just installed wireless telegraphy—and thereby becomes the first paper in the United States to do so—invites every person to visit The Journal office, whenever he may be in Detroit, to see the system in operation.

Testimony given before the senate committee investigating the Tennessee Coal and Iron merger tended to show that the "great business institutions" which would have perished had Mr. Roosevelt not consented to the combination, was in fact, a stock broker firm in New York city.

It begins to look as though Warden Armstrong was down and out, deserted by his friends, and that the investigation of Jackson prison would turn out to be an investigation of Warden Armstrong. In other words Armstrong will stand the disgrace and the other fellows will get out with whole skins.

A few years ago the members of the supreme court asked to have their salaries raised to $7,000 a year, and to get the bill through they stated the business was behind because members were living all over the state. That if the salaries were raised to $7,000 per year and the bill provide that all members be compelled to live at Lansing that the state would get much better service. Now a bill has passed the senate striking out the clause compelling the judges to live at Lansing. This is the usual way that faith is kept with the people by salary grabbers.—Michigan Patron.

Conservative management of timber lands is assured for less than one-fourth of this country's forested areas, the part contained in the national forests and under the administration of the United States forest service. By cutting only the mature trees and protecting the new growth by keeping out fires, the national forests will be made to yield indefinitely. It can not be expected that this small part of the nation's forests will supply the demand for future generations and the one hope in sight is that users of wood and lumber manufacturers, will insure the permanence of their business by applying the principles of forestry in the management of timberlands.

Your Town.

More towns die for want of confidence on the part of business men and lack of public spirit than by any other cause, says a floating editorial. When a man in search of a home or a business location goes into a town and finds everything brim full of hope and enthusiasm of the prospects of the place and all earnestly at work to build it up, he soon becomes imbued with the same spirit, and as a result he drives down stakes and goes to work with the same interest. When, however, he goes to a town where every one expresses doubt and apprehension for the future prosperity of the place, moping about and indulging in mournful complaints, he naturally feels that it is no place for him, and he at once shakes the dust from his feet while he pulls out with all possible speed for some other place. Consequently try to make a live, enterprising town out of the town in which you live. When you are working for your town you are accomplishing all the more for yourself.—Western Publisher.

Home Influence.

The home influence is either a blessing or a curse, either for good or for evil. It cannot be neutral. In either case it is mighty, commencing with our birth; going with us through life, clinging to us in death, and reaching into the eternal world. The specific influences of husband and wife, of parent and child, of brother and sister, of teacher and pupil united and harmoniously blended, constitute the home influence. Like the calm, deep stream, it moves on in silent but overwhelming power. It strikes its roots deep into the human heart, and spreads its branches wide over our whole being. Like the lily that braves the tempest and "the Alpine flower that leans its cheek on the bosom of eternal snow," it is exerted amid the wildest storms of life and breathes a softening spell in our bosom even when a heartless world is freezing up the fountains of sympathy and love. It holds the empire of the heart and rules the life. Our habits, too are formed under the moulding power of home. The "tender twig" is there bent, the spirit shaped, principles implanted, and the whole character is formed until it becomes a habit. The gray haired father who walks in the second infancy, feels the traces of his childhood home in his spirit, desires and habits. The most illustrious statesmen and eloquent ministers owe their greatness to the fostering influences of home. Napoleon knew and felt this when he said "What France wants is good mothers, and you may be sure then that France will have good sons."

Republican State Convention.

The republican state convention held at Grand Rapids last Friday, placed the following gentlemen in nomination: For supreme justice—Charles A. Blair, Jackson, and John W. Stone, Marquette. For board of regents—W. L. Clements, Bay City, and George P. Codd, Detroit. For superintendent of public instruction—Luther L. Wright, Ironwood. For member of the board of education—William J. McKone, Albion. For board of agriculture—I. Roy Waterbury, Highland, and W. H. Wallace, Saginaw. six-year term; Robert D. Graham, Grand Rapids, and A. J. Doherty, Clare, four-year term; and William J. Oberdorfer, Stephenson, and William L. Carpenter, Detroit, two-year term.

The Secret Of Long Life.

A French scientist has discovered one secret of long life. His method deals with the blood. But long ago millions of Americans had proved Electric Bitters prolongs life and makes it worth living. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, rebuilds wasted nerve cells, imparts life and tone to the entire system. Its a godsend to weak, sick and debilitated people. "Kidney trouble had blighted my life for months," writes W. M. Sherman, of Cheshire, Me., "but Electric Bitters cured me entirely." Only 50c at G. S. Darling's and Jas. E. Dillon's.

Revolts At Cold Steel.

"Your only hope," said three doctors to Mrs. M. E. Fisher, Detroit, Mich., suffering from severe neuralgia, lies in an operation. "Then I used Dr. King's New Life Pills," she wrote, "and I'm wholly cured." They prevent Appendicitis, cure constipation, headache, 25c at G. S. Darling's and Jas. E. Dillon's.

LOCAL OPTION.

For and Against by its Friends and Enemies. We invite a Fair Discussion.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 10, 1909. EDITOR OF HERALD

Dear Sir:—It was a real pleasure to me to notice your willingness to give space in your valuable paper to both sides for the discussion of the prohibition question. Prohibition would be all right if it prohibited, but it opens the way for more criminals in the way of boot leggers, blind tigers, grip sackers, or whatever name you see fit to call them.

The weakness of the whole "stop it" position, is that an attempt is made to create a new crime which I protest against. If we could find some way to express in law the difference which actually exists among men, and between one human constitution and tendency and another, we would reach the solution of this very serious problem. As a matter of common experience all of us know that some men go through life using liquor in moderation to their own pleasure and without serious results, while to other men it is a poison, shame and ruin. What we want to do, and what all of us should do is to look toward the protection of the weak without deprivation of the stronger or needless invasion of their personal rights. The policy of our government is that the man twenty one years old is able to take care of himself and to regulate and control his own personal and family conduct and affairs. Any attempt by the government or by the majority of the people who really are the government, to deal with a man as if he was a baby or weakling requiring protecting arms about him and close guardianship of his morals, is dangerous because it tends toward tyranny and the invasion of sacred and valuable rights.

When a man is not able to take care of himself, however, the government has the right to take charge of him. The habitual or only now and then drunkard may be considered as a lunatic or a criminal, the victim of misfortune or disease, and a proper subject for public care. The government also has the right to protect the morals of a minor.

I believe that the liquor traffic can be so ordered, regulated and controlled, that it can be conducted openly and fairly, make a source of revenue to the public and prevented from doing serious harm. To me it seems nonsense to say that this traffic cannot be kept within safe bounds. Men who are required to pay heavy license whose places are open and are under direct supervision of the officers of the law, can be forbidden and prevented in country or cities alike, from selling whiskey to drunkards or minors or to persons whose families object to their use of it. I believe that if the anti-saloon people would cease from spending their energies and time and money on things that are impossible and concentrate their efforts on real and possible reforms, they will do much actual good and find themselves in harmony with thinking people everywhere. There is not a doubt but they have done good, the trouble is that the work they do is not permanent, does not stick, the demand for liquor continues and the supply responds to it.

In secret, dangerous and destructive ways, the liquor traffic is safest when conducted openly and under close official observation and when those engaged in it are made to feel both financial and personal responsibility for strict obedience to strict and carefully contrived laws.

Yours for law and order. IRA ODELL.

A Catechism.

EDITOR OF HERALD:—It seems to me that the following, from the Christian Guardian is apt at this time. What is the chief law breaker of the land? The saloon. Where are the schemes hatched which promote civic corruption? In the saloon. Where does the midnight assassin go to prepare for his murderous work? To the saloon. Where do the police go in search of the skulking thief and murderer? To the saloon. What lays its hand upon political parties and dictates who shall be nominated and elected? The saloon. What impoverishes the industrious workman and fills him with the spirit of discontent and anarchy? The saloon. What takes the bread from the mouths of starving women and children? The saloon. What clothes with rags women raised in refinement and affluence? The saloon. What despoils young manhood and sends it reeling and staggering down the street? The saloon. What crowds our prisons to their utmost? The saloon. What fills almshouses and insane asylums with pitiable objects? The saloon. What destroys the respectability and influence of a man and sends them swaggering to a drunkard's grave and a drunkard's hell? The saloon. What destroys more homes and causes more family troubles than anything else? The saloon. What is the greatest enemy of the church, the nation, the home and the individual? The saloon. What is the greatest hindrance to all reforms and moral and material advancement? The saloon. J. A. F.

Simplicity In Newest Modes.

Simplicity is a market feature of the smart frocks designed for spring wear, but it carries with it an impression of style that is quite unmistakable. This is especially true of the semi princess models, which convey a suggestion of usefulness that appeals very keenly to the woman who has learned that appearances count,—and it is, becoming daily more apparent that this type of woman fairly represents the average. This year the one-piece frock—meaning that having the waist and skirt joined together—will be worn by women of all ages, as well as by misses and girls. It will figure with special prominence among the useful tub dresses without which no up-to-date feminine wardrobe is complete, for it is a very much smarter and more convenient model for such dresses than that having the waist and skirt made separately. Linea is still a favorite material for the spring and summer costume, but it does not in any sense exclude other wash goods. The new printed cottons are so dainty that they claim involuntary admiration, and these make up very prettily in semi princess style. Sometimes they are made high-necked and long-sleeved, while the only decoration is a bit of hand-work embroidery, which is introduced on the waist front, collar, sleeves, belt and possibly on the hem of the skirt; or again, they are cut out at the neck in a round or square outline, disclosing a yoke or gumpie of Irish crochet or tacked batiste, either of which combines as well with a simple cotton fabric as with one of silk or wool. Often the close fitting sleeves are of the same material as the yoke, and in many instances these are completed with a short over-sleeve or sleeve cap made of the dress goods. Frocks of this type are as easy to make as they are practical to wear, and they are always neat and smart-looking, whether worn with or without a coat of matching material. When intended for practical wear, in the house or on the street, they are finished in round length, the skirt in sweep length being reserved for more ceremonious occasions.—The March New Idea Woman's Magazine.

Tawas City Schools.

Washington's birthday next Monday.

All departments of our schools gave creditable programs last Thursday.

This is the year to gather "up-to-date" material for future Lincoln programs.

This week the normal girls begin their practice teaching. Their first work will be with the fifth grade.

Mr. Walker gave the high school and normal students a very interesting talk on Lincoln and his times.

NO CHANCE.

People who are made of the right kind of material do not make excuses; they work. They do not whine, they keep forging ahead. They do not wait for somebody to help them; they help themselves. They do not wait for an opportunity; they make it. Those who complain of no chance, confess their weakness,—their lack of efficiency. They show that they are not equal to the occasion,—that they are not greater than the obstacle that confronts them.

"No chance" has ever been the excuse of those who fail. Interview the great army of failures; most of them will tell you that they never had an opportunity like others, that there was no one to help them, and that no one would give them a boost. They will tell you that the good places were all filled, that every occupation or profession was crowded, that there was no chance for them, and that all the good opportunities were gone.

After one of Alexander's campaigns he was asked if he intended taking the next city if he had an opportunity. "Opportunity!" he thundered. "Why, I make opportunities." It is men that make opportunities that are wanted everywhere.

While you are saying, "There is no chance for me," and "I can't," thousands of boys and girls in this country with nothing like your opportunities are tearing the words "impossible" and "I can't" out of their dictionaries. While you are thinking of the great things you would do if you only had a college education and a little money to start with, others much less favored by fortune are annihilating these obstacles and forging ahead. Many of these poor boys and girls are not only starting without friends, money, influence or any assistance whatever, but are, besides, heavily handicapped by others depending upon them, or by some physical deformity; yet they are defying the fates which you say are keeping you back.—Selected.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the heart or kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the heart or kidneys. That old fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by C. H. Prescott & Sons.

A Hundred Years Ago Today

In a lonely Kentucky cabin, one cold and wintry night, unto an humble pair, there came a child, to greatness born.

Amidst surroundings profound and solitary he grew up to man's estate, and, in power of mind and strength of body, developed the full flower of his individuality.

In due time the world acclaimed him the greatest American since Washington, and the greatest and most heroic exponent of Human Liberty that has trod the earth for two thousand years.

In the days of his young manhood there was alarm and terror in the land, and frightful domination.

At twenty, on the Mississippi's lordly bosom, he toiled at the oar for bread. At twenty-four he was a pioneer chief and a captain in the Black Hawk war. At twenty-five he was a rising young legislator—at twenty-six he was an eloquent lawyer defending the cause of the weak and the oppressed. At thirty-seven he became a Congressman.

Then fame threw her mantle upon him—and step by step he rose to place and power, until at last in the government of a vast republic and in the affections of all mankind he stood alone and absolute.

If ever there lived beneath the skies a Christian hero of sincere and profound piety, a true champion of the Lord of Hosts, it was ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

He spoke softly, he thought fearlessly, but like fire flamed his heart.

To the cause of the great Common People he gave limitless allegiance, and nothing made him more indignant than legislative tyranny or usurpation of any kind. "He disliked sumptuary laws and would not prescribe by statute what other men should eat and drink."

Upon a famous occasion he declared: "When the white man governs himself, that is self government, but when he governs himself and also another man, that is more than self government—that is DESPOTISM."

Again, when fellow legislators attempted to impose Absolute Prohibition upon the young State of Illinois, he arose (Dec. 19th, 1840) "like one among the prophets" and tabled a motion which led to its defeat and final extinction by a unanimous vote of 75 to 8.
