Indications are that the idea of confining the horse races at the county fair to county horses will be even more of a success this year than it was last. We are informed that several horses for both the trotting and running races are already being fitted for the occasion, and it looks as though there would be a large number of entries in all races.

Many persons feel offended because their comings and going are not mentioned while those of others are, and wonder what the matter can be. The explanation of the matter is that the editor means to be impartial but some escape mention. The likes and dislikes of an editor have nothing to do with it, and while it is not pretended that the editor is more than human he knows that the success of his journal depends on his fairness and impartiality to all. It is the best way always when a notice is desired to mention it to the editor, telephone it to the office or send it thru the post-office. No one feels worse about seeming neglect or partial performance of duty than the editor.

We bespeak for the new enterprise a liberal patronage.

It pays to advertise. Station Agent Harry Clough will bear us out in this assertion. You've probably noticed that long, happy daddy smile he's been wearing these last few days.—Onaway Outlook.

Life 100,000 Years Ago.

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. Today the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown, of Alexander, Me., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure sore lungs, colds, obstinate coughs, and prevent pneumonia, its the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by A. S. Larabee and Jas. E. Dillon. Trial bottle free.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., July 23, 1909

One Instance Where State Suffers.

One result of the defunct state treasury is the crippling of the public domain commission. The act creating the commission which was passed by the last legislature makes provision for the spending of a limited amount of money to advertise the agricultural and stock raising possibilities of the tax homestead lands in the northern part of the state for the purpose of inducing farmers to take them up and settle on them. The deplorable condition of the state's finances makes it impossible for the commission to avail itself of the authority conferred by the statute, and nothing, therefore, will be done under its provisions this year. This is a matter for regret because it delays the start in a land policy which is greatly needed for the development of the upper portion of Michigan, and the lack of which has cost and is today costing the state hundreds of settlers who are overlooking its offerings and are streaming into other states which have had the wisdom to give publicity to their resources.

There are two things of which northern Michigan stands greatly in need. One is a larger farming class and the other is reforestation. It is the portion of the state which offers the boon that immigrants are looking for—extensive rather than intensive development. Moreover, the whole commonwealth has an interest in the building up and peopling of the large areas of untenanted upstate lands. The prosperity of the parts make up the prosperity of the whole, and the people of southern Michigan have an incentive in common with those of the north in promoting a policy which will colonize and reforest our millions of acres of so-called pine barrens in whatever locality they are found.

There can be no doubt that we have suffered severely from legislative indifference to the fate of the northern part of Michigan. Other states by effective methods of publicity and organized effort have absorbed and today are absorbing the desirable classes of foreign immigrants as well as the thousands of restless farmers who are always leaving the older thickly populated sections for virgin soil. These colonists are passing Michigan by, ignorant of what we have to offer them in agriculture and stock raising. That a respectable portion of the westward flow could be diverted into our northern localities by persistent advertising and by the activities of immigration boards such as Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas and other states possess there can be no doubt. The proposed publicity work by the new public domain commission was to have been a start in this direction and it is too bad that it will have to be deferred another year, particularly in view of the apparent certainty of an early return to normal business conditions and the heavy agricultural movement that will accompany it. Pressure should be brought upon the next legislature to make additional provision for turning settlers this way and for the establishment of an immigration board.—Saginaw News.

Fashion Robs Farmers.

According to William Dutcher, president of the Audubon Societies of the United States, birds save to the farmer $200,000,000 a year in the destruction of noxious weeds. The great destroyers of birds are the plume hunters for millinery purposes. Birds destroyed for food are restocked by natural process, but the plume hunters recognize no closed seasons.

Millinery interests in America represent $38,000,000 worth of work done by the birds for farmers. As bobwhite is the arch destroyer of the potato bug and the cuckoo of the caterpillar and the woodpecker of the boring grub and the lark of the grasshopper and the sparrow of the weed seeds, President Dutcher thinks the birds are entitled to at least fair play from the milliners.—Outing Magazine.

State Lands For Sale.

Lansing, July 22.—In the counties of Alger, Arenac, Dickinson, Isabella, Roscommon, Saginaw and Westford there are over 60,000 acres of homestead lands for sale and as the land commissioner's department is trying to encourage the settlement of homesteads and the new public domain commission is given power to encourage the settlement of homestead lands, it is likely that the coming year will see much of this land disposed of in this way.

For the last half of the fiscal year, which ended June 30, the receipts of the state land office from the sales of homestead lands for trespass, etc., totaled $234,665.45. The sales of tax homestead lands amounted to $211,919.10, but sales were also made on the primary school lands, the agricultural college lands, and the university lands.

Glen R. Munshaw, supervisor of trespasses, shows in his report for the past six months, that there have been 101 cases of trespass. There are now 49 cases pending, 22 cases have been adjusted and 12 convictions have been secured. A total of $1,116.12 was received in fines. The report also shows that 176,068 feet of timber were stolen, 15,708 posts, 3,961 ties and 489 poles.

THE ONLOOKER

W. BUR D. NESBIT.

Smith was working in his yard. Pushing his lawn mower hard. Brown, who happened then to pass. Asked: "Well, out to cut your grass?" "No," said Smith, "I'm herding whales in the midst of Arctic gales."

Brown walked on, and shook his head. Musing over what Smith said.

Smith was in a barber shop. Having his hair trimmed on top. Jones came in with jaunty air. Asked: "They're clipping off your hair?" "No," said Smith, "we're making bricks. Also weaving candle wick."

Jones walked very softly out. With his mind quite full of doubt.

Smith was riding on a car. Fretting at the jolt and jar. Black got on, and asked beside: "Out to take a little ride?" "No," growled Smith, "I'm climbing trees. To enjoy the evening breeze."

Black got off, and tapped his brow. Thinking Smith was dotty now.

Smith was lunching in a place. Where the busy waiters race. White came in from off the street. Asked: "Do you come here to eat?" "No," said Smith, "I'm here to sing joyous lyrics of the spring."

White walked solemnly away. And was serious all day.

Brown and Jones and Black and White. Met together that same night. And took steps to put poor Smith. Where he need not suffer with. The delusions that he had. All four of his friends were sad.

But consider it, I pray— Who was foolish? He or they?

Another Explanation.

"Last month," writes the editor of the Helpful Hints Magazine, "we left our work in the hands of an assistant while we were recovering from the grip. Of course, he got things mixed, as inevitably happens. A young bride of Oskaloosa, Ia., wrote, asking for a good recipe for pie crust, and Mrs. Hinkle of Cory's Grove, Ill., asked to be told how to make a chair seat. The assistant confused the two requests, and advised the young bride to take two pieces of sole leather, scallop the edges into a pretty pattern after cutting them to the required size, perforate the top piece neatly with a punch, glue the edges and to use a few upholstery tacks to make them firm. Then he told Mrs. Hinkle to take a chunk of sliced apples for her chair seat, chunk of butter the size of two walnuts, beat, knead and roll; put in the apples, dust lightly with a cinnamon, sprinkle plentifully with sugar and bake quickly. We hardly know how to smooth matters over as, although Mrs. Hinkle wants to stop her paper, the young bride writes enthusiastically that her husband says her new pie crust is by far the best she has made."

New Version of Old Saying.

A man is as old as he looks and as big a fool as he acts.

Helped Out.

"I am so glad you were here, Mr. Clumsey," says the sweet young thing as he leads her to a seat after the waltz. "I was very anxious to have a dance with you to-night."

"That certainly is kind of you," he replies. "But I am sorry I stepped on your dress."

Viewing the two or three yards of silk and lace which has been torn and trampled upon she says, happily: "But I knew if something didn't happen to this old gown papa never would buy me a new one."

To remove ink from the fingers rub well with scouring powder, then scald, then polish with a dry cloth. O, no! That is the way to shine a steel knife.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself, a true disease. Heartburn, flatulency, and indigestion are real diseases, and they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, it not only brought that stomach and gave to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and salivary complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

Will Try to Raise Pewabic.

Detroit, July 15.—Lure of hidden treasure has led to one more attempt to recover the hoard encoined in the bones of the steamer Pewabic, which for 13 years lain 150 feet below the surface of Lake Huron off Thunder Bay island. It was in 1866 that prospector Pewabic, laden with 300 tons of refined copper, a quantity of silver bullion and a large sum of money, was sent to the bottom by the steamer Meteor.

Numerous attempts have been made to recover the treasure, but the great depth precluded success, although a portion of the copper was discovered. Five sub-marine divers have so far lost their lives in the attempt. The immense water pressure on their diving outfits killed them.

Now comes a New York syndicate with a diving rig which consumed eight years to perfect. The News says the little steamer Douglas, of Detroit, has been chartered and she is fitting out at the foot of Hastings street. She will depart Saturday on the expedition. William Petry, of New York, will be in charge.

The diving outfit is of aluminum and steel and resembles a suit of armor. It weighs about 400 pounds. It has been tested in salt water to a depth of 210 feet. The outfit has a telephone, electric lights and a pump by which the water can be removed should it enter any of the joints. Air is supplied by a two and one-half inch tube.

Mr. Petry was not inclined to discuss the expedition.

"Wait until we get to work and accomplish something, then we'll talk," he said.

From the members of the crew, however, it was learned that the Pewabic will be in the nature of an experiment. If successful the wreckers will go after bigger game.

One of the treasurers in view is the ocean liner, Republic, sunk in collision a few months ago on the Atlantic a couple of days out from New York.

Mr. Petry intimated that the expedition will also visit Lakes Erie and Superior. There are sunken treasurers in both these inland seas. The Morning Star lies on the bottom of Lake Erie somewhere between Point Pelee and Cleveland. A whiskey laden schooner has also been under the waves near Turtle island light, Lake Erie, for 48 years.

Capt. George P. McKay, of Cleveland, now treasurer of the Lake Carriers' association, was master of the Pewabic when she was lost with a number of passengers, some from Detroit.

An Octopus in Captivity.

The New York aquarium has recently obtained an octopus after a search lasting over several seasons for one representative of its kind. It was captured by native fishermen of Bermuda, being brought up from the bottom in a large trap made of cedar limbs. It is nearly three feet in extent, from the tip of one tentacle to the extremity of the opposite one, and has the ability to change color at will, which it does especially when attacked or molested. Hiding and crouching in the crevices and grottoes of submerged reefs, its body assuming the same color as its surroundings, the monster easily captures all kinds of marine animals with its tentacles. In the aquarium it is fed on live rock crabs, which are seized by a quick out-thrust of one of the snakelike arms. The octopus has a grotesque walk or crawl, dragging its eight legs, and swims clumsily, in a backward manner, bringing all its limbs into play. It seldom lives long in captivity.—Harpers's Weekly.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly into popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by C. H. Prescott & Sons.

Asks D. & M. to Pay.

The holocaust in Presque Isle county in October of last year is recalled by the commencement of five suits against the Detroit & Mackinac railroad for ten thousand dollars each. The complainants are John Konieczny and George Cleora.

On the 15th day of last October, when the town of Miz was destroyed by destruction by forest fire, the remains of the train who desired to find a place of safety, and on the 16th day of the train was stopped by a fire in large piles of cedar which were on either side of the track. This was at a place known as Nowicki crossing. Of the 35 persons who were in the car nearly half of them were cremated, among the victims being Mrs. Konieczny and two children, and Mrs. George Cleora and two children. The case was evidently started in Presque Isle county as Sheriff Pagels from that county came to Bay City to get services on officers of the company yesterday.—Bay City Times.

The New Road Laws

Lansing, July 22.—State Highway Commissioner Ely is having a busy time of it instructing the township highway commissioners in regard to the new road law. According to Mr. Ely fully 60 per cent of the highway commissioners in the different townships of the state are newly elected and most of them are farmers and unfamiliar with the road laws, and with the new revised road law which will go into effect in September it keeps him busy instructing them.

The new revised law was compiled at great pains by the joint committee on roads and bridge from the senate and house and there are also a great many new features in the new law upon which the highway commissioner should become posted. Commissioner Ely is having the law printed in a condensed form which will be mailed out to the supervisors.

Doctors gave her up and all remedies failed till Electric Bitters worked such wonders for her health." They invigorate all vital organs, cure liver and kidney troubles, induce sleep, impart strength and appetite. Only 50c at A. S. Larabee's and Jas. E. Dillon's drug stores.

Wonderful Progress.

The State Fair grounds and buildings worth nearly a half million dollars.

The Michigan State Fair was organized fifty years ago and during most of that time until it was established in Detroit its seat for existence has been in Ann Arbor. Many times the fair failed to prosper and was almost abandoned owing to the determined efforts of friends it has finally been established on a firm financial basis.

Five years ago the fair was permanently located in Detroit, because it was believed that with so large a population to draw attendance from, the chances of success would be much brighter. There were only $17,000 in the treasury when the fair was first located in Detroit. The 147 acres owned by the society cost $45,000. Detroit business men at once came to the aid of the society and donated liberally. As a result large, commodious and beautiful buildings were erected, as were also a grand stable with a seating capacity of 7,000, live stock barns, a race track, band stands and many other buildings. The grounds were graded into streets with sewer drains, shrubbery and trees planted, fences erected and various other improvements made until now the property represents an investment of nearly half a million dollars.

Against this half a million dollar plant, there is only an indebtedness of $160,000. The great portion of which is covered by the original bond issue.

Most other State Fairs are owned by the commonwealths in which they are located, but every effort to turn this over to the state has failed. Michigan should support the State Fair and help to uphold it. The Minnesota and Iowa state legislatures have appropriated large sums for new equipment and the state of Michigan should do the same. This fair is purely a state institution and should have the support of every person in both the upper and lower peninsulas.

Sec. Anne De Beaupre Pilgrimage.

Owing to numerous requests that have been made from time to time by persons living in the Saginaw Valley and adjoining territory to visit the famous Shrine of Ste. Anne De Beaupre, it is proposed that the long desired trip be made this year. The party will leave Bay City on Monday, July 26. The round trip from Bay City is $25.10 with 30 days limit and $16.55 with 15 days limit. The trip will be made over the P. M., Canadian Pacific and Quebec L. & P. railroads. Sleeping car service will be obtainable and if the party numbers 100 or more a special train will be run. Any one desiring to take the trip should write F. P. Young Ticket Agent, Detroit & Mackinac Ry., Bay City, Mich. The D. & M. Ry. did not receive long enough notice to enable them to make through rates and issue circular 30 days before the excursion, as required by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Fastest Animals in the World Will Meet September 2-10.

No single feature of a State Fair attracts more people on its own accord than the racing. If it is of sufficient merit. That this fact is well known by the powers that have been and those that are in the Michigan Agricultural Society is shown in the completeness of the department. The steel grand stand, the magnificent mile track, the spacious and healthful stables, representing in all an outlay of over $100,000, show what is thought of the harness horses at the Michigan State Fair.

There is no more complete plant down the line of the grand circuit than that just outside of Detroit, where the big fair is held each year. The track was rebuilt last year at a cost of $10,000 and now presents the composite surface, so successful at Memphis, the pattern after which other tracks are cut.

The fact that at the State Fair of 1908 no less than nine horses beat 2:10 in winning heats on the track and at the blue ribbon meeting that year a number of world records were demolished shows what a fast track Michigan has. It is the talk of the country among racing men, and is one of the only cases where the same track is used for the State Fair and the grand circuit, affording the fairgoers an opportunity of seeing horses race on the fastest piece of dirt out of doors.

The equipments are perfect. Such is the growth of the popularity of the sport of the sulky that each year sees additional demands for stabling, and this summer a new barn with a capacity of fifty has been completed. In all 300 horses can be housed in roomy box stalls in the speed barns, and because of the general desire to stroll down and take a look at them the directors of the society have had a continuation of the concrete walks, which now run past the cattle, sheep, swine and speed barns—an excellent idea.

In the past the fair has been fortunate in attracting a good class of horses, and there are reasons why there will be an improvement this year. A new fair at Kalamazoo opens on August 30, and in connection with it there will be a big race meeting. The Kalamazoo stakes have attracted an unusual number of horses, and from that city the horses will come to Detroit, where the State Fair race program opens September 6 and continues for five afternoons. The State Fair is a member of the Michigan circuit; other states will contribute, so from all sources it promises to assemble a lot of fast and clever race horses.

In addition to the fifteen races scheduled for the five afternoons there will be a great attraction on September 9. Dan Patch, 1:55, the unbeaten champion of the world, will race against Minor Helr, 1:59 1/2, his most formidable rival. They will go one heat, the idea being to lower the world's record below two minutes, which the trainer of the horses says he will be able to do if the weather and track are right. It will be the most spectacular event ever shown to the light harness turf, solitary exhibitions against time fading to a shadow in comparison with this struggle from wire to wire.

The program, with the added attraction, is one of the greatest ever offered by a state fair and will serve to keep Michigan's yearly outing in the forefront. The regular race card for the fair is as follows: Monday, September 6—2:10 pace; purse $500; 2:18 trot, $500; 2:16 pace, $500. Tuesday, September 7—2:30 pace, $500; 2:12 trot, $500; 2:22 pace, $500. Wednesday, September 8—2:21 trot, $500; free-for-all pace, $500; 2:30 trot, $500. Thursday, September 9—2:24 pace, $500; 2:16 trot, $500; 2:13 pace, $500. Friday, September 10—Free-for-all trot, $500; 2:19 pace, $500; 2:35 trot, $500.

Cannot Be Forgotten.

You may dislike the word ideal, or reject it, but the thing you cannot get rid of if you would live any life above that of the brutes.—Principal Shairp.

Foolish Vanity.

Vanity is the most disturbing element in the world. It constantly keeps one upset. We can comfortably endure all wounds except the wounds to self-esteem. Vanity is oversensitive. It finds unkindness where only love and kindness exist. Pride is dignified and worthy, but vanity has an empty head. We all think too much of ourselves. In the millions of human beings, only a few stand out in living portraits. Most of us are merely tiny bits of the crowd in the background of the picture.

Flocked to See Mrs. Siddons.

According to Dean Ramsay, "in the year 1784, when the great actress, Mrs. Siddons, first appeared in Edinburgh, during the sitting of the general assembly, that court was obliged to fix all its important business for the alternate days when she did not act, as all the younger members, clergy as well as laity, took their stations in the theater on those days by three in the afternoon."

Its Headquarters.

Once upon a time a child who was asked upon an examination paper to define a mountain range replied: "A large-sized cook stove." The same method of reasoning seems to go with older growth. A recent examination paper at the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale contained the question: "What is the office of the gastric juice?" And the answer on one paper said: "The stomach."—Everybody's Magazine.

Fulfilling Instructions.

The managing editor wheeled his chair around and pushed a button in the wall. The person wanted entered. "Here," said the editor, "are a number of directions from outsiders as to the best way to run a newspaper. See that they are all carried out." And the office boy, gathering them all into a large waste basket, did so.—Green Bag.

Could Stock Junk Store.

Among the articles found in New York on the "L" trains in one day are: Bathing suit, accordion, drum sticks, box of gravel, file, rosary, coil of wire, fan, hoe, bag of corn, derby hat, to say nothing, says the American, of innumerable everyday losses, such as bags and umbrellas.

Resolutions of Condolence.
WHEREAS, it has pleased the Supreme Master of the universe, in his infinite wisdom, to take from our worthy Overseer and Brother Charles Wood, whose quiet christian life held for him the respect of everyone who knew him, we bow in submission to the will of Him who does all things well. Brother Wood was a charter member of our order and his faithful attendance and good work will be missed by the brothers and sisters, but let us hope that his life was made as happy by his association among us as ours were by his, and while we deeply mourn our loss let us carry through life the pleasant recollections of his companionship. Therefore be it Resolved, That the members of Sherman Grange No. 1117 do hereby express our sincere sympathy to the relatives of our deceased brother; that our hall be draped for a period thirty days, and that the chair of departed brother be draped for sixty days. Be it further Resolved, That these resolutions be spread at length on the records, a copy sent to the bereaved family, and to the county paper for publication. A Wedding That Could Never Be
By H. Atherton

The announcement had been in the morning paper, but she had had a long and busy day with shopping, calls and afternoon parties. And so the little paragraph had escaped her notice. Now, as she came down into the drawing room to await her mother preparatory to starting for a ball, she idly took up the paper. It stared her in the face. She read it and smiled to herself; it seemed something that she had often read before . . . and then she reread it . . . and knew it was impossible . . . and knew that it was true. A marriage had been arranged . . . She had often seen it in her dreams, the well-known name, the regiment, the son of . . . but the girl's name, that had never appeared in the dream fancies . . . no one she had ever heard of before. . . Was she still living, or had she gone out of the world, this very strange world, altogether? Could people and things be turning in the same brilliant social kaleidoscope when this—the unexpected—had happened? Could such things be? And then the girl smiled at herself again, smiled as her mother came into the room, pleasant, dignified, bejeweled, looking with complacent eyes at the daughter who had never failed to do her credit. The bells of the waiting electric brougham sounded below, and the girl still smiled—smiled all that evening as she danced to the echo of five words beating time in her heart and brain, while she listened to the comments on the engagement, and met with splendid composure the inquisitive eyes that asked questions and received no answer from a bravely smiling young face that told them nothing. Yes, the world was still going on merrily . . . even though a marriage had been arranged. . . And now she must write to him. It was four months since she had sent him a third little note at Christmas, a letter which, to the eyes that could read it, contained another letter written between the conventional lines. It had been answered in the same—they had not met since—and now was writing to congratulate him. "Dear . . . this isn't true. They may say so, that you are going to marry some one else, a girl called Daisy, whom I have never heard of, but, until you tell me so yourself, I won't believe it. Oh, I know it's in the papers, but they don't count, do they? You and I know. . . " "You haven't quite forgotten last July? I don't think you have, any more than I have myself, up in Scotland, that day in the glen, you and I. . . We had always been such friends . . . coming down over the stepping stones—how wet and slippery they were!—I knew you for something more. Oh, didn't you guess? I felt, yes, I felt that you cared, and you never said a word. Is it my money, my hateful money, that stands between us? Surely God never meant a girl to have the millions that I shall have (and you know it) all her own! Was that the barrier? It can't be that you didn't—don't—care. I shall never believe that until you tell me so yourself . . . not through the papers. " "Do those three weeks all count for nothing? Three weeks nearly a year ago. Months in which I have lived, and suffered, and waited—for this. Months out of my life which I give to you, Jack . . . and then you hurl this at me. Wouldn't it have been kinder not to let me think . . . I expect that it was my fault. Well, I can only wish you luck, quite the best of luck, even with some one else. Good-by, Jack, write and tell me if you can that it isn't true. " "MAJORIE." But this was the letter she sent: "Dear Capt. Atherton: I am writing to wish you all good luck. Don't bother to answer this, as I am sure you are bored to death with congratulations. Yours sincerely, "MAJORIE MANNERING." "Little girl, little princess, what are you thinking of me, I wonder, if you are thinking at all? You have seen the announcement in the papers, and your gray eyes will stare at it, and you will smile, that brave little smile of yours I know so well, and probably go off and dance at somebody's ball . . . and forget all about it. Not to-night, I think, Marjorie, will you forget. " "And all the time you are asking yourself, what does it all mean? . . . I ask myself that question, too . . . did you care, or was I mistaken? You did not let me see. I thought so, but if I had been sure—Well, God knows how hard it is for a man without a penny to speak to the daughter of a multi-millionaire. Ah, those three weeks . . . that evening in the Glen . . . and those wet stepping stones. I wonder if you remember? . . . or do women forget? I care for Daisy, yes, honestly care, but deep down in my heart is buried my love for you. I dare not think how easy it would be to resurrect it. I think I must put 'Resurgam' over it. Forgive me, little girl, if there is anything to forgive . . . and good-by. JACK." But this was the letter he sent: "Dear Miss Mannering: Thank you so much for your charming letter. It is so nice to get one's friend's good wishes, and perhaps I appreciate them more than you think. Yours sincerely, "JOHN ATHERTON."
