OVER MILLION DELINQUENT TAX IN STATE

Iosco County Collects 90.6% of 1922 Taxes; High Percentage Compared With Other Counties.

The total amount of taxes spread on roll in Iosco county for 1922 was $294,200.37. The amount collected was $266,699.79. The amount returned was $27,500.58. With a collection 90.06 per cent Iosco county made a very good showing compared with other counties of the state.
Delinquent state taxes for the entire state amount to $1,362,912.41, according to Auditor General O. B. Fuller. This is the highest amount of delinquent state taxes ever recorded.

Taken as a whole the 15 counties in the upper peninsula show a less percentage of delinquent taxes than any other group of counties or sections of the state. Twenty-two per cent of the taxes on the whole number of acres were returned. Seventeen counties in the northern part of the lower peninsula returned 40 per cent. Wayne county had the largest amount of delinquent tax marked against it, $594,208.79. All the agricultural counties of the state showed increases in amount of delinquent tax returns.

In a letter to Governor Groesbeck, Mr. Fuller said: "When you look over the tabulation and see the number of acres assessed by the counties in 1922 and the number of acres reported delinquent in tax payments, it's a wonder to me the counties are able to maintain their local governments."

The eighth and ninth grade current event classes, which meet once a week on Friday, have under the guidance of Miss Nickless, formed themselves into "Current Event Clubs." Hereafter, the classes will be conducted as a club would be, according to parliamentary rules, under the leadership of a chairman and a secretary, chosen weekly from the classes. Hotel De Vicksburg. Bill of Fare for July, 1863. Soup, Mule Tail, Boiled, Mule Ham, Entrees, Mule Head stuffed 'a la mode, Mule Beef jerked 'a la mode, Side Dishes, Mule Tongue cold 'a la bray, Jellies, Mule Foot, Liquors, Mississippi Water, $3.00 per quart, Spring Water, $1.50 per quart.

The class in English I were asked not long ago to write a paragraph of description. A certain length of time was allowed for writing this paragraph after which they were read and the class guessed the places described. Here is one; can you guess it?
It was one of those July nights so extremely hot that I decided to stroll instead of swe'et in my room, besides, I would only be in town that one night. The moon had just appeared and it cast a silvery path across sparkling blue waters, which were like a sheet of glass. The waves lapped quietly over one another as they reached the beach. The heavy engines in a nearby mill hummed like twin hearts as men labored and perspired. In the distance the little village was at rest. Occasionally a bray of some wild animal could be heard or the hum of some motor car as it passed by. Some people smile when this place is spoken of, but if by chance you should pass on such a night, you will agree with me that the spot is really beautiful.

Immediately thereafter the election inspectors shall return the flag which shall be used only for the purpose herein mentioned; to the respective clerks who are charged with the proper care and custody thereof.

STATE CLAIMS MADE LAND IN THE BAY

To Survey Low Water Line of Lake Huron and Saginaw Bay; Will Give Valuable Resort Land to State.

An order of the state department recently made to survey the meandered line of Lake Huron is of particular importance. This order was made with a view of obtaining for the state all the land lying between the meandered line and the present waters edge.
Under a decision of the Michigan supreme court a year ago, it was held that all land created through the meandered line of the lake, and the present low water mark was the property of the state.
It has been estimated that the decision of the supreme court in holding the land between the water and the old meandered line belonging to the state, has given Michigan several hundred thousand acres of valuable resort property. Each summer however, numerous disputes arise over the ownership of lake shore property, and it now appears likely that the survey around Saginaw bay will eventually be extended to the west shore of Michigan on Lake Michigan.

OUR COLUMN

BY O. W. L.

Friends, when men are desperately in need of money they go out and hold up a train or bank, or something. Women merely hold a cooked food sale or bazaar.

Those, who have been wondering what made President Coolidge so independent, have found out at last. The President was born on a Fourth of July.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

"Woman," cried the big, burly Tawas City husband, shaking his finger wildly, "I can read you like a book."

"That may be," retorted the little wife, with a queer smile; "but you can't shut me up."

And therein she spoke volumes.

An East Tawas man thinks people who are sensitive should keep their feet where they will not be stepped on.

Every man born in America has the right to run for president and it seems as though a good many of them are exercising that right this year.

HEL-LUP! HEL-LUP!

I married a widow and this widow had a daughter. My father being a widower, married our daughter, so you see my father is my son-in-law. Then my step-daughter is my step-mother. Well, then, her mother is my grand-mother, therefore, that makes me my own grandfather.

The Real Economy
—the Safe Kind that Pays Dividends

There are two kinds of economy in regard to farm implements.

One is seeming economy; the other is real economy.

Seeming economy looks mainly to first cost; real economy looks ahead at final results.

Seeming economy sees only the dollar going out; real economy sees the dollar coming back—with interest.

Seeming economy urges one to try to save money by doing without a needed implement or by trying to prolong the life of a hopelessly worn implement by hazardous makeshift methods.

Real economy urges one to figure on the benefits that outweigh the price of needed new equipment—to buy the equipment that saves time and labor, reduces costs of farming operations, increases yields and brings a greater net profit per bushel, ton or bale.

Our store is a service station on your road to real economy—the kind that makes farming easier and more profitable.

You have the need; we have the equipment to meet the need. Come to our store and let us figure out the relation for you in dollars and cents

Remember, the only thing costly about needed implements is trying to get along without them.

The Pyramids of Egypt, some 75 in number, date from the period between the fourth and twelfth dynasties and were built as tombs for the kings. The most important group is at Gizeh which includes the great Pyramid, the tomb of Cheops. Its perpendicular height is 451 feet and its base length is 750 feet. The Pyramids are built of stone, the material for which was taken from the hills on the opposite bank of the Nile.

The title of "Father of Mexican Independence" was given to Miguel Hidalgo Castilla, a Mexican priest, who lived from 1753-1811. He started a movement for independence which cost him his life. Some years later he was extolled as a saint and the new-born republic erected a magnificent statue to him.

Cult in New Mexico Crucifies Its Members

Medievalism is not exclusively to be applied to the Dark Ages. That emotional fervor which led men to tramp thousands of miles to slay the Seljuk Turk and to walk barefoot over the Alpine snows in penitence exists in only a slightly attenuated form in New Mexico and Arizona, where the Penitente sect crucifies one of its cult each year.

The Penitentes or, to give them their full title, Los Hermanos Penitentes, are Mexicans and Indians, living in isolated mountain villages, who trace their ancestry back to the Aztecs. Shortly after the conquest of Mexico by Cortez many of the subjects of Montezuma were converted to Christianity. Despite the doctrines of clemency and kindness taught them, the savagery of the novitiates persisted in their religious rituals. So staggering were their practices of self-flagellation and torture that the Catholic church, which had hoped to efface the Aztec institution of human sacrifice, finally divorced them from the fold. Since that time, more than a hundred years ago, the Penitentes have existed in independent organization, sponsored by no denomination, but almost completely unhampered by governmental action.

The week preceding Easter is the one period of the year when these people are most conspicuous. The first days are spent in fasting. The last ones are spent in flagellations, which finally terminate in the crucifixion of some one of the cult chosen by lot. The congregation of every Penitente colony meets in the little village chapel, called the "morada." After the devotions of Good Friday are ended the cross-bearer leaves the church, to be followed in single file up the mountain by the entire congregation.

After attaining the spot fixed for his execution the victim is strapped to the cross with heavy thongs and is raised into the air. Ceremonials in charge of the "Great Brother" or "Hermano Mayor" dispensed with, the crucified man, exhausted, but not very greatly impaired physically, is released from the cross and goes to his home. It is the belief of the cult that the victim of the cross has merited reward not only for himself but also for his parents, his wife and all his progeny, future moral infractions being automatically expiated by his ordeal of the past.

Cause of Storms

In November, when the lands surrounding the Great Lakes get their first snowfall, and the lake waters are still relatively warm, the temperature contrasts which are produced tend actively to attract and intensify the passing storms. When the air to the northward is abnormally cold, as the wind sweeps down from that quarter a storm may assume a menacing severity, with a heavy gale, extreme cold and snow, the worst kind of a combination for the seaman. Lake shipping suffers. Storms of the great inland seas are more disastrous than those of the open ocean, because there is less space for drifting, and because of powerful lake currents during gales which take the ship out of control. Also, the fresh lake water is lighter than the salt water of the ocean and is, therefore, more easily heaped up into great waves by a strong wind. When the December gales arrive and the snowstorms, which continue till spring, shipping remains safe in port, for ice closes the lakes to navigation.

Serum for Swamp Fever

The delegates of the American farm bureau, during a visit to the Alfortville agricultural research laboratory in France, were interested in the experiments of Professor Vallee in the effort to develop a serum which would render horses immune to "swamp fever."

The professor has actually isolated the germ of the disease, according to the report, and has prepared a serum which he says will cure the disease and render horses immune.

Aside from the professor's discovery, the delegation admired greatly the French laboratory, some going so far as to say that it excelled in some respects similar institutions in America.—New York Times.

Delaware Indians Active

No longer content to watch the world of affairs revolve around them the Delaware Indians are striving to attain a new form of cultural life. To that end the remaining members of the tribe which once flourished in what is now Delaware, have held several assemblies and formed a council designed to look after their cultural interests. The movement has attracted attention of the educators at several of the Eastern universities.

Made All but the Hole

Little Betty was very proud of a jumper she had knitted. She showed it to her mother's friend.

"And did you make this all by yourself, Betty, dear?" the friend asked.

"Nearly, but not quite," said Betty, who was a stickler for the truth, "I made it all but the hole you put your head through."

Absent-Minded

Husband—I forgot my umbrella this morning, dear.

Wife (sarcastically)—However did you come to remember you had forgotten it?

Husband—Well, I shouldn't have missed it, dear, only I raised my hand to shut it when the rain ceased.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

OUT OF DARKNESS

TO THINK rightly is to sharpen perception and season judgment.

He or she who is always blundering, getting in trouble with employers and friends, never remembers important events accurately, is in constant danger of failure.

As the mind directs so goes the body.

The shambling, irresponsible creature, misguided by a rusty mind is much like a vessel at sea which has unshipped its rudder. He may be tossed to port by a friendly hawser, or sent to the bottom by an opposing storm.

To make sure of your destination, keep your mind on the splendid things you would like to accomplish. Ponder them at every opportunity. The thoughts to which you cling hourly are transforming you into an earnest, useful person, or a man or woman of no account.

If you want friends, be friendly. Cultivate the right mental attitude towards others and all will be well.

Take a contrary stand, let the rust accumulate, exhibit cowardice, distrust, disloyalty, irritability, habitual moroseness, and nothing can save you from wreckage.

Lay hold of the great, potential forces of the universe and move along with them. Resolve to become a part of them.

Keep your mind bright by rubbing it against minds that are brighter, more capable, more alert than yours. Open the door to industry instead of idleness, to thinking instead of brooding, to faith instead of doubt, and you never will lack the energy with which to press forward and take your place among those who are making the world pleasanter and better.

Be frank, good natured and cheerful. Grip your load, whatever it may be, and pull with all your might. Have no fear of failure—no fear of anything or anybody but yourself.

Be patient and persevering. Put jealousy and hate in a weighted bag and throw them overboard. They will wreck the stoutest ship and blight the fondest ambition.

Be not disturbed about rivalry, except the rivalry existing between your good, and evil self.

It is only the mortal who overcomes himself who has the power to uplift humanity and lead others from darkness to light; capable at all times to measure strength with the mental Goliaths, and equipped to hold his own in the sternest strife when storms beat hardest against him.

OLD LONDON HOUSES WERE BUILT TO LAST

Briton Tells of Homes Constructed 250 Years Ago.

Around London and up and down England are many fine old private residences still sound and weatherproof. The house where I am at present living, in Bloomsbury, is comparatively new. It was built toward the end of the Eighteenth century, shortly after the North American colonies became the United States of America. So there is nothing particularly interesting about it. Though of course the early occupants wore knee breeches and wigs.

I remember visiting two brothers 30 years ago who had rooms in an old house at Stoke Newington, a northern suburb of London. That house today is 250 years old and in sound condition. I remember it was a sharp winter's day and another friend called and took us for a drive. There were no automobiles in 1803. We sat behind good honest horseflesh, which is better than all the automobiles. When we got back to that old house with its broad staircases and paneled walls there was an old-fashioned fire blazing in the old-fashioned grate with a hob on each side of it. We were four bachelors, I being the youngest of the quartette. I was only twenty-three. We dined together and sat long into the evening. It was a cozy scene with an indescribable atmosphere which lives in my memory. Some famous men once lived in that house. Beyond doubt old houses retain something which cannot be bought or imitated; something for which there is no substitute. An indefinable charm is inseparable from them.

As you sit and watch the flames shooting up from a fireplace which has been as it is for over 200 years your mind runs back to the fair women and gallant men who once sat there, for our grandfathers and grandmothers were gallant men and fair women, and you wonder what life was like in their days. I am not one of those who sneer at the "old school." There were gentlemen in those days. We have no time nowadays, with all our time-saving appliances, to be gentlemen. What would Squire Jones have said in 1723 if some one had shouted at him through a tube, "Hello, Jones! That you, old top?" Ye gods and little fishes!

Since I wrote last week I was speaking to the landlord of the Rose and Crown Inn, another old inn at the foot of Clay hill, near Enfield. He told me that nothing had been done to the structure since 1663, 260 years. He showed me an old fireplace the like of which I've never seen. Those old fellows built to last. When I look at some of the houses built within the last five years they make me laugh.

I have great sympathy with that worthy Irish gentleman who, paying a visit to Dublin after an absence of many years, wrote home to say that they were "spoiling the place with their d-d improvements." My heart goes out to that honest man.

Modern life has been spoiled by its "d-d improvements."

Leaving Old Age Behind

President-Emeritus Charles W. Elliot, who is now in his ninetieth year, declares that as the years go on he is apparently growing younger, and to prove his point he tells the following story:

When he was elected president of Harvard he was a young man in his thirties. During his first year in office while he was strolling through Harvard Square one evening he passed a group of freshmen and overheard one of them say, "There goes old Elliot himself."

One night half a century later, on returning to Cambridge from the Boston symphony concert, he heard a senior behind him on the subway train say to his companion, "I wonder what's keeping Charley up so late tonight?"—Youth's Companion.

Jade Venerated in China

Jade is the Chinese yu-stone, for ages regarded with superstitious veneration.

The reverse of the opal, only good fortune attends its possessor, and who-soever bestows a gift of jade endows the recipient with a talisman against fate. "As you wish" is the symbol of the Chinese joo-ee, or wand of authority, made of jade, presented by a great official at the installation of an incoming dignitary; and although only the finest joo-ees are of jade, those for less exalted purposes being of rock crystal, metal or even wood, the sentiment is the same—"good will."—Detroit News.

"Contributory Negligence"

"That cut was caused by her ring, your honor. She struck me in the face with her clenched fist," complained the young husband.

"Where did she get the ring?" questioned the magistrate.

"I gave it to her. It was our engagement ring."

"The prisoner is discharged. That is clearly a case of contributory negligence," returned the judge.—Everybody's Magazine.

She Knew It

Stella—Marie is engaged to Herbert. Have you seen her ring? It's sweet.

Jean—It's lovely, but she will find that it will leave a little black mark on her finger—it did on mine.

One of our young men drove to East Tawas Friday evening to see his best girl and tied his horse to a near by hitching post. Poor old Dobbin tied in the friendly shelter of that hitching post with no one to whisper pretty things in his ear, and the cold wind sweeping over him, wearied of his lonely vigil and thought longingly of his comfortable stall at home and finally decided to make an effort to reach it. His effort was so successful that when sometime later the young man came for him, only to find him gone and was forced to walk the seven miles lying between him and home. Let us hope "Dobbin" did not suffer the consequences of his rash act.

SEND BLACK WALNUT SEEDLINGS FOR ROAD

The agricultural department of Central Michigan Normal school of Mt. Pleasant will send out by mail at cost Black Walnut seedlings to schools and citizens of the state.

For fourteen years the Normal has been distributing walnut trees, a total of over 40,000 trees having been sent out. The trees have been sent to all parts of Michigan. Some have been sent to the Upper Peninsula and do well under ordinary soil conditions in all parts of the state.

The trees are distributed about Arbor Day. The original plan was to furnish trees for the school children for spring planting. However, there has been such a demand for the trees that they have been sent to all sorts of organizations and to private individuals. The supply has never been equal to the demand and orders should be placed early. Inquiries should be made to Prof. Myron A. Cobb, Central State Normal, Mt. Pleasant.

POTATOES

I will contract to take all U. S. Grade One white potatoes grown in Iosco county, during season of 1924, at 40¢ per bushel. Why quit the farm and go to the city when you could plant ten acres of potatoes on clover sod or new land that has been pastured which would yield 200 bushels or $80 per acre, or $800.00 from ten acres; $1600.00 from 20 acres; or Three Thousand Two Hundred Dollars from forty acres.

It is all up to the man on the farm to make 1924 the most successful year of your life and pay off the Mortgage on the farm or the other obligations that you have coming due this fall.

Don't linger along with one or two acres, but swell your bank account this fall.
