SCHOOL NOTES

High School
Supt. and Mrs. R. M. Bouge spent last week end with Mrs. Bouge's sister in Detroit.

Next week is examination week again, the remainder of this week will be spent in reviewing.
Don't forget the Junior show Thursday and Friday, April 16 and 17.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
We have been having a few arithmetic tests in the eighth grade and so find where our weaknesses are.
Both grades have finished their grammar work in their old books and the seventh have new books so we are exchanging books rather than reviewing.

The girls and boys of the eighth grade have each made a list of words taken from the constitution. Some time this week we are going to have a test. The boys give a test to the girls and the girls to the boys. The meaning of these words must be known too.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
We shall surely be glad to see spring come again!
A large number of our people were absent from school last week because of the storm.

We still have seven people absent because of the measles.
The Stanley Steamer is gradually gaining on the Ford. The Stanley Steamer seems to be able to buck the snow drifts better than the Ford.
Miss Phelan and Miss Summers, both teachers at Harrisville, were visitors in our room last Thursday.

Third and Fourth Grades
Miss Grace Phelan and Miss Summers of Harrisville were visitors in our room Thursday.
Mina Brown and Geraldine Fox fourth grade, and Norma Kasischek, Erma Ziehl and Mildred Rempert third grade, all had perfect spelling papers every day last week.

The Ford is still leading in the arithmetic race, although it is not very far ahead now. Both cars have been having a hard pull.

First and Second Grades
Kendall Hartley entered our room this week.
We have divided our second grade into an A and B class. The A class have completed the Companion reader and are starting in the Field Reader.

We have a nice bunch of pussy willows in our room.
Ward School

Agnes, Bobby and Wilbur Roach and Patricia Braddock have returned to school, making an attendance of 14. The second grade have finished reading their fourth book and are reviewing.
A vase of pussy willows assures us that spring is here.
Richard King is the only one who had A in spelling all last week.

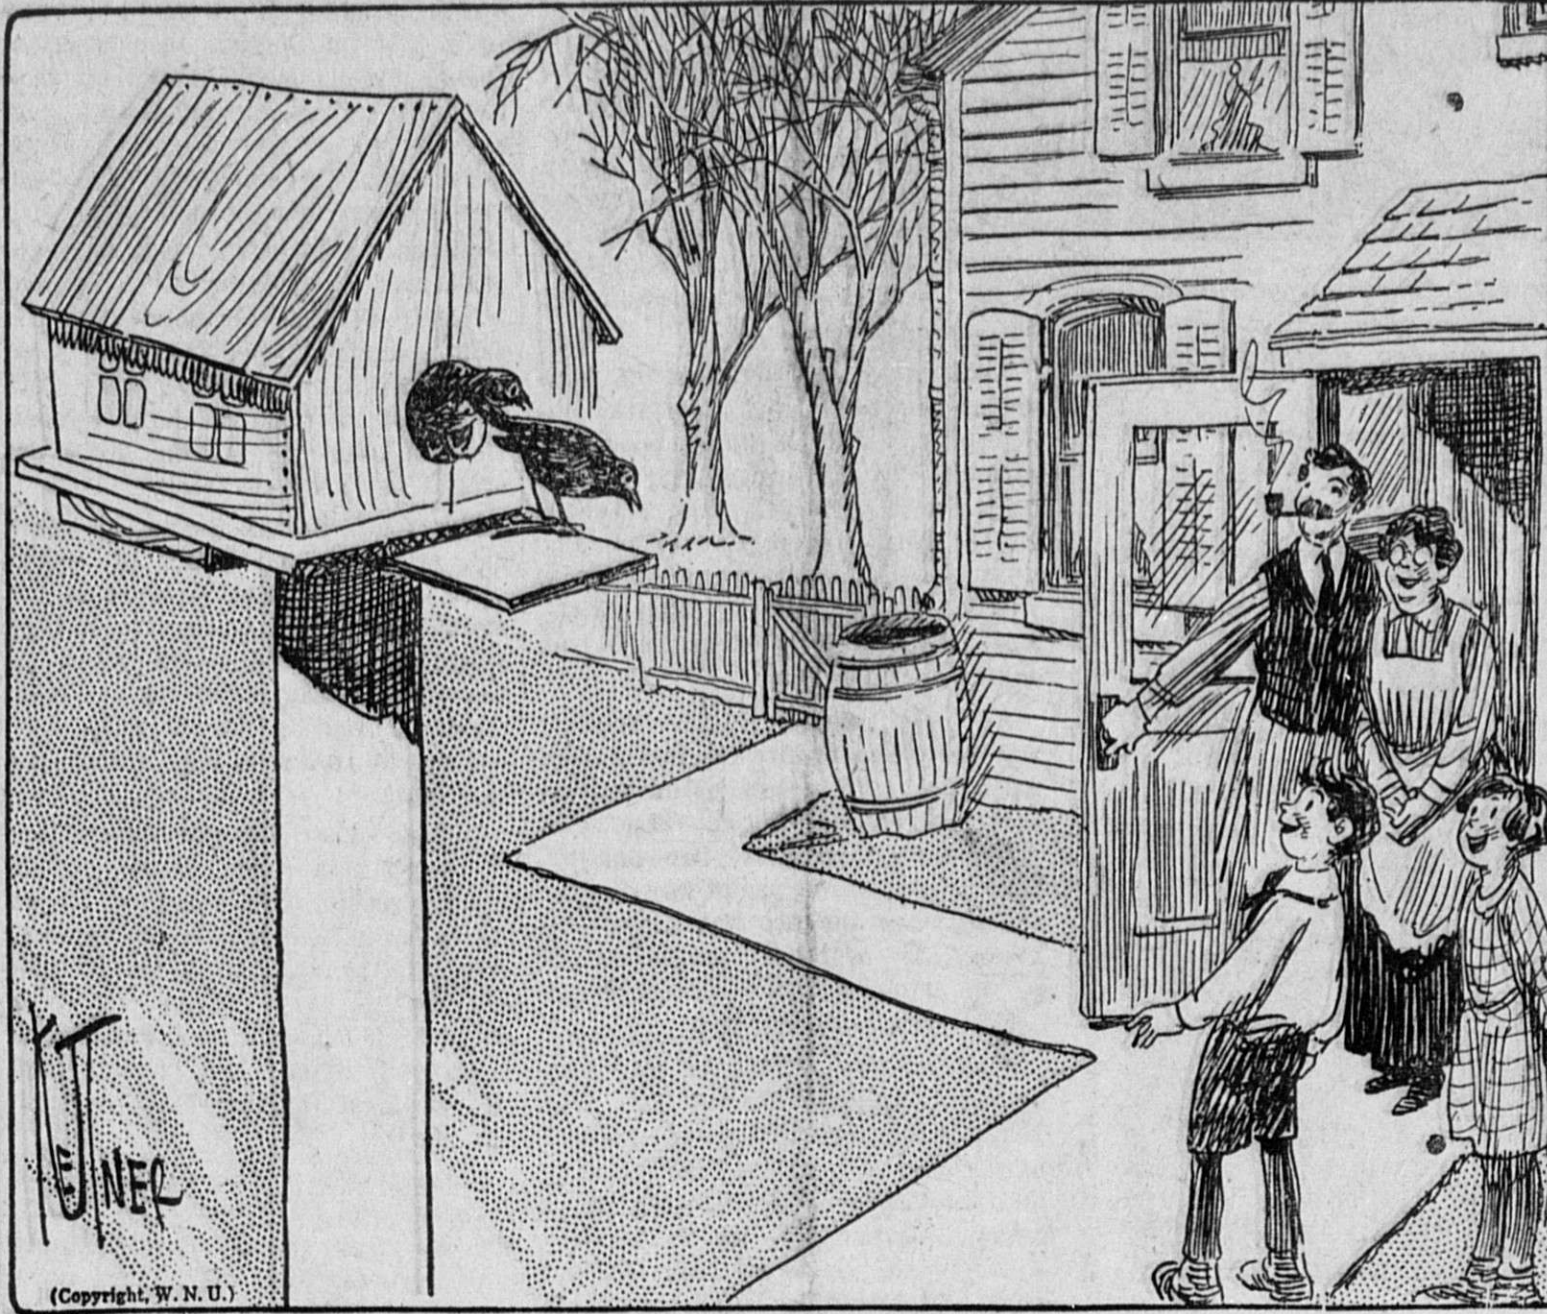

"THE UNHOLY THREE"
What promises to be the most unusual mystery drama ever filmed is the "Unholy Three," Tod Browning's latest thriller which is coming to the State theatre on April 11 and 12. It deals with the criminal adventures of a trio of freaks recruited from a dime museum. Lon Chaney, Mae Busch, Matt Moore and a great cast play in the film. Waldemar Young wrote the continuity from C. A. Robbin's novel for this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

Isadore Friedman was one of the 67 out of 113 candidates who passed the bar examinations held some time ago, according to Lansing dispatch to the Detroit Free Press.

Isadore is a student at the Detroit College of Law and will graduate in June. Ordinarily it is necessary that one should be a graduate before taking the bar examination, but he took it under a special statute granting the privilege to an ex-serve man who had begun the study of law prior to entering the service, of taking the examination after two years study.

His many friends throughout the county will be pleased to hear of his success.

ANDREW McIVOR

On Monday night, March 29, while attending a dancing party at the Grant township hall, Andrew McIvor was stricken with heart disease. He was sitting in a chair talking to friends, when he fell to the floor and died without regaining consciousness. Everything that willing hands could do was done, but no avail. Dr. R. C. Pochert was called, but Mr. McIvor passed away before he arrived.

Andrew McIvor was born on the Townline in Tawas township in 1876 and departed this life on March 29, 1926, age 49 years, three months and nine days.

He was united in marriage October 14, 1908, to Miss Clara M. Brown of Grant township. To this union six children were born. To mourn his loss are his wife, two sons, Laurence of Detroit and Harvey at home, two sisters, Mrs. Delia Stickney of Detroit and Mrs. Charles Washburn of Petoskey and two brothers, Arthur of Bergland and Ed of Port Huron.

They settled in Grant township 22 years ago, where he had a host of friends who were grieved and sympathize with the family. He was a member of Grant Heroes, L. O. L. and the Isoco K. K. K. and a member of Greenwood Grange.

The funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Hemlock Baptist church, Rev. George Smith officiating. Burial rites by the L. O. L.

BUSTER AS UNHANDY COWBOY HAS FUNNIEST ROLE OF CAREER

If you have a weak heart stay away from the State theatre Next Thursday and Friday, April 15 and 16. Some of the thrills in the current picture are liable to overtax it and if they don't you are apt to laugh yourself sick.

Side-splitting comedy combine with such pseudo dramatic situations as thousands of cattle stampeding through the downtown section of a large city and a gunplay between rival cowboy factions in a train hold-up, go to make up Buster Keaton's latest and greatest picture, "Go West."

Portraying the young drifter who makes up in nerve what he lacks in personality, the comedian blunders into all sorts of mirthful predicaments.

As a cowboy he does everything wrong, but finally saves the rich rancher's cattle, wins the girl and becomes the hero of the countryside. Unloading thousands of steers from a train by himself and driving the rampageous beasts through a panic stricken city to the stockyards is one of Keaton's stunts.

Put on by the Junior class of the Tawas City high school.

CARD OF THANKS

Our sincere thanks is extended to the many neighbors and friends for the acts of kindness extended to us during the illness and after the death of our father, a short time ago.
Mr. and Mrs. Bert Phelps.

MRS. L. G. MCKAY HEADS COUNTY FORESTRY WEEK MOVEMENT

T. F. Marston, state chairman of American Forest week, April 18 to 24, has appointed Mrs. L. G. McKay as chairman of Isoco county to promote observance of that week among clubs and schools of the county. Through this means it is planned to stimulate interest in tree creation and conservation.

Superintendent R. M. Bogue of the Tawas City high school and Principal C. Kate Evans of the East Tawas schools have been requested to have speakers address the students on a forest topic during the week. Forest weeks is an annual event, proclaimed by President Coolidge, who stresses the opinion that the public as yet has not sensed the value of growing a timber crop. Many who are fostering the movement are desirous of seeing established either county, township or school district forests. This year every Michigan county and community is giving the forest idea a boost. Trees many of them, are a vital necessity to Michigan's welfare, not as timber alone but from many economic factors.

"THE WEDDING SONG"

Take half a dozen metropolitan crooks and one unsophisticated boy in his early twenties, possessing a fabulous wealth in pearls. Mix thoroughly on an uncharted island where law is an unknown quantity, season well with romance and comedy and stir in plenty of action. The result is Leatrice Joy's delightful starring picture, "The Wedding Song," an unusually fine melodrama which will be shown at the State theatre April 13 and 14.

With such ingredients put together by Alan Hale as the director, "The Wedding Song" overshadows any previous picture in which winsome Leatrice Joy has appeared. Mr. Hale indicated his enthusiasm in the story by providing an exceptionally strong supporting cast for Miss Joy. Robert Ames, whisked from behind the footlights by DeMille only a short time ago, is featured and plays opposite the star, with Ethel Wales in a strong part. The latter will be remembered for her excellent portrayal of the mother in the "Covered Wagon."

Rosa Rudani, Charles Gerard and Gertrude Claire are also seen in important roles.

NOTICE

I thank the people of Tawas township for the support given me at the election.
Andrew Lorenz.

PAY-NIGHT

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE is dancing tonight at the bow'ry,
And the boys and the girls will be there,
And the girls will be dressed in the best of their best,
And the boys will have grease on their hair.
There'll be pink lemonade in the arbor,
There'll be things you can buy at the stand—
Oh, the world's mighty fine on a pay-night,
When you've got a week's work in your hand!

Oh, the world's mighty fine on a pay-night,
And the street will be full of the crowd,
For they'll all be in town, walkin' up, walkin' down,
And they'll all be so gay and so proud.
For the trees by the road are a-blossom,
And the grass mighty sweet with the dew—
Oh, the world's mighty fine on a pay-night,
For then what's a dollar or two?

But what's that I hear at the window,
And who's that who rattled the door?
Why, the wind's swung around, and the folks they have found
That it won't be so fine any more.
Oh, the world's mighty fine on a pay-night,
But it gits mighty cold in the fall,
And when old Mister Wind comes a-howlin'
Then you ask what you done with it all!

WHO SAID

"No sword bites so fiercely as an evil tongue."

THE man who uttered these words of wisdom was Sir Ralph Sidney, one of the conspicuous figures at the court of Queen Elizabeth and one of the queen's favorite courtiers. Sir Phillip had an intimate knowledge of the workings of the life at the court of England's monarch, and his remark, "No sword bites so fiercely as an evil tongue," may well be considered a mature reflection on the meteoric rise and fall of so many favorites of the queen.

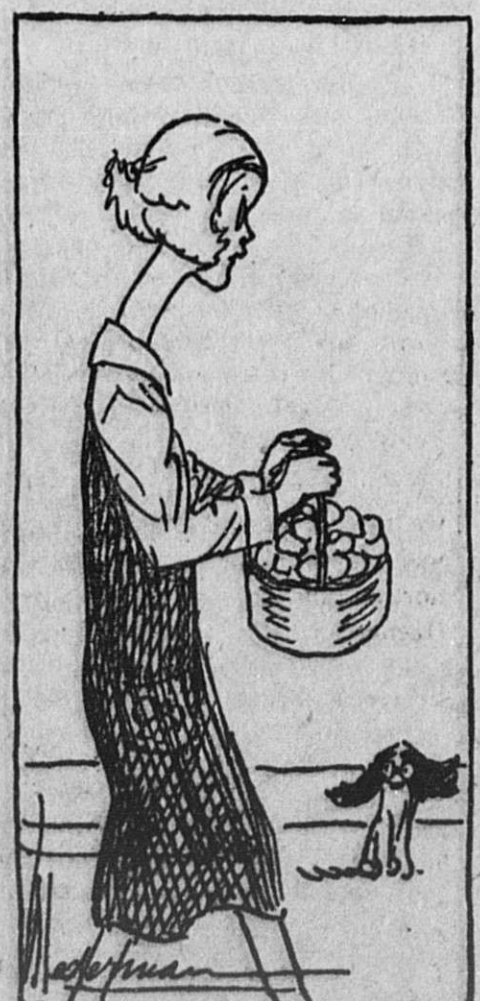

Sir Phillip had seen many rise to power, prominence and favor in court circles, only to be dashed to oblivion by the wagging of some evil tongue. And when this man compared the biting of an evil tongue to a sword, he knew whereof he spoke—for Sir Phillip Sidney was a warrior as well as a man of letters, and it was on the battlefield that he gave his life for his nation and his queen.

Sir Phillip was born in Kent, England, in 1554. Upon completing his education, he was introduced at court and Queen Elizabeth at once took a fancy to him. As a mark of her favor, she sent him as ambassador to Germany. Upon his return he married Frances, daughter of Sir Francis Walsingham, and the same year (1583) the queen admitted him to the peerage. In the year 1585 he went to the Netherlands.

In addition to his fame as a courtier and a soldier, Sir Phillip Sidney is known—best, perhaps—as a man of letters. His best known works are "The Arcadia," a medley in prose and verse after the prevalent Italian style of the period; "Astrophel and Stella," the first important body of sonnets in English; and "The Defence of Poesy," published in 1595.—Wayne D. McMurray.

WHO SAID

"Soul is the Divinity That Stirs Within Us."

A REVIEW of the work of Joseph Addison (the author of the quotation above) and his friend and co-worker, Steele, states that "Steele had the more kindly humor and Addison the sharper wit." No better definition of the character of Joseph Addison, the great English essayist, can be had than this. Addison was a man of great ability, a man of keen wit and stinging satire; but, like Pope, he often forfeited the affection of his friends because of his pointed jabs.

Born in 1672, Joseph Addison was one of the leading literary figures of his day. He wrote much and his works have been widely read and translated. Probably his best known efforts were in the form of essays in "The Tatler and the Spectator"—a London paper that contained literature of the first rank when it numbered on its staff such men as Addison and Steele.

Addison received his education at Oxford college, where he distinguished himself as a scholar. From 1697 to 1711 he held a fellowship there and was highly complimented for his Latin poetry and other contributions to literature. He became intimate with the poet Dryden, and it was through him that some of Addison's first work was published.

Addison secured several men as patrons, as was the custom of the time, and through their effort in his behalf he was provided with funds with which to tour the continent. This he did and while abroad he wrote many essays and narratives of his travels. Later he was made an undersecretary and was finally made viceroy of Ireland and keeper of records. In 1708 he was elected to parliament, and remained a member of that body until his death, June 17, 1719.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Among the NOTABLES

HENRY A. DUPONT

THE life story of Henry Algernon Dupont is not only interesting in itself, but because it is so like the lives of every member of his family. Every one fought for freedom and liberty, for France and for America.

First of all, one should know the story of Pierre Samuel Du Pont de Nemours, French political economist and statesman, who died in America. His son, Eleuthere Irene, had escaped from France in the French Revolution and had settled in Delaware. Having been in the French powder works at Soissons, he started a similar plant near Wilmington, which grew so fast that during the War of 1812 it made all the powder for the American army. The Du Ponts served in this war, too, and one, the grandson of Pierre Du Pont, named Samuel Francis, was a brilliant naval officer in the Civil war.

This brings us to Henry Algernon, great grandson of Pierre, who also served in the Civil war. Henry Du Pont was born near Wilmington July 30, 1838, and went to school in Philadelphia, and later attended the University of Pennsylvania. Then he went to West Point, graduating head of his class in the year of 1861. The war was on, then, and young Henry, only twenty-three, saw active service. From lieutenant clear up to colonel he rose, and was awarded several medals for gallant services at Cedar Creek, Opequan and Fishers hill.

The war over, he went in for agriculture, became president of the Wilmington & Northern railway, and later a United States senator.

Use of Australian Ballot

The Australian ballot was introduced into the United States in 1888. The first law providing for it was enacted in Kentucky, but it applied only to the city of Louisville. In the same year Massachusetts passed a law providing for the use of the Australian ballot in state elections, but it did not become effective until the following year.

Literary Rule

It has come to be practically a sort of rule in literature that a man, having once shown himself capable of original writing, is entitled thenceforth to steal from the writings of others at discretion.—Emerson.

Progress

Along with the increasing popularity of motoring, pedestrianism is progressing by leaps and bounds, observes the Arkansas Gazette.

Ostrich Feathers

It does not appear that the skin of the ostrich is ever used for making leather. These birds are bred for their feathers only. The feathers are plucked by putting the ostrich in a corral and placing a hood over the bird's head, when the ostrich becomes docile. The wings are raised and the feathers that are fully ripe are cut, without pain to the ostrich.

Only a Buick Could Stand this Test!

Buick has the only chassis built today that can take a "shower bath" while the engine is running and driving the wheels.

Only Buick provides the design which can undergo such punishment. Of all cars built today, Buick alone has the complete protection of the "Sealed Chassis" and "Triple-Sealed Engine."

Every Buick operating part is "sealed" inside a dirt-tight, oil-tight, water-tight iron or steel housing. The "Triple Seal" (air cleaner, gasoline filter, oil-filter) keeps dirt, grit and moisture out of the engine.

Road slush and grit cannot reach Buick vital parts. Rain and moisture cannot cause short circuits in the Buick electrical system. Even the spark plugs are protected!

Come in and see, with your own eyes, why Buick motor cars are more dependable. Only a Buick could stand the "shower bath" test!

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

PRIVATE GROUNDS
 THE regiment was lined up to see General Pellets award Private Grounds his medal.
 "Private Grounds," said the general as he pinned the coveted ribbon on the young man's chest, "I wish to state publicly that the awarding board does not bestow lightly this highest of decorations.
 "When we learned that, armed only with a paper of pins, you stormed a machine gun nest and captured three of the enemy, we were impressed, but decided that, in this war of almost universal heroism, your deed was not entitled to the highest recognition.
 "Likewise, when we were told that, camouflaged as a reel of barbed wire, you rolled into an enemy first line trench and obtained valuable information, we arrived at the same conclusion. But—when it came to light that, among thirty men who were digging a mine under what turned out to be a limburger cheese refinery, you alone, after the others had been driven back by the unspeakable fumes, persisted and finished the job at the cost of a bad case of small shock—then, my boy, there was no further question."
 And the cheers that split the air made a Hun division, five miles away, retreat even faster.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
 By F. A. WALKER
SUBSTANCE—ILLUSION?
 YOU will find after practice that it is a good policy to take frequent accounts of your mind-asset, so at the end of a month or a year at the farthest, you may be able to decide whether you are heading for abundance or bankruptcy.
 To rely on a snapshot picture of your attitude toward the world and that portion of its work to which destiny has seemingly assigned you, is unproductive of trustworthy results.
 If you want to keep going in the right direction, when you are traveling with haste and impetuosity as companions, you must stop at the weather-worn signs posted along the way and read them with scrupulous care.
 If there is friction between you and your employer, and you are in doubt as to what it means, or as to what causes it, stop a while in your hot-headed pursuit and study the signs at the cross-roads.
 And at the same time look deeply into your own heart, for it is possible that the seat of the trouble is there.
 If you go about this self-inspection with the same wide-eyed eagerness that you exhibit in searching for evil in others you will not lose your way.
 This method of finding your path in the dark is as useful as it is astonishing.
 It arrests and turns wandering fancies in the safe direction, dispels a sullen countenance, putting lips, cynical and snappy words, and awakens dormant sensibilities of our dutiful obligations to one another.
 Dismiss self-sympathy and usher in self-censure.
 Do not shudder at the crack of the whip, nor resent just punishment, for it will make of you a better man or woman, give you new strength, a nobler spirit and so sharpen your wits and clear your blurred vision that you will experience no more difficulty in deciding off-hand between substance and illusion.
 And in addition, it will take you to happiness and bestow new power in making friends and achieving honorable success.

The Madrigal is one of the older forms of choral singing. Generally, there are four parts, but often it is written in five or six parts. It is a secular composition, requiring more skill than the ordinary four-part chorus. It should be sung without accompaniment so that the different melodies are heard at the same time.

Hale Baptist Church Notes

The Sunday school of the first Baptist church of Hale gave a very pretty Easter cantata at the church last Sunday evening. The selections consisted of speeches, songs and narratives depicting the triumphs of a risen Christ in heathen lands. The parts were taken by the pupils of the Sunday school assisted by others of the church. All of the participants gave their parts with great care and precision, to the delight of the large audience which was not held back by the storm.

The success of the program was due in no small measure to the training given the speakers by Mrs. Victoria Nunn and Mrs. Grant Shattuck. Mrs. Glenwood Streeter presided at the piano.

The evening of March 17, the Builders' class entertained the two classes of Junior boys with their respective teachers. A St. Patrick's program was given and the hostesses in their green costumes looked the part of merry Irish colleens. At their Easter party the guests of honor were Mrs. Nellie Jennings, Miss Marion Jennings and Miss Carol Siebold of Birmingham. Mrs. Jennings entertained with a round-the-world mission study trip, pictures and curios from the foreign countries making our work seem more real to us.

Where Orchids Are Pests

Orchids, so prized by the flower connoisseur, and in almost all sections of the United States comparatively expensive, are a little short of costly pests in some parts of Porto Rico. In this island there are two species that have proved destructive to the citrus groves, growing like weeds and entangling their enormous roots over the branches of the citrus trees with a strangulation effect.
