National Gypsum Co. Starts Construction at Once on County's Second Big Plaster Plant

The National Gypsum company of Buffalo have purchased a tract of 400 acres of Gypsum land in Sherman township. The deal was consummated last week. The land is located about two miles south of Emery Junction. It is the plan of the company to build a plant immediately and the work will be rushed at once. Engineers have been at work on the location during the past two weeks.

At a session of the board of County road commissioners held Saturday, it was decided to build a road to the property. Work was commenced this week.

During the past two weeks the D. & M. Ry. company have had a crew at work building a spur to the proposed quarries and plant.

The land purchased by the National Gypsum Co. comprises property owned by Joseph Schneider, Frank Schneider, A. B. Schneider, Charles Schneider, Joseph Smith and John Jordan, over 400 acres in all. About 160 acres of land were purchased from W. E. Coats to make a right of way for the railroad spur.

Those who appreciate the great amount of benefit that the United States Gypsum company has been to this locality through their operation at Alabaster are anxious to see the second project within our county. We hope that the gypsum produced by the two companies will give a national reputation to the county as a producer of this material which is rapidly expanding in its uses for building purposes. We welcome this second corporation of its kind within our county and wish them the utmost of success in the new project. More detailed information of the project will appear in future issues of the Tawas Herald.

A short history of the gypsum production of Isoco county may be of interest at this time.

Gypsum was first discovered in the county along the shore near Alabaster by French traders in the early part of the last century and an entry of one mile along the shore was made in 1841 by William McDonald, an Indian trader in the employ of the American Fur Company. He subsequently sold a portion of his holdings to James Fraser, Harvey Williams and Alfred Hartshorn, who made explorations along the shore and in the ravines but found no plaster. In 1861, however, gypsum was found in the ridges by William St. Patrick of Flint. He made an entry on land which he later sold to B. F. Smith. Mr. Smith developed the property and built a plant employing about 70 men. He continued to operate for a number of years at which time B. W. McCausland and Waldo Avery entered into the business with him. Smith finally dropped out and eventually the business became a part of the United States Gypsum company.

With the growth in the use of gypsum products the output of the United States Gypsum Company's plant has increased until the daily shipment of rock and products amounts to from 35 to 40 cars per day. To take care of this great output has required a constant enlargement and improvement in the plant and also in the quarry equipment. About 200 men are employed.

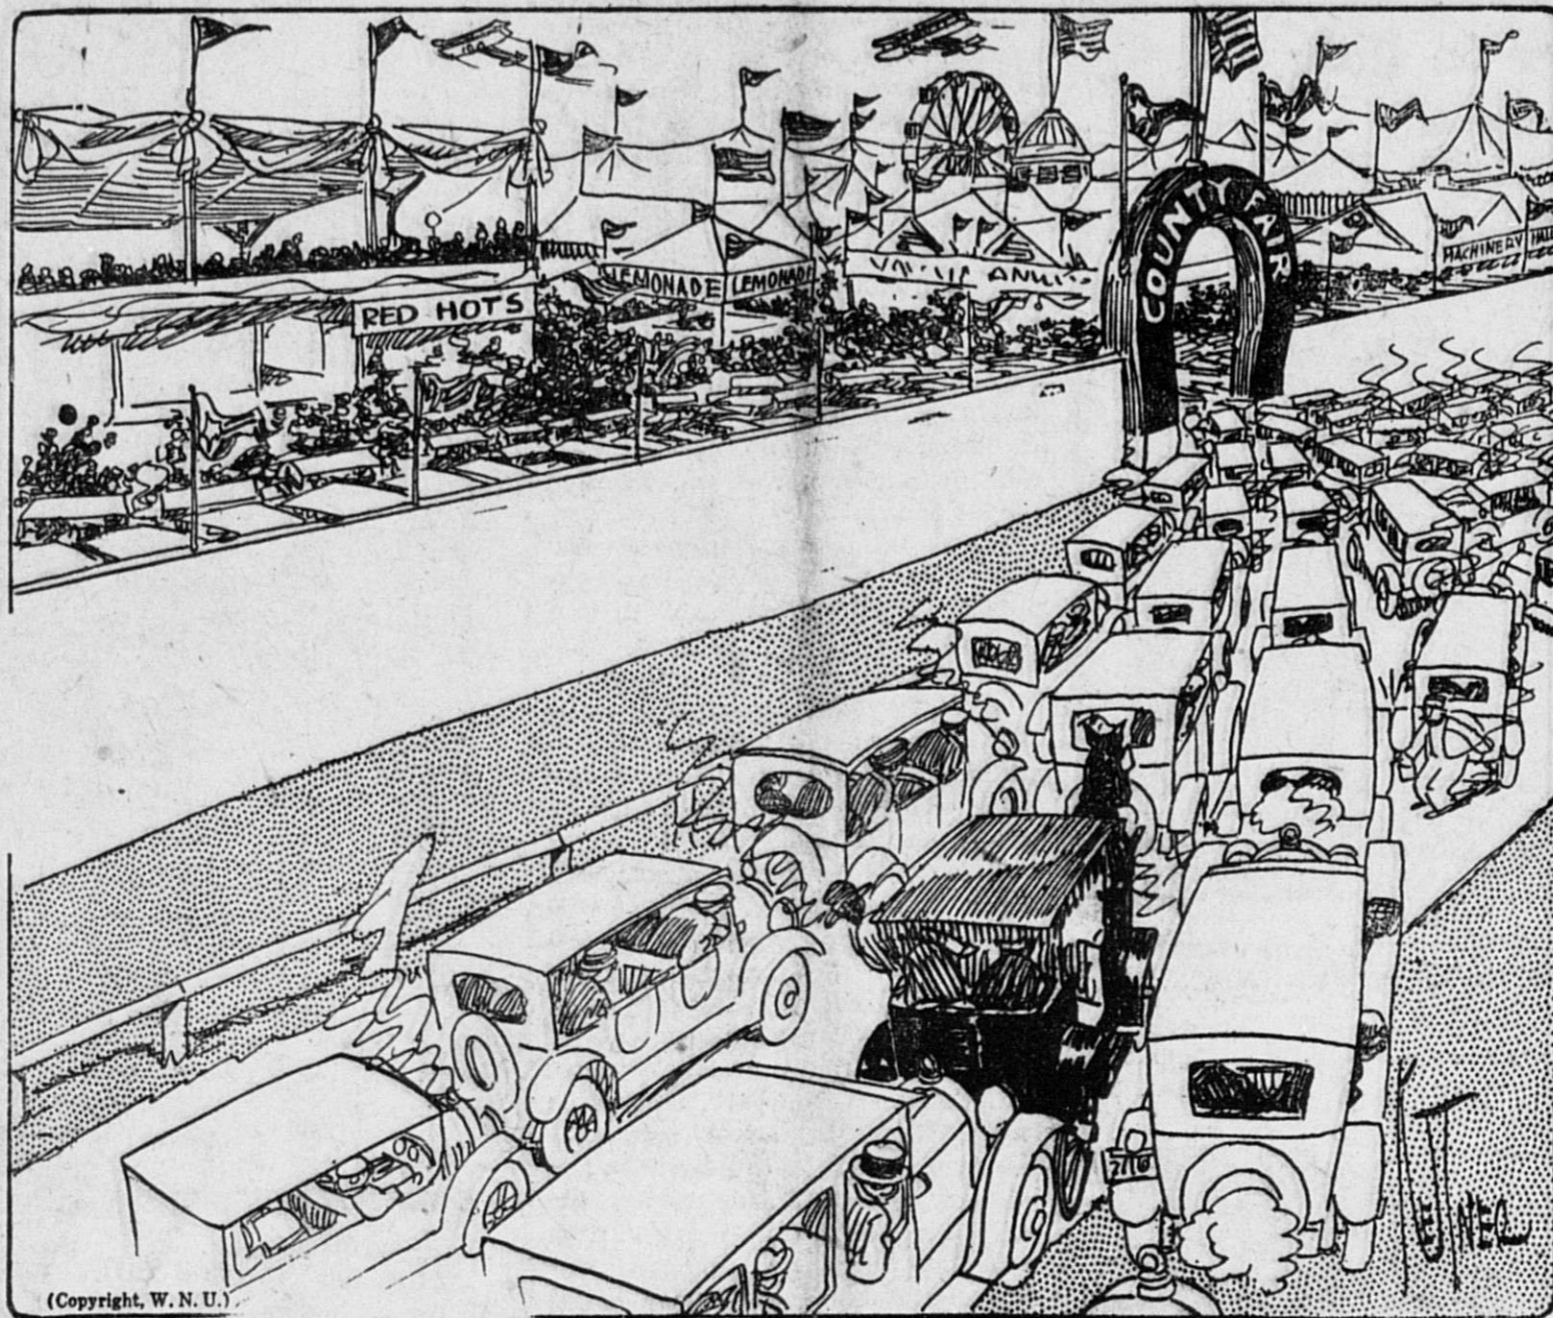

During the past 15 or 20 years residents of Sherman township have been aware of the fact that gypsum rock underlaid a large portion of the township. Wells and excavations revealed this fact. Not much thought was given by the residents to its possible potential value, however, until recently.

FINE EXHIBITS AT COUNTY FAIR

The Isoco County fair opened Tuesday with bad weather in the offing and rainy, cloudy weather continued through Wednesday and Thursday. Notwithstanding the bad weather the attendance Wednesday was very large, estimated at 2500 or better, and prospects on Thursday morning appeared that it would be even greater for that day.

This year's fair was marked with very excellent entries in the various departments, especially so in the agricultural, horticultural, floricultural, domestic arts, and canned goods departments.

Fred C. Latter and Will Latter have a fine exhibit of Aberdeen Angus cattle. In the hog department, Edward Robinson exhibited Durocs and Fred Lattin Hamshires. The exhibited specimens were excellent.

Two bunches of sheep were exhibited. Martin Fahselt and R. A. Bentley were exhibitors. Several fine teams of horses were also on exhibition.

There were a large number of poultry exhibits and Isoco county made a fine showing of birds. Numerous exhibits appeared in the pet animal department.

A more detailed report of the various exhibits will appear in an early issue of the Tawas Herald.

A number of merchants have exhibits of their goods on display and automobile dealers are well represented with displays of the various models of cars.

With favorable weather conditions Friday will undoubtedly be a record day in attendance.

BENSON-SAWYER

Nelson S. Sawyer, youngest son of Benj. Sawyer of this city now living in San Diego, California and Miss Ada L. Benson were married Wednesday evening, September 8 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Benson.

The house was beautifully decorated with pink roses and a fine dinner was served to the guests. Nelson's many Tawas friends join in wishing them a long and happy married life. They will be at home 4182-30th St. San Diego after a short wedding trip.

Free dance at new Dease garage, Tawas City, Saturday eve, Sept. 18. Music by Tawas Bay orchestra.

M. E. CHURCH LADIES REPORT YEAR OF SUCCESS

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Episcopal church held their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Horton on last Wednesday afternoon and also had the election of officers for the coming conference year. Much work was accomplished during the year just closed, which is fully shown in the wonderful report of the treasurer with an income of $333.81 and an expenditure of $525.35. These figures speak for themselves of the great work of this branch of our church.

Plans were made and talked over for the coming year with a determination to break all previous records, and if fully carried out will certainly do it. The following were elected as officers for 1926 and 1927:

President, Mrs. F. J. Bright; Vice-President, Mrs. R. Webb; Treasurer, Miss Edna Worden; Secretary, Mrs. J. King; Chaplain, Mrs. Geo. Smith. If you would keep your name from oblivion, then let us do something for God and humanity by carrying out our program for the coming year.

MRS. ANNA HOTTOIS

Mrs. Anna Hottois, wife of Peter J. Hottois, well known resident of Burleigh township died Saturday, September 4. Age 58 years, one month, three weeks and two days.

Anna Krauss was born in Batavia, N. Y., July 12, 1868. She was united in marriage to Peter J. Hottois of Burleigh township at Lancaster, N. Y., on November 14, 1887, ever since being a resident of Burleigh township until the date of her demise.

To this union five children were born, one having died in infancy.

Left to mourn her loss are her husband and four daughters, Miss Mary Hottois of Burleigh township, Mrs. Viola Williams of Prescott, Mrs. Anna Miscanall of Kalamazoo, Mrs. Emma Parent of McIvor, also eight grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Nichter of Lancaster, Erie Co. New York.

TAWAS LOSES TO ALPENA

Alpena and Tawas finished the 1926 baseball season last Sunday at the Beach diamond. Alpena, by winning from Tawas last Sunday cinched the cup and, being winners of the northern division, will play a small world series with Pinconning of the southern league.

Both teams were a bit off form last Sunday, due to weather conditions, which were anything but fair but Alpena, after being lead until the sixth inning now tied the score and started upwards from the count of 8 all, until the last inning when three more runs had crossed the plate, the score finished 15-8.

It is expected that Alpena and Pinconning, each winner of their division will play the series at Tawas Beach or Oscoda baseball diamond.

GREEN WINS BY 150,000 VOTES

Dease, VanPatten and Arn Win County Contests; Close Vote For Representative

Col. Fred W. Green of Ionia won the gubernatorial primary held Tuesday by a 150,000 majority, according to reports in the daily press of the state. Green received a majority of 618 in Isoco county, the vote standing Groesbeck 522 and Green 1140. This is the report from various precincts of the county, but is not official.

In the race for Lieutenant Governor, Welch received 540, Dickinson 566 and Riopelle 89 in the county. In the latest report from the state at large, Dickinson held a substantial lead.

Horatio S. Karcher of Rose City held a substantial lead in the race for the state senate in this district against George Roxburgh. The vote in Isoco county is reported as: Karcher 709, Roxburgh 640.

In the race for state representative there was a very close race between three of the four candidates, Douglas Black, L. S. Little, Fred C. Holbeck and Wm. M. Staebler. Unofficial reports from the three counties of the district gives Black a slight advantage over Little and Holbeck, with Little second. Two precincts had not been heard from when this report was made. The vote in Isoco county stood: Little 541, Holbeck 526, Black 322 and Staebler 161.

In the county officials' ranks there were three contests, Frank E. Dease and W. E. Laidlaw for clerk; R. C. Arn, John Burt and E. O. Putnam for county drain commissioner, and Chas. Pinkerton and Harry Van Patten for county road commissioner. E. O. Putnam announced to his friends during the last few days of the campaign that he wished to withdraw from the race. This announcement was too late however, his name appeared on the ballot and he received 219 votes.

In the race for county clerk, Frank E. Dease received 846 votes and W. E. Laidlaw 747.

Arn received 751 votes for county drain commissioner; Burt 533 and Putnam 219.

Harry Van Patten was winner over Charles Pinkerton in the race for county road commissioner. Van Patten received 828 votes and Pinkerton 678.

ARENAC COUNTY FAIR SEPTEMBER 21, 22, 23, 24

The 36th annual Arenac County Fair will be held at Standish, September 21, 22, 23 and 24 and it is predicted that this year's fair will eclipse in all departments similar events of the past. Officials plan on carrying for capacity crowds each day. A feature of this year's fair will be a 20 piece Indian band, one of the biggest attractions of its kind. Ball games, Lee Troy, Chinese juggler; Gayle brothers, comedy frog act; The Burtons, slack wire novelty act, $1.40 in race purses, excellent exhibits, barnyard golf tournament and other features not yet contracted.

Little Miss April

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

SHE speaks with a frown, but she comes with a kiss
And kisses your teardrops away.
I call her Miss April, the dear little miss,
Though really her title is May,
Now, May is a month of continual showers,
But April's a season of sunshine and showers.

Had I named the maiden, I'm certain it's so,
Then I would have called her Miss April, I know.

She thinks that the world is a terrible place,
A moment, a moment or two,
A moment 'a cloud will pass over her face—
And then how the sun will come through!

She tells you the world is a terrible spot,
And proves right away that it really is not,
Though now for a moment the lady is vexed,
Lord bless me the sun may be shining the next!

O Little Miss April, they laugh at your pranks,
They smile at your sigh and your song,
But Little Miss April, I give you my thanks—
You sorrow, but never for long.

And I, when the cloud may envelop my way,
May I see the sunshine, behold the new day,
When dark is the mountain, when stormy the sea,
May I have the soul of the spring-time in me!

WHO SAID

"Self-conquest is the greatest est of victories."

IT IS worth remembering that Plato, the great Greek philosopher who enunciated the thought here expressed, was the originator of the idea of study which leads the pupil to seek truth and learning rather than the plan which calls for dogmas from the teacher.

Plato was the disciple of Socrates and the instructor of Aristotle. He took the truths of Socrates and shaped them in his own massive intellect and handed them on to Aristotle who made his contribution to the knowledge of the world by amplifying those truths.

Of the life of Plato little is known except that he was apparently of good extraction and endowed with a sufficient inheritance to enable him to live his life of a teacher without asking any recompense of his students. In addition to demanding no fee for the instruction he rendered it was Plato's idea that no work should be given to his students in written form. This made it too dogmatic, he reasoned, and made the pupil feel that it must be accepted, instead of merely whetting the student's curiosity and impelling him to seek further.

Plato was about twenty years of age when he came under the direct supervision of Socrates and from that time until the death of the latter he was his favorite pupil. Following the death of the great philosopher Plato is thought to have left Athens with a view to improving his mind through travel. Following this he returned to Athens where he opened his school in a gymnasium known as the Academy and there he taught for the remainder of his life. He died B. C. 347 at the age of eighty-two.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Correggio's Odd Death

The death of Correggio, the great Italian painter who lived in the early part of the sixteenth century, is alleged to have been caused by his having to carry home a sum of money due him for a picture he had painted, and paid in copper coins to humiliate and annoy him. The painter carried the money some twenty miles on a hot day to save the expense of hiring a conveyance. The consequent exhaustion led to a breakdown that ended in his death.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"GAG RULE"

NOT only in our national and state legislatures do we hear this term resolutely used, but in clubs and gatherings of all kinds where parliamentary proceeding is observed. In a high school sorority recently, the faction that had been opposed to certain action that was taken complained of being silenced by "gag rule!"

The expression signifies any parliamentary ruling which silences or prevents agitation or opposition along certain lines. With us it is a relic of a historic parliamentary struggle of our young congress in pre-Civil-war days over the question of abolition.

After the beginning of the agitation of northern abolitionists against slavery about 1831, petitions began to pour into both houses of congress asking for the abolition or the restriction of slavery in the states. In May, 1835, the house, under pressure of slave states, of course, passed the so-called Pinckney resolutions which provided that no petitions relating to slavery should be printed or referred. In fact that they should be disregarded! This was the first of the "gag rules," which were in disregard of the first amendment of the Constitution referring to the right of petition.

Subsequently came the Patton resolutions and the Atherton gag with similar discrimination against petitions regarding slavery, and finally the famous "Twenty-First Rule." At the opening of each new congress, however, John Quincy Adams, the champion of the right of petition, fought this "gag," and in December, 1844, succeeded in having it rescinded. The term, however, has survived in modern speech.

Scoring Lawn Tennis

In the early days of lawn tennis two methods of scoring were used, almost indiscriminately. One of these was the scoring used in the game of "racquets" and the other the "tennis" scoring. In 1878 the "tennis" method of scoring was adopted and the "racquets" scoring abandoned. No material change in the method of scoring has been made since 1878.

Among the NOTABLES

NATHAN ROTHSCHILD

THE Rothschilds of Europe have the reputation of being the greatest financial geniuses. Indeed, their ability to amass wealth has made them world famous. And Nathan Meyer Rothschild was the master moneymaker of them all.

Grandson of a small merchant, one of ten children, Nathan was born September 16, 1777. He was sent to England to take charge of the vast Rothschild business there, the other four brothers being scattered in other important European countries. Nathan took up his residence in London. The boldness and skill of his financial methods roused first the distrust then the admiration of his business friends. He employed carrier pigeons and special fast boats to get news which would affect his trading on the stock market. He loaned money to carry on the war against Napoleon, and always believed in Napoleon's eventual defeat. He is said to have been present at Waterloo. However, he did have some representative there, at least, and arranged for relays of fast horses; for he got the news of Napoleon's defeat some hours before anyone else. Consequently he could buy heavily in the stock market—at that time depressed by the news of Blucher's defeat. He risked all his fortune on that chance, and made, nobody knows how much, money out of it.

He, himself, and other members of the Rothschild house, had loaned millions to the governments of their various countries. Indeed, the war of the allied countries against Napoleon, was practically financed by them. Nathan died in 1836.

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

IT

MR. AND MRS. EMTIE AIR, who hadn't seen young Blugg and his wife since they left for the Menigitis islands on their honeymoon, descended on them voraciously.

"Oh, the Bluggs!" cried Mr. Air. "And to think that we should meet them wheeling the baby. Isn't that just too perfect! Do let me take the little coverlet away from its little face and get a little look at the little dear! Blugg, you lucky devil, it's the living image of you! The same Roman chin! The same Mexican ears!"

"Nonsense!" snorted Mrs. Air. "It favors Mrs. Blugg. Why, the resemblance is startling, amazing! It has Mrs. Blugg's Grecian mouth, her Asiatic dimples, her Peruvian nose! Positively, my dear, the likeness is uncanny!"

And they argued it out so excitedly, so vehemently, that a crowd gathered and took sides and the fire engines came, and finally the exasperated young Blugg had to raise his voice to a frenzied pitch to set the matter straight.

"Conblame it!" he roared. "This ain't our baby! We ain't got any baby! This is just one we're wheeling!"

You Can Be Warm and Comfortable in Coldest Weather

THE last five years have seen a great change in small-home heating.

Base-burners, oak stoves, and other types of coal-and-wood-burning room heaters have gone out of style. People are no longer willing to put up with the expense and inconvenience of tending several stoves and fireplaces; they are no longer content to shut off some of the rooms in winter, or to imperil health by living in drafty, underheated rooms.

Instead, they have turned to the Estate Heatrola, the heating plant that looks like a fine mahogany cabinet and works like a furnace. Introduced five years ago, it attained instant popularity. Today, in all parts of the country, in tens of thousands of homes, Heatrola has replaced ugliness with beauty, half-hearted heat with solid comfort, fuel waste with fuel economy. And please note particularly this fact—ONE Heatrola does the work of several stoves or fireplaces.

No matter where you live there are Heatrola owners near you. Every state, every section of every state, almost every neighborhood, has its quota of enthusiastic users. Heatrola is recognized as the standard heating appliance for small homes, old and new, one-story and two-story; it is used, too, in stores, halls, churches, schools, garages, and in many other types of buildings.

Heatrola users verify all the facts in this booklet. Upon request, we will send you a 64-page booklet (ask for Booklet No. 736) in which we have reproduced letters from more than 500 users. But any dealer will gladly let the Estate Heatrola sell itself to you, installing it in your home on an absolute guarantee of satisfactory service.

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

TORPEDO GINDLE

IN THE office of the Gindle whistle factory, Torpedo Gindle gave audience to the representatives of his employees.

"You ask for a 22-hour week and a 60 per cent increase of wages, with time and a half for work on Sundays, holidays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. In the past three months I have raised the men's wages 433 per cent, thereby reducing my own profits from 900 per cent to a miserable 600 per cent, barely sufficient to feed my eight motor cars. Therefore I have a proposal to make: Rather than go on living from hand to mouth, I will make a gift of the factory to my employees, who will all be promoted to the rank of owners and managers, while I, my brother Submarine Gindle, and my uncle, Periscope Gindle, will serve as salaried workmen."

"Mr. Gindle, you are a just man," said the spokesman for the employees in a voice choked with emotion.

"Very well, the new order of things will go into effect tomorrow morning," said Gindle crisply.

At noon the next day the three Gindles, the only workmen, went on strike for a three months' vacation. The former employees, being now all owners and managers, naturally refused to lower their dignity by actually working and the factory went to the dogs and at the present writing the whole lot, including the three Gindles, are in the poorhouse.

Jacqueline Logan

Pretty Jacqueline Logan, the "movie" star, was born in Corsicana, Texas. She first tried newspaper work, but later went on the stage. She was induced to go into motion pictures and her beauty and intelligence won her success. She has been called the "typical American girl." Miss Logan has auburn hair and deep-blue eyes.

WHO SAID

"Nothing has such power to broaden the mind as the ability to investigate systematically and truly all that comes under thy observation in life."

IT IS a peculiar thing that the man who uttered this plea for breadth of vision and generosity in treating differing opinions, should have been one of the best and noblest emperors of ancient Rome and at the same time one of the most insistent and harsh persecutors of the Christians. His persecution is all the harder to understand when we consider that this man, Marcus Aurelius, left a collection of his meditations which are in striking harmony with the religion of Jesus Christ.

Marcus Aurelius was the adopted son and son-in-law and successor to the Roman emperor, Antonius Plus. He ascended to the throne of Rome in the year 161, and until the year 169 reigned jointly with his adopted brother Lucius Verus. In that year the latter died and Marcus Aurelius became the sole ruler of Rome.

Few men were better emperors of Rome than Marcus Aurelius, but he had his enemies and the tribes to the north of Rome were particularly troublesome during his reign. A legend is told concerning his campaign against these northern tribes which, it would seem, should have been sufficient to turn the emperor from his persecution of the Christians.

The story runs that on a certain day the Roman army was caught in a narrow defile, unable to advance because of the enemy, and unable to retreat. There was no water to be had and the soldiers were fainting of exhaustion. At this moment a band of Christians who belonged to the legion came forward and prayed for rain. Not only did the water pour down in torrents, but a terrific hailstorm set in which thoroughly demoralized the enemy and brought victory to the Romans. There is no record, however, of the emperor ceasing his persecutions.

Marcus Aurelius died in what is now the city of Vienna, Austria, in the year 180, while on a campaign.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21: Supreme Court Justice Van Devanter Was a Librarian.

"AT THE age of twenty-one my position in life was that of a student in law and, as a side effort, I held the post of assistant librarian in the law library. As to my ambition at that time it was to secure a good foundation for becoming a useful lawyer.—Willis Van Devanter."

TODAY:—Mr. Van Devanter is associate justice of the United States Supreme court, the inner shrine of the law, entrance to which is the highest award the country can bestow in recognition of supreme talent in jurisprudence.

The justice is sixty-seven years old. At the age of twenty-two he had already received his degree of LL. B. and began to practice law in Marion, Ind. When only twenty-seven he was appointed a commissioner to revise the Statutes of Wyoming and at thirty he became chief justice of the Supreme court of that state. To be a chief justice at this comparatively youthful age is a record achieved by very few jurists in the world.

Justice Van Devanter's progress continued in the order in which it had started; he became in turn assistant United States attorney, United States circuit judge and then associate justice of the Supreme court.

Wheat Products for Food

It has been calculated that wheat flour bread and crackers, pastry and similar products constitute 19 per cent of the total food of the average American family, furnishing about 27 per cent of the total protein, 6 per cent of the total fat and 46 per cent of the total carbohydrates. They contain a high percentage of starch and may be profitably combined with materials rich in protein, meat, eggs, etc., to form a well-balanced diet.

priceless and therefore jealously upheld

Dodge Brothers have kept the faith. Year after year their motor car has continued to mature into a better and better product.

Beauty has been added to dependability, comfort and silence to beauty. Endless refinements have been made, and the basic sources of Dodge Brothers quality maintained in every detail.

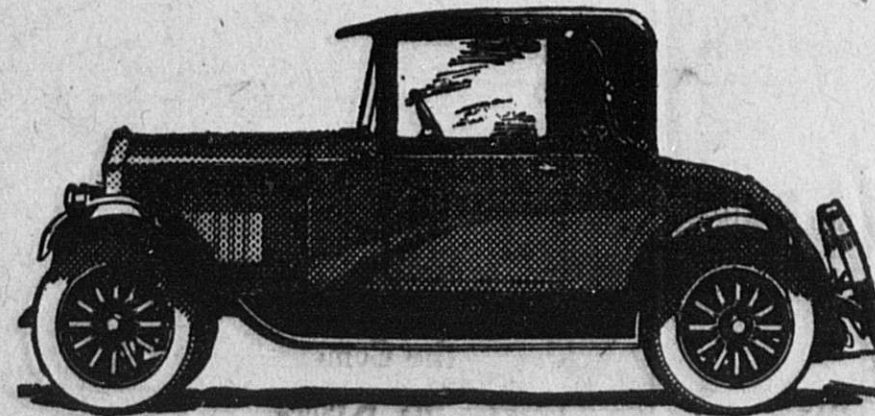

As a consequence, the NAME Dodge Brothers is even more valuable than the great Dodge Brothers plant itself, and eminently worthy of the public confidence it everywhere inspires.

The public may rest assured that a Good Name so priceless will be safeguarded jealously by those who hold its destinies in their hands.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21: George Barr McCutcheon Managed to Write a Story Between Shortstopping at College.

A MAGAZINE in Boston known as The Waverly accepted a story and printed it when I was twenty-one. My time then was also spent in perfecting myself as a shortstop on the college nine and in laboriously memorizing things just before the exam.

"Immediately after the publication of the story I assumed the dignity of a real author. I sent a second effusion to The Waverly, and this time I was bold enough to ask them if they could not pay something for it. But they were inclined to adhere to a strictly literal conception of what a contribution ought to be; a contribution was a contribution, and so far as they were concerned that was all there was to it.

"A period of ten years elapsed before I had another story in a magazine, but I had not labored in vain, for I received fifteen dollars for the tale.—George Barr McCutcheon."

TODAY: Who does not know "Gran-stark"? and "Brewster's Millions"? McCutcheon is the author of both, and if he had written nothing else he would still be enshrined in the annals of the popular novel forever more. But he has written scores of other stories, so his fame is still more secure.

Introducing

The cab drew up in front of the imposing marble mansion, and he jauntily alighted. Upon his swarthy, bronzed countenance there glowed the sparkle of health, and there was the vigor of youth in his stride. Leisurely climbing the steps, he rang the bell. The door was flung open a few seconds later. "Taxi for Biotzwister," he said.

LYDIA OF THE PINES

by HONORE WILLSIE

COPYRIGHT by FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY

In the pine forests of the Hiawatha country on the upper Mississippi lies Lake City, a combination of New England and the modern West. Its old settlers, rubbing elbows with the reservation Indians and mingling with the sturdy Scandinavian and German immigrants, are of the pioneer New England stock—"the best blood that went West." With that best blood Mrs. Willsie is chiefly concerned in this essentially American story.
